Atomic Device, Shell-Shaped Atomic Accelerator Now in Operation at Chalk River

Ottawa, Sept. 25 (CP)—Looking something like a rocket ship, a 14-ton six-foot-high gadet has taken over a room at the Atomic Energy Plant at Chalk River, Ont.

Used for research purposes, it is an electrostatic accelerator, also called a van de Graaf generator. Capable of producing at least 4,000,000 volts, it is used as a source of high-speed atomic beams for breaking up atomic nuclei.

"In this record," the National Research Council said in an announcement, "it will serve as supplementary equipment to the atomic pile. It can produce beams of charged particles of accurately-known energy and direction in contrast to the great numbers of slow neutrons provided by the pile."

There are similar accelerators in operation in the United States and England, being used to study what goes on inside an atom.

The machine was designed and built in the N.R.C. Radio and Electrical Engineering Division here, after consultation with the inventor, Dr. van da Graaf of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass.

The machine, housing a complex system of electrodes, is pumped up ith nitrogen gas to a pressure of 200 pounds a square inch to prevent electrical breakdown of the large voltage produced.

At Chalk River the third isotope of hydrogen, called tritium, which is radioactive, is made in the pile. It is expected to accelerate the nucclei of this element and also to use the nuclei of helium. Since energy of the accelerated beam can be held constant to better than one part in 1,000, the accelerator is valuable for precision work. At the highest energy the protons are travelling about 18,000 miles a second.

The initial experiment performed with this machine in July this year was the disintegration of lithium by protons to produce neutrons and a radioactive beryllium isotope. As this reaction has been carefully studied in other laboratories, the experiment enabled the voltage developed by the Chalk River generator to be standardized.

Work now is proceeding to concentrate the accelerated particles into a narrower beam. When this phase of the work is completed the beam is expected to be about one-twentieth of an inch in diameter.

Attempt to Find Oakes' Killer Comes to Naught

Miami, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP) — Sir Harry Oakes died violently seven years ago in Nassau, but the crime that ended his picturesque life still lives.

Another attempt to find the killer of the Canadian mining millionaire has apparently come to naught.

In Nassau, the Bahamas police commissioner G. H. Ranoe indicated as much yesterday upon return of assistant police supt. Augustus Roberts from interviews in Florida and California in an attempt to run down new tips on the killer.

"His verbal report," said Ranoe of Roberts' findings, "doesn't indicate his investigations have disclosed any evidence which would justify taking legal proceedings at this state."

Since that night of July 7-8, 1943, when a thunderstorm outside drowned his cries and three blows snuffed out his life, countless voices have whispered:

"I know who killed Sir Harry."

Two such voices last week created a public furore.

Edward Majava, 31, a mechanic of Finnish descent, told Oakland, Calif., police the name of a man he said killed Sir Harry. He learned it, he reported from a Fort Lauderdale woman. Majava formerly lived in the Florida city.

Didn't Tell Name

Mrs. Hildegarde Hamilton, a Fort Lauderdale society artist, said Majava told her the name—she didn't tell him. He told her he learned it from a blonde woman at Miami, said Mrs. Hamilton.

The blonde was reported to be Betty Roberts, now the Baroness Alexander Debildering of New York. Miss Roberts, then 16, was defence witness at the murder trial.

Another Nassau murder was connected with the Oakes case by the other voice. A Toronto woman, otherwise unidentified, was quoted by the Toronto Star as saying Betty Renner was killed because she learned something about the Oakes case.

Miss Renner, 37, an attractive attorney from Washington, D.C., visited Nassau in April. On the 19th her partly-stripped body was found stuffed in a shallow well with green branches tossed over it.

Sir Harry, owner of a fortune created by discovering gold in the Kirkland Lake, Ont., district 40 years ago, went to bed the night of July 7 at Westbourne, one of several homes he owned around Nassau.

Gave Dinner Party

That night, Sir Harry's son-in-law, Alfred de Marigny, gave a dinner party at his home in midtown Nassau. After the party, he drove two Canadian airmen's wives to their seaside cottage beyond Westbourne.

Lady Oakes and De Marigny's wife, Nancy Oakes de Marigny, were at Bar Harbor, Me.

De Marigny, the son-in-law unloved by Sir Harry and Lady Oakes was accused of the murder. Police offered in evidence a fingerprint he said he lifted from a screen in the death room.

His wife flew to his defence and used all the money then available to her—perhaps $50,000 to employ fingerprint experts who broke down the evidence. The mother testified for the prosecution.

Acquitted of the charge, De Marigny was ordered deported. He and Nancy sailed to Cuba aboard a small fishing boat.

Nancy now is in Los Angeles; De Marigny in New York. Their marriage has been annulled.

URGE INCREASE IN FORCES

New York Sept. 25—(AP)—The American Veterans Committee called yesterday for immediate action to raise American armed forces to 4,500,000 men, with the drafting of 1,500,000 for two years service and the calling up of 500,000 reserves.

Tariff Barriers Will be Discussed At Conference

Torquay, England, Sept. 25 — (AP) —Experts of 40 countries meet here Thursday to try to lower tariff barriers which tend to hinder the free flow of trade between countries. Talks will be held under United Nations sponsorship.

Until the mid-1930s the man-made trading barriers did as much as anything to arouse international jealousies and friction. Producing countries building high tariff walls.

Like-minded countries which did not compete with one another, banded together to swap concessions or preferences.

Classic examples were the United States and her dependencies and Britain and her Dominions. The clash of their competing trading systems impaired political relationships.

Besides the U.S., Britain and the Commonwealth countries, many Latin-American Republics, most European States and several Asian States will attend.

West Germany, Austria and Korea are due to be present too. Communist - led Czechoslovakia also will be there.

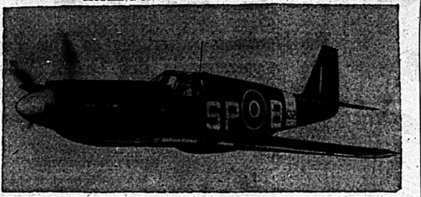
The conference will be third since the participating countries began their work in 1947.

Tariff rates on 45,000 items have been cut down in the course of 270 sets of negotiations already concluded by participating countries. About 400 separate tariff agreements probably will be negotiated.

Britain and United States have pledged to spearhead a global attack on tariffs.

The conference will be held for the most part in secret to avoid possible financial speculation by producers, importers and exporters, who could benefit if they knew what tariffs were going to be cut.

MUSTANG PROVES ITSELF AGAIN IN KOREA



R.C.A.F. squadrons will soon be equipped with Mustang fighters such as the one shown above. A good all-round fighter of the piston-engine type, the Mustang will be used as an interim measure until replaced by jet-propelled Canadian-built CF-100 Canucks and F-86 Sabres. With maximum speed of over 500 miles per hour and having good manoeuvrability, the Mustang came out of the last war with an excellent reputation. It has proved its worth again in Korea, especially in a ground-support role.—Central Press Canadian.

Commuter Tickets Will be Raised By 20 Per Cent

Ottawa, Sept. 25 (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners, in an order made public Sunday night, has granted a number of railways the right to increase by 20 per cent their current rates on commuter's tickets.

The lines included in the order are the Canadian National Railways, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company, New York Central Railroad Company, Northern Alberta Railways Company, the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Company, Montreal and Southern Countries Railway Company, the Niagara St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Company.

United States lines included in the order will be affected only so far as their Canadian operations are concerned.

The board also ordered that the railways issue commuter tickets good for 40 trips on the same conditions and at rates 10 per cent less than those now applying on 50-trip tickets. It said the 20-trip tickets, now available only to holders of 50-trip tickets, will be made available to holders of 40-trip tickets.

The new commuter rates will replace higher commuter tariffs proposed by the railway late last year. These proposed tariffs were suspended by the board following receipt of a number of protests by commuters, particularly those in the Montreal area.

The new rates will become effective as soon as the railways file the necessary new tariff schedules with the board.

The board's order with regard to issuance of 40-trip tickets was to meet commuter protests that some of them did not make enough trips to use up the 50-trip thickets within the month of their validity.

SAFE WITH $2,000 STOLEN

Whiby, Ont., Sept. 25. (CP)—A safe containing $2,000 was stolen last night from Donald's Motor Sales here.

A company official said it was rolled from the back of the building through two offices and across a showroom floor to the garage section. Then it was hoisted onto a truck and driven out the front door to the Main Street.

Teachers Want Traffic Halted When School Buses Stop For Children

Consecon — The September meeting of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario, Wellington unit, met at S.S. No. 10, Ameliasburg (Young's School) upon the invitation of Miss Phyllis Boyd, the teacher.

The meeting was presided over by the new president, Miss Mary Huff. Miss Catherine Tait again filled the office of secretary-treasurer.

Miss Huff, the delegate to the annual convention in Toronto in August, gave an interesting report of it.

A resolution was drawn up asking that the provincial government make it a law that all traffic must stop during the loading and unloading of school buses. This to be placed in the hands of Mr. Baxter, M.P.P.

Miss Boyd conducted the following program:

Recitation by Sheila Terry, and a solo by Jean Rathburn.; quartet, Misses Freda Tripp, Barbara James, Elianor Tripp, Barbara Steenburg; solo by Don Andrews, accompanying himself on the guitar.

An instructive address by Rev. Beazer of Carrying Place, on "Samuel Johnston."

A social half hour was enjoyed by all renewing old friendships, and welcoming new friends, while doing justice to a very fine lunch provided by Miss Boyd and her committee.

Husband Finds Nylon Stocking Seams in Front

London, Sept. 25—(Reuters)—Husbands seeking peace offerings and would-be suitors Saturday pounced on a street trader selling three pairs of silk stockings for 70 cents in a London suburb.

A sure bribe or gift in a nylon-scare land, they were bought up as fast as the trader could hand them out.

The trader moved on hurriedly when his stock was cleared.

Grateful husbands and beaming suitors then found out the seams on the stockings were at the front instead of the back.

Cats and Rats Learn to Live Happily Together - - A Lesson for Humans

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP) —A psychologist has trained four alley cats to live happily with a team of white rats. He says he thinks the world could learn a lesson in peaceful co-operation from them.

These natural enemies, said Dr. Loh-Seng Tsai of Tulane University, have been trained to help one another get a good feed by overcoming mutual handicaps.

"So why not human beings, races and nationalities?" asks Dr. Tsai, who has reported on his research to the American Psychological Association.

The cats and rats were placed together in cages until they got accustomed to living, playing and eating tobether.

The doctor has a device he calls the "Tsai Co-operation Apparatus" — a box-like affair on legs. It has three compartments separated one from another by a screen gate which can be raised and lowered.

The first section is the entrance, where a cat and rat meet for each test.

When a gate is raised the animals move into the second chamber. This is where the co-operation takes place.

To get into the third compartment — where a dish of food awaits them — both the rat and the cat must step on floor buttons simultaneously. When this is done, says Tsai, the gate goes down and they are free to enter and eat the food.

But if only one of them steps on a button—or if both step on the same button — they get nowhere.

He claims that the animals have learned to do this:

If one of them is purposely kept in the entrance chamber while his team-mate gets through to the "co-operation" chamber, the partner in front will press a button that releases his buddy from the entrance room.

Mid-Day Blackout Thrown Over Area By Forest Fires

(By The Canadian Press)

An outbreak of forest fires in the remote bushland of northern Alberta painted a weird, kaleidoscopic pattern in the skies of Ontario and the eastern United States Sunday.

A thick pall of smoke, wafted to the stratosphere by freakish air currents, moved southeastward and descended to throw a mid-day blackout over the area, some 2,000 miles away. Residents of the prairie provinces were unaffected.

But citizens of Ontario, Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and the middle Atlantic states watched the sky break out in patches of yellow, brown, pink, purple and blue-black.

Their theories as to the cause of the phenomenon ranged from atom-bomb explosions and the end of the world to a celestrial upheaval brought on mysteriously by the switch-over from daylight to standard time.

Cows demanded to be milked ahead of schedule. Chickens took one look at the sky and headed for their roosts.

Power-short Ontario took a jolt as lights were turned on throughout the affected area. Consumption skyrocketed 180,000 kilowatt hours above normal.

Turn On Lights

Major league baseball parks turned on their floodlights. At Cleveland, where the blackout hit early, an entire afternoon game was played under the lights for the first time in American League history.

Airline pilots felt their way cautiously through the thick clouds and reported that they extended from 7,000 to 20,000 feet.

At the source of the disturbance, firefighters battled 36 separate blazes, touched off last week by an unprecendented heat wave, and reported some success.

As temperatures dropped to normal and rain fell over part of the area, the worst fire—a 50-square mile blaze at Wanham, 340 miles northwest of Edmonton—was brought under control.

Other fires are also being contained by a force of 150 forestry department men, aided by hundreds of volunteers.

And in the east weather officials promised that the last of the smoke clouds would have vanished over the Atlantic by dawn.

Warden Frowns On Wife's Gift To Convicted Man

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 25—(AP)—It was pretty fancy stationery—1,000 sheets and envelopes—with big red hearts and printed letterhead reading:

"Sigmund S. Engel Company, lover of 1,001 women, 610 west End Ave., New York, 24, N.Y.,"

One thing was wrong. Engel, 76-year-old swindler of wealthy widows, is doing a 2-to-10 year stretch in the Stateville penitentiary for sweet-talking Mrs. Reseda Corrigan of Chicago out of $8,700.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen, frowned on the gift, from Engel's wife.

"We don't allow inmates to use business stationery," he said.

14 Years Late For Interview With His Holiness

Quebec, Sept. 25 (CP) —One of the first duties of a Papal Knight is to call on the Pope as soon as possible after the appointment. But, Harry S. Gignac of Windsor, Ont., a Knight of St. Gregory, who returned to Canada Saturday aboard the liner Scythia, found that domestic affairs and Adolf Hitler kept him 14 years late for his papal interview.

"When I was first notified of the honor, I was unable to go because of family matters," he said. "Later the war stepped in and things seemed to pile up after the war. But when I finally decided to make the trip I took my own car, travelled through seven countries, a total distance of more than 7,000 miles. And I had a private 20-minute audience with his Holiness."

Pope Pius received him warmly as though he had never noticed the time lapse, Mr. Gignac reported.

"We talked mostly about Canada and His Holiness was especially interested in the type of business men's weekend retreats we have in certain parts of Ontario. He said they were one of the greatest movements in the Catholic Church for positive Catholic action," Mr. Gignac said.

Gored Falling on Horns Of Bull He Killed

Palencia, Spain, Sept. 25—(AP)—A bullfighter was "gored" and severely wounded yesterday by a bull he had just killed. The accident occured when Alberto Rojas of Venezuela fell on the dead animal's horns as he was being carried from the bull ring on the shoulders of admirers.

BELIEVED DROWNED

Kingston, Sept. 25 (CP)—Alexander David Creasor, 19, son of Mrs. Jean Creasor of Montreal, is believed to have drowned while paddling in Sydenham Lake Sunday. The canoe in which the lad left from Sydenham early Sunday morning, was found late in the afternoon. Provincial police, accompanied by district residents are searching the entire area.

Penang Rubber Exporters Curtail Sales to Russia and Red China

Singaport, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Resistance to the export of Malayan rubber to Russia is stiffening in this rubber-rich country since the Korean war started.

Rubber men are beginning to realize the potential damage being done by supplying a vital war material to a possible enemy.

In Penang some rubber exporters have instituted a self-imposed ban on sale of rubber to Russia for patriotic reasons.

The Penang merchants, some of whom have also stopped accepting orders from communist China through Hong Kong, think it is time the Malayan and British governments acted to "stop this farce".

Malaya produces about 75 per cent of the world's rubber.

Malayan rubber exports to Russia for the first seven months of this year were 46,747 tons. Last year they totalled 63,414 tons, in 1948, 103,393 tons, and in 1947, 36,790 tons.

Both Britain and the United States believe Russia is stockpiling all natural rubber purchased from southeast Asia. She has a sizeable synthetic industry on which to depend.

Trade sources in Singapore think there will be little opposition generally to legislation restricting rubber sales to the Soviet Union.

However, doubts are expressed whether Indonesia, now independent and with an annual production of about 600,000 tons, will fall in line.

A ban on rubber exports to Russia or any of its satellites would release about 10,000 tons monthly for non-communist countries, trade sources estimate.

9 New Members Elected to Association

Peterborough, Sept. 25 (CP)—The Canadian Press War Correspondents' Association widened its membership during the weekend by electing nine new members.

They are Ralph Allen, Allan Kent, Gregory Clark, Dick Sanburn and Wallace Reyburn, all war correspondents during the Second World War, and Robert Francis, R. S. (Dick) Malone, Peter MacRitchie, and R. C. (Rod) MacInnes, all former public relations officers in the armed forces. Their admission brings total membership to 37.

The C.P.W.C.A. was formed in 1945 as an organization of Canadian Press war correspondents. Last year a new constitution provided for opening membership to correspondents for Canadian newspapers and to P.R.O.S.

The sixth annual meeting was held Saturday and Sunday at Glenwood Lodge on Stony Lake, 20 miles north of Peterborough.

Officers re-elected to two-year terms are: J. F. Sanderson, Montreal, president; John Dauphinee, Winnipeg, secretary, and C. A. Day, Toronto, treasurer.

The association decided to obtain a presidential gavel inscribed with the name of Sam Robertson, Canadian Press war correspondent lost at sea during the war.

Canadian Railway Mail Clerks Will Get Raise

London, Ont., Sept. 25—(CP)—Salary increases for about 1,300 Canadian Railway mail clerks were forecast Sunday by C. R. Copeland, president of the Canadian Railway Mail Clerk's Federation.

Speaking at a banquet given by London district of the association in honor of two retiring members, Mr. Copeland said "prospects for salary increases were good."

Negotiations were being carried on in Ottawa now, he said, and he expected the announcement of the increases before parliament reassembles in February.

Mr. Copeland said he did not expect the increase to go into effect before next April.

About 60 members of the association from many parts of western Ontario, gathered to pay tribute to Ralph Hedger, of London and Noble C. Lanaway of Goderich, who are retiring because of ill health.

Liquor-Drinkers In East Canada Hit by Budget

(By The Canadian Press)

Finance Minister Abbott's "baby budget" has cut deeply into the pocket of eastern Canada liquor-drinkers.

The budget raised the tax on liquor to $12 a proof gallon, an increase of $1.

A Canadian Press survey shows prices of 26-ounce bottles in Quebec jumped 20 cents as a result. Ontario prices were increased 15-35 cents a bottle. There were 15-and 20-cent hoists on some brands in Nova Scotia. Western prices are so far unchanged but are under review in torce provinces.

The Quebec Liquor Commission attributed the 20-cent boost directly to the new tax. The Ontario Liquor Control Board said its increases are the result of both the tax and price increases by some Canadian distillers.

Main effect appears to have been an equalizing of eastern and western prices. Liquor prices in Ontario and Quebec were generally lower before the tax increase than were western prices.

hardest-hit was Ontario. The price of Canadian rye jumped anywhere from 25 cents for a $4 bottle to 35 cents for a $3.40 bottle. Lower-priced brands were up 25 cents.

Canadian gins, selling before at $3-$3.75, now are $3.25-$4. Canadian Highland whiskies, which sold in the 3.75-$4 range, are up 20 cents.

A straight 20-cent increase was also put on the prices of imported liquors—Scotch and Irish whiskies, cognac, brandy, gins, rums and liqueurs.

In Quebec, the increases took the form of a straight 20-cent boost on 25-and 26½-ounce bottles, and 30 cents on 40-ounce bottles.

Canadian ryes, previously selling at $3.30-$4.25, are up to $3.50-$4.25 for a 25-ounce btotle. Imported Scotch, formerly $5.25 now is $5.45 for a 26½-ounce bottle. Brandies, rums, liqueurs and gins are similarly affected.

In Nova Scotia, the 15-cent hikes apply to brandy (now $7.40), Canadian rum ($4.40), imported Scotch ($4.65) and imported gin ($4.65). Up 20 cents are imported rum ($3.95), Canadian rye ($4.70) and Canadian gin ($3.65). Canadian Scotch is up 30 cents to $4.55. There has been no change in liqueurs and wines.

Increases are expected any day in British Columbia, where minimum prices now are: Rye, $3.25; gin $3.25; Scotch $5. On top of these prices there is a three-percent sales tax.

Liquor prices are under review in Alberta and Manitoba; no increases are reported from Saskatchewan. Indications in Manitoba are that any increases will be deferred until pre-budget stocks are cleared.

The federal budget has had no effect in New Brunswick, where Scotch ranges from $4.52-$7.28 a quart; rye $3.74-$6.24; gin $3.64-$4.42; rum $3.64-$5.56, all including a provincial sales tax.

Protection Against Price Boosts Demanded

Toronto, Sept. 22—(CP)— The Canadian Association of Consumers Thursday demanded protection against unwarranted price boosts following tax changes.

The annual meeting of the National Women's Organization said that boosts in many commodity prices after tax changes were unnecessary. A resolution asked finance Minister Abbott to take action to prevent unwarranted boosts.

A second resolution asked that if it becomes necessary to impose price controls, the base period for the establishment of prices should not extend past Aug. 1, 1950.

The resolution, presented by Mrs. C. K. Newcombe of Winnipeg, said "the C.A.C. feels that many prices have been advanced in anticipation of price control rather than because of necessity."

Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Oakville, was elected president of the organization.

The C.A.C. also:

1. Decided to investigate claims that some manufacturers are issuing free coupons for soap at a time when soap prices have increased.
2. Decided to ask better business bureaus to investigate is neither fancy, nor red."
3. Voted down a resolution introduced by Mrs. Pat Conroy of Ottawa, wife of the secretary of the Canadian Congress of Labor, urging the government to control and reduce prices.
4. Urged provincial governments to establish compulsory inspection

Napanee Athletics Win First One From Cobourg 5-2

Napanee, Sept. 25—(CP)—Napanee Athletics defeated Cobourg 5-2 here Saturday in the first game of the Eastern Ontario O.B.A. intermediate B playoffs.

The visitors took a lead in the fourth when Cleary and F. Goody opened the inning with successive triples the latter scoring on an overthrow. But after the Napanee hurler Flurry McTaggart was the master. He retired 12 in a row. Although Cobourg had two on in the eighth and ninth, McTaggart easily snubbed any scoring threat.

Napanee notched single counters in the fifth and sixth. In the seventh with the bases loaded Joe Jocko hit safely to centre to score two. Cobourg pitcher Campbell then issued two walks to force in the third run.

Oshawa Champs Of Toronto Baseball Assoc.

(By The Canadian Press)

The invading Oshawa Merchants are champions of the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association.

Merchants, who whipped the local talent to a fare-the-well in the Viaduct Major League, made it look just as easy in the finals against Mahers, the champions of the West Toronto League closing them out Saturday night with a 13-10 victory.

That gave the Merchants their title, four games to one in the best-of-seven series.

Mahers treated Jerry Creasy with less respect than usual, touching him for nine hits. But the youthful college student survived, despite four errors behind him and eight walks he gave up himself, to win his 15th victory without a loss.

His mates backed Creasy up with an 18-hit assault.

Niagara Falls Fords jolted the league-leading Welland Stokes in the opening game of the Niagara district finals, winning 4-1 behind J. Worrall's five-hit pitching. Worrall fanned eight and gave up three walks. The only Welland run was unearned.

Scribes Will Not Try to Predict Fight Winner

New York, Sept. 25. (AP)—Last January, in an exclusive poll conducted by The Associated Press, a majority of American Sports Writers voted the biggest story of 1950 would be the official return of Joe Louis to the ring.

Well, the "Joe Louis Story" unfolds at Yankee Stadium Wednesday night against Ezzard Charles—but there's nary a scribe in the country who will confidentally predict the outcome. quality.

Joe, it seems, is an unknown quality.

Louis, a plump (216 pounds) 36, thinks he can handle the National Boxing Association kingpin.

"I'm going to carry the fight to Charles," said the former Champ today. "I don't know when I'll catch him, but I'm going to keep trying. Either way it's going to end in a knockout."

Charles, on the other hand, will try to remain a safe distance from Louis' devastating blows, using his lithe 182-pound frame to wear down his heavy-footed opponent.

Louis is favorite, some say at 1-to-2. Others think the odds will be much lower. These factions claim the long layoff has dullened Louis' reflexes.

Louis is supposed to turn over his share of the gate to the U.S. treasury to pay up back income taxes.

But if the bomber is to clear his debts, he's got to break a long-standing "jinx". For no heavyweight, from John L. Sullivan down, has ever regained his title.

GIRLS RETAINS TITLE

Toronto, Sept. 25 (CP)—Stratford Kroehlers retained their provincial intermediate women's softball championship Saturday by defeating Toronto Cunningham and Hill 3-0. That gave Kroehlers the finals in two straight games.

Donna Watson, pitching her second straight shutout, gave up only five hits while Stratford collected 15 from Jean Trueman.

Sawyer Names Starting Hurlers Against Braves

Boston, Sept. 25 (AP) — With seven games to play in the next four days, manager Eddie Sawyer of the pennant-minded Philadelphia Phillies today named Ken Heintzelman and Russ Meyer to face the Boston Braves in a doubleheader.

Following today's doubleheader and a single tomorrow, the Phils face successive doubleheaders at New York Wednesday and Thursday.

Heintzelman and Meyer will be opposed by Warren Spahn, 21-game winner, and Max Surkont (4-1). Neither Heintzelman nor Meyer has beaten Boston this season.

It will be the first start for Lefty Heintzelman since July 30.

Meyer's arm tightened up recently but he told Sawyer he'd be ready to go. Coming up strong after a slow start, he is 9-11 on the season but 0-2 against the Braves.

Bob Miller, rookie sensation who pulled up with a sore shoulder in his last start, may be back to duty if Meyer can't go. The latest report on Miller, 11-5 for the year, is that he's "ready to pitch."

Spahn (21-15) has a five-game winning streak. Surkont has showed surprising stuff since he was brought up from Sacramento in late August.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 25 (AP) — This corner is stringing along with Joe Louis to whip Ezzard Charles Wednesday night for the simple reason that they've been picturing Ezzard as a fighter who thinks. . .and you can hardly find a more thoughtful explanation than the one Ezzard gave for taking the fight: "I got to thinking that there was no sense in having an idol when it was costing me money." . . .

There's no doubt Ezzard knows what his former idol has done in the past and a guy with brains and imagination is just one to remember those things at the crucial moment. . .without implying that Ezzard is likely to scare easily, we have the idea his thinking may lead him to be unduly cautious.

Monday Matinee

John Jachym says he's happy to have Bobby Riggs with his all-star baseball barnstorming jaunt because "maybe we can get Gussie Moran to coach at third base." . . . Since Steve O'Neill took over the Red Sox in June less than one third of his starting pitchers have gone the route. But the Sockers have a better record than anyone in the league for that time. . . Les Arries, Dumont television director, predicts that 20,000,000 people will see five Notre Dame football games on television.

American Loop Pennant Race Just About Over but Robinson's Boners Will be Remembered

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The 1950 American League pennant race is just about over but it will long be remembered as the year catcher Aaron Robinson pulled one of the biggest "boners" in baseball history.

Robinson's blunder gave Cleveland Indians a 2-1, 10-inning victory over Detroit yesterday and practically erased the Tigers' pennant hopes.

The defeat dropped the second-place Boston almost out of contention by trouncing the Red Sox 9-5.

The Yanks need only six victories of their remaining eight games to clinch their second straight championship. If the Yanks win only four, the Tigers must win all of their seven to beat them out.

Robinson's rock happened this way:

With the score tied 1-1 in the 10th, Bob Lemon led off with a triple. Tiger Manager Red Rolfe ordered Ted Gray to walk the next two batters to set up a force play at every base.

Larry Doby popped to first-baseman Don Kolloway. Luke Easter followed with a grounder to Kolloway. Kolloway stepped on first to retire Easter and pegged to Robinson who stepped on the plate while Lemon was starting his slide about eight feet away.

Reverses Decision

Umpire Bill Summers thumbed Lemon out but the pitcher slid across the plate. Robinson apparently thinking he still had a force play, made no attempt to tag Lemon. The Cleveland bench dashed at Summers and when it was pointed out that Lemon had be tagged in order to be declared out, Summers reversed his decision.

Robinson said later he thought Kolloway hadn't tried to touch first base before firing the ball to the plate.

"When Easter hit that ball down the first base line, I saw Kolloway field it but Easter is such a big guy that he had my vision blocked off and I never saw Don touch first base for the out.

"When I got the ball I stepped on home figuring it was a force-out."

Lemon Whole Works

Lemon was the whole works as he stopped the Tigers on five hits for his 22nd victory and scored both runs. Lemon socked his sixth homer in the fourth and Johnny Lipton tied it in the seventh with his first homer of the year. That's how matters remained until the Robinson "incident."

The Yanks had fairly easy sailing against the Red Sox before 66,924 fans at Yankee Stadium as they blasted five Boston pitchers for 15 hits. Vic Raschi allowed six hits, posting his 21st victory.

Two home runs by Ted Williams and another by Bobby Doerr accounted for half the Red Sox hits.

In the remaining American League games, Washington Senators tripped Philadelphia Athletics 3-1 and St. Louis Browns dumped Chicago White Sox twice 5-0 and 6-1.

Phillies Plastered

Philadelphia Phillies lost ground in the National League race as the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers plastered them 11-0. The Dodgers now trail by five games. Right-hander Erv Palica tamed the Phils on two hits and featured a game-winning, six-run rally in the fifth with a grand-slam homer.

To clinch the pennant, the Phils must win six of their nine games, all on the road. The Dodgers, winners of six straight, have 11 games left, all at Ebbets Field.

In other National League games New York Giants defeated Boston Braves 12-4, Chicago Cubs trounced St. Louis Cardinals 8-3 while Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates divided a double-header. The Reds won the opener 7-1 behind Ewell Blackwell, and the Pirates the nightcap, 3-2.

Ottawa Blanked By Three-Hitter Thrown by Saul

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 25—Frank Saul, Ogdensburg Maples' Ace righthander, hurled three-hit ball Sunday night as his team blanked Ottawa Nationals 510 and took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven border baseball league final series.

An estimated 1,500 shivering fans watched the contest.

Next game of the series will be played at Ottawa's Lansdowne Park tonight, with a seventh game if necessary, slated at Ottawa Tuesday night.

Saul allowed only one runner to reach third base while Ottawa's Brick Forosky was knocked out in the fourth and Al Johnston, who relieved him, held the Maples scoreless but was given indifferent batting support by his mates.

Ogdensburg piled up four runs in their opening frame after two walks and an error, followed by a sacrifice and a double by Joe Comacho Their final run came in the fourth when Dorosky forced in Conny Taylor with a walk to Ollie Kollevoll.

Saul Struck out nine batters, walking three and allowing three hits.

Flying Dutchmen Upheld in Player Dispute by OHA

(By The Canadian Press)

The in-and-out Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen dealt themselves back into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior circuit Sunday after the OHA executive upheld them in a player dispute with Toronto Marlboros.

The Dutchmen, whose entry this year looked doubtful in mid summer, announced Saturday they were pulling out because Marlboros refused to release Dinny Flanagan, former Stratford junior.

OHA secretary George Panter told coach Walter Scherer of Kitchener that the OHA will rule Flanagan is Kitchener-Waterloo property because he signed a paying certificate with the club. That put the Dutchmen back in the league.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, Western intermediate hockey finalists last season, have been named to represent Canada in a European tour this winter.

"Lethbridge will be offered the trip," President Doug Grimston of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said in Vancouver Saturday.

The Leafs will fly from Canada to Norway for their opening game. The team will also play in Sweden, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Denmark, Holland, England and Scotland.

Stroknig with smooth precision against a snow-tinged wind that whipped up white caps on the Ottawa River, McMaster University's eight-man crew swept to a three-length victory over Ottawa University Saturday in the first annual P. D. Ross Memorial boat race.

Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro led the way at the Peterborough Golf Club on Saturday in the Ontario Golf Association district fall tournament. He carded a 73, three over par, for first grsos in class 'A'. F. A. Nerlick of Thornhill had second gross of 79.

Britannia, E. P. Taylor's fleet two-year-old, won the $16,000 Coronation Stakes in record time at Toronto's Woodbine race track Saturday beating Jim Fair's Bear Field by three lengths.

A western horse, Jim Speers' Scapa Flow, was third after running into trouble on the first turn.

One Hitter, the aptly-named son of Shut Out, beat Noor, the Irish-bred star from the west coast, again Saturday in the $29,850 Manhattan Handicap at Belmont Park.

With a crowd of 36,714 yelling for Noor to come on and save their money, Toronto's Teddy Atkinson booted One Hitter under the wire with a neck to spare, Calumet Farm's Ponder finished third, two lengths farther back in field of 10.

Merwyn T. Wood, an Australian policeman, retained the world's single sculling championship Saturday when he defeated John B. (Jack) Kelly, Jr., Canadian and United States champion, and Antony D. (Tony) Rowe of England in the race for the Philadelphia Gold Challenge Cup.

Wood came from behind to win the 1 1-4 mile race in 7:14 1-5 over the smooth waters of Schuylkill River.

The final margin was 2 1-2 lengths. Kelly, rowing a faster stroke but steering poorly, was second. Rowe, off to a flying start was no match for the others after the first quarter, and was third.

Quebec Sunday became the first team in the history of the Canadian - American Baseball League to win both the pennant and playoffs two years in a row.

The Canadians' 6-2 victory over the Amsterdam Rugmakers gave them a clean 4-0 sweep of the best-of-seven final series.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago came through under pressure with a three-under-par 69 for a 72-hole total of 271 to win first money in the $15,000 Kansas City Open Golf tournament Sunday. He beat out Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle, Wash., and Jack Burke, Jr., of White Plains, N.Y., by a single stroke.

Skip Alexander, of Knoxville, Tenn., professional golfer, was injured seriously Sunday night in a plane crash in a railyard near Evansville, Indiana. Police said an ambuance driver reported three military officers were killed in the crash.

Alexander, who had played in the Kansas City Open Golf tournament Sunday, was reported in serious condition in hospital.

His injuries included severe burns on the hands, arms and face and a broken leg.

Argos and Tiger Cats Win In Big Four With Edmonton And Winnipeg Best in West

(By The Canadian Press)

To the relief of the experts, Canada has finally had a football weekend in which all the games went according to the form chart.

Some of the scores brought the occasional lifted eyebrow and one game was decided by a touchdown with two minutes left to play. But the winning teams — which aren't necessarily the pre-season favorites—kept winning and the losers — some of them sure-fire bets a couple of months back — kept losing.

The closest fit was the Western Interprovincial tilt in which Indian Jack Jacobs tossed a 35-yard touchdown pass to Tommy Ford in the dying minutes of the final quarter to give the second-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers a 15-9 victory over the third-place Saskatchewan Roughriders.

But there was nothing close about what the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos did to Calgary's once-proud Stampeders. Les Lear's red-sweatered 1949 Dominion finalists took a 33-8 lacing for their fourth straight loss to Edmonton and their seventh defeat in eight starts.

In Toronto, Argonauts established themselves as the team to beat in the east by winning a surprisingly-lopsided 36-15 verdict over Ottawa Rough Riders before 24,874 fans — an attendance record for Canadian football. The victory was Argos' fourth in five starts and kept them two points ahead of their nearest opposition in the Interprovincial Union.

Alouettes Now Last

And Montreal Alouettes dusted off the Grey Cup they won last season and prepared it for probable shipment elsewhere as they lost 18-12 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats. It was their fourth loss in five starts and left them in last place, two points behind Ottawa, four behind Hamilton and six behind Toronto.

At Windsor, the revitalized Toronto Balmy Beach subdued Windsor Rockets 19-0 in the only Ontario Rugby Football Union game Sunday. It was Rockets' third straight loss and Beaches' first victory against one defeat. They still trail Sarnia Imperials by four points in the three-team group.

Jacobs' passing arm gave Blue Bombers their edge over Roughriders in the night game at Winnipeg. His game-winning touchdown pass to Ford duplicated a similar play in the first quarter, and he accounted for another point with a single. Joe Aguirre converted both tries and kicked two singles.

Backfielder Del Wardien, whose fumble paved the way for the winning touchdown, kept the Riders in the game earlier by tossing a touchdown pass to Sully Glasser. Jack Hartman kicked the convert and a 21-yard field goal.

Crumbled Before Plunging

Stampeders made a game of it against Edmonton for one quarter, but crumbled before the deadly plunging of youthful Mike King. The former Argonaut half nullified Vern Graham's early placement with a touchdown and added two more majors in the final quarter.

Doug Pyzer and Jimmy Macrae took touchdown heaves from Lindy Berry and Bob Paffrath respectively, while playing-coach Annis Stukus kicked a placement and two converts. Young Ken Moore, a Calgary product, completed the Edmonton total with two singles.

Royal Copeland, Stampeders' high-priced acquisition from Argonauts, scored their lone touchdown in the last quarter. The attempted convert was blocked.

Howe, Hagerman Defeat Pt. Anne In Finals First

Playing one of the best games of the season, Howe and Hagerman Commercial Softball League "A" section defeated the fast-stepping Point Anne team by a 9-5 score in their first final series at the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday nght.

The second and third games of tha three-of-five series will be played as the second half of sectional doubleheaders at the Fair Grounds on Tuesday and Thursday evenings the first game getting under way at 6.30.

Bobbie Hunter, Howe and Hagerman righthander was in rare form travelling over the nine-inning route to let the Pointers down with ofur hits. Two of the Point runs were unearned. Hunter struck out five.

Touched For Nine

Big Jim Hunter who was given the job of turning back the Plumbers crew was touched for nine hits, three of them the extra base variety. Wardhaugh hit a three-bagger, Roger Mallory came through with a two-baser and Spafford also connected for a double-bagger. Both added singles for good measure.

Finlan was the only Pointer to connect with an extra base hit for the losers, blasting out a three-bagger in the fifth to account for a Point run. Horwood, Sword and Everett got the remaining hits off Hunter's delivery.

Opens Scoring

Point Anne broke the scoring ice in the first inning when Horwood raced home after hitting safely. Baldwin and Logue went out to retire the side. Howe and Hagerman surged into a two-run lead in the fourth scoring three times with hits by Donovan, Wardhaugh, Mallory and Spafford. The Pointers added a single in the fifth but the winners came back for three more in the sixth to clinch the game. They connected for four hits in this frame and went on to add two runs in the seventh and another in the eighth.

Point Anne rallied in the seventh scoring two runs on no hits but Hunter settled down and choked off the effort. They went down in order in the ninth to end the game.

The teams:

Point Anne: Sword, 3b; Hunter, lf; Brant, c; Everett, cf; Horwood, 2b; Baldwin, ss; Logue, 1b; Finlan, rf; J. Hunter, p, Green, ss.

Howe and Hagerman: Rollins, 2b; Amo, cf; Donovan, lf; Adams, 1b; Mallory, c; Wardhaugh, rf; Spafford, ss Doyle, 3b; Hunter, p.

Burt Shotton Will Stick With Branch Rickey

Philadelphia; Sept. 25 (AP) — Burt Shotton says he isn't going to retire from baseball yet which strengthens the rumors that Branch Rickey will become general manager of Pittsburgh Pirates after he sells his Brooklyn Dodger stock.

What has Shotton's future plans to do with Rickey going to the Pirates? That's easy. The two have been the Damon and Pythias of baseball. Where Rickey goes, Shotton is sure to follow.

The 66-year-old Shotton said yesterday "I'll be in baseball next year. I don't know where, but I'll have a baseball job."

It's almost a cinch the Dodger manager won't remain in Brooklyn after Rickey leaves. The Brooklyn board of directors is almost certain to clean house and Burt, if he doesn't resign first, is expected to be swept out.

If Shotton is through in Brooklyn and he's to remain in baseball, where will he go? With Rickey to Pittsburgh of course.

"I'll stay in baseball as long as Branch needs me," he has said many times.

Rickey Selling Out

This chain of events started Saturday with the disclosure in New York by William Zeckendorf, wealthy real estate executive, that he will buy Rickey's 25-percent stock interest in the Brooklyn club.

Zeckendorf said the entire transaction had been engineered through the co-operation of John Galbreath, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Galbreath also is a real estate executive and he has done business with Zeckendorf before.

When the impending sale of Rickey's stock first was disclosed he was quoted as saying that Pittsburgh was not his next port of call in baseball. But yesterday, he changed his tune slightly.

"I did not say I would never go to Pittsburgh. I was trying to say I am not yet out of Brooklyn and that I have made no arrangements to go to Pittsburgh or anywhere else. Outside of that I am unwilling to discuss my personal affairs," he said in a statement handed out by Harold Parrott, travelling secretary of the Dodgers.

BENTLEY JOINS LEAFS

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 25—(CP)—Max Bentley, Toronto Maple Leafs' deceptive-skating centre, joined the National Hockey League Club at its training camp last night after completing a special leave to harvest his wheat crop at Delisle, Sask.

Max said his brother, Doug, came east on the same train and joined Chicago Black Hawks at their North Bay, Ont., camp.

Leaf's only remaining absentee is rightwinger Bill Ezinicki, who is at his Winnipeg home complaining of ill health.

Today THE DEMAND IS GREATER THAN EVER

Three months ago we introduced the new 88 and 98 gasolines. We based our introduction on certain truths—that these gasolines would give more power, greater economy and better performance.

We told the motoring public these facts. We told them exactly what the new gasolines would do and why they were so good.

Today, 88 and 98 have been accepted by motorists from coast to coast.

It was an acceptance fostered by performance. The new gasolines were found to do the things we promised they would.

Across Canada, week by week, the demand grows greater. Each day more motorists are demonstrating for themselves the power, economy and performance to be found in the new 88 and 98 gasolines.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There is an amazing increase in the percentage of men who now attend my lecture series. No less of the female population are there. But from a decided minority the males are now a majority.

What causes this is that men are coming to realize that bridge is a man's game. It is a challenge to their intelligence, competitive ability, judgment and ingenuity.

At the start, instead of a sewing circle the gals formed bridge clubs. The game was secondary to their desire for conversation. But it was a good excuse to meet with their friends.

Into night meetings were dragged their protesting menfolk. A husband might claim he did not know the game. But was he a man or a spouse? He was told they would show him how.

By whom would he be taught? By a bunch of dames who knew from nothing. They had learned rules of which they remembered little and the reasons for which they understood less. Teachers, my eye.

How did they teach him? The poor guy was forced to partner with some jabberpuss. Every time he did something, some voice would tell him "you shouldna dunnit." An insult to his intelligence.

His common sense told him what he did was practical. But they would fire a misquoted rule at him that made him groggy. And to keep peace in the family he had to take it on the chin.

Then he ran across my Horse Sense column. It made some sense to him. He found a rule or two that was right down his alley. It was something he could sink his teeth into.

Take the matter of counting tricks. His card sense tells him that tricks are best taken with the biggest cards and the short suits he can trump. Like the hand you see here:

♠ A 3
♥ K Q 10 4
♣ K 7 5 2

Count five highs and spade short as six tricks, Manstyle.

For Peet sake, I think I'll make you my permanent secreterry, pop said. You must remember something, what did the name sound like? he said, and I said, Well jimminies, pop, if I could remember what it sounded like, that would probably be it.

And if you had started this conversation 3 days ago, that would probably be too mutch to expect, [illegible] Well maybe it was somebody you hoped wouldn't call you up, and you wouldn't feel like calling back, G, pop that awt to be a big relief, because now you dont know anything about it with a cleer conscience, I said.

Thanks very mutch, pop said. Have you any other little odds and ends of information you would like to impart to me? he said, and I said, No sir.

That really is a big relief, pop said, and I said, Hay, now I remember. It was some man wanted to know if this was the residence of Mr. Wallace Potts and I told him no, it was the residence of Mr. William Potts, meening you, pop. And I asked him what number he wanted, and he didn't even want our number, so of course he didn't want you either, and he hung up without saying what his name was, so no wonder I cant remember, it, pop

FIVE GUELPH INMATES ESCAPE WHILE PREPARING FOR OFFICIAL VISIT

Five Guelph, Ont., reformatory prisoners escaped by crawling out of a kitchen window. They were preparing food for visiting officials, including Hon. W. E. Hamilton, minister of reform institutions. Escape of the men is linked by police to disappearance of two cars parked outside the city limits. Search parties led by guards hoped to find the men before the minister and visitors arrived. — Central Press Canadian.

BARRACKS NOW CHURCH

Dafoe, Sask., (CP) — Foote Copeland Church, transformed from an air force barracks building by volunteer labor, was used for the first time when a church supper celebrated its opening. About $1,500 worth of labor was donated to renovate the building and to construct a basement.

COULDN'T WAIT

Vancouver. (CP)— A phantom pianist left a private home without applause after giving an impromptu performance. The lady of the house said she was upstairs when someone started playing in the living room. There was nobody there when she investigated and, strangely enough, nothing was missing.

Briefs From Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

Windsor, England (CP)—There was a long break between races here on St. Leger Day—to allow race fans time to listen to a broadcast of the big race at Doncaster.

Tankerton-on-Sea, Kent, England. (CP)—Geologist Lawrence Kemp found a fossil embedded in a cliff face near here which had him guessing. It was finally identified as a mammoth's tooth. It weighed 19 1-4 pounds.

London. (CP)—Nurses at London's King's College hospital have double trouble in the maternity section. Four sets of twins were born in one ward.

Loch Ness, Scotland. (CP)—Allan Kay an Edinburgh business man claims he spotted three monsters— not one— disporting themselves in Loch Ness. Watching them through a powerful telescope he said the creatures were racing along at 15 knots.

Great Wakering, Essex, England. (CP)—Poachers came up with a surprise haul of fish in Walter Wood's pond. Using an outsize net they trapped more than 2,300 goldfish.

Abbot's Bromley, Staffordshire, England. (CP) — The ancient dance of the Deermen is to be performed here by 12 yeomen, each wearing deers' antlers.

Ipswich, England. (CP)—Call it sentimental if you like but when a local farmer put a stile across the traditional "Lover's Lane", he was ordered by East Suffolk Rights of Way committee to replace it by a "less formidable one". The stile was six feet high.

Carbrooke, Norfolk, England.—(CP)— Farmer Dan Bullen runs his 100-acre farm with the aid of only one helper. Nothing remarkable about that—except that Dan happens to be 104.

London, (CP)—Women are to be banned from the post of acting stewards at point-to-point race meetings, a National Hunt Club committee ruled. Huntswoman Lady Irwin gave the reason: "Some weighing-in rooms are also changing rooms—it can be embarrassing."

London, (CP)—Three diminutive Exmoor ponies brought from their moorland home have arrived in London to be let loose and given the run of Woolwich Park.

Knowle, Warwickshire, England. (CP)—Mrs. Mary Meecham's hen, Pertelotte, stopped laying after producing a regular quota for three years. The bird had turned into a rooster and Mrs. Meecham had breast of rooster for dinner the next night.

Newport, Monmouthshire, (CP) —Robert Drought, 54, found lying drunk in the street was told by a magistrate: "It's nearly time you changed your name." Robert agreed after admitting five similar offences. Said the judge: "Pay £2 ($6.20) or—28 days."

PROSECUTED; GRATEFUL

Victoria, B.C. (CP)—Prosecutors don't get thanks, especially from the wives of the men prosecuted. But one woman was grateful for her husband being called to court and ordered to pay hospital insurance premiums. Her husband now is in hospital and if the action hadn't been taken "we'd be faced with hospital bills we couldn't afford."

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Michael Shayne stood up and egan restlessly pacing up and own the room in front of the lephone, tugging at his earlobe d glaring at the silent instrunt each time he passed it.

Sergeant Harvey watched him nd said nothing. He knew the dhead's moods, knew it was usees to argue with him further. e hadn't been fooled by Shayne's pparent indifference to the plight the wounded girl. He shrewd- suspected that Shayne either new or could guess the identity her attacker and that he wasn't iving out information which night help the authorities get him first.

When the telephone rang both en started as though the sound as the last thing in the world hey expected to hear. Shayne whirled to grab the receiver. He aid, "Shayne speaking," and lisned for a long time without inerrupting the flow of words comng over the wire.

His voice was grim and urgent when he finally said, "I get the picture, Harry. Keep a man in he room with him. Get hold of Peter Painter and start turning the Beach upside down until they find her. Check every phone call to and from their suite since the robbery, fine-tooth the hotel for anything you can find out. I'll be over quick."

He hung up and turned to report succinctly: "Mrs. Dustin has disappeared. Mr. Dustin is alone in bed, passed out from an overdose of sleeping tablets. They can not rouse him. We've got to find her and we've got to find Mr. X. Will you stay here until your man comes?" He was striding toward the bedroom as he spoke. He went in, and emerged a few moments later with the Colt automatic in one hand and a tie in the other. He dropped the gun on top of his coat, swiftly knotted the tie around his throat.

Sergeant Harvey said, "Sure, I'll stick around, Mike. I thought you never packed a rod when you're working," he added with a curious glance at the gun.

Shayne shrugged into his coat and dropped the .38 in a side pocket. "This is a special sort of case. Be seeing you." He grabbed his hat on the way out and closed the door gently.

Shayne found Chief Painter interrogating one of the elevator operators when he reached the Dustin suite at the Sunlux Hotel. Painter looked worried and his black eyes flashed angrily as he disposed of the man with a scathing, "If you birds had eyes to see with or minds to remember with, a police officer's job would be easier. Go on back to your elevator."

Harry Jessup was seated comfortably in a deep chair across the room. He was a paunchy man with gray hair and a placid face. He rolled out his thick lips in a grimace as Shayne and Painter whirled on the Miami detective and demanded, "What's all this about?"

Shayne said, "Suppose you bring me up-to-date. Have you found Mrs. Dustin?"

"Not a trace of her. She's vanished completely. Flown out the window as near as I can make out from what I can learn around here." He gestured savagely toward one of the wide-open windows. "Jessup says you sent him up here to investigate. Why? How did you know anything about it?"

"You should realize by this time that I generally know quite a lot about what's going on." Shayne looked over Painter's head and asked Jessup, "Has her husband had anything to say yet?"

"The doctor's in there trying to bring him out of it," snapped Painter. He thrust himself forward aggressively as Shayne walked over toward Jessup.

"According to Jessup," Painter went on, "you suspected something was wrong because Mrs. Dustin had tried to get in touch with you earlier and then didn't answer her phone when you called back."

"I didn't waste time telling Jessup the whole story. Some bird entered my apartment while I was out, tried to kill my secretary, and answered the telephone, impersonating me and promising Mrs. Dustin he would see her at once."

Shayne went on to give both men a swift resume of Lucy Hamilton's condition and the fragmentary story she had told. He left out all reference to his encounter with the two men in Mickey's Garage basement, and spread out his big hands when he added, "That's everything I've got. I don't know any more than you do why Mrs. Dustin called me. I don't know who knocked Lucy out and answered my phone."

"Where did you go after you left here earlier?" Painter demanded, eyeing the bruise on Shayne's face. "Who did you tangle with?"

"Too much liquor," Shayne said ruefully. "I dropped in a couple of bars and overestimated my capacity. Ended up ramming a culvert on Delaware Road and knocking myself out. What have you found out about Dustin tonight?" he asked Jessup.

"Nothing that's worth a damn. They went to the hospital to get his hand X-rayed and bandaged. They returned a little before twelve and came right up. A few minutes later Mrs. Dustin phoned the house physician who had temporarily bandaged her husband's hand and asked for some sleeping tablets. Said Dustin was suffering considerably. The doctor himself came up and gave her a vial with six tablets, prescribing one tablet immediately and another within half an hour if necessary, but she was positively instructed to call him again if two of the tablets didn't give him relief. She and her husband were together in the bedroom when he gave the instructions, and he is sure both had understood. Yet, when I entered the room with a passkey after you called, Mike, I found Dustin alone in bed in a deep sleep from which he could not be roused. Half a glass of water stood on the bedside table, and four of the six tablets were gone. In the doctor's opinion, four of the tablets were sufficient to produce Dustin's present stupor, though the wounded man is in no danger, and in all probability will be able to tell his story soon.

"The only other telephone call from this apartment," Jessup continued, was about fifteen or twenty minutes after the doctor was here. To your number, Mike. Unfortunately, the operator didn't listen in. That's all. The rest is a blank. No one saw Mrs. Dustin go out. . . .nor anyone visit her here. Their car is still parked where the doorman left it after the holdup this evening."

"Any back stairs where she could go out without being noticed?"

"Sure. Right down the hall there's an exit stairway for bathers. It leads down to the foot of the bathing pier and anyone might go up or down it at night without being seen by any of the hotel attendants."

"It's quite evident that's the way she left the hotel," said Painter. "It's also quite evident that she slipped her husband four of the pills, or induced him to take the overdose before she called you. . . or before she went out. Presumably to be sure he didn't waken and catch her at it. Why?" He pounded a small fist in his palm for emphasis.

Shayne said, "You've heard every word that passed between us tonight. I haven't the faintest idea why she called me. As for doping her husband, that doesn't necessarily carry all the implications you suggest. He was in bad shape and she wouldn't want to worry him if she had discovered some lead she wanted to follow up on the robbery. It'd be just like a woman to decide to go out detecting on her own and slip her husband a Mickey so he would not worry."

"It could also easily mean she had an inside track on the robbery which she had concealed from her husband." Painter broke in. "He seemed a very decent sort to me. Just the sort of fool to be taken for a ride by a woman who soft-talked him into buying a bracelet worth a fortune which she then arranged to have stolen from him."

"Why would she call me if she was in on the robbery?"

"Why wouldn't she? Maybe things were getting out of hand. Maybe her accomplices decided to keep the stuff and tell her to go fly a kite. She couldn't turn to her husband for help. You'd be the logical one to call on."

Shayne shrugged and said, "Maybe."

"The whole thing seems rather clear now," Detective Painter insisted, "It all ties together. The careful way the robbery was planned . . .Dustin's resistance, which show he had no foreknowledge of it . . .the man who answered your phone and immediately pretended to be you when he recognized Mrs. Dustin's voice."

"Mr. X." mused Shayne. "Who is he and how does he fit in the picture?"

"It's as plain as the lump on your jaw," scoffed Painter. "He was her accomplice. The guy who actually snatched the bracelet. He was coming to you to arrange a fix. Maybe she'd decided to doublecross him. As soon as he heard her voice on the telephone, he knew what was up; arranged to meet her outside somewhere."

Shayne said again, "Maybe." He rubbed the uninjured side of his jaw, wandered across the living room to look out the window at the layout two floors below. At his left was the white strip of beach and the lazy rolling whitecaps of the Atlantic Ocean, shimmering and phosphorescent beneath the tropical moon. Like a long finger projecting seaward lay the wooden bathing pier for the convenience of hotel guests. Directly beneath the window a concrete walk led along the back of the hotel from the street to the pier. All the lights, normally turned out this late at night, had been turned on again, and Shayne could see two men, presumably from the police force, strolling about aimlessly as though searching for clues and didn't know where to begin looking.

The inner door of the suite opened as Shayne turned back from the window. The resident physician at the Sunlux announced with professional solemnity, "You may come in now. When you question the patient, try not to excite him with news of his wife's disappearance," after closing the door.

"How much have you told him?" Painter asked.

"Nothing except that I feared the sedative had been too strong for him and that I would cut the prescription in the future." He opened the door and stood aside for the three men to enter the bedroom.

Mark Dustin was propped up in bed on two pillows. His normally ruddy face was sallow and had the drawn look of violent nausea. His injured hand was in a plaster cast and lay stiffly extended on the coverlet. He wet his lips nervously when he recognized Panter and Shayne, and burst out:

"What's all this rumpus about? Where's Celia? Has something happened to her?"

"What makes you think anything like that Mr. Dustin?" Painter asked.

"You're concealing something from me. That doctor's been giving me a lot of double-talk. If Celia's all right, where is she?"

"We thought you might be able to tell us that." Painter's voice was silky.

"So something has happened! What, in the name of God," Dustin panted. "What time is it? How long have I been passed out? What did that sawbones put in that pill he gave me?"

"It's almost two o'clock in the morning, Mr. Dustin," Painter told him ."What time did you take the —sleeping tablet?"

"A little after midnight. As soon as the doctor left. Celia fixed it for me."

"And you took only one tablet, Mr. Dustin?"

"Of course I took only one. He said to take one—and then another in half an hour if that didn't put me to sleep. You've got to tell me . . ."

"We want you to tell us," Painter interrupted. "How do you explain the fact that four tablets are missing?"

"Four? But I only took the one. Do you mean Celia took the others? She didn't . . .she isn't . . .?"

"So far as we know your wife is perfectly all right. Did she say anything about going out later?"

"Of course not, She said she'd stay right here to dissolve another tablet for me if I needed it."

"Ah. Dissolve it, eh?" Painter pounced on the word happily. "Did she dissolve the first tablet for you?"

"Of course. I can't take the stuff in tablet form. Look here," the westerner went on, turning a strained face to Shayne, "won't you tell me what this is all about? Where is Celia?"

"We don't know, frankly. It appears that she may have dissolved four tablets for you instead of one. . .to make sure you did not wake up while she was gone."

"Gone? where?" Dustin appeared weary and dazed.

"We had hoped you could tell us," Painter cut in. "Did she say anything to give you an inkling of such a plan? Did you hear her telephone anyone?"

"You're crazy. She wouldn't dope me like that and then slip out to meet someone secretly. We . . .we're in love!" His strong features were now twisted in anger.

"None of us are intimating that your wife is keeping a rendezvous," said Shayne quietly. "We believe she did give you an overdose of sleeping tablets and then went out to meet a man, but we think she had some plan or idea of tracing the bracelet. Did she say anything about that? Any hint that she was holding any information back from you?"

WAS "RIGHT" LAD

Because he is getting old and has no heirs, Richard Wolstencroft, a 60-year-old ex-newsboy, now a successful farmer at Bad Heart, Alta., wrote to his home town of Bolton, England, to offer "the right lad" the chance to come to Canada and become eventual heir to his 480-acre farm. John Joseph McDonald, 19, shown aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland, accepted the opportunity to come over and work the 23-year-old farm in the Peace River district. John and Mr. Wolstencroft have never met, as Mr. Wolstencroft has not been back to Bolton in 44 years, but John is happily looking forward to his new life on a Canadian farm. — Central Press Canadian.

Six Kittens Put in Box, Left to Starve

2nd. Thurlow — This community seems to be the centre for abandoned cats, dogs and kittens, having been dropped in the vicinity during the past two months.

But the climax came on Saturday night when residents on hearing pitiful meowing, investigated and found six kittens about ten days old which had been placed in a wooden box by some heartless person and left to die along the side road. Three were in a dying condition, the others were practically starved and half frozen from the recent rain and cold.

It seems there should be other ways of disposing of unwanted pets, other than leaving them abandoned in this manner.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This advertisement is an adaptation of one of a series created by The House of Seagram to tell the peoples of other lands about Canada and her various products. For the past two years this campaign has been appearing in newspapers and magazines printed in many languages and circulated throughout the world.

Our prosperity is based on our ability to sell our products to other countries. Every Canadian has a personal stake in foreign trade, for one out of every three dollars of Canada's national income results from our trade abroad. The more that the peoples of other countries know of the quality, variety and prestige of our products, the more likely they are to buy from us.

We feel that the horizon of industry does not terminate at the boundary line of its plants; it has a broader horizon, a farther view—this view embraces the entire Dominion. That is why The House of Seagram believes that it is in the interest of every Canadian manufacturer to help the sale of all Canadian products in foreign markets. It is in this spirit that these advertisements are being published throughout the world.

MACARTHUR ANNOUNCES LIBERATION OF SEOUL

80 Miners Trapped Killed in Raging Underground Fire

Many Crawl Through Smoke, Fumes to Reach Main Shaft

Creswell, Northumberland, England, Sept. 26—(AP)—A raging underground fire trapped and killed at least 80 men today at the Creswell Coal Mine.

Caught behind a wall of flame from burning rubber and timber roof supports, they were choked to death by gas and fumes.

Another 120 men crept to safety on their hands and knees.

An official death list issued this afternoon contained 80 names. However, estimates of the toll had ranged from 83 to 90.

After rescue operations had been carried out for seven hours, the blazing pit was sealed off.

Smoke and intense heat drove back rescuers and hope for the trapped men was abandoned at 1 p.m. (7 a.m. EST), when the fire had been burning for nine hours.

Decision to give up rescue attempts and seal off the burning section of the mine was announced by Sir Hubert Houldsworth, chairman of the East Midlands Division of the National Coal Board.

Some Escape

He said a check showed 80 men missing.

More than half of the approximately 200 men working in the mine escaped when the fire flared, crawling through dense smoke and rubber fumes to reach the main shaft.

Scorched and blackened volunteers who went below to fight the fire staggered to the surface saying "it is hell down below."

The flames broke out soon after midnight in a conveyor belt.

About 90 men were in the section affected by the fire, Sir Hubert said, adding that the fire there was "intense and the air very foul."

It was Britain's second coal disaster in recent weeks. Thirteen men were killed and 116 others were entombed two days before they were rescued after a cave-in Sept. 8 near New Cumnok, Scotland.

Noted Beauty Spot

The Creswell mine is a mile from Creswell Crags, a noted beauty spot near Welbeck Abbey, the home of the Dukes of Portland. The colliery, employing more than 1,500 workers, is the centre of a community of 6,000 persons.

This afternoon Sir Hubert and the Mineworkers Union, in a joint statement, said despite rescue efforts "it was not possible to rescue any of the trapped men."

Error Bombing Cost 21 Killed, 20 Wounded

Tokyo, Sept. 26—(AP)—A British army spokesman reported today 21 men were killed and 20 wounded in the error bombing of the British 27th Brigade by American planes Saturday.

The spokesman said the number of casualties was determined personally by Air Vice-Marshal C. A. Bouchier on a two-day visit to the front in south Korea.

(Reuters News Agency reported from Waegwan, Korea, Sunday there were 150 casualties as a result of the mistake bombing.)

Two Women in Car Escape Dragnet After Accident

London, Ont., Sept. 26 — (CP) —Two women in a Michigan car who escaped a Provincial Police dragnet after forcing a heavy transport into a deep ditch near Delaware last night, may be hiding in London, police said today.

The transport loaded with 10 tons of brass castings bound for Long Branch from Wallaceburg hurtled into the ditch where its right front corner was buried in the side of the ditch. Driver L. MacKenzie of Lakeview was uninjured.

Airmen Return To Goose Bay

Halifax, Sept. 26 (CP)—Sixteen American airmen are safe in Goose Bay after a tricky rescue yesterday from the barren Labrador muskeg where they parachuted Thursday from their disabled bomber.

The rescue was effected after the survivors were spotted by an R.C.A.F. search plane Sunday, 95 miles southwest of the big northern base. A helicopter landed in the Labrador wilderness picked up the men and took them to the shore of a large lake nearby, from where two Albatross Amphibians ferried them to Goose Bay for medical attention.

The only man injured among the 12 crew members and four passengers suffered a broken leg when he landed in a river after jumping from the bomber.

The four-engined plane was on a routine training flight from Goose Bay to Tucson, Ariz., when two engines caught fire and another stalled and those aboard had to jump for their lives.

An R.C.A.F. source said one of the big plane's engines caught fire shortly after it cleared Goose Bay Thursday night. This blaze was controlled but then flames shot out from another engine and the aircraft turned back towards Goose Bay.

DIPLOMATS SHY AWAY FROM QUICK VERDICT ON MOVE

Claim Russia Must Prove Intentions by Acts

New York, Sept. 26. (AP)—United Nations diplomats today shied away from a quick verdict on new Russian peace and atomic control statements branded as propaganda by the United States State Department.

Interested but cautious, and careful not to appear to reject any really sincere Russian olive branch, they pleaded for more time to study a declaration by Jakob A. Malik, deputy Soviet foreign minister, to a group of Maryland peace petitioners yesterday.

The declarations were made public by a Soviet delegation spokesman at about the time that delegates were going into an afternoon U.N. Assembly session where speakers harped on one theme—Soviet words are not enough, Russia must prove its intentions by acts.

Malik's spokesman announced that the Maryland delegation, which had distributed a peace ballot in that state similar to the Soviet - supported "Stockholm peace petition," but not connected with it, presented four questions to the Soviet diplomat and that he answered "yes" to all of them.

The questioners, headed by John Wertheimer, a 25-year-old Baltimore student, asked Malik if he would pledge Russia would not use the atom bomb first; whether Russia favors general disarmament and outlawing of atomic weapons under a U.N. control system; whether Russia agreed to a peace negotiation meeting between top leaders of the Soviet Union and the U.S.; and whether Russia favored free exchange of ideas and information between the two countries.

Plan Was Rejected

A State department press officer, Lincoln White, told Washington reporters that a U.N. atomic control plan is not in operation

Twelve Persons Freed at Miami As No One Able to Establish Crime

Miami, Fla., Sept. 26 (AP) — Twelve persons, including eight young women who authorities say admit took part in a long-time theft of telephone company funds by smuggling out rolls of quarters in their brassiers, were freed today because no one has been able to establish a crime.

Between $8,000 and $10,000 in coins, currency and negotiable bonds was impounded by Judge George E. Holt during a writ of habeas corpus hearing.

The money allegedly is part of the loot taken over a period of two years by girl employees in the counting room of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. Police estimated "several hundred thousand dollars" have been taken during a period of years.

County Solicitor Michael F. Zarowny said he was placed in this unique position:

He has the oral admission of eight women and four men that they participated in a swindle of telephone company funds. The girls who worked in the coin-counting room of the company admitted, he said taking as much as $150 a day by hiding rolls of nickels, dimes and quarters in their brassiers before the coins were run through the counting machines.

But the telephone company which has no official check of the money until it is run through the counting machine, is unable to establish how much of the money was taken, or when and therefore will not file an affidavit charging theft.

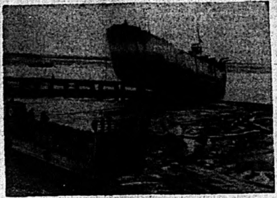
Miami Detective Chief H. V. Howard said he could not sign an affidavit because no one had filed an official complaint. An admission is not sufficient evidence to prosecute, he said.

Thus, said Zarowny, no crime has been established. And until a crime is established, the 12 persons can no longer be held nor can they be charged.

"We will continue the investigation," said Zarowny, "and hope that some way we can establish a crime."

James S. Rainwater, counsel for the 12 persons, said he would file suit for recovery of the money impounded.

PUTTING INCHON MUD TO GOOD USE



At first it was feared that the 30-foot tides that prevail in Inchon would be a handicap to amphibious landings, but they turned out to be an asset. Landing craft were run close in on the soft mud at high tide and were refloated without trouble at the next high tide. The ship in background is shown at low tide with a personnel landing craft in foreground. Inchon tides are second highest in the world. Highest are in the Bay of Fundy. — Central Press Canadian.

United Electrical Workers' Union Ousted from Congress Of Labor, Said Red-Dominated

Winnipeg, Sept. 26 (CP)—Reds have absorbed their first pasting at the Canadian Congress of Labor convention.

Opening move of the annual meeting of spokesmen for 360,000 unionists yesterday was to heave out of its ranks the communist-dominated United Electrical Workers of America.

After that drastic move against its 25,000-member affiliate—third largest union in the congress—the 700-odd delegates got set today for further wallops against the red element in Canadian labor.

Later in the week, the convention is expected to give its executive council power to suspend unions on the outright ground of being dominated by communists. It has not had that power up to now, and has had to use various devices for getting rid of left-wing bodies.

Expulsion of the electrical workers, forecast for several months following the union's suspension by the C.C.L. executive council last December, came as something of an anti-climax in a quiet meeting yesterday.

A year ago at Ottawa, the convention was in a turmoil as left-wingers fought unsuccessfully against the expulsion of the red-run International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the suspension of five top officers of the U.E.W.

In a vote on the question of expelling the U.E.W., the left-wingers mustered perhaps 50 hands of 700-odd delegates. This made it clear the anti-red poli-

Lawyer Testifies Wife Owned Building Raided

Montreal, Sept. 26 (CP) — A Montreal city lawyer testified Monday that his wife owned a building on downtown Bleury Street between 1940-45 when it was raided repeatedly for being a gaming house.

Edouard Masson appeared as a witness in a superior court inquiry into charges of graft and corruption in the city police force. Mr. Masson is a lawyer representing the city in the probe. He was called to the witness stand by Pacifique (Pax) Plante, ousted chief of the city police morality squad who instituted the inquiry. Mr. Plante and Jean Drapeau are appearing for 73 petitioners including a city councillor, who asked for the inquiry.

Mr. Masson said the house was bought in his wife's name in March, 1940, and was sold after his wife's death in September, 1945. Witness said he had complete administration of the building.

Shortly after the purchase he said he rented the top floor to a Ludger Audette, who, on the lease, said he was operating a sporting and social club.

Mr. Masson said he visited the building once after being advised by police that people had been arrested in connection with gambling house operations in the floor rented by Audette.

The lawyer said he found that the floor was as it had always been and contained no subdivision.

Mr. Masson said a court action was taken against his wife following many raids but the affair was dropped in superior court for three years.

He said it was specified in a deed prepared by a notary that he was selling the building because it was a gambling den and he did not want any connection with such activities. He added that the building never was padlocked by police.

The probe was launched by the superior court after Mr. Plante wrote a series of articles in a Montreal daily French-language newspaper (Le Devoir).

Dawson Council Does Not Want Capital Moved

Dawson, Y.T. Sept. 26—(CP)—The capital of the Yukon is setting up a howl that echoes through the musty, empty saloons of the '99ers.

Word is that the Dominion government intends to move the capital from Dawson to Whitehorse, some 250 air miles south of here.

At a recent meeting, Mayor Howard Firth and his three aldermen threatened to resign if the seat of Yukon's government were moved. So did Charles Lelievre, Dawson's representative on the territorial council, the three-man body that administrates the Yukon.

"We've been hearing about this proposed transfer of the capital to Whitehorse these past two years," Mayor Firth said. "But a persistent recurrence of the rumor has now given us real cause for anxiety."

"We'll show them back there at Ottawa that we're not going to be pushed around like a bunch of sitting ducks," dentist William Joiner told the meeting.

"Why!" thundered alderman Jim Mellor, "It's like shoving our last frontier nearly 500 miles to the south."

A general citizens' committee was formed on the spot to oppose any such transfer. The committee sent telegrams to Prime Minister St. Laurent, Resources Minister Winters and J. Aubrey Simmons, Yukon's representative in Ottawa to tell them this.

From a roaring boom town of 25,000 at the turn of the century, when it was the centre of the Klondike gold rush, Dawson today is a village of a little more than 1,000.

It still hopes for another rush and gold mining companies in the district still dredge between $2,000,000 and $3,00,000 worth of gold each year.

KOREA-BOUND TRANSPORT PLANE PLUNGES INTO SEA

28 Men are Rescued, 22 Missing, One Killed

Tokyo, Sept. 26 —(AP) — A Korea bound transport plane plunged into the sea with 51 persons aboard. Twenty-eight were rescued, 22 are missing and one body was recovered.

The big plane crashed on take-off from a southern Japan airbase about a half-mile from the end of the runway. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said it carried 43 passengers and a crew of eight.

The circumstances were similar to the crash of a transport on a take-off from Kawajalein Island a week ago. Twenty-six navy personnel, also bound for Korea, perished— one of the navy's worst air disasters in the Pacific.

Details of today's crash were meagre. Twenty-five passengers and three crew members got into life rafts and were picked up by Japanese fishing boats. A nurse was among the survivors.

Next Two Weeks Will See Wheat Crop Cleared

Ottawa, Sept. 26 — (CP)) — A wheat crop that might have been the largest in history — except for frost — will be cleared from Canada's prairie fields and prepared for storage and market in the next two weeks.

Offering silent prayers for continuing good weather, Western farmers have hauled away about 250,000,000 of the 490,000,000-bushel crop they are expected to harvest this year.

A small segment of the prairie farm population is working in gloom, facing fields blackened by crop-killing frost that destroyed about 54,000,000 bushels and weakened the quality of millions more.

However, all told, the harvest is not considered "too bad" by government grain experts. Though sharply below the 544,000,000-bushel crop farmers had hoped for, the crop still is a big gain over the 367,000,000 bushels realized last year and well above the 394,000,000-bushel 1940-49 10-year average.

The loss through frost has not been felt in wheat alone. The harvest of oats, barley, rye and flaxseed now going on will see clearance of quantities below that estimated by the government's Bureau of Statistics.

Seoul Smoke-Filled City of Horror Fight-to-Death Rages in Streets

By DON WHITEHEAD

Seoul, Sept. 26 — (AP) — This is a flaming, smoke-filled city of horror today.

Great fires are raging and a black dome of smoke hangs in the sky.

Street by street U. S. marines are nearing the heart of the city behind flame-throwing tanks, heavy artillery and air bombardment.

Seoul is not being spared. It is a fight to the death, with the reds defending from houses, ridges and rooftops in a desperate stand.

(This dispatch was sent from Seoul at 6 p.m., Tuesday (5 a.m., EDT). Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo announced at 2.10 p.m. Tuesday that United Nations forces had completed "the envelopment and seizure of the city" and liberated it "in such a manner as to cause the least possible damage to civil installations.")

The reds chose to defend Seoul. And the Americans are not sparing any building where the reds had established defences. Seoul is being scarred and battered terribly — but the Allied High Command is not sacrificing lives to save the face of Seoul.

And strange things happen in the battered streets . . . The marine racing down a street into battle with two live ducks strapped to his packs and quacking madly . . . The red platoon that marched out of the flames and smoke squarely into nozzles of American guns; this was a brief and wild slaughter of the communists.

Along the battered street civilians poured out of their homes to watch the marines even though bullets zipped overhead and occasionally red shells whistled above them.

Every few hundred feet were thick earthen barricades across the street — thrown up by the reds in the last few days for their defence of Seoul. One South Korean said the reds forced American prisoners of war to help build the barricades.

5,000 Red Troops Yet to be Mopped Up by Allied Forces

Big Gamble to Break Commie Resistance Begins to Pay Off

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Sept. 26 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today the United Nations forces have liberated Seoul from North Koreans who held the capital in communist bondage almost three months.

This was the big initial victory for the 53 non-communist countries behind the first armed peace-enforcement measure undertaken by the United Nations.

But mopping up of an estimated 5,000 die-hard communist defenders in Seoul remained to be done by allied forces fighting house by house and street by street.

The allied forces hoped to complete the clean-up task with a minimum of destruction to the city.

Four big blazes were burning as the ravages of battle.

The allied force credited with liberation of the 500-year-old capital of 1,000,000 normal population is American and South Korean.

It was officially in control just just three months and a day after the Korean reds — communist-trained and Rusian-armed — invaded the U.N.-sponsored republic across parallel 38 June 25.

MacArthur issued a special communique at 2:10 p.m. Tuesday (12.10 a.m. EST) to announce the end of effective red resistance in Seoul. It said:

In Friendly Hands

"Seoul, capital of the Republic of Korea, is again in friendly hands. United Nations Forces, including the 17th Regiment of the Rok (Republic of Korea) army and elements of the U.S. Seventh (Army) and 1st Marine Divisions, have completed the development and seizure of the city.

The big gamble to break the back of Red Korean resistance and end the war of liberation soon was paying off with surprising speed.

That calculated risk involved a hazardous landing far behind enemy lines at Inchon and a quick drive for Seoul. Eleven days elapsed between the Inchon beachhead landings and announcement of Seoul's liberation.

Hub of All Roads

The capital not only was a symbolic prize but the hub of all road and lines into the southeast Korea where more than 100,000 communists were floundering away from the old Allied defence box.

Allied troops started pouring ashore at Inchon, 22 miles west of Seoul, Sept. 15, to change the complexion of the Korean war.

The 10th Corps directing the Seoul fight said Seoul's military defences actually were broken by 2 p.m. Monday—just ten days after the Inchon landings.

MacArthur said Seoul's communist garrison was fleeing northward in disorder.

The reds appeared to be shattered everywhere as a unified fighting force.

Allied forces hammered out sharp new gains throughout the whole battle zone—in what may

Chief Said Pelted With Tomatoes By Strikers

Wallaceburg, Sept. 26 — (CP) —Violence flared up at the strikebound Schultz Die Casting Company plant today with the police chief being pelted by tomatoes and the company forced to set up temporary headquarters outside the plant.

Some officials said they were punched in the face in the melee.

The company set up temporary offices at a hotel after officials failed to gain entry to the plant.

About 450 employees of the Schultz Company and its subsidiary, Sydenham Trading Company, left their jobs yesterday. Members of a recently-organized local of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), they seek wage increases, two weeks' holidays with pay each year and compulsory checkoff of union dues.

Piece of Wood, Being Cut, Flies, Crashes Windows

The crashing of glass as two windows burst in startled Mrs. R. R. Belnap at 59 Station Street, yesterday. She looked around and failing to understand the cause for the broken windows notified police.

Investigation revealed that H. Baker, 40 1-2 Great St. James Street, was sawing wood with a sawing machine across the street from the Belnap residence when a piece of wood flew and crashed the windows. Settlement was made for the windows by the owner of the sawing machine.

Ralph Collins, 41 South Front Street, has a white motor boat, the owner of which is unknown. Mr. Collins was out on the bay early this morning tending his nets when near the bay bridge among some weeds he discovered the motor boat adrift.

Four juveniles were checked smashing street light bulbs in the Victoria and MacDonald Avenue district last evening. The activities of the four lads were reported by two separate residents and investigating police took their names and ordered the boys to report to the police station.

Try to Increase Calibre of Labor By Night Classes

Co-operation of local labor unions will be sought by representatives of the National Employment Service Bureau and the Belleville Collegiate Institute Vocational School to increase the calibre of certain types of labor through the medium of night classes at the Collegiate Institue.

To this effect, a meeting has been called by National Employment Service Bureau Manager H. H. Reed for Thursday night to which union representatives, vocational school officials and N.E.S.B. have been invited.

The classes which include auto mechanics, brick-laying, drafting electronics, machine shop, stationary engineering, general construction and welding for the men and typing, book-keeping and shorthand for the women, will get under way, with others on October 4th.

Registration for these classes takes place tonight and Thursday night at the Collegiate Institute between 7 and 9.

Co-operation of the labor unions will be sought in an effort to induce unskilled labor to better itself, and for others to take "improver" courses.

It is expected that a number of labor attendants at the classes will be supplied by the unions.

Port Arthur, Tex., Sept. 26—(AP)— Take heart, those bald spots on your pate matters little. The women love you pust the same.

That's what delegates to the United Baldheads of America were told here at a convention aimed mainly at bucking up spirits and engaging in horseplay.

F - instance a salesman caught peddling hair tonic has hustled out. Pretty girl speakers assured delegates that women prefer baldheads. Others claimed people with shiny scalps are "mentally superior."

Institute Doing Splendid Job For Sightless

"As Secretary of the Hastings County Advisory Board to The Canadian National Institute for the Blind," said E. S. Fairman, "I have seen first hand what the Institute is doing for the blind of this community." He related how the home teacher, Miss Munro, herself a blind person, has assisted newly blind persons to make the adjustments for life in a sightless world.

The teacher is a model of patience and listens to all the problems of her new pupil. She exhorsts, encourages and shows the client how to work by touch.

In Canada there are 36 home teachers going about the counties of the country teaching Braille, and thus putting sightless people in touch with books again. In this district blind people are using the Library of the C.N.I.B. week in and week out.

Another aid to the home teacher in her work of revamping the newly blind, is handicrafts. These arts make it possible for blind people, who must stay at home, to add a little supplementary income to their earnings.

Mr Fairman pointed out that the annual campaign for funds is now under way. Money given to this cause will help the C.N.I.B. to show newly blinded men and women in this area, they way back to normal life.

Wallbridge Road Will be Improved Delegation Told

After three years in which there has been little action in improving the condition of Wallbridge Road, residents of that area at city council last night were promised that something would be done this year to improve conditions.

A delegation from the Wallbridge Road area waited on council protesting that there had been no response to petitions to have their road repaired. Also they claimed, they had been neglected in the winter with respect to snowplowing, with seldom more than one half of the road being plowed.

And they also had a further beef. The area to the rear of their homes in Coleman Flats was being used as a dump for brush and other garbage. Even pills and empty cyanide cans had been thrown out where children were in the habit of playing.

Signs to be Placed

Mayor H. J. Allin said something should be done about piling the brush in the area and agreed there should be no garbage dumped. He directed that proper signs forbidding dumping of garbage be erected.

Alderman Thomas as chairman of the works department promised that something would be done to repair Wallbridge Road this year. Cost of the work suggested was estimated in the neighborhood of $1,500. "There is not sufficient money in the budget to complete all the work this year, but we will do what we can this year and do the balance next year," he said.

The spokesman asked what had happened to the money which for the past three years had been budget for repairing the road.

Alderman Thomas replied that the money must have been spent elsewhere in the city.

Council Buys Street Sweeper Over Protest of Some Members; Other Business Transactions

City Council at their regular meeting Monday evening gave final approval to the purchase of a new Elgin street sweeper at a cost of $12,050, the recommendation carrying over the protest of several aldermen who objected to the way tenders were being handled.

"I want to register a protest to the way in which this matter has been conducted," stated Alderman A. M. Haig as he introduced an amendment to the recommendation calling for the purchase of a Wayne sweeper in preference to the Elgin.

The alderman said council had called for tenders for street sweepers and then had allowed the tenders to be adjusted. If this manner of handling tenders continued he said Belleville would become a laughing stock.

Alderman Liddle termed it a lot of "underhand business" in allowing Mussons to send a new Elgin sweeper to the city and leave it here for three months. "This was not proper business ethics," he said. In any event Mr. Liddle said a new sweeper was not needed this late in the year and suggested the matter be left over for another year.

Takes Same Attitude

The same attitude was taken by Alderman Chas. Hyde who said the deal was not in good order. He said he had consistently argued against the purchase of the sweeper.

Mayor Allin said he had also argued that a new sweeper was not needed this year but in view of the fact that council had voted to purchase the sweeper and the municipal board had given approval, he felt the Elgin sweeper was the sweeper to buy. The city had the advantage of 23 years' experience with the old Elgin. "This city", he said, "should not be the guinea pig for a new type of sweeper."

Recorded Vote

On a recorded vote on the recommendation to purchase the Elgin sweeper, Mayor Allin and Alderman Allen, Armstrong, Butler, Duffy, Lattimer, Potter, Thomas and Tice approved while opposing were Aldermen Argue, Clarke, Haig, Hyde and Liddle.

After considerable discussion on the matter council ratified a Thursday evening committee recommendation to take an option on property at 109 Dundas Street as a site for a new fire hall in the east end of the city.

"What do we need to purchase more land for when we have acres in the Old People's Home site?" asked Alderman Hyde.

The answer from Alderman Thomas was that fire underwriters would not agree to the construction of a fire hall so far from Front Street.

Alderman Duffy as chairman of fire said that the purchase of property as a site for the fire hall was a matter of secondary consideration. "A fire department is maintained to fight fires, and if it is stationed too for from the fire hazard its purpose is defeated." he said.

Front Street Highest

He said from a fire risk standpoint the Front Street business section was rated highest, then the industrial section and thirdly the hospital. Insurance rates for the entire city were governed partly by the distance which the fire department was stationed from the greatest fire hazard.

Mayor Allin inquired about the former tourist park as a site for the proposed fire hall. This, he said, was the logical location.

However, City Solicitor R. A. Pringle said this particular piece of property had been left to the city as a recreational grounds and if it was used for any other purpose it would revert to the United Church. Alderman Hyde said he doubted if the trustees would agree to the property being used for a fire hall.

Alderman Tice agreed the tourist park would be an ideal location and suggested that some arrangement might be made to allow construction of the fire hall on the site. Alderman Duffy also agreed that the park would be a good site and even went so far as to say it would be advantageous to the community swimming pool now under construction if firemen were stationed close by. At the same time, however, he did not think it wise for the city to pass up the opportunity of taking an option of the other property.

On a recorded vote only Aldermen Argue and Hyde opposed taking the option on the Denyer property, while Mayor Allin and Aldermen Allen, Armstrong, Butler, Clarke, Duffy, Haig, Lattimer, Liddle, Thomas and Tice. Alderman Deacon was absent.

Question Tabled

The matter of acquiring three building lots on the east end of Victoria Avenue to effect a turn enabling the extension of the street through to Herchimer Avenue, was tabled when no definite word had been received from Thurlow that the street would be completed.

A letter from the Suburban Planning Board enquiring about the extension of Sidney Street through the fair grounds was read before council. Also read was a letter from the welfare office asking that a private office be provided. No action was taken either communication.

Under inquiries Alderman Argue wanted to know what the disposition would be of the old people's home purchased from the county. The Mayor replied it was the intention to give the matter thorough consideration at some future committee meeting.

Fill Washed Away

Alderman Clarke said that the recently placed fill at the collegiate lawn was being washd onto the street by rains. He wondered whether the soil was being washed into the Church Street storm sewer endangering its being plugged.

Alderman Hyde asked when the judgment on the city's assessment appeal would be forthcoming from the municipal board. He was told that the judgment had been promised for several days but still had not arrived.

Under general business Mayor Allin announced that a special meeting of Catherine Street rate payers had been called for Friday evening at the Prince Charles School to discuss proposed Catherine Street storm sewer.

He was taken to hospital.

Public Speaking Contest Will be Held by Assoc.

The executive of the South Hastings Educational Association met on Saturday afternoon in the office of Mr. R. H. Macklem, I.P.S. to discuss plans for their fall meeting. This organization which has been operating for six years is composed of members of municipal councils, school boards and teachers of the South Hastings inspectorate. Members present, Mrs. Irene Phillips, Mrs. Thelia Spafford, Miss Betty McLeod, Mrs. Roy Bush, Messrs. R. H. Macklem, Carman Frost, K. M. Birr, Earl Dafoe, A. C. Bates and Jas. A. Warren.

The first matter dealt with was Mrs. Wanda Sine's resignation as president, as she is no longer in the South Hastings inspectorate, having taken a position on the Belleville staff. Mrs. Sine has been an active member of the association since it founding in 1944, having served as secretary for the first four years. A good deal of its success was due to Mrs. Sine's untiring efforts. Her resignation was accepted with regret. In the absence of Mrs. Sine and the vice-president, Harry Brown of Glen Ross, Mr. Earl Dafoe from Thurlow acted as chairman.

The public speaking finals will be held the first or second week in November, depending upon the date of the Brighton district finals, which date has not yet been set. When this is known the date of the township semi-finals and the final will be announced. The township contests are under the direction of the teachers' organizations. A change was made in the number of contestants to be sent to the finals, as it was felt by many that fourteen speakers last year were too many to be judged in one evening. This year each township will be allowed three representatives with one each from Frankford and the RCAF Breadner School. This makes a total of eleven.

Scholarships Awarded

The scholarship committee reported that $25 scholarships had been awarded to Georgina Copeland, Trenton, R.R. 2, Myrtle Uens, Shannonville, R.R. 2, and Ruth Juby, R.R. 2. All three girls are continuing to high school and are using the awards to defray their costs.

Conservation Discussed

In view of the introduction of the study of conservation into the school curriculum and the recent publishing of the Moira River Conservation booklet, a booklet, a discussion took place as to how this association might best help with this work. Mr. Macklem stated that conservation committees of teachers had been set up in the teachers' organizations. It was decided to set aside $50 of the association funds which could be used by these committees to publicize the need of such work and arouse interest in conservation.

A committee was appointed to look after the details of the public speaking contest.

RECORD TONNAGE

New York, Sept. 26 (AP) — American steel mills are set to produce a record tonnage of steel this week. Operating schedules reported to the American Iron and Steel Institute call for work at 100.7 per cent of the industry's rated capacity. This means output of a new high of noriljiwagnet tons of ingots and steel for castings. The previous record production was 1,940,600 tons, attained in the week of May 22 of this year.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 26, (CP)—Gold stocks bucked a mild downward trend as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity slowed to a comparative crawl as profit-taking appeared in leading industrials strong gainers in three previous sessions.

Buyers turned their attention to key gold producers. Junior issues showed gains ranging up to 10 cents and several seniors firmed fractionally. Lower-priced issues tended slightly lower. Keybocon, a feature of recent markets, moved briskly on its own to a new high at 28 cents.

Industrials labored under profit-taking of recent gains that pulled the board to the highest average price levels in 16 years. Gains and losses were about balanced but leaders of the upturn paced the losers with declines ranging from fractions to more than a full point. Canada Cement was the widest loser, dipping 3 1-4 at 45 following an advance of 4 1-2 yesterday.

Papers, Utilities, Foods and Refining Oils showed majorities of declines in the groupings. Constructions, financial institutions and steels were higher.

Losses almost tripled gains in base metals. Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel and Noranda lost fractions. Steep Rock traded heavily at $4.10, unchanged from yesterday.

Western Oils were about evenly balanced, slipping from opening gains.

Volume for the first three hours was 748,000 shares.

Long Service Medals Presented 6 OPP Officers by Com. Stringer

Long service and good conduct medals for six Provincial Police officers in the Belleville district were presented here this afternoon by Police Commissioner William H. Stringer of Toronto. The medals were presented by the Commissioner to police officers in this district with more than 20 years' service to their credit.

The six officers to receive the long service and good conduct medals from the Commissioner were Inspector A. McDougall; Sgt John Kay; Sgt. Harry Ramsbottom; Cpl. Frank R. Bromfield, and Constable L. B. Byles, all of the Belleville office, and Cpl. Everett Smith, head of the detachment office in Napanee.

Prior to the presentation of the medals, the commissioner stated the idea of the medals had been under consideration for a considerable time. He felt that the medals would add prestige to the force, and would do much to increase morale.

Inspector McDougall who came to Belleville as District Inspector following the retirement in 1949 of Inspector A. W. Page, has been with the Provincial Police since March, 1929. He came to Belleville from Cochrane.

Sgt. John Kay, in charge of radio at Belleville has been a member of the force since July 1930 and with the exception of a brief period at Perth has been stationed in this city for a number of years. Sgt. Ramsbottom joined the force in April 1929, and came to Belleville as district sergeant last year.

Corporal Bromfield has just over 21 years' service and came to Belleville in 1948 from Hagersville. He is with the radio department.

In years of service Cpl. Smith of Napanee is the oldest of all five officers receiving the police medal. He joined the force in November, 1927, while Constable L. B. Byles has just over 20 years service. He came to the city from Barrie this year, but a number of years ago was stationed here as a motorcycle officer.

In addition to his service with the O.P.P. Constables Byles was with the former Ontario Highway Patrol before the organization of the Provincial Police.

Employers Must Help to Solve Problem of Unemployed Over 45 Years Says Rotary Speaker

Co-operation of employers to help solve the problem of unemployed over the age of 45 years is being sought by the Department of Labor, Ottawa, through the media of motion picture films and National Employment Service Bureau.

Yesterday at the Rotary Club luncheon, Mr. H. H. Reed, National Employment Service Bureau manager here, in an address to the clubmen outlined many phases of the problem and plans suggested for possible solution. Later he showed a departmental film "The Date of Birth" which brought out in pictorial clarity the difficulties which beset labor of middle-age and also the ability of men and women of past 40 to do a job.

Tendency on the part of the modern employer is to hire very few people over 40 years of age, in the male sex and 35 years of age for females, Mr. Reed pointed out in his address.

Various reasons given for this tendency include "slower on output of work and inability to fit into the pattern of pension being adopted by various firms.

Peak at 50

"The popular oponion," Mr. Reed said, "is that age brings a slowdown in activity. In a prewar survey it was found that, in the automobile industry, where wages are largely on a piecework basis and high-speed production is the rule, earners reached their peak in the age group of 50 to 55 years.

A New England survey of textile plants found that earnings were slightly higher for men ages 45-54 years than for either older or younger workers. A construction work survey revealed that in seven cities in the United States, the average age of all workers adjudged excellent in extra quantity of work turned out was 46.6 years.

In answer to the charge that older workers are more susceptible to accidents. Mr. Reed pointed out the report of a New York state analysis of 5,000 accident cases in which compensation was paid, which showed that the highest accident rate was in the 20-24 age group Canada, the speaker pointed out, has in round figures, 4,800,000 workers. The peak during 1949 was 5,180,000. The decline, he said, is caused by many married women returning to home duties and dropping out of the labor market others who left agriculture returning to the farm.

In his department's breakdown of this vast number of workers, Mr. Reed told the clubmen that about 33 per cent of the entire male labor potential is made up of men of 45 years or over.

May Have to Change Laws

"If industry would not accept these workers then it would be necessary that the laws be changed regarding old age pensions so that these people could be maintained," he said.

"If we took 1,600,000 of our present labor potential out of the market, as over-aged and pay them $40 a month old age pension, we would be paying $768,000,000 per year and the other 3,200,000 workers under 40 would have to pay the shot, amounting to $240 per year for each of the 3,200,000 workers.

"You will readily see," he concluded, "what the payment of this old-age pension would mean to our economy—the actual buying power of 1,600,000 people being taken away from them and the rest of us expecting to do the volume of business we have been doing in the past. Therefore, if we are to achieve a balanced distribution of power, and maintain our present economy, it is reasonable to assume that one in every three jobs should go to the older worker."

As a personal illustration of the ability of over-aged worker Mr. Reed told the story of an 84-year-old cheese box maker, who during the war years led all his younger counterparts in production.

Jury Recommends 'Stop' Sign at End of Bridge

Recommendation that a "stop" sign be erected at the north end of the Moira Lake Bridge on the county road between Belleville and Madoc, was made Monday evening by a coroner's jury at the inquest looking into the death of James O'Grady, Kirkland Lake.

Mr. O'Grady died in Belleville General Hospital following injuries received on September 15th., when the panel truck in which he was riding crashed into a coal truck on the Moira Lake bridge. The inquest was held at the county court buildings in Belleville before Coroner Dr. G. S. Cronk with Assistant Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death with the recommendation for the erection of the stop sign.

Witnesses called at the inquest included Dr. R. S. Beatty of Madoc; Donald Ash, driver of the coal truck; Carmen Mullett and John O'Grady, with whom the deceased man was riding.

Extend Four-Lane Highway to Avoid Congestion

Toronto, Sept. 26 — (CP) — To eliminate traffic congestion at Bowmanville where the approach to the town was considered unsuitable, the Highways Department will extend the new four-lane highway to Newcastle, it was announced today.

With grading and necessary access construction practically completed on the nine miles from Oshawa to Bowmanville the Department now will push on three more miles to Newcastle.

The Department said tenders for construction of the additional stretch would be let in the near future. It is hoped that the road will be open for traffic at the end of next year.

The Department also plans to speed traffic between Newcastle and Peterborough by rebuilding Highway 35 from Newcastle to Pontypool, where it will proceed on an angle to Peterborough. Five miles of highway between Orono and Kirby have been completed.

Twenty Fine Lake Trout Dressing 85 Pounds Prize Of Anglers in Algonquin Park

Reports of certain American tourists having little or no luck fishing in Algonquin Park lakes this season do not carry much weight with two Belleville fishermen who can get their quota almost any time they make the long trip north.

Six weeks ago Don McNevin, of Glenroy Creamery and Walter Johnson, local hydro employee, hooked six lake trout in Opeongo Lake which weighed a total of 60 pounds. Last weekend they again made the trip to the Park and in the same lake landed 20 finny beauties which had a dressed weight of 85 pounds. Six weeks ago their biggest catch tipped the scales at over 20 pounds.

The biggest of their latest haul weighed 10 1-2 lbs.

But the fishing season is still not over and the two local fishermen say they will go north again—this time to get a "real" catch.

Council Reverses Decision On Revoking of Licences

City Hall officials at Belleville have been licencing curbside food purveying stands on the strength of a by-law which was repealed back in 1881, members of city council were told Monday evening by Dr. Jack Marshall, chairman of the local Board of Health.

The Board of Health chairman was speaking to council regarding the recommendation passed by his organization last July asking that licences for street hot dog stands be revoked and asked why there had been no action on the matter.

"The board," he said, "would like to see the "menace" of hot-dog stands on the street cleaned up and added that the medical officer of health was quite perturbed about the matter. He said that council had the power to cancel such licences any time.

The Board of Health would also like to see some city regulation regarding the sterilization of barber shop equipment and also that of hair dressing shops. Barber shops had raised their prices but had not increased their services to the public.

Voted to Revoke

On the recommendation of the health board, council two weeks ago voted to revoke licences of 3 hot dog vendors, but last night after hearing the side of one of the vendors, voted to hold the matter in abeyance. The recommendation requested the Board of Health to withdraw their recommendation regarding the closing of the stands and that further consideration be given the matter.

Alfred F. Tyrell, speaking on his own behalf as a hot dog vendor, asserted that the city sanitary inspector had never reported to him of any unsanitary condition found at his stand. Dr. Marshall disagreed with this, stating the inspector had on several occasions reported unsanitary conditions and said the inspector had spoken to Mr. Tyrell.

In further pressing his case Mr. Tyrell said he had washing facilities at his stand and noted that the cancellation of such licences would have a wide scope as it would also apply to street carnivals and fairs.

Wants Schedule Drawn

Alderman Armstrong asked why pick on one or two street vendors, when poolrooms were allowed to sell hotdogs under much the same conditions. Alderman Potter thought council was getting away from the real issue and suggested that the Board of Health draw up a schedule of regulations re sanitary requirements.

Alderman Argue claimed the matter was already fully covered by the public health act and that the Board of Health had full power to act. In placing the matter before council, the board was merely trying to "pass the buck," he said.

The recommendation holding in abeyance the decision of two weeks ago followed with the request that the board withdraw their recommendation and give further consideration.

Warm Air Mass Coming From West

(By The Canadian Press)

Skies cleared today over most of Ontario and the eastern United States where for two days smoke from bushfires in northwestern Canada had blotted out the sun. Weather men said a shift in the wind had carried the smoke north over Hudson Bay and east over the Atlantic.

Meantime, a warm air mass from the west was reported moving toward southern Ontario. Forecasters, who said it had nothing to do with the smoke clouds, reported it will probably raise the Toronto temperature from the low 50s of the last few days to about 78.

Rain Eases Hazard

Edmonton—(CP)—Cooler temperatures, accompanied in some places by persistent light rain, today eased the forest fire hazard in northern Alberta and buoyed the hopes of more than 700 fire fighters.

The light rain started ye day and was expected to contin throughout today in many nor ern areas.

"The moisture will stop, t running fires and give the fi fighters a chance to concentra on ground blazes," said J. L. Ja seen, the province's chief timb inspector. "But we need lots mo rain. The fire situation still serious."

There was no immediate dang of a return to the almost unp cedented heat wave which pr vailed from mid-September un last Sunday and resulted in som 100 forest, bush and settlemen fires throughout northern Alber and the northeast corner of Br tish Columbia.

The dampness tended to dis pate a heavy pall of smoke whic has hung over the northern pa of the province since the weeken extending east to Ontario an south into some sections of th United States.

No rain was reported to hav fallen over the southern end o the Alaska highway along whic the biggest forest fires are ragin

EMULATING PIONEERS

It gives a touch of interest to history and it brings to ht facts not generally known when a man sets out to plicate an achievement of a century or more ago. 125 ars ago John McLaughlin, a British pioneer, then aged , set out with a group of others and travelled all the way Canoe from Riviere du Loup to Fort Oregon to colonize at is now the State of Washington.

That feat has since then existed as a challenge to hers. On May 28 this year a 67-year-old canoeist, Rev. hn Beard, set out from Fort Vancouver, Washington, in 17-foot canoe on this same route and reached his destin- ion only on Monday, September 25th. He was handicap- d by the bitterly cold weather in the St. Lawrence River gion, 120 miles down from the city of Quebec, and was evented from arriving at Riviere du Loup, as he had plan- ed. He had to proceed by automobile from Kamouraska, ly fifteen miles away from Riviere du Loup. He had left uebec on Wednesday last by canoe on the last part of his urney.

One of the attractions to this modern canoeist was to sit St. Patrick, Quebec, near Riviere du Loup where Mc- aughlin was born one hundred and fifty years ago.

He has brought forcibly to young men and older men today the inspiration the people of more than a century o had in the pioneering spirit. Captain McLaughlin and group of pioneers travelled by canoe all the way from iviere du Loup to Fort Oregon 125 years ago.

Such records and their repetition by moderns with the me spirit of the pioneer in their make-up may well be n inspiration to many young boys and young men and en older persons.

Not very long ago Frenchmen travelled the same route French explorers many generations before. This was no le achievement. Nor was that of the ship which not long go made the way around the Continent of North America bring to public attention the Northern Passage.

The spirit of a Columbus or any other great navigator explorer who made history in America will be inspira- ion after generations and centuries. The courage of Col- mbus in daring unknown odds has been one of the great ories of human history and it will live forever.

North American history has ample records to inspire eople of this age. No one can say there are not opportuni- ies for discovery. Recent expeditions into the South Seas ook a number of daring young persons on the quest of ew facts about conditions of the ocean in that part of the lobe.

DURABLE GENERAL

If Gen. Douglas MacArthur dies in bed, it will not be or the reason that he gave high priority to personal afety.

In his island-hopping campaign against Japan in orld War II, the general could be found on the beaches hortly after they were stormed. It was the same story hen his troops landed near Inchon in Korea the other day. He quickly followed them into the battle area.

This is all the more remarkable because Gen. MacArthur is anything but a young man. In fact, he is 70, certainly an advanced point in life for amphibious landings.

Generals of earlier wars who did their master-minding at pin-studded maps, far behind the lines would be at a loss to understand this durable old warrior, and indeed might be inclined to regard him as a traitor to his class.—Windsor Star.

VAST MAJORITY ARE CAREFUL

Quite a lot has been said about drivers who make themselves dangerous to others on the highways. Not much has been said about the great majority of those who are careful, thoughtful and courteous.

The News-Chronicle stood on a corner, non stop light, used largely by children going to school and, watching the scene for some time, was impressed by the amount of care used by various drivers, truck drivers especially, to avoid danger to the little ones.

Some good opinion actually holds to the opinion that on the whole truck drivers are safest drivers of all. They are under not only the ordinary restraints of any driver but also under instructions from employers to be careful.

Considering the number of cars in use; so many that streets and highways are in most cases crowded; the careful drivers are a vast majority. Because it is the offenders who receive the publicity this might not appear to be so but it is a fact deserving of recognition. It also justifies police and law officers in their continued efforts to eliminate the drivers who set up the hazards against which, so often, others have no defence other han to stay off the roads entirely. — Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

I have been benefited by praying for others; for by making an errand to God for them I have gotten something for myself. — Rutherford.

SECOND CHANCE

With a second chance to start,
Still aware of blunders made,
Would you choose the easier part
For the wages that it paid??
Would you turn away from school,
For the money you could earn,
Thinking theorem and rule
Were too difficult to learn?

Were a second chance allowed,
With the present failures known,
Would you linger with the crowd

Would you stay on middle ground,
Lost to fortune and to fame,
Or try climbing, round by round,
With achievement for your aim?

All too late we plainly see
Where our first mistakes were made.
'Twas to pitfalls blind to be
And of self to be afraid.
'Twas to stop and not advance,
And the difficult to spurn.
'Twas to lose the future chance

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Driving in the country, you can tell at a glance who is boss in any given farm from the appearance of the buildings. If the farm house is attractive, in good repair and well painted, with flower boxes on the sills, the woman is boss. But if the house has a drab and wholly functional appearance while the barns and stable loom large and efficient, then the man is boss.

Rural bank managers, country lawyers and salesmen who work the country districts are well aware of this characteristic of farm property. They know who to deal with, the minute they turn in the lane. Or who to avoid depending on the nature of their business.

Now and again, but not very often, you will see a farm where the house and the buildings are equally well-kept or equally decrepit. These are the instances of a happy marriage, in which a well-matched team is in residence. And there the bank managers, lawyers and salesmen alike find it tough going, whether the farm is prosperous or run down. For happy and well-mated people are always difficult to deal with. They see alike. Their ideas are all pretty well worked out. If they are prosperous, they don't want anything from banker, lawyer or salesman. And if they are poor, but well-matched, they are agreed in not desiring to have any dealings with such trouble as bankers, lawyers and salesmen portend.

But where you find an ill-balanced match, as witnessed by big barns and a dull house, or a fancy house and meagre barns, then you have either a man or a woman in a state of discontent, and ready for any sort of a deal other than the one they have got. Business is there for everybody, banker, lawyer and salesman.

Yugoslavia Attacks Those Supporting Korean Aggression

New York, Sept. 25 (AP) — Yugoslavia Vice-Premier Edvard Kardelj called today for the temporary re-establishment of the 38th parallel as the demarcation line in Korea. He attacked those supporting North Korea's aggressive course.

In a policy speech before the U.N. General Assembly, the Yugoslav official declared that Marshal Tito's government "considers that the present policy of the government of North Korea does not serve the cause of the true independence and unity of the Korean people."

In the same speech he charged that the Russian Bloc is increasing the pressure on Yugoslavia by provoking border incidents almost daily.

Simultaneously Yugoslavia introduced two resolutions designed to strengthen the assembly's efforts to prevent aggression.

One calls for the establishment of a permanent mediation commission made up of small powers. The other requires a country involved in armed conflict to issue a cease-fire order within 24-hours and to withdraw its armed forces from disputed territory. Failure to do so automatically would brand the country as an aggressor.

Chinese Nationalist delegate T. F. Tsiang charged the cominform was "fostering, fomenting and financing civil wars in all countries not ruled by a communist dictatorship" subservient to the Kremlin.

Tsiang said "global aggression must be met with global defence." He declared the immediate objective of Stalinist aggression is the consolidation of the Soviet Union's Eurasian power base.

The Yugoslav anti-aggression proposals were brought in as the 59-member assembly began the second week of its current session.

Support Mounting Among Allies For U.N. Proposal

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Support is mounting among the democracies for the U.S. proposal that every United Nations member maintain a special unit in its army subject to call by the U.N., for enforcement of peace.

This amounts to creation of a United Nations army which, in its totality, would be a powerful military machine. It would provide the strength to make the peace organization fully effective.

Without this the U.N. must be impotent in the face of any crisis which could only be dealt with by force.

The Korean war is a fair illustration of the point. Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs-of-staff, said the other day that this campaign has become one of the most significant in all military history because it marks the birth of a new power in the world: "armed action by the United Nations."

Powerless

When Korea was invaded from the north, the U.N. was powerless—in its own strength—to intervene. It appealed for intervention by its members under the U.N. flag and the U.S. went into action, soon followed by others.

Had any country intervened in Korea without sponsorship of the tated a major war. As it is, success of the U.N. volunteer forces has been so sweeping that their victory in south Korea seems assured.

Moroover, while potentialities still are dangerous, well informed American officials express the belief that Moscow is getting set to dismiss the Korean affair with a shrug of the shoulders as a minor matter.

To this apprisal one might add that Russia isn't turning away empty handed, because a further economic load has been heaped on the U.S. That is an integral part of Soviet strategy in its cold war against the west.

Coincident with this apparent display of apathy by Russia towards the Korean show, there is another interesting phenomenon. The Muscovite representatives at the United Nations have adopted an amazing mild and even friendly policy towards the western representatives. Peace is in the air.

Typical of this tendency was a statement in New York yesterday by the fiery-tonged Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, Jacob A. Malik, to a Baltimore delegation, described as the Maryland committee for peace. He said he favored a meeting between the top leaders of the United States and Russia to negotiate their differences and help achieve full peace. It was presumed he was talking about President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin.

Some observers interpret this soft talk as indicating Moscow is preparing for another blow similar to that in Korea. This would be a continuation of the strategy of weakening the U.S. and other western powers by economic attri-

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

THE STRONG ACCENT

Campbellton, N.B.—A surprising number of businessmen and civic leaders in Campbellton philosophically accept the belief that New Brunswick will one day be as French a province as Quebec.

"Already, from Moncton north the French-Canadians have the balance of power", a pioneer New Brunswicker told me today. "Their influence is being felt more in the capital at Fredericton.

"The Acadian flag is flying all over the province. There's a new and militant French nationalism abroad."

The French have the edge on population not only because of a higher birth rate, but because so many English-speaking young men are continuing to trek to the industrial areas of Ontario for better wages than New Brunswick can offer them.

The French, too, have gone more than halfway in adapting themselves to the situation. In the cities, it's rare to find the French merchant who isn't bilingual. The English, on the other hand, rarely trouble themselves to acquire the other tongue. Their concession to the French population? Hire a French employee.

On the surface there's no friction. Indeed, both sides make a show of hearty good will. But the tension is there.

At least two Campbellton businessmen have discreetly set up branches of their concerns in Ontario. The proprietor of one such firm told me, "This town will be preponderantly French in my time. I'm making damn sure I've got something to fall back on."

New Faces

Campbellton itself, which looks across the Restigouche River at Quebec (where there are almost none of these messy complications), serves as a kind of barometer of change.

Ten years ago there was an English mayor and only two of the eight-man city council were of French extraction. But for the last seven years an Acadian, L. E. Renault, has been mayor. Catholic votes have the majority on the council. Mayor Renault now runs unopposed.

Other New Brunswick towns with a dual population, notably Bathurst, worked out a "gentleman's agreement" under which a French Catholic, an Irish Catholic and a non-Catholic would rotate as chief magistrate.

In Campbellton, so the story goes, the last "English" mayor, P. W. Caldwell, firmly rejected this idea. ("He could afford to risk offending the French," I was told, "because he was a railway man.") Caldwell lost the election. No one now expects the town will ever have another non-Catholic at its head.

The change came swiftly here because of a switch in the voting system. Non-French own an estimated 85 percent of the property in Campbellton. So long as the franchise was limited to property owners English representation predominated. In 1944 the electoral law was changed to give the vote to all citizens who had paid up to $10 poll tax.

The voters' list blossomed suddenly with French names and most English Campbelltonians will assure you that wealthy French-Canadians put up the ante for their poorer neighbors.

In any event, it seems obvious that a masterful organization job was done by the late Benoit Michaud, a colorful, moon-faced barrister and enthusiastic Acadian who was MP for these parts. "An unsophisticated Duplessis," was one decription I heard, which indicates a certain harshness in the English attitude to the militant French-Canadian.

Today two of the three provincial members from the district are French (Louis Lebel and John Baptiste D'Astous) and the federal member is Paul Dube.

For Acadia

The Acadian movement, which is called "nationalist" by its opponents, is centered around an organization called the Association for the Promotion of Acadian Education.

According to one of its strongest supporters here the Association's aim it "to claim our rightful place in the schools for the conservation of our language and to enable the Acadian to survive as a Catholic and French entity."

In blunter terms this simply their youngsters taught by French Catholics. In Campbellton, as I reported in my last column, they have achieved this aim in spite of the dangers it presents in segregating youngsters of different religions.

The mouthpiece for the Acadians is L'Evangeline, published in Moncton with the motto, "Religion, Langue, Patrie; Instruire et unir pour agir." In talking of "unity", of course, L'Evangeline does not mean Canadian unity, but Acadian.

The Acadian supporter I interviewed today dismissed such terms as "nationalist" and "balance of power" and stated his position with a good deal of logic.

"There's no use trying to avoid the fact that we are descended from French or that we are Catholic. We are and no one can change it," he said. "We see no reason to throw overboard our own background, our culture and Canadians of British descent think it might be simpler for them. We, too, are Canadians. How we live, or how we educate our children, is, after all, our own business."

SOVIET DELEGATION WALKS OUT AFTER DEWEY BLASTS RUSSIA

U.S. elder statesman Bernard Baruch, right, listens to Soviet delegate to the Security Council, Jacob Malik, at a dinner in New York, honoring U.N. Assembly presidents. Despite his hearing aid, it seems evident that Baruch misses nothing worth hearing. During the dinner New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey addressed the group and blasted Russia for keeping 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 people living under "imperialist slavery," adding that "no persons anywhere in the world can sleep nights with any sense of security." At that point, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vyshinsky arose, looked around and then walked quickly to the exit. At once, the other Soviet delegates left their seats and followed (see below), in one of the most spectacular walk-out in diplomatic history. — Central Press Canadian.

COAST GUARD JOINS THE PALACE GUARD

Ever since some obscure but elegant Red Cross big shot approved the Red Cross modification of Schafer's method of resuscitation it has been notable, perhaps a fixed policy, that the name of the discoverer of the manual prone pressure method of artificial respiration has been conspicuous for its absence from Red Cross literature. Sometimes I think the big shots of the Red Cross, and of course all the yesmen who follow their lead, you know, the American Gas Association, National Electric Light Association, United States Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, etc., etc., have a mad on because Schafer, who devised and gave the world manual prone-pressure resuscitation, prescribed that both of the subject's arms be extended well above the head, in order to keep the subject's thorax or chest in the most favorable position for entrance of air into the lungs.

You see, the Red Cross "approved" modification of Schafer's method—and the Red Cross "approval" is echoed by fat-heads who hardly know what it is all about but assume they can safely follow Red Cross leadership—ignores this mere technical feature and uses one arm of the subject as a head rest, and thus keeps her pretty face (usually it is a bathing girl who poses for the picture) from contact with the ground or floor.

I have the written opinion of the late Prof. Yandell Henderson, perhaps the foremost authority on the question during his lifetime, that Schafer's method is preferable to the Red Cross method because of the facts mentioned. What opinion or authority can the Red Cross or any other organization cite to justify the hand or forearm under the head?

If the subject is a victim of submersion the pretty method "approved" by the Red Cross involves a hazard which Schafer's method obviates, namely the blocking of windpipe by water or other fluid—the Red Cross death trap, as described and illustrated in booklet How to Breathe. For a copy of this booklet, which includes instructions in resuscitation, send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope.

The Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, replying to query about this inexplicable modification of Schafer's manual prone-pressure resuscitation method, quotes Christopher's textbook on Minor Surgery, as follows:

"Lay patient on his belly, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at the elbow and with the face turned outward and resting on the hand and forearm so that the nose and throat are free for breathing."

That is to imply that Schafer hadn't enough sense to keep the nose and throat free for breathing.

Howell's Textbook of physiology contains an illustration (credited to Schafer) of the proper position of the subject, showing both arms extended well up above the head.

Some little big shot of the Red Cross boldly asserted in a letter to citizen who inquired about resuscitation, that in a personal communication to some Red Cross representative Schafer himself had approved of the arm-under-the-head modification. Show me that letter and I'll pipe down.

As nearly as I can learn, the only excuse for placing the subject's arm under the head of face is to "keep the nose and throat free for breathing." It is inconceivable enough to apply artificial respiration would not keep the nose and mouth free for breathing with the subject's face turned to one side.

It seems regrettable that the U.S. Coast Guard has joined all the other organizations that "approve" and practise the wrong method of resuscitation.

Come, on, now, fellows, surely you are big enough to acknowledge a technical error and correct it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOVE'S FOUNDATION

We can only offer a personal opinion as to the foundation of all love, and so we say that its foundation pillars are from the heart. Its corner stone is a mixture of confidence, faith, and understanding. There is no other foundation so solid, so endless in durability.

Without love in the world there would be no hope, no incentive no enjoyment of the rich things that give us all the urge to go forward, to be useful, and to face the difficult emergencies of life with courage and anticipation. Love is what creates harmony and instils divine kinship within us all. Nature is a resorvoir of love!

Love alone could change the face of the world over night if it were put to universal use. People do not fight one another when they have love amongst them! Love often takes great punishment, but it doesn't hit back. It is long suffering and considerate.

It is for the love of people, of books that have been written for an unselfish purpose, and of nature which is of our substance, that we strive and have the faith to keep going daily, no matter what the temporary setbacks. Love is the great healer, and equalizer. Henry Drummond called it "the greatest thing in the world" and wrote a famous book under that title.

All natural beauty inspires love within us, and makes us want to distribute it far and wide. It is born in every flower, in every song, in every bit of color, and in every generous phrase composed by man. Every artist is imbued with it—painters, poets, sculptors, musicians and all sorts of artisans. That antique piece of furniture which you may have is saturated with the love of its creator.

Without love nothing in this world would have any permanence. God put beauty into every created thing that we might extract its love through appreciation and by adapting it to our enjoyment and to the enjoyment of those whom we love. The more we learn of love the more we know of life.

THE HARVEST

It is always interesting to see how Christians and non-believers base such different conclusions on the same evidence. To Christians, the world has always been filled with indications of God's presence. In the wonders and beauties of nature and in the richness of human personality, Christians see the results of God's power and love. The non-believer, looking about him at the same world, sees none of these signs.

This fact should not cause alarm or doubt to the Christian. Any teacher knows that some pupils can read a book from cover to cover without having learned or understood a word of it. Unmusical people can sit through a concert with no enjoyment or comprehension of the sounds which are flowing around them. We all know people who seem to listen when others talk but actually hear nothing of what is said because their minds are elsewhere.

But these are not hopeless cases. Pupils can be taught to read intelligently. With guidance, people can learn to appreciate and enjoy music. Everyone who can hear may follow a conversation if he will pay attention. Similarly, there are millions of people who need and want to know of God's presence in the world, if we will show them. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few."

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

Copenhagen, Denmark,

The sun is shining in our bedroom window this Sunday morning so we are to have a pleasant day. We are asked to register this morning and registrations are in Christiansborg Castle, the Parliament Building of Copenhagen.

Bicycles are everywhere as we wait on the corner for a tram to take us to the castle in the heart of the city—whole families go past us on bicycles, off for an outing on this nice day. Here a father pedals along with a two-year-old-son, sitting in a basket on the handlebars facing his parent. Along comes a mother with another sort of contraption, a basket for the youngster, facing forward, and a windshield to protect it from the wind. A bicycle flashes by with a sort of buggy trailer running along on two wheels behind and a healthy infant lying in it, kicking his heels as he watches the world go by.

This street has a special path on it for these cyclists. I didn't notice just what it was until I jump out of the way of a youngster riding his bicycle beside his father. The irate father, annoyed at my clumsiness, and fearful for his offspring, turned and fired some jargon at me. I was thankful I didn't understand. I had a feeling it wasn't pleasant. This bicycle path was fully 12 feet wide and runs along between the pavement and road, and is shaded by a row of trees.

When we reached Christiansborg women were streaming in its open doors. Everything is activity, in side the stately building, booths where you receive any information and signs pointing the way to committee rooms, etc. As I turn from registering I look right into the face of Mrs. Ida Braine, of Hertforshire, England, an English visitor we entertained in Ontario a year ago. Many of you will remember her at the Guelph convention. Miss Amy Kane, of New Zealand, is here, also a former visitor to Ontario, and several of the Institute women of England, Scotland, Norway and Sweden whom we have met in our travels and so one has no need to feel lonely.

We have our lunch in a sidewalk cafe, facing a park, with playing fountain, and resplendent in scarlet geraniums, a very popular flower here. Several air raid shelters are in it. We notice them in many places, even in church yards. Denmark is not dismantling them. We try Danish ham, purposely, knowing they are Canada's competitor in this commodity and have to admit it is good, very good indeed. One of our Norwegian friends is lunching with us and insists that for dessert we try the national Danish dish, "Rodgrod med Flode" which turns out to be thickened fruit juice (raspberry), served with sugar and cream. Our new friend assures us it must always be "red". We enjoy it immensely.

Then I go back to Christiansborg, for the business of the conference starts at 2.30 for he heads of delegations. We form an executive committee and must meet to consider certain matters that will later come before the whole conference. It was an experience I'll never forget—to have the privilege of sitting down at a council table with women from the far corners of the world. The U.S.A. delegates predominate; they have such a great population and so many interested agricultural groups.

Every delegation sits together. Canada has a splendid showing, each Provincial President in her place and Miss Anna Templeton (to whom I have introduced you) with us, speaking for Newfoundland, and a Madame Gagne representing the Cercles des Fermieres, Quebec. Mrs. Russell, chairman of the executive committee, which functions in London and centres there in the interim between our Triennial Conferences, presides. We are introduced to the officers of our organization: Our president, Mrs. Sayre, whom Ontario knows and loves, and vice presidents, Lady Eleanor Cole (South Africa), Mrs. Leslie Craig (Australia), Miss Amy Kane (New Zealand), Mrs. Kennedy (Great Britain, our hostess in Edinburgh), Fru Lieblchook (Sweden, our hostess in Stockholm), Lady Tephaine Lucan (France), Mrs. Carlton Smith (U.S.A.) and Mevrouw Elema Bakker (The Netherlands). Canada is promoting our Dominion leader, Mrs. Morton, of Vegreville, as one of the vice presidents for the coming three years.

Then we are introduced to the six elected members of the executive committee, whom must live close enough to London that they can call every second month to transact the business of the organization. Following this the heads of delegations assembled and introduced themelves, telling name, country and organization which they represented. Several items of business were brought up but I will have to tell you about them later—when they come before the conference. Mrs. Sayre invited the members of this executive committee to afternoon tea in the restsurant at Christiansborg and it gave us all a splendid opportunity to become better acquainted.

A special service was held this Sunday evening at 8.30 in the Cathedral of Copenhagen, a most impressive and beautiful place of worship. Although the hymns were sung in Danish all the tunes were familiar and it was amazing the way we could follow along from copies handed to us. The sermon was delived also in Danish but translation helped here also, and it was delivered by a woman—a vicar of the church. The church, seating hundreds, was packed. A Danish housewife nudged me and told me where to look to see the King who was sitting unobtrusively in the balcony above. The King and Queen came back to the city purposely to be here during the days of our conference.

It is very impressive closing to a very impressive day.

This stove-pipe "body" is, according to the U.S. National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, a new development in the testing of faster-than-sound missiles. The body is carried aloft to a height of seven miles; it plunges downward at a speed faster than sound; then, when near the earth its speed is slowed by the weather vane in the tail, a parachute opens and the "body," its instruments intact, buries its nose into the ground. The instruments record data on the fast flight earthward.—Central Press Canadian.

Can Get Terrific Hangover on Any Molasses Tanker

Montreal, Sept. 26 (CP) —You can get a terrific hangover on the new tanker Athelbeach without even touching a single drink.

Capt. J. H. Flockheart says it's easy to get intoxicated on his ship—or any molasses tanker, for that matter.

In Montreal from Puerto Rico on her maiden voyage, the Athelbeach will stay three days to unload her 1,500,000 gallons of molasses.

It's when she has been unloaded that hangovers can be had cheaply, her skipper said.

When molasses tankers carry cargo they're fine. But when the tanks are emptied and a little water is put in as ballast, the resultant aroma is intoxicating.

To offset this unusual hazard, owners of the 10,000 ton tanker have made her a seafarer's dream with crew accommodations rivalinig first-class quarters on big liners. Crew members are served their meals cafeteria-style and have receation rooms set aside for them.

Eclipse of Moon Blacked Out In Many Areas

(By The Canadian Press)

The earth's shadow blacked out the moon Monday night but many Canadians couldn't see it for clouds and smoke.

In Central British Columbia, Regina, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Montreal, professional and amateur astronomers had a good view of the total eclipse, caused by the earth's intervention between the moon and the sun.

But in Toronto, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria heavy clouds or smoke from Alberta forest fires blocked the show.

The total eclipse began at 10:31 p.m. (EDT) and reached a complete blackout at 11:54 which lasted for 46 minutes.

News of Trenton

Despite Change of Time Little Confusion Seen in Bus Service for District

Trenton—(Special)—The start of fall semesters at Queen's University, Kingston, and the University of Toronto threw a somewhat heavier load on bus services in Eastern Ontario over the weekend, but traffic through Trenton was handled without too much trouble. Mr. Norman L. Rickett, bus terminal manager, said that only one extra bus had to be put on to carry the traffic.

The changeover from Daylight Saving to Standard Time had its effects too, but Mr. Rickett only knew of one man who missed his bus because of the clock moving back an hour. "The phone rang all day Sunday with people asking about the change in time", he said, "but there was very little mixup."

Part of the time troubles locally stems from the fact that Toronto is still on Daylight time. Oshawa and Hamilton also decided to extend fast time for a couple of months, and the net result is some changes in connections. "All Colonial buses," Mr. Rickett said, "will be operating on Standard Time, regardless of Toronto." Rathbun and Armstrong coaches will be scheduled on slow time as well.

Grey Coaches out of Toronto are sticking to the Daylight timetable, but Eastern Greyhound is following the Standard time changcover. All American lines are still operating on the fast time schedule.

The local situation over the weekend, Mr. Rickett repeated, was busy, but not too heavy. All passengers were handled without any mixups, and while service was reported to be running late from some points, the schedule as a whole was being maintained.

Eight Trenton RCAF Station Aircraft Took Part in Search

Trenton—(Special)—Eight aircraft from RCAF Station, Trenton, engaged in the search and rescue efforts in Labrador over the weekend when a United States B-50 crashed near Goose Bay. The request for help in the search came from the United States Air Force, and the RCAF ordered eight planes from Trenton into the search.

The planes sent were Mitchells, Dakotas and Lancasters. In addition, Trenton was made the coordinating centre for the western end of the lost bomber's intended route to Houghton, Michigan on Lake Superior. The search master at Trenton for the exercise was Wing Commander G. F. McKenna. Assisting him were F.L. R. Gilmour and F.O. J. Eldrige.

Eighteen of the planes that were assigned to the search were coordinated on the job by the Trenton Rescue Co-ordination Centre. The eight planes sent from Trenton left Saturday and Sunday and operated out of supply bases at North Bay and Kapuskasing.

Unfavorable weather help up the search until Sunday morning, but by noon Sunday a Lancaster bomber had located the 16 members of the B-50 crew. Search for the lost plane extended out over the middle western United States and the desert southwest, along the plane's flight plan.

Half of the planes which left Trenton were back at their home base by Monday, and the rest are expected to return today.

Two Hit-and-Run Crashes Reported To Town Police

Trenton—(Special)— Saturday was hit-and-run day in Trenton. Two accidents in which "the other driver" failed to stop were reported to police, and in one, witnesses were able to get a good enough look at the offender to give a good description to the police.

Damage in both cases will not exceed a total of $50. Sanford R. Carter, 35, of 30 Heber St., left his car parked in front of his house Saturday at noon, and a hit-and-run artist smashed in the trunk to the tune of $20 or $25. At 5.40 p.m. a car owned by Ernest Bush of Glen Miller and operated by James A. Bush of the same address, was truck by a car that did not stop.

The Bush car was parked on the north side of Dundas St., when a car going west struck the Bush left rear fender and did not stop. Damage again approximated $25 to the fender, which was pushed in by the impact. Witnesses to this accident were able to get a good look at the car, and reported the incident to police.

Other than the two accidents, police circles were very quiet over the weekend.

R.C.A.F. Calling Veterans Back Into Service

Ottawa, Sept. 26 (CP) — The RCAF, not getting enough qualified young men who want to fly, announced Monday it has begun to dip into the reservoir of veteran pilots from the Second World War to fill the gap.

The first group of 27 veterans under 27 years of age reported to the air force's London, Ont, base Monday for eight weeks' indoctrination training, headquarters said in a statement. They were selected from among hundreds of veterans who replied to a letter asking men to accept short-term—five to six year — commissions.

How many of these groups are called back into service depends on one thing, a spokesman said. That is the pace at which younger men, too young to have served in the last war, come forward. Their age limits are 18-25.

The pace so far hasn't been fast enough. It will be examined again six weeks' time and if it still isn't satisfactory another group of veterans will be called back to uniform. This six-week system will be continued indefinitely.

Dancing Teacher Says Miss Canada Was Chosen by 'Pre-Arrangement'

Toronto, Sept. 26 (CP) —Mrs. Bertha Knapp, Detroit dancing teacher, said here Monday that 20-year-old Margaret Bradford of London and Windsor, Ont., was chosen Miss Canada 1950 by "pre-arrangement."

S. Radcliffe Weaver of Hamilton, promoter of the contest at Burlington last Aug. 10, replied that Mrs. Knapp, formerly Miss Bradford's chaperone, "is sore because Miss Bradford will not now have anything to do with her."

Miss Bradford, in Windsor, said she was chosen title winner in a competition with four other girls and "to the best of my knowledge were conducted fairly and I would like to feel the judges did an honorable job."

She added: "I cannot deny that last May Mr. Weaver told me there would be no formal Miss Canada contest. . . in order to keep his franchise going he told me he was anxious that I, in tribute to my progress in singing be named Miss Canada 1950."

Mr. Weaver said that original plans had been for Miss Bradford to go to the American contest at Atlantic City as Miss Canada. Two weeks before any final decision was made, entries were received from four other girls and a contest was held.

Mrs. Knapp said "there would not have been a contest at all if newspapers hadn't put pressure" on Mr. Weaver.

Two of the judges — Don Wright of London, Ont., and Mrs. Evelyn Webster of Hamilton — said the judges made their choice by secret ballot after an hour's deliberation. Mrs. Webster said that "if Miss Bradford was to be Miss Canada by pre-arrangement, we certainly knew nothing about it."

David Knapp, Mrs. Knapp's son and Miss Bradford's fiance, said at Detroit. the arrangements for the selection went on over a period of months.

"Margaret and I postponed our wedding on the understanding from Mr. Weaver that she would be Miss Canada 1950."

Drive 21,000 Miles From Britain in Jeep

Perth, Australia, Sept. 26 — (Reuters) — A former British army captain, 31-year-old Peter Munro Blake, has arrived in Perth after driving a jeep 21,000 miles from Britain.

Blake started out with three other men but is the only one of the party to reach here.

He travelled through France, Spain, Libya, Egypt, Persia, Pakistan, India and Malaya.

The former army captain, who gave up a job as a plant manager in a pipemaking firm for a round-the-world jeep trip, intends to visit Latin America, the United States and Canada before returning to Britain in 1952.

Urges Skull Caps For Soo P.S. Pupils To Control Ringworm

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 26 (CP)—Skull caps should be worn by all public school children whether infected by ringworm or not, Dr. W. E. Hutchinson, secretary of the Sault Ste. Marie Medical Society told the Board of Education in a report made public last night.

Dr. Hutchinson said that a definite enforcement program may be brought into effect in an all-out effort to control the spread of the skin disease here.

A survey of the city's 18 primary schools has not been completed, the board was told, but 306 cases of ringworm infection have been reported. A brief survey Monday revealed 38 more cases.

A name to endure
Nova Scotia

Three hundred and thirty years ago King James I granted the land of Acadia to Sir William Alexander. This Scots colonizer renamed it Nova Scotia (New Scotland) in honour of his native country.

Throughout three centuries of colourful history Nova Scotians have made theirs a name to endure by notable contributions to Canada. From famous ports Nova Scotian fishing fleets have harvested the wealth of the Atlantic. Coal mining, lumbering and rich agricultural communities contribute still further to the resources of this maritime province.

Wisely preparing for the future of her sons and daughters Nova Scotia has, over the years, established educational institutions of great renown. From them continues to come much that will endure in the progress of the Province . . . and Canada.

The Future Belongs to those who Prepare for It

Queen Victoria H.&S. Assoc. Opens Season

A good turnout of members old and new promised a successful season for the Queen Victoria Home and School Association which held its first meeting of the 1950-51 school year last night. Adopting a new policy designed to get members home at an earlier hour than previously, president R. H. Tanner started the meeting at 8 p.m. The business section included the introduction of the newly-appointed conveners and the presentation to the members by Principal E. S. Fairman of all the teachers on the staff of the school. The report of the treasurer, Mr. E. K. Atwell, showed that the Association was in a strong financial position, following its presentation to the school at the end of last season of a tape recorder.

The president announced that a card party was to be held on October 25, and called on volunteers to assist in serving the lunch at the forthcoming regional conference in Kingston next Saturday. The prize for attendance was won by Miss Tucker's class.

Mr. Fairman introduced the speaker of the evening, Board of Education member, Harold Seldon, who spoke in his capacity of chairman of the Special Sites and Accommodation Committee, on the new schools of Belleville and some of the problems which faced the Board in planning them. He showed an architect's impression and plan of the new 12-roomed school which is now under construction on the site adjacent to MacDonald Avenue and answered a number of questions regarding it. The thanks of the members were expressed by Dr. Russell Scott. Members enjoyed a social period during which coffee and cookies made by the members of the executive, were served by Mrs. Van Tassel and her social committee.

The Association broke new ground in its short history last Friday, when, in conformity with other associations in the city, it invited all the new parents to a tea party at the school. Some twenty or more mothers were entertained by the executive and in this manner were introduced to the Home and School movement.

Conveners appointed for the new season are: Mrs. G. A. Bradford (radio), Mr. G. A. Bradford (program), Mrs. J. A. Layton (publications), Mrs. C. Powell (membership), Mrs. J. L. Smith (financial) and Mrs. W. A. Van Tassel (social).

Girl Guide Activities

All companies and pacts of Girl Guides and Brownies are opening and getting ready for a full fall and winter, most of them having had their first meeting last week. There has been a large registration of new and old Guides and Brownies and in some of the companies and packs there is still room for any girl interested in this activity.

At this point there should be a report on two Guides camps at which Belleville Guides and Guiders spent their holidays. The following is the report brought back from the camp at Little Lake by Josephine Fulton, 1st Belleville Guides: "What ten happy days we spent in July at Little Lake, where Guides from Belleville, Trenton, Deseronto, Napanee and other districts had their Pioneer Camp. The camp commandants were Misses Jean Wiggins, Trenton, and Mary Bate, Sussex, England. On arrival Sunday afternoon, the bell tents, borrowed from the army, had been put up by Miss Bate, Jo Anne Luby, Mary Jane Miles, Pat Spear and Miss Wiggins. The kitchen stove and marquee, tables, were put up by the two Trenton Scouters, Mr. B. Jackson and Mr. D. McInnes.

"The staff were as follows:—Swimming instructress, Miss Janie Wilson; quartermaster, Mrs. Langford, Napanee; nurse, Mrs. McGregor, Trenton; handicrafts, Miss A. Johnson, Trenton; and junior leaders, Sandra McClung, Elizabeth Oliver, Geraldine Ferguson, Jo Anne Luby and Sue Brown. Lots of fun was had at campfire, on hikes and many badges were earned. All are looking forward to spending another year at Little Lake with Miss Wiggins as commandant."

Doe Lake Camp

The report of the second camp of the summer is of the Provincial Girl Guide Camp, Doe Lake, which was attended by Capt. Dorothy Stewart of Company 3, and Brown Owl Samuels of Pack 2, who were taking a course with the object of obtaining their camper's license. Patrol Leader Eleanor Clarke, of Company 7, also went to Doe Lake for her holidays, and came back with a number of hard-earned badges.

"Land of the Silver Birch, —Blue lake and rocky shore." this truly is Doe Lake. The lake and the camp are off Highway No. 11 north of Huntsville. The long narrow lake lies sprawled among the wooded hills, framing its changing colors of blue, green or grey by the huge rocks that hug the shores and set off by the silver birch which rise straight, tall and white above the rocks. There are a total of 375 acres in the camp, of these only the portion between the road and the lake have been used. This section is shaped like an hour glass the narrow portion marking the position of the beach.

A typical camp day would begin with the rising whistle at 7.15 (if they were able to sleep outside the tents, the northern sun would waken the campers before this). At 8.00 the Guides rallied around the flagpole for flag-break. Both the Union Jack and the Guide World Flag being flown. Breakfast and duties were followed by badge work until eleven when all land work was dropped and the camp took to the water for swimming, lifesaving or canoeing lesson. Afternoon was passed, after rest hour, in more badge work and swimming. At 8:00 the entire camp gathered around the campfire for an hours fellowship, with new and old song, skits and stories. Nine-thirty meant taps and lights out and if the night was clear a little star gazing on the side.

Special Activities

Special activities included: Indian council ring; over-night hikes; breakfast hikes; as well as the Lord and Lady Supper where one of the Guides came as Lord and Lady Half-and-Half, and store the show. One campfire took the form of movies of the building of Doe Lake camp, the pitching of the first tents for the season, placing the raft and buoys and general camp scenes.

As the camp time passes, friendships were made that would be remembered long after at other Guide camps and possibly renewed again at Doe Lake. And as the trains left the station the campers sang "Blue lake and rocky shore, I will return once more."

Company 3, Girl Guides

Well, we've done it again. Packed up, and moved. This time we are settling down in Pine St. School. Think we'll stay here for a while too, the place seems quite nice. We only had a small registration on Monday at our first meeting of the season, but changing our time to 7.00 p.m. and the meeting place to the school probably accounts for it. However, we have openings for a few interested girls over ten years of age, and the prospects for a highly successful year are very good.

Miss D. Howarth Will Address Women's Canadian Club

Miss Dorothy Howarth, who will address the Women's Canadian Club at their opening Autumn session on Thursday afternoon in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church assembly room, is well qualified to speak on "Reporters Are People," having spent several years in that profession, which, coupled with her keen perception of human interest and her deep fund of humor gives her the "Open Sesame" to her audiences' attention.

Miss Howarth received her initiation in public speaking as teacher of a rural school near Weyburn, Sask., the home of her nativity. She entered newspaper work in the Leader-Post's classified ad department, Regina, later going over to the editorial staff, and becoming, some years later, social editor of the Saskatoon Star.

At the present time, Miss Howarth is on the staff of the Toronto Telegram. A few of her assignments were the Noronic fire, the Winnipeg flood, and the bandit killings at Langton, Ontario.

For her exceptionally fine stories of the Newfoundland Confederation she received two awards totalling $500, one from the Women's Press Club Memorial for the best coverage of a news event of significance for 1949, the other from the Men's Press Club for the best feature stories of 1949, which was open to everyone.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

We are not like the Tibetans who both eat butter and drink gobs of it with their tea. As a matter of fact the average person in the United States now eats 33 per cent less butter than 10 years ago.

About half the difference is made up in the increased use of oleo. What has happened to the balance is something of a mystery. Dr. Leland Spencer of Cornell University thinks it may be due to decreased consumption of bread, biscuits and other grain products which take large quantities of butter.

Another reason is undoubtedly the fact that women use less and less butter for baking. The so-called butter cake requiring 1-2 cup butter for two layers is much easier if you use hydrogenated vegetable shortening instead of butter.

Old fashion creaming, that is, working the hard butter with the back of a spoon until soft and plastic, is unnecessary when you use vegetable shortening which is already creamed when you buy it.

With an electric mixing machine even the old fashion butter cakes becomes relatively easy. Use the flavor of fresh grapes in the frosting with quick frozen concentrated grape juice. The balance of the grape juice concentrate can be made into a grape juice beverage.

Grape Frosted Layer Cake

Preheat oven at 375 degrees. Grease and flour 2 eight inch cake pans.

Put 1-2 cup vegetable shortening, at room temperatue, into a mixing bowl. Gradually add 1 cup sugar while beating with a spoon or electric mixer until light and fluffy. Add 2 unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating 1 minute after each egg.

Measure 2 cups sifted cake flour. Sift the measured flour with 2 1-2 teaspoons double action baking powder and 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Combine 3-4 cup milk with 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Add the dry ingredients and the milk alternately to the shortening mixture, beginning and ending with the dry ingredients. Mix until smooth, about 3 minutes in mixing machine at medium speed.

Pour batter into pans. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until cakes shrink from sides of pan.

In a mixing bowl cream 1-4 cup butter or vegetable shortening until smooth and soft. Add 4 tablespoons frozen concentrated grape juice and 1 unbeaten egg yolk. Gradually add 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, mixing until smooth. Spread grape frosting between layers, on top and sides of cake.

GIVES WIFE ADVICE

"Do you mind a mere male having something to say about washdays? My wife keeps my shirts sparkling white, which is important in my business. She tells me the secret is Reckitt's Blue, which prevents clothes turning yellow. She takes no chances with anything that may damage fabric. Just a swish or two of Reckitt's Blue in the final rinse is all there is to it. The fact that Reckitt's Blue costs only a few pennies a month makes sense to me, too."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"How can I become Popular?"

"My girl friends and I seem to be very unsuccessful with boy friends—about keeping them, that is. They take us out once or twice and then we never hear from them again. We would like to know what we can do to change this situation."

"Could you possibly give me any ideas on how I can make friends? I am a young fellow of 26, and I can't seem to get acquainted with any nice young women my own age."

"I guess I'm the most unhappy girl who ever wrote to you. I'm fifteen years old, and never had a date."

Each of these paragraphs, taken from actual letters that have been written me, states in one form or another the problem that causes more heartaches among young people than any other problems they have to solve.

To boil them all down, what all the writers of these letters are really asking can be put into a single question, short and to the point: How can I become popular?

Now if I had on hand a course of six easy lessons that I could send to anyone asking this question, guaranteeing results, I myself would undoubtedly be the most popular person in the world.

Unforunately, neither I nor anyone else has any absolutely foolproof rules by which popularity can surely be won. There are, however a few things on the subject that I can say with a good deal of certainty.

To begin with, when you're aiming at acquiring "winning ways", you've got to start with an eye, not on the fellows or girls you want to have like you, but on yourself. You've got to make yourself attractive in looks, personality and character if you want others to be attracted to you. You've got to be scrupulously particular about your appearance. You've got to be healthy and full of pep. You've got to be good at dancing, skating, swimming and other sports and games, so that you can be ready to say: "Let's go!" no matter which of them the gang proposes for an afternoon or evening.

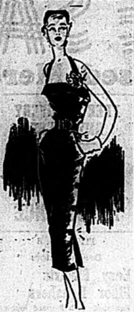
And most of all, you've got to cultivate a happy disposition, an unselfish nature and a genuine interest in other people.

The best thing about all this is that anybody can do it. You don't need to be born with ancestors who came over in the Mayflower, live in a luxurious home or have scads of money to keep yourself in top form physically, learn good grooming, know how to work and play successfully with other people and, in general, be the sort of person they enjoy having around. It doesn't take a thing you haven't got already, which means your own commonsense, your own initiative, your own determination to streamline yourself to the right proportions to be a comfortable fit in any social group.

Incidentally, this subject of how to get dates makes the first story in a new and different picture magazine just published under the title Dear Beatrice Fairfax. It's new, because this is the very first such magazine ever to appear under this name. And it's different because it's the first time real life problems of the kind discussed in this newspaper column of mine have ever been put into picture strip form in just this way.

So, if you want to know how things worked out with the fifteen-year-old who thought she was the unhappiest girl who'd ever written to me because she'd never had a date, you'll find her letter and my answer—and the happy ending! —in this new magazine. You'll find other letter-and-answer picture stories in the magazine, too, some for teenagers, some for adults. Let me know how you like them!

Side Glance At Smartness



Black velvet cocktail dress.

By VERA WINSTON

SLIM, smart and very wearable is this black silk velvet cocktail dress, a model that is marked by interesting side button detail, nice big glittery rhinestone buttons doing the fastening honors. Rhinestones also are sprinkled in the white flower at the side of the halter neckline above the cuffed bodice. The peg-top pockets offer the only break in the slim skirt.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. W.A.

On Thursday afternoon a large number of W. A. ladies met in the Sunday School rooms of Holloway St. United Church for the first meeting of the Fall, with the president, Mrs. A. Campbell, in the chair.

Mrs. Charles Ketcheson and her group had charge of the devotional period. Mrs. Murphy read the Scripture and chose for her theme 'The Kingdom of God.' Following the worship service, the secretaries of all departments gave their reports and many items of business were dealt with.

Mrs. Ralph Warren contributed a delightful solo. Two readings by Mrs. T. A. Tucker were much enjoyed. Mrs. Ketcheson introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Mr. Larman who gave an interesting talk.

Refreshments were served by the group in charge.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Thought for Today

Adaptability is one of the greatest qualities that any human being can possess. Some people are, most fortunately, born with this happy grace of adaptability. And some people, with infinte wisdom and star-lit determination, develop this precious and endearing talent. An adaptable person is a happier person, because he or she has the flexibility to adjust to circumstances and people. . . there is harmony in his or her way of thinking, way of living. And to be adaptable you must have good manners . . . for manners are based on consideration for others. (Think. . . How would you rate your adaptability?)

There must be no ring on "the" finger until wedding ring is put on

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do I leave my engagement ring on my finger until the wedding band is slipped on the finger during the marriage ceremony?

Phyllis

No! There must be no ring on "the" finger when the wedding ring is put on during the ceremony. Before the ceremony you should remove your engagement ring. As soon as you are dressed for the wedding, transfer your engagement ring to your right hand. Then after the ceremony . . . perhaps in the car as you and your bridegroom are driving to the reception . . put your engagement ring on the finger over your wedding ring. And always thereafter put your wedding ring on your finger first, your engagement ring above it. (It is amazing how many women wear their rings incorrectly, the engagement ring put on the finger first, the wedding band above it.)

Groom insists his brother pay expenses he shouldn't pay

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother has asked me to be best man at his wedding soon. He told me that I am to pay for the bride's bouquet, for the maid of honor's flowers and also for the bridal car. I've told him I could not afford to pay for all these expenses, but that I was willing to pay for the maid of honor's bouquet. However, he insists that I have to assume all these responsibilities. What actually are the best man's financial duties?

V. A. S.

None of the wedding expenses your brother is trying to saddle on you are rightly yours. Any man who has an ounce of romance in his heart would surely want to give his bride the flowers she is to carry at their wedding . . . .and any bride who has an ounce of romance in her heart would surely want to have her bridegroom give her the flowers she is to carry at their wedding. (You might remind your brother of this romantic fact. Why not?) Certainly, too, the father of the bride should be unwilling to let anyone take over from him the privilege of providing the car in which he proudly escorts his daughter to her wedding. And the bride's parents, too, are the ones to provide the flowers for every one of the bridal attendants.

And you, the best man? You have only two financial responsibilities; (1) you provide your attire for the wedding, whatever the groom prescribes; and (2) you send the bride-to-be a wedding present.

Not "Shall we try this?" as dance-invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other evening at a dance, a boy asked me to dance by saying, "Shall we try this?" I just didn't like this. . .somehow it made me uncomfortable. Is this correct thing to say?

Betty M.

I wouldn't like this either! It's a graceless form of invitation-to-dance. . .suggests hesitation, uncertainly as to the outcome of the dance; "Wil you dance this?" is the idea. . .not, forthsooth, "Will you try to dance this?"

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

Marmora — The Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church met at the Rectory on Thursday evening for the monthly meeting. Mrs. W. D. Lavender, president, occupied the chair and there was a good attendance of members. The president welcomed members. The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. J. W. Hickey revealed a favorable balance on hand. Members were reminded of the annual Hastings Deanery meeting in Tren'on on September 27th. A good representation from the local W. A. is looked for. Subscriptions were taken for "The Living Message" and the 1950 M.S.C.C. calendar.

Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie read an article on "Fugitive Thoughts" which included a suggestion that women be admitted to the Synod of the church. This was followed by an interesting discussion.

Choosing for his subject, "Kilroy was There," W. J. Cottrell gave a short address on some experiences of his in a slum mission in South Wales.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge after the close of the meeting.

BEAUTY

Heavyweights take notice

Of all the types of women who make up the universal sisterhood, the plumpie is most in need of maintaining correct posture and splendid carriage. If she lets her shoulder fall forward and folds up in the middle, she will look pounds heavier than the amount registered on the bathroom scales. Also, she should realize that the simple habit of standing and sitting tall, with abdominal muscles held in as tight as she can hold them, will keep the waistline from expanding, will often reduce the measurement. It is heavens' truth.

A sloppy carriage and sagging muscles invite fat cells.

Sloppy carriage is a direct invitation for fat cells to come along and form a community. They build their adipose structures on slack, sagging muscles. It is a pity that any woman should have so neglected her health needs as to allow her musculature to soften, lose strength and resiliency. After that has happened she should not bear with it. By restraining the desire for certain good things of the table, and by getting a certain amount of exercise every day, she can starve the fat cells, send them into a state of dissolution and restore the svelte shape.

Unless a woman is afflicted with some glandular disturbance that has caused her to put on weight—and those cases are rare—she can reduce weight without suffering any special deprivations.

The project should begin with a conference with her family physician, who will give her a physical checkup and daily menus that will provide her with necessary food elements and which will not feed the insidious fat cells. She will have to close her eyes to the cream puffs that she loves. Perhaps she will be obliged to take tea and coffee clear. Instead of eating bread spread generously with butter, she will substitute toasted rye.

An excess of weight is a menace to the health. Plump women deplete their energy just lugging themselves around. Physical activities slow up and the body keeps on adding tonnage.

Your reporter has an idea that some women refuse to believe that they have entirely lost their youthful shapes. And there is always the alibi, "If I feel well, what's the difference?"

Only those women who have full-length mirrors ever know exactly how they look to other people. Some of them get a shock when they try on a frock at a shop, standing before a triple mirror so they can make a complete survey. The girlish outline has departed. The cause? Unwise eating habits, not enough exercise and—most of all—incorrect posture that has caused the muscles to lose tone and resiliency.

Come now, Mrs. Plumpie! Up and at 'em. Fight the overcurves.

IN 50 YEARS ALUMINUM HAS GROWN TO BE A LARGE PART OF CANADIAN LIVING
Port Alfred, Que. – unloading bauxite
Port Alfred – loading aluminum

"... add a pinch of bauxite"

It is a recipe for a bigger, richer, more comfortable Canada.

The "pinch" is scores of shiploads of the red earth—bauxite—from British Guiana. A three-thousand-mile ocean journey ends at Port Alfred on the Saguenay River. Then the bauxite goes by rail to the electrical "kitchen" at Arvida a few miles away. There aluminum is refined from the bauxite by using electricity provided by harnessing the same Saguenay.

You see, the Saguenay provides two essentials for making aluminum—deep water for cargo ships and cataracts for power—within a few miles of one another.

Standing on the dock at Port Alfred, you see something unique. You watch freight cars filled with bauxite disappear over a hill and return with shining aluminum. The process of turning bauxite into aluminum has added Port Alfred and the city of Arvida to Canada's living space, and opened new opportunities for thousands of Canadians.

83 MINERS

Had To Seal Off Area

"It was then unanimously resolved that no course remained except to seal off the affected part of the pit. This work is now taking place."

A long moan went up from waiting wives and children of the trapped men, when the decision was announced.

Virtually the whole community of 6,000 persons had been clustered around the pit head since early morning.

Above ground, hundreds of men filled sandbags to be taken below to seal off the fire. Rescue teams rushed here from surrounding mines.

The flames broke out at 4 a.m., apparently in a conveyor belt about 1,000 yards from the bottom of the pit. The mine has an elaborate network of more than 15 miles of such belts—one of them 1,932 yards long—to carry coal from the coal face to the main shaft.

UNITED

cies of the C.C.L. executive will go through during the next four days of the convention.

These will include declarations on foreign policy and other questions, in which the C.C.L. will adopt a stiff anti-communist line.

May Oust Others

In yesterday's opening meeting, President A. R. Mosher told the convention that communist unions should be outlawed from the Congress. This foreshadows a move by the executive — to develop later—giving its power to put out all unions considered to be red-dominated.

It will hit first, it is expected, at the 5,000-member International Union of Fur and Leather Workers. Others to be affected probably will be the British Columbia Shipyard Workers' Federation and the Maritime Marine Workers' Federation.

Yesterday's scrap was fought out between Pat Conroy, National secretary-treasurer of the CCL speaking for the executive, and George Aldridge, UEW president in Leaside, Ont.

Conroy charged that the UEW officers were "crawling on their bellies to Joe Stalin." He alleged every national officer of the union was "a complete vassal and slave of the communist party."

Listening to him in the gallery of Winnipeg's Civic Auditorium was Clarence Jackson, national director of the U.E.W., and some of his other officers.

In presenting their case, Aldridge said the Electrical Workers' Union had been tossed out of the CCL illegally on the ground of delayed payment of its monthly per capita dues. He said that was used "merely as a convenient excuse."

5,000 RED TROOPS

be the war's conclusive offensive —against resistance ranging from bitter to feeble.

Advance 35 Miles

South Koreans thrust 35 miles out of the old beachhead all along the northern wall.

British and American infantrymen gained nearly that same distance along the western perimeter.

And a powerful armored task force raced 70 miles out of the northwest corner in four days, striking within 40 miles of a link-up with the second front Seoul-Inchon beachhead.

The link-up, expected hourly, may seal scores of thousands of red Korean troops in the south.

They will have the task of escaping piecemeal to the north over secondary roads and rugged hills.

Fighting inside Seoul raged throughout Monday night and into Tuesday.

AP correspondents Tom Lambert and Bill Ross said U.S. Marines beat off a massed counter-attack in a fierce all-night battle. The reds hurled their largest attack of the Seoul fighting at the 1st marine regiment about 500 yards south of the governor's palace.

Marines firing bazookas knocked out 11 red tanks and broke the assault.

"We may be able to take just about all of the city today (Tuesday)", a marine general said in the forenoon, "if the reds shot their main bolt last night."

Front intelligence officers and air observers said 2,000 communists fled the city in about 100 vehicles Monday night.

Malik's statement, said White, "smacks of the Stockholm peace petition." He added:

"We have had enough of words. What is needed now is action to give practical effect to these expressions of good intention."

A spokesman for Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the U.N. said the chief U.N. executive has no idea now of trying to arrange a meeting between President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin or of attempting to pick up the ball on the other Malik statement proposals. Lie would not comment on the Malik declarations.

Lie has a 10-point program for peace on the U.N. agenda which covers everything Malik offered and many other angles as well, including periodic meetings of top world diplomats in the Security Council. His program will be debated toward the end of the Assembly sessions.

A Security Council session, at which quick action was expected on Indonesia's application to be the U.N.'s 60th member, was scheduled this afternoon (3 p.m. E.S.T.) in addition to morning and afternoon Assembly meetings (10.45 a.m. and 3 p.m. E.S.T.) for policy debates.

CHEVROLET
the Leader
GIVES YOU MORE AND COSTS YOU LESS

✓ LOW FIRST COST
Hard facts, not fancy phrases, determine any car's value. Study the market carefully, feature by feature and value by value. Then compare the Chevrolet price tag with that of any comparable car. You'll find beyond doubt that this impressive, powerful, six-passenger automobile is the value-leader by far!

CHEVROLET
A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

✓ HIGH REPUTATION
Here's convincing proof that throughout years, Chevrolet has earned a reputation for unwavering excellence! In a recently conducted coast-to-coast survey, an overwhelming majority of motorists named Reputation as the most compelling reason for Chevrolet's popularity.

✓ ECONOMICAL OPERATION
For all the power you want when you want it, with consistently economical fuel consumption, there's no better engine than the highly-improved Chevrolet valve-in-head, with its ultra-efficient new carburetor. And that's not all! Many thousands of enthusiastic owners will testify that Chevrolet needs less maintenance, less servicing than any comparable car.

✓ MODERN STYLING
In every detail, the new Chevrolet is in the very forefront of the style parade. Those flowing, graceful lines radiate quality from every angle. And don't forget — its consistently advanced styling is one reason why Chevrolet is tops for trade-in value.

✓ BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE
Just get behind the wheel of a Chevrolet, and you'll soon know the meaning of brilliant performance. In city traffic, on busy highways, on rough back roads, Chevrolet has the edge on all its rivals. And it stays at the peak of its performance, — mile after mile, month after month.

✓ COMPLETE DEPENDABILITY
Built for Canadian driving requirements, reflecting its superior craftsmanship in every detail, Chevrolet is further backed by a nationwide organization of skilled service and maintenance specialists. No wonder it is renowned for delivering dependable, trouble-free performance under all conditions!

✓ GREATER SAFETY
Built-in safety factors are an integral component of every Chevrolet. The immensely strong box girder steel frame . . . exclusive Certi-Safe hydraulic brakes . . . the ample reserve of power in the valve-in-head engine — all are designed for your protection.

✓ GREATER ROOMINESS
There's hip-room, head-room, leg-room and room to spare for six adult passengers in a Chevrolet. The big doors swing wide to let you in and out without undue stooping or crouching. And the bigger, more capacious trunk has ample room for all your luggage — and your passengers, too!

✓ HIGH TRADE-IN-VALUE
Records prove that used car buyers as well as new car buyers consistently favor Chevrolet over other cars. That's because Chevrolet is first in the low-price field with all the qualities of much higher priced cars, and also because it's renowned for dependable, year-in, year-out performance.

It's best in its class for styling, for performance, for comfort and for operating economies—yet it costs far less than any comparable car. That's why Chevrolet is first in value!

Let the record speak for itself! In a recent impartial survey conducted among thousands of motorists, Chevrolet proved to be in greater popular demand than any other car.

No wonder Canadians buy more Chevrolets than any other make of car. They know that Chevrolet, built and proved in Canada for Canadians, is unequalled at its price for comfort, safety, lasting beauty and all-round dependability.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Don't let anyone tell you that athletic recreation interferes with your success in business.

True you may be "docked" wages during your absence from your place of employment, but this financial loss is more than offset by the dividends in health, sportsmanship, and a better first-hand knowledge of the fellows you will associate with in later years.

Many successful athletes have become successful business men simply because they applied the knowledge gained from hockey cushions, baseball diamonds, football gridirons and cricket pitches to the sterner game of life.

Take the case of Jesse Mason, Belleville-born Picton-domiciled athlete-business man.

Several years ago Jesse was one of the "kids" that learned his three "R's" at King George School in Belleville. Later he received his secondary education at Belleville Collegiate Institute.

Jesse's time was spent in the classroom and on the diamond or open-air rink. He learned a lot from all of them.

He decided on a business career and became associated with the then Canadian Department Stores in Belleville. He remained with this company for four years and was transferred to Picton.

Jesse's amiability and pleasant personality made themselves felt in Picton as it did in his native city. But Picton, it seemed, held a stronger attraction for the up-and-coming young business man.

He joined the staff of the Lipson Stores. His ability soon asserted itself and he was promoted to the position of supervisor of stores of the Lipson chain, a post he held for eighteen years.

Now comes Jesse's "big moment," the climax to years of patient application, hard work, and initiative. He is going "on his own" in partnership in a new venture in Picton called the Mason Department Store.

He strides to the business "plate" this week full of confidence. The bat of experience on his shoulder, Jesse will face the pitchers of business life with the knowledge that no strikes will be called on him. His tested ability, knowledge of the game learned the "hard way" guarantees a "hit" in this first official time "at bat."

Jesse's ability as an athlete is well-known in Picton. Way back in 1933 when the famous "Blue Sox" of that era went to the Intermediate "A" baseball finals against Southhampton's famous "Lefty" Goldsmith, he was a member of that squad. He has acted not only in a playing capacity but an administrative role as well. He was a seasonal athlete, one who played the games as they rolled around in sequence.

A softball pitcher of more than passing ability, Jesse twirled many a victory for Picton mushball teams. On the ice surface he was a skilled performer. When Prince Edward's famous County "Blood and Thunder" League was in evidence in the thirties, Jesse patrolled the ice lanes for such fine squads as Milford, Bloomfield and Picton.

The new Mason Department Store will be an attractive asset to Picton's business rialto. And Jesse, an already established resident, need have no fears for the future. His many friends in the sports, business and other circles of the town and district wish for him the best that life has to offer.

SOFTBALL TONIGHT

Tonight at Exhibition Park the Point Anne squad tangles in its second game with the perky Howe and Hagerman squad with their gunsights trained on the bauble of the Commercial Softball League "A" section championship. Manager Mike Whalen figures the Ox Pointers got a bad game out of their system on Saturday night and tonight's battle will end up with the score reversed. On the other side of the softball ledger, Cy Barriage's pipe-fitting buckaroos feel they have hit their stride and will waltz through to the title in three straight. Al Adams will go to the mound in tonight's joust and facing him will be the Point ace, Pat Maracle. Both pitchers are calibred in topflight circles and tonight's do might well be a thrilling hurling duel.

In the first joust of the double-header Bakelite and Avon Jewellers go to the mat in their "B" section clash and anything can happen in this tilt. Avons have a game lead and can cinch the junior gonfalon with a victory tonight. This game gets under way at 6.30 with the "A" section tilt scheduled for eight o'clock.

Ulysses Curtis Still Leading Big Four Scorers

Toronto, Sept. 26 (CP)—Ulysses Curtis of Toronto Argonauts is still head man in the Big Four Football Union individual scoring race.

The shifty Negro half added 10 points Saturday to bring his total to 40 in five games, six better than Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones, the former Cleveland pro who led the scoring pack for the first three games.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that Billy Bass of the Argos and Virgil Wagner of Montreal Alouettes pulled up into a three-way tie for third place with Bill Larochelle, Canadian-born half of Ottawa Rough Riders. Each has 25 points.

Argos' Nick Volpe, the place-ment-kicking school teacher, ranks sixth with 24 points, all of them on converts. He has missed on only two convert attempts in 26 tries.

Johnny Chorostecki of Sarnia Imperials still tops the Ontario Rugby Football Union with 51 points in three games although his team was not engaged in scheduled play Saturday.

Joe DiMaggio's Timely Hitting Powers New York Yankees Towards Second Straight Flag

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Peerless Joe DiMaggio is the "villain" in New York Yankees' mad dash to their 17th American League pennant.

His booming bat has blazed the Yanks into the commanding 3 1-2 game lead they hold today. And it will be nothing less than a miracle if the booming Bombers don't win their second sraight championship.

Casey Stengel's marauders have six games left to play and need win only four to sew things up. If they win only three the runner-up Detroit Tigers would have to take all of their seven just to tie the Yanks. Three Yankee victories would eliminate the third-place Boston Red Sox.

With a little luck, New York can eliminate the Tigers today. All they have to do is beat Washington twice while St. Louis knocks off Detriot twice.

DiMaggio has been tearing the seams out of the ball since the stretch drive began Sept. 1. The big guy has hit safely in his last 17 games and in 21 of 22.

His terrific .391 slugging pace has lifted his season average over the .300 mark for the first time this year. During the streak DiMaggio has belted 34 hits with half of them going for extra bases—eight doubles and nine home runs.

Carrying the Load

DiMaggio's lusty slugging has inspired Yogi Berra and Johnny Mize to greater deeds. During this same stretch Berra has been banging away at a .312 gait and Mize at .282. The trio as a group is clouting at a .330 clip and has pounded out 22 home runs and batted in 65 runs.

The awesome trio's batting has been carrying the load, as the pitching didn't jell until recently. In the 22 games played since Sept. 1 the Yankee staff turned in only 10 complete games but five of these route-going jobs have occurred in the clutch—the last five games.

Allie Reynolds and Ed Ford, sensational rookie lefthander, did the trick yesterday as they turned back Washington Senators 8-3 and 7-4.

Reynolds scattered nine hits to hang up his 15th victory in the opener and Ford granted only seven in bagging his ninth without a setback in the finale.

DiMag Big Noise

DiMaggio was the big noise in both. He got three of the Yanks' 15 hits in the opener and his three-run double ignited a six-run third-inning rally in the nightcap. Mize followed DiMaggio's base-clearing blast with his 24th home run.

The Red Sox kept their faint hopes alive by sweeping a doubleheader from the hopeless Philadelphia Athletics 8-0 and 3-0 in the only other American League activity.

Mel Parnell blanked the A's on three hits in the opener for his 18th victory. Harry Taylor shut out the A's on two safeties in the finale.

Philadelphia Phillies made hay in the National League pennant drive. They divided a double-header with the Braves in Boston while the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers split a day-night twin bill with New York Giants to remain five games back.

Philadelphia now needs to win only four of its remaining seven games to clinch its first pennant since 1915. If the Phils win only three games the Dodgers would be forced to take all of their nine to tie the whiz kids.

Heintzelman Hot

Ken Heintzelman, making his first start since July 30, pitched the Phils to a 12-4 victory in the opener. He allowed 11 hits while the Phils slugged 21-game winner Warren Spahn and four successors for 18 blows.

The Braves took the nightcap 5-3 to spoil Jim Konstanty's record-tying 70th relief appearance. Max Surkont was the winner.

Konstanty tied Ace Adams of the Giants for most games pitched in a single season. Adams set the mark in 1943 when he worked in 65 games as a reliefer and five as a starter.

Preacher Roe turned in his 19th victory—a 3-2 verdict — for the Dodgers in the day half of their doubleheader with the Giants. Pee Wee Reese smashed a two-run homer in the fourth for the winning blow.

Th Giants scored three runs in the eighth inning to wipe out a 2-1 deficit and win the night encounter 4-3. Sal Maglie gained credit for the victory, his 17th. Carl Erskine was the loser.

Ogdensburg Wins Border League In Six Games

Ottawa, Sept. 26 (CP) —Ogdensburg Maples got the jump on Ottawa Nationals with five runs in the third inning Monday night to take the Border Baseball League pennant for 1950. The final game of the season went 7-6.

Despite chilly weather, 3,000 fans turned out to watch Nationals stage a drive which could have ended in a win at any time. The drive climaxed in a ninth-inning rally that fell a run short of tying the game, and Maples were winners of the best-of-seven series four games to two.

Ogdensburg's Hal Rockburn went the distance for the visitors while Ed Flanagan of Ottawa was chased out in the seventh. Despite the heavy scoring, earned runs were scarce. Maples collected three and Ottawa only one as the cold weather was blamed for five errors for each side.

Billy Goodman Likely to Win Batting Crown

(By The Canadian Press)

Handy-man Billy Goodman, the 24-year-old utility player who didn't break into the Boston Red Sox lineup as a regular until Ted Williams was hurt a couple of months ago, has all but wrapped up the American League batting crown.

Billy, who has played all over the infield and outfield for the Sox, boasts a .355 average with eight games remaining. Detroit Tigers' George Kell, who won the title last year, is 17 points back at .338.

Slugging Stan Musial holds a comfortable lead in the National League, even though his hitting has slipped along with that of his St. Louis Cardinal mates. Down to .345, Musial has an eight point lead over Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson, who is pulling out of a prolonged batting slump himself.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, Western Canada Intermediate hockey champions last year, have decided to accept the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's offer to represent Canada in an extensive European hockey tour and in the world amateur championships in 1951.

The colors of Col. R. S. McLaughlin's Parkwood stable were carried to their last victory when Nephisto breezed home by seven lengths to win the $5,000 added breeders stakes at the closing day of the Woodbine Park fall meeting. Col. McLaughlin has sold his famed stable to E. P. Taylor, Toronto industrialist, and the new owner takes over today.

Roy Heximer of Niagara Falls, Ont., sharp-shooting right winger with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League last season, has signed with Edmonton Flyers.

Owen Sound Crescents drew first blood in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior 'A' finals when they turned back St. Catharines Athletics 9-7 at Owen Sound before 1,800 fans. It was the first game in a best-of-seven series.

Doug Gillespie, Don Campbell, Jack Foote and Arnold Smith each punched two goals past Bill Whittaker who played a great game in the St. Kitts cage. The other tally went to Bill Allum.

Jimmy McMahon and Jimmy McNulty each scored twice for the Athletics with Tony Damico, Leo Teatro and Ken Croft potting the others.

McMahon was forced to leave the game after he scored his second goal with only five seconds left. He was carried from the floor on a stretcher, suffering from what appeared to be a back injury. Earlier, Bill Allum of Owen Sound had been sent to the sidelines with a leg injury.

Fight Experts Still Divided On Outcome

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—With the Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles heavyweight championship fight only a day away, experts are disagreeing violently on the outcome at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Gene Tunney, the only retired, undefeated heavyweight champion to stay retired, was among those on the Louis bandwagon.

"Joe will knock him out in five rounds," said Tunney.

"If Jack Dempsey is not the greatest fighter who ever lived, then Joe Louis is," said Tunney. "There is no reason to think, because Louis is 36, that he has not retained the skill and power that he had when he retired."

Tunney and the others who predict a Louis victory, believe Joe is going to catch Ezzard at least once, and that will be enough.

Charles backers, headed by fight manager Vic Marsillo, wail that Ezzard is the most underrated heavyweight challenger since Tunney first stepped into the ring against Dempsey.

Marsillo believes the 29-year-old Cincinnati Negro will knock Louis out.

"Unless he freezes, and I don't think he will, he's going to stick Joe and get out of there. He'll keep on doing that until Joe's legs give out. Then he'll chop him up," Marsillo says.

The Tunney-Marsillo remarks were echoed up and down bashed beak boulevard. Many boxing writers, here from all parts of the world, are uncertain, especially those who have visited the training camps.

Charles has looked fast and sharp.

Louis has been alternately "terrible" and "very good."

Several Writers Switch

His latest drills have caused several writers to switch from Charles to Louis. Both finished training yesterday.

Bookmakers still have Louis the favorite at 1 to 2. If you like Louis to win by a knockout, it's even money. Six-to-five and pick 'em is the bookies term for this. If you like Charles by a knockout you can get 5 to 1 odds.

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, a notorious conservative, said "if the weather is good, and the forecast (the weatherman says "fair") is for favorable weather, we will have in excess of 30,000 people and $250,000.

The bout, starting at 9 p.m. (EST), will be broadcast and televised by the Columbia Broadcasting System. For the air rights the I.B.C. received $140,000. Of this Louis will get 35 per cent and Charles 20. That's the same way they're splitting the net gate.

Pre-fight statements by the principals:

Louis:

I'm in good shape...and I hope to win by a knockout...my legs are strong and I think I'm punching just as fast and as hard as ever...

I have trained to go 15 rounds ...I don't think Charles will run away like Jersey Joe Walcott..."

Charles:

"I am confident that I will win and gain world-wide recognition as champion. I am determined to win...I wouldn't be fighting Joe Louis if I didn't think I could win and I know I can win..."

Art Wright's Hurling, Hitting Pace Batawa's Second Victory Over the Bowmanville Roses

Youthful Art Wright, Batawa Shoeman righthander won the third battle of the "War of the Roses" practically singlehanded at Exhibition Grounds last night. Well, almost.

The Shoemen, behind the masterful hurling of Wright, unbuttoned their batting eyes and pounded four Bowmanville Roses hurlers for 16 hits to win the third game of the series 15-2 to take a stranglehold on the series.

The fourth official game of this intermediate "A" playdown round will be played in Bowmanville on Wednesday afternoon and the next and deciding game, if necessary back here next Saturday night.

Young Mr. Wright had the Roses handcuffed, hogtied and grounded practically all the way last night. Backed up by superlative work afield he held the Bowmanville sluggers to one lone hit over eight innings, eased up in the ninth and allowed two clouts for the Roses only two runs of the game.

Whiffed Nine

Wright struck out nine and walked five, but he proved a potent offensive factor smashing out four hits, two of them triples. He drew a walk for his other appearance at the plate rounding out a perfect night at the plate.

It was anybody's ballgame up till the seventh when the Batawa bludgeons exploded a single barrel for four hits and five runs. They jerked the trigger on the other barrel in the eighth and by the time twelve men had batted, and six hits whammed into the faraway spaces, eight runs had crossed the plate and the game ended in a rout.

Up to this point Wright and Jimmy Buttonshaw of the Roses had duelled in a neat pitching hook-up with Wright having the edge with two runs and one hit. Shoemen had taken six clouts off the Bowmanville hurler this far.

Exit Buttonshaw

The Shoemen unlimbered their heavy artillery in the stretch innings. A pair of walks and hits by Carson Watson and Bridgman sent Buttonshaw to the showers. Enter Dean Gavis and he yielded up a hit and the fourth run of the innings.

Three walks and a hit spelled the end of Mr. Gavis, and Furey was rushed from the shortstop position to take over the mound job. He lasted for one third of an inning yielding three hits and three runs and then the spectators saw the unusual sight of the battery exchanging positions. Hooper, Roses catcher turned over his gear to Furey and went to the mound. He was greeted with a triple and a single but managed to retire the side with eight runs chalked on the credit side for the Shoemen.

The Roses got their second hit of the game in the ninth when Yourth slashed a line drive off Red Carsons glove. The Roses third baseman reached third on outs and raced home with the first run when Aquino heaved the ball to left field in an effort to nail the runner at third. Cox drew a walk and Gallagher slashed the third Bowmanville hit to right to score Cox. Batten whiffed to end the game.

Wright Leads Attack

Wright led the Bata attack with two triples and two singles. Mac Watson slashed out a triple and a pair of singles; Spencer helped himself to three; Mac Carson doubled and singled and Semark got a pair. Aquino and Bridgman made up the remaining duo of clouts.

Yourth, Hooper and Gallagher were the only Roses to connect safely with Wright's shoots.

Handsome Timmy Geohagen who got the wrong end of the decision last week when he and team-mate Whipper Billy Watson were decisioned by the ferocious duo of Fred Atkins and Leering Lee Henning, has other ideas come Friday when the four appear in a rematch. Watson and Geohagen, fast, clean and scientific, had their hands full what with Referee Bert Maxwell leaning toward the opposition but this time "Bunny" Dunlop will look after matters. Atkins and Henning are confident they can whip the Whip and the Irisher no matter who the third man is. So look out for further fireworks come Friday. Hi Lee tackles Ray Gunkel in the semi-final with Toar Morgan clashing with Jim Goon Henry in the opener.

Spot Hitting Of Knickerbocker Aids Baltimore

(By The Associated Press)

The spot hitting of Austin Knickerbocker came through again for Baltimore Orioles last night.

Knickerbocker, a right-handed hitting utility outfielder, clouted a two-run homer in the ninth-inning to give the Orioles a 6-5 victory over Rochester, squaring the final International League playoff series at 2-2.

It was Knickerbocker's second home run in he playoffs against Rochester.

Home runs stole the spotlight from a mound duel between the League's two all-star pitchers. Butch Woyt hit a grand-slammer in the third for Baltimore to erase a Red Wing 3-0 lead. Del Wilber slammed a two-run homer in the seventh to put Rochester back on top, 5-4. Then came Knickerbocker's game-deciding blow in the ninth.

The winning pitcher was lefty Bill Kennedy. The loser was Tom Poholsky, righthander who closed the season with an 18-6 record. Both allowed eight hits.

The series resumes tonight (8.15 p.m. EST) in Baltimore and tomorrow the scene shifts back to Rochester for the sixth, and, if necessary, seventh games.

The winner will meet the American Association victor, either Columbus or Indianapolis, in the Little World Series.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Joe Dimaggio, Yanks—collected five hits and drove home four runs to lead New York to 8-3 and 7-4 doubleheader victory over Washington.

Pitching—Harry Taylor, Red Sox—pitched Boston to 3-0, two-hit victory over Philadelphia in his American League starting debut.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 26. (AP)—Aaron Robinson's failure to tag Bob Lemon at the home plate Sunday likely will go down as one of the celebrated all-time "skulls". . .Baseball fans like to remember such things. Aaron will be in illustrious company. . .In 1904, Jack Chesbro, one of the most famous of all pitchers, lost a pennant for the old Highlanders with a wild pitch in the ninth inning on the last day. . .Four years later a giant rookie named Fred Merkle failed to touch second base on a certain well-remembered play, precipitating a pennant playoff. He never has been able to live it down. . .Fred Snodgrass' "$30,000 muff" in the 10th inning of the deciding game is remembered as giving the Red Sox the 1912 World Series, although John McGraw maintained it was a worse boner than Merkle and Chief Meyers let Tris Speaker's easy foul drop. . .and as recently as 1941, another fine catcher, Mickey Owen, failed to hold one of Hugh Casey's curves and that cost the Dodgers a game and eventually the World Series.

One Minute Sports Page

The close American League race is giving the Phillies a headache, too. Preparing their World Series Souvenir program, they've had to compile and print data on all three contenders so the right one can be stuck in at the last moment. . .Maybe they'd better do something about assuring the Phils of a place in the book, too. .

With the National Hockey League's 1950-51 curtain raiser little more than two weeks away, training camps are in full swing all around the five-team loop.

Boston Bruins, traditional late-starters, opened camp last weekend at Hershey, Pa., while New York Rangers swung into action Sept. 23 at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Among the first to open camps were Toronto Maple Leafs at St. Catharines, Ont., Chicago Black Hawks at North Bay, Ont., and the world champion Detroit Red Wings at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Player-management difficulties have been confined largely to the Canadian teams, with the spot light focussed on two of the game's most colorful preformers.

The Leafs face the prospect of starting out without their rugged right-winger, Bill Ezinicki who is still playing golf in Winnipeg. Montreal Canadiens have Maurice (Rocket) Richard in camp but unsigned. He wants more money but hasn't said publicly how much.

Ezinicki wired Leafs officials shortly after their camp opened he was feeling below par, was underweight and wanted to rest up before reporting.

The Leafs management, ostensibly indifferent to Wild Bill's actions, carried on as if they didn't care whether or not he showed up. Yesterday, Howie Meeker was moved into the right—wing spot formerly patrolled by Ezinicki along with Cal Gardner and Harry Watson.

Richard, rated one of the few $140,000 players in the game, scored three goals in a practice session but wasn't among the eight players who signed their contracts.

Montreal coach Dick Irvin started to pare his roster, cutting adrift seven hopefuls. That left only three amateur rookies in the running for berths, Paul Masnick of Regina, Jean Beliveau of Quebec and Cliff Malone of Montreal Royals.

There also was some paring in the Leaf camp. George Armstrong considered a bright prospect, was sent to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League a Leaf farm.

Centre Max Bentley joined the Leafs yesterday and appeared in good trim, scoring a goal in his first practice session. He had obtained permission to stay away until his wheat was harvested at Delisle, Sask.

AT THE CAPITOL — Joel McCrea and lovely Arlene Dahl provide the romantic interest in MGM's epic-proportioned Technicolor outdoor drama, "The Outriders," which comes to the Capitol Theatre Monday for its first Belleville showing. Barry Sullivan, Claude Jarman, Jr., James Whitmore and Ramon Novarro are other principals in the new production which was filmed on location in the Utah mountains.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When partnered with someone like Zolce you seldom have very much choice. You must play at the trump that was named by the chump. You can tell by the tone of his voice.

A hitched pair had been spatting when they got the deal shown here:

♥A K Q J
♦A K Q J 10
♣A K

♥9 8 5 2
♣Q J 9 8 7 5 2

EAST
♠J 9 7 5
♥10 7 3
♦9 8 5 3

SOUTH
♠A K Q 10 8 6

She opened the north hand with a bid of two diamonds. There is no doubt that this was the correct bid. Such an opening is a sound signal that insists the pair should not stop short of a game.

His first response was a sharp reply of two spades. Such is a bid that admits having at least one sure trick. Not the sharp reply. The fact that his first response was not two no-trump.

She modestly bid three hearts when it was her time to speak again. This was correct. With two other biddable suits of the same length, first bid the higher rank.

He came back with a bid of three spades, with a decided accent on spades. Not only did he accent spades clearly. There was a rising inflection with the word spades that left no doubt.

She then bid four diamonds and he shouted four spades, with a period in his voice after spades. It was evident to her that they had a slam. But she had not lived with him all these years for nothing. She knew she had better let him play it in spades or else.

So she bid six spades. He looked at her for a moment. Then he growled: "Okay, Toots. You will not let well enough alone. You asked for it. So I will bid seven spades." And he did.

West led club queen which dummy king won. With all the other suits solid he hoped to find opponent trumps split. So, he took two trump rounds with ace and king.

West showed out of trumps on the second round. So it looks as if east has a trump trick. But declarer took all 13 tricks. How?

Hollywood, Sept. 25—(AP)—Gloria Grahame is mad.

The blonde actress believes her career has taken a kicking around from her studio, RKO. Her contract will be ended after she finishes her current picture, "Macao." Usually when a player's contract is over, the announcement says "the parting was amicable." This is not true in Gloria's case.

The gal, who drew an academy nomination for "Crossfire" and just co-starred with Humphrey Bogart, couldn't understand it.

"I guess they offered me the part hoping I would take a suspension," she said. "But I fooled them. I took the role."

Gloria said she hadn't worked at the studio for a year and a half.

The actress added she didn't know what to make of her "Macao" role. The picture stars Jane Russell and Robert Mitchum.

"On the first day of rushes I looked at myself on the screen and I though I looked good." But on the next day I looked awful. They had taken all my diffusion away." (Diffusion is soft lighting that makes the glamor girls glamorous.)

Little Benny's Note Book

I was down to the last one of [illegible]ag of carmels, and I was sit[illegible] on my frunt steps chewing it slow and wishing it was the ferst one insteád of the last so I could afford to chew it fast, and Reddy Merfy came up saying, What's you eating? Give me a hunk.

This is the last one, I said, and Reddy said, Aw, you're another, you got a whole pocket full.

The heck I have, if you dont beleeve me you can sertch me, I said.

Which he did, patting me on the outside of my pockits and not feeling anything, and he said, Aw, I know what you did, you went and hurry up stuck the last one in your mouth as soon as you seen me coming, and that proves you're a miser and a titewad.

And he pulled my cap down over my eyes and kept on going, and I thawt, Darn that darn guy. It's a good thing for him he didn't stay here, or I'd of soon told him who was a titewad or not, I thawt.

And I kept on chewing the carmel on account of it still being partly left, and Shorty Judge came up, saying, Hay, what's you eating? I bet it's candy, he said.

Sure it is, but this is the last one, I said, and Shorty said, I bet it's not.

Hay, who you calling a darn liar? I said, and Shorty said, Nobody.

So now you're calling me nobody, heh? I said, and he said, I'm not calling anybody anything. All I said was, I said I bet it wasn't the last one. A guy can bet, cant he? he said.

Not around me he cant, and you better go ahead and quick opologize unless you want to fite, I said, and Shorty said, Aw, okay, if you're getting so touchy I apologize.

Making me feel partly better and proving nobody has to take insults from everybody.

Practical Work Education Basis at Ryerson Tech

Toronto (CP) —One of the fastest-growing schools in Canada is the Ryerson Institute of Technology.

Only started in 1948, the Institute has about 3,000 students enrolled this year. This, the largest poly-technical school in Canada has students from every province and the Bahamas. Inquiries have been made from as far away as Pakistan and West Africa.

Backbone of the school is the series of two-year diploma courses on a junior college level. There are some 600 first-year students enrolled in the 23 courses. These include such subjects as journalism, radio broadcasting, home economics, furniture and interior design, food administration and jewellery design.

In addition to these, there are more than 80 night courses offered on the curriculum.

The institute was started two years ago by the Ontario Department of Education. It was designed to train personnel for Canada's business and industry from the ranks of high school graduates.

Historic Ryerson Hall the main building of the institute, was built a century ago and has served Ontario education in several capacities. It was first a normal school for the training of teachers, then an art museum, a private school and a rehabilitation school for Second World War veterans. Today it is unique in providing technical schooling on a junior college level.

Every course is modelled as closely as possible to actual working conditions in industry, with a wealth of equipment on hand. For example, the journalism classes publish the school's paper on the school's presses. Students in the home economics course plan, cook and serve the lunches in the school's cafeteria.

This practical note is carried on in the close co-operation between the education department and business organizations.

For each of the diploma courses, there is an advisory committee composed of key men in industry on courses of study and assist in the placing of graduates. When Ryerson held its first graduation last May, more than 90 percent of the students already had found positions in their chosen fields.

Principal H. H. Kerr describes the growth of the institute as "phenomenal."

"It has proven to us beyond a shadow of a doubt," he said, "that the school is filling a very definite need in Canadian education."

Meaford Ousts Merchants In Quarter Finals

Had Frankford Merchants Intermediate C Softball entry taken skates to Meaford Saturday nig! instead of gloves and bats, they would have been better equipped for the weather. Between rainstorms, hail and snow, they battled in a hopeless cause against the hard-hitting Meaford nine, thus being eliminated from further competition in the O.A. S.A. The score was 18-6.

The diamond became a sea of mud before the game even got under way.

Frankford bounced right into the scoring in the initial frame on singles by Rankin and Wickson, a Meaford error (he lost the ball in the mire) and two infield outs, for two runs. From then on, Frankford couldn't solve Freeman at all until they rallied for four runs in the top of the ninth.

Meaford scored three runs in the second on four walks and a home run by Chapman. Although Chapman's ball was well hit, it should have gone for no more than a double, as the ball landed in a pile of packing cases in right field. Had Appleby not been right near it when the ball landed, he probably would still be looking for it.

They added four more in the third on four walks, singles by Davies, Douglas and Miller.

Relieves Boyle

Garnie Rosenplot took over the pitching duties from Boyle, and succeeded in holding Meaford scoreless for one inning. In the sixth, the homesters got to Garnie for two runs on two walks and a bunt single. Meaford added two more in the sixth on doubles by Richardson, Freeman, a single by Davies and a walk. A lone run came across in the seventh on a walk and a passed ball.

Davies reached first on an infield error in the eighth, and scored ahead of Wheeler's home run to deep centre. Miller tripled, Smith walked, and Chapman, Richardson and Freeman all connected for doubles. In the midst of the melee, Rosenplot was yanked, and Boyle came in from the outfield where he had gone in the fourth inning. When the smoke had cleared, Meaford had another six runs to add to their total.

Frankford staged a desperate ninth-inning rally, collecting four runs on walks to H. Rankin, pinch hitting for Consaul, Darke, a single by W. Rankin and a triple by Gilmour.

Despite the wintry weather, the Meaford team and fans were cordial in their reception of the Frankfordites, and good sports all around. The only note of hostility shown was on the part of the O.A.S.A. convener who was not even on hand at the start of the game.

Waterloo-Sox Take Fine Hours To Decide Game

Waterloo, Ont., Sept. 26 (CP)—Waterloo Tigers moved within a game of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League championship early today in a tussle that threatened to last well into the hockey season.

Four hours and 57 minutes after the first pitch, shortstop Wes Lillie's single in the bottom of the 21st inning gave the Tigers a 7-6 victory over Brantford Red Sox in a game that started out as a slugging bee and ended as an airtight pitchers' battle.

With three straight victories under their belts, the Tigers face the Red Sox again in Brantford tomorrow night in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series. If the Sox win that one—and if anyone on either club still has the strength to lift a bat—they'll go at it again in Waterloo Thursday.

Waterloo spotted Brantford five runs then tied up the score in the fifth. Brantford scored a run in the top of the 10th, but Tigers tied it up again and relief hurlers Alf Gavey and Al Dumouchelle waged a scoreless duel until the last of the 21st, when Lillie singled home the winning run with nobody out.

Three Waterloo players were ejected from the game, Red Kane, Jim Muldoon and manager Alex Kvasnak. Kane struck base umpire Al Baird with an uppercut in the seventh, Muldoon and Kvasnak were ejected by the first base umpire in the 11th frame.

MAINTAIN STEADY EMPLOYMENT AND PEAK PRODUCTION

Power demands continue to soar. All consumers are urgently requested to avoid wasting electricity—housewives, factory workers, office workers, merchants, farmers—please do your utmost to save electricity at all hours of the day and night.

The co-operation of all consumers is needed. Turn switches OFF when not required. Save electricity whenever and wherever possible.

COULD INCREASE PENSION

Dr. Phillips told the Toronto Women's Progressive Conservative Association: "I think it is a sin and a shame that our old-age pensioners are getting only $40 a month."

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"No," Dustin said slowly. "Not a thing. I don't . . it isn't like Ceil to keep anything from me."

"Not even under these conditions?" Shayne asked swiftly, gesturing toward Dustin's bandaged hand and head. "She knew you were in no shape to take any action, and she wouldn't want to worry you. Don't you suppose she thought it best to leave you here safely asleep while she went out on her own?"

"I see. I . . .don't know. She might do that. She was always trying to mother me. . . keep me out of trouble. But what clue did she have? There couldn't have been anything. . ." He paused and made a helpless gesture with his left hand.

"Shayne has advanced one possible theory, but I have another," said Painter pompously. "One which I believe fits the known facts better. Was your wife a wealthy woman, Mr. Dustin?"

"No. She was teaching school when I met her. We were married a few days after we met. But I had plenty. She always had everything she wanted."

"Are you sure of that Dustin?" Painter thrust his hands in his pockets and rocked back and forth on his heels, assuming the indulgent air and tone of a professor about to explain the facts of life to a group of adolescents:

"There are many women married to wealthy husbands who yearn for money of their own. Don't misunderstand me. You may have been very lenient with her even extravagant. I have no doubt that Mrs. Dustin lived in luxury. But did she have her own bank account? Did she have economic freedom?"

"I never refused her money," Dustin said angrily. "She had only to ask me when she wanted anything."

"That's just the point. She had to ask you, and believe me, Mr. Dustin, we run into situations identical with this quite often. Wives who have to ask for every dollar they have to have. Wives who. . ."

"Hey," Dustin broke in angrily "What are you trying to say?"

"Just this. You bought your wife a ruby bracelet for one hundred and eighty thousand dollars. She knew it was insured," Painter continued profoundly, "for the full amount. Do you realize how a woman might feel. . . wearing a fortune in jewellery and yet without a dollar she can call her own?"

"I think" said Dustin thickly, "I begin to see what you're driving at. If it's what I think, I don't like it. If I were able to get off this bed, I'd. . ." His left hand doubled into a white-knuckled fist.

"Don't get upset, Mr. Dustin." Painter took a backward step. "I'm forced to speak plainly. Remember, the bracelet was stolen the very first time it was worn. The job had every appearance of being carefully planned. Yet you and your wife were the only ones who knew its value and that she planned to wear it tonight."

"The jeweller knew it. . .Voorland. And Shayne knew it," Dustin said, turning his head on the pillow to look at Shayne. "Your pipsqueak of a Dick Tracy here pointed that out earlier this evening. He was accusing you of the job. Now he's got around to accusing Ceil. Why not me?" He turned back to Painter.

"Because the theft wouldn't benefit you," Painter said indignantly. "Have you forgotton that your wife deliberately drugged you and slipped out to keep an appointment with a man whom she thought was Mike Shayne. . . after telephoning him she wanted to see him about the bracelet?"

"Wait a minute," Shayne cautioned. "We don't know what Mrs. Dustin said over the phone to Mr. X. We don't know but what she wanted to see me about something else entirely."

"Every bit of this is a pack of nonsense," said Mark Dustin wearily. "I would trust Ceil with every dime I've got. . any time and anywhere."

"We've had plenty of cases where wealthy men trusted their wives and. . ." Painter remarked.

Dustin let out a snarl of rage and painfully lifted himself to a sitting position, turned about, and slowly swung his legs from the bed. "I won't lie here and listen to such insults. None of this is helping find Celia. She may be in danger. We're wasting time here when we should be out searching for her."

"Take it easy," Shayne moved over, caught up his legs and put them back on the bed, then went to the door and called the doctor. He said, "Painter has done his worst, and your patient still survives. He brushed past the doctor and went across the room to the telephone, looked up a number, called it, and stood with the receiver to his ear while Painter and Jessup filed out of the sick room.

Painter came over and stood behind him and asked fretfully, "who are you calling now?"

"Walter Voorland. But he does not answer." He cradled the receiver and looked up another number, called it and waited until the phone rang three times before there was a click and Randolph's voice said, "Yes?"

Shayne hung up without answering. He said grimly, "if I were chief of detectives on Miami Beach I'd get every man on my force out to search for Mrs. Dustin."

"Whom did you call that last time," Painter demanded.

"Randolph, the insurance agent."

"Voorland and Randolph," Painter murmured. "What can they know about this?"

"That's what I'd like to find out." Shayne picked up his hat and started toward the door.

"Where are you going?" snapped Painter.

Shayne said "out," and kept on going.

Earl Randolph lived in a modern, four-storey apartment building in Miami's northeast section. There was a small foyer with brass mailboxes indicating the names and apartment numbers of the occupants. Randolph's name was over 3-D. Shayne pushed the 4-A button and waited. When the electric latch on the inside door clicked, he entered, went down a narrow hallway to the self-service elevator and went up to the third floor.

He found apartment 3-D and pressed the button. Randolph opened the door. He wore a white shirt open at the neck, the sleeves rolled up above his elbows. He blinked at Shayne, and an expression of complete surprise came over his round face.

"Mike. . . I didn't expect you."

"I've been visiting a couple here in the building," he lied. "Thought I'd drop in to talk over the Dustin case. Mind if I come in?"

"Of course not." Randolph quickly regained his poise and stepped back. The detective removed his hat and hung it on a hatrack beside Randolph's wide-brimmed Panama.

The living room was filled with smoke, and a card table drawn up in front of the day bed was littered with papers and newspaper clippings from two cardboard files. The ashtray was piled high with cigarette butts, and an almost empty tall glass stood beside it.

Randolph said apolgetically. "I'm afraid it's rather close in here. Got to working and forgot to open a window." He went across to open one, then asked, "Have a drink?"

"Not now. I had to much earlier this evening." He ruefully indicated the bruise on his jaw. "Cracked up my car and got this clip on the jaw." He moved to a deep chair and sank into it. "What have you been doing all evening?"

"Working." Randolph sat down behind the littered desk. "I came straight home from the Sunlux and began going through my old files. I. . ." He paused rubbing a blunt forefinger thoughtfully across his mustache. "I think I may have turned up something interesting, Mike."

Shayne said carelessly, "Tim Rourke said he'd been trying to get you all evening, but you didn't answer the phone."

"My phone has been acting up. Just a little while ago it rang and no one answered when I took up the receiver."

Shayne nodded and said "Maybe that's the reason Tim couldn't get you. Do you mean you've turned up something on the ruby bracelet?"

"I don't know. There could be some connection. At least, there are some interesting angles." The insurance agent leaned back and carefully placed the tips of thick fingers together. "About star rubies in general. . .and Walter Voorland's connection with them in particular," he ended quietly.

"I'd like to hear the angles."

"Are you working on it Mike?"

"Not officially. But Painter accused me of planning the snatch. You heard what Dustin said in the hotel. Ive a hunch I may be called in by him. I had another talk with him about half an hour ago."

Sweat glistened on Randolph's round face. He separated his fingertips and took out a handkerchief to wipe it away. "How is he feeling? Any serious complications?"

"They fixed him up at the hospital." Shayne lit a cigarette and broke the matchstick between his fingers and frowned at it. "Mrs. Dustin is a mighty pretty woman Do you think either of them has a tie in with the heist?"

"What makes you say that?" Randolph sounded surprised, almost startled.

Shayne dropped the broken matchstick in the ashtray and spread out his hands. "Painter and you agreed that the job must have been carefully planned. Someone must have tipped off the gang."

"I don't think I said that. . ." Randolph protested. "I said it had all the earmarks of a professional job. But it could easily have been as you suggested. If they had a lookout in the Sunlux lobby and he spotted Mrs. Dustin going out wearing the bracelet. . ." Again he let his words trail off speculatively.

"What angles have you dug up?"

Earl Randolph seemed eager to drop the other subject. He leaned forward and rustled the papers on the table. "A couple of other cases involving expensive star rubies, Mike. Both of them sold by Voorland and insured for large sums. Both stolen in holdups somewhat similar to the one tonight," and never recovered. The policies were paid in full in both cases."

"I thought you and Voorland both stated tonight that the star ruby cannot be cut up and resold. . .and because of that fact, we would almost surley have an offer from the gang."

"Theoretically that's true, Mike That's why I began to check my old records as soon as I came back from the hotel. I discovered a couple of very queer coincidences. Listen to this:

"October 12, 1943," he continued, reading from a typewritten sheet. "Policy issued to James T. King at the Tropical Towers Apartment, Miami, Florida for $80,000 on a perfect eight-and-one half carat star ruby ring. Purchased from Voorland for one hundred grand. It was stolen less than a week after the policy was issued. Never recovered. We paid the policy in full in December."

"Wasn't that a lot of money for one ruby that size?"

"Not in 1943. I appraised the stone mysel and recommended the policy."

"Anything fishy about the loss?"

Howe Announces Extension of Export Controls

Will Block Further Flow Of Goods to Red Areas

Ottawa, Sept. 27—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe today announced an extension on export controls, particularly over metals which could be used in war production, in a move to further block the possible flow of Canadian goods to countries behind the iron curtain.

A total of 177 listings are included in the new schedules compared with the previous total of 91 for which export permits are needed before the goods can leave Canada for any destination.

Major additions to the list of controlled exports include nylon, non-ferrous metals such as aluminum, brass and bronze, copper, lead, nickel and zinc; and benzine, glycerine and soda ash.

Six Countries Added

Six countries have been added to the system of "area control" including Afghanistan, the Ukraine, Mongolia, Tibet, Manchuria and Sinkiang.

The extension of export control will become effective immediately and is taken in co-operation with the United States. Listings applicable to the United States are reduced from 91 to 69 to facilitate the new co-operative defence policy between the two countries.

The new Canadian schedules are integrated with those of the United States and the effect will be to permit the two countries to have greater freedom in supplying each other's requirements and at the same time prevent Canada from being used as a "back door" to circumvent U.S. export controls.

Rye and rye products are removed entirely from export control, while the granting of permits for wheat, oats, barley and their products will be administered solely by the wheat board in place of the dual control system administered jointly with the department of trade and commerce.

Crown Witness Closely Examined By Former O.P.P.

Ottawa, Sept. 27. (CP)—Trial of John Ernest Keays, former Ontario Provincial Police constable, opened in city court Tuesday with Keays, not dressed in a tweed jacket but in the shirt, tie and trousers of a constable.

Keays is charged with illegally wearing a police officer's uniform and with being in possession of an automatic weapon capable of being concealed. The charges were laid after he appeared in county court two weeks ago, produced a gun, and demanded his arrest.

The case was adjourned until today after lengthy cross-examination of crown witnesses by Keays, who was dismissed from the O.P.P. last year after a royal commission inquiry at Belleville into his charges of maladministration in the force.

Keays took over cross-examination after assistant crown attorney Rupert Broadfoot had presented his witnesses. He cross-examined at some length a former colleague on the O.P.P., Cpl. George Nault, who arrested Keays in the court outburst.

It was not immediately clear what Keays was attempting to prove, however. Magistrate Glenn Strike interrupted proceedings several times to say that the points being made seemed obscure.

"The man has talent and he uses it well," Mr. Broadfoot commented after court had recessed for the day, "but I still fail to see what he's driving at."

The former constable maintains that he has never received a formal notice of dismissal from the force. However, he readily admitted in court that he did receive a registered letter from a superior.

Deputy Commissioner Thomas Doyle of the O.P.P. testified Keays had been given "leave of absence" as of the royal commission inquiry.

Walter S. Gifford U.S. Ambassador To Great Britain

Washington, Sept. 27—(CP)—The White House announced today President Truman's selection of Walter S. Gifford as Ambassador to London.

Gifford, former chairman of the Board of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and a republican, will succeed Lewis W. Douglas in the post.

The change will be made effective No. 1 after Douglas returns to London to conclude his work there.

MUST TAKE STEP

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP)—David Croll, Liberal member of parliament for Toronto Spadina said last night the Canadian government should recognize communist China. "Like Britain, we in North America must take this step of reconciliation immediately, otherwise we are merely tossing China away," he told members of the Toronto Junior Board of Trade.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 27. (CP)—Synopsis: This morning there was rain over the Mississippi Valley from Lake Michigan southward to the Gulf of Mexico. The forerunning cloud layer is moving northeastward and will cover most of the province by tonight. This cloud will prevent temperatures from rising much above the 70 mark on Thursday. Occasional rain will begin in the western sections this evening and spread to the eastern portions by Thursday morning.

SPECIAL BRIGADE MAY SEE EUROPE INSTEAD OF KOREA

Korean Successes May Have Altered Plans

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 27. (CP)—The triumphant march of American troops in Korea has raised the possibility that Canada's special force may never see action there and may go instead to Western Europe.

It is considered not unlikely in official quarters here that this possibility has come under discussion in New York among the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Nations, or that it will come under discussion at next month's meeting of the pact's defence ministers. The ministers will work out details of policies laid down at New York.

There is no indication, however, that the Canadian Cabinet has yet given serious consideration to the question because it is currently busy with the constitutional conference in Quebec.

Another reason is that the Korean situation has far from clarified. Reports that the Americans are telling other powers, probably including Canada, that they will have to take over in any actions beyond the 38th Parallel may bring about a situation that will still require Canadians there.

Go Ahead With Plans

So far the army is going ahead with plans to dispatch the special force, 10,000 strong, to Okinawa in November to round off its training and prepare for frontline Korean service in January or February.

Latest sign of this came in announcement yesterday that a Canadian party of nine soldiers under Brig. Frank Fleury has arrived in Tokyo to establish liaison with Gen. MacArthur's United Nations headquarters for Korea.

The Atlantic Pact foreign ministers agreed to establish a unified European command. Both the U.S. and Britain will send troops and there are reports here it has been suggested that Canada do likewise.

If the force is available, it may be hard for her to refuse despite Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement to parliament that he hardly thinks Canada's allies will expect her to do more than send arms.

Claim Reds Plan 'Blitz Meetings' In W. Germany

Bonn, Germany, Sept. 27—(AP)—West German officials claimed today that they have uncovered secret communist plans to stage anti-Western "blitz meetings" in all big cities of the industrial Ruhr this weekend.

They said about 30,000 young communist trouble-makers have been pumped into the Ruhr from Russian East Germany in the last two months to lead the demonstrations.

The objective is to hamstring the Western plan of defence against Soviet expansion into Western Germany.

German officials said the youths from East Germany have received special training on how to fight police. Most of them are members of the communist-sponsored Free German Youth movement.

Police Decline Comment on Canadian Giving Information on Brink's Holdup

Boston, Sept. 27. (AP)—Police declined comment today on a Canadian who came here to volunteer information about the $1,500,000 holdup of Brink's Express Company here last January.

Deputy Superintendent James F. Daley said the man wasn't being held.

The Canadian, whose name so far has not been divulged, first turned up in the office of State-Attorney General Francis E. Kelly. He told this story:

Three weeks before the Boston Brink's robbery, a Montreal man with whom he had spent some time in jail invited him to take part in a proposed holdup of the Brink branch in Montreal.

He said he declined to take an active part, but did supply the man and his three partners with a floor plan of the Montreal Brink office.

That hold-up plan never went through, he said, but he was convinced that the same men organized the Boston robbery.

He hopes his information may qualify him for part of the $150,000 reward.

'Little Blockade' Is Renewed

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Vienna, Sept. 27—(AP)—Austrian communists renewed on a minor scale today their "little blockade" of the four-power city of Vienna, where yesterday they cut rail communications with the west for five hours. They threatend other disturbances.

In Moedling, a suburb of Vienna, a mob of about 50 communist track-squatters cut the main highway and an adjoining railway line leading into the Austrian capital.

Government officials said traffic along other approaches to the city and elsewhere in Austria was runing normally so far.

North Atlantic Council Approves Creation of Force To Ward Off Russian Moves

New York, Sept. 27. (AP)—By unanimous and unprecedented peace-time decision, the North Atlantic Council last night approved creation of a combined force to preserve the Atlantic community—and Western Europe especially—from Russian aggression.

The council called for the organization of this force as speedily as possible and decided that all available manpower and productive resources of the 12 pact countries should be used fully.

President Truman already has pledged the United States to send more divisions to defence of Western Europe if other countries intrested will make comparable contributions.

The Council left to the defence ministers of 12 countries the question of how to use German manpower—a hot issue during nearly two weeks of secret conversations—but made it plain Germany must be enabled to contribute to the build-up of Western Europe's defences.

The defence ministers will tackle the assignment at meetings beginning in Washington October 28.

The Council action was announced in a communique last night. The work it revealed dovetailed with, or extended, previous action announced last week after conferences in New York of the Western Big Three foreign ministers.

Conference Results

Here, in brief, are net results of the conferences held by the two groups:

1. The Big Three—the United States, France and Britain—will end their statement of war with Germany as soon as constitutional requirements of the three countries will permit. This does not mean a separate peace will be concluded. A peace treaty must be written later with the Russians concurring.

2. The Big Three authorized the addition of 30,000 police to the present force of 10,000 in the western zones of Germany.

3. The council decided to create a combined force of men and arms from 11 of its members—the United States, Britain, Canada, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, and Italy, and Luxembourg. Iceland, the 12th member, has no army.

The force will be under a commander-in-chief. No one was named in the communique, but speculation has been that he will be General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University.

4. The defence ministers were asked to make recommendations for setting up this force as soon as possible and for the methods by which Germany could most usefully contribute to the set-up.

Strange Blue Sun Follows Freak Blue Moon in Skies Over Area of North Sea

By HAL COOPER

London, Sept. 27 (CP) — A strange blue sun today followed a freak blue moon in the skies over the North Sea area.

While baffled British star gazers traded notes on the phenomenon, first seen in the United Kingdom last night, colleagues in Denmark watched the sun come up as an azure ball.

Jittery old folks queued up at some Danish provinical banks, demanding their money for a hurried flight from doomsday.

Thousands of other Europeans—some fearful, some merely interested—strained for a glimpse of the heavens through clouds which covered much of the continent.

It was the queerest sky display since the hazy envelope of Halley's comet turned the sun and moon odd colors in 1910.

Superstitious Few

A superstitious few feared the end of the world. Others guessed there had been a terrific atom blast somewhere on the globe. Astronomers were divided into three main schools of thought on the cause:

1. The filtering effect of a far flung smoke from vast forest fires raging in Alberta and British Columbia which spread a pall over northeastern United States earlier in the week.

2. A peculiar high cloud formation.

3. Dust blown high into the air in a storm or volcanic eruption far to the west.

An R.A.F. pilot who went up to investigate last night said he found a layer of fine brownish dust 5,000 feet thick, beginning at 36,000 feet.

The sun first turned to blue about 4 o'clock last evening over Scotland. The effect spread over most of northern England. Then the full moon appeared—and it, too, was blue. When the sun rose in London this morning, it was blue again.

Dr. James Paton, a meteorology lecturer at Edinburgh University, said he thought the hue was caused by cloud composed of uniform, tiny droplets.

Dr. Mogens Ringkjoebing of the Royal Observatory said he had no firm theory on the cause.

"It may be ice crystals," he said, "or it may have been caused by smoke from the Canadian forest fires."

'Lots of Headway' Made at Closed Session

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, Sept. 27 (CP) — The Federal-Provincial Constitutional Conference ended its second closed session at 1 p.m. EDT today amid indications that continued progress is being made.

A third secret session will be held at 2:30 p.m. and this in itself was taken as an indication that the delegates are making headway in their efforts to devise a method of bringing to this country full power to amend the Canadian constitution.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, as conference chairman, told reporters the delegates felt it "worthwhile to come back this afternoon to consider matters that haven't yet been reached."

Nothing, he added, had developed yet which would make it "useless" for the conference to continue.

There was a general air of optimism as the conference, meeting on the floor of the Quebec legislature chamber, broke up for lunch. One provincial premier said "lots of headway" was made.

Indicating the conference will continue at least until tomorrow or Friday, Mr. St. Laurent said the current "four or five days" of discussion are "apt" to end in an adjournment and the formation of a sub-committee to "put into shape" the conference conclusions.

The conference opened Monday.

This committee, the prime minister indicated, would be similar to the committee of attorneys-general which studied the constitutional problems in the period between the end of the first full conference in Ottawa last January and the opening of this one here this week.

There might be a brief open meeting following the closed sessions. There, the conclusions of the in camera discussions would be announced and proposed future steps made known.

The delegates went into secret session yesterday, meeting there in the free and easy atmosphere of private sittings.

EASTERN AUSTRIA GRIPPED BY WAVE OF RED STRIKES

Continue Protests Against Price Increases

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Vienna, Sept. 27. (AP)—Eastern Austria was gripped by a wave of strikes today as communist agitators continued their protests against the government's new wage and price increases.

An estimated 50,000 workers in Russian-controlled factories in and near Vienna set the pace when they refused to go to work this morning. The strikes spread as far as Graz, a large industrial city in the British zone. In Linz and Steyr, in the American zone, workers marched out of factories and called protest meetings.

The British public safety officer in Graz said there were crowds of demonstrators in the streets. They were "quite orderly and we don't anticipate any trouble."

Meanwhile, rail and road traffic was cut near Moedling, just outside Vienna, when communists sat down on the main highway to Graz and an adjoining railway line.

The communists also cut local rail traffic on a branch line southeast of St. Poelten. Both towns are in the Russian occupation zone.

In Vienna police said the communists were unsuccessful in attempts to shut down the semmering power plant in the British sector of the city. A band of reds tried to entice the workers in the plant out on strike. The workers locked the gates, however, and refused to stop work.

At noon there were no reports of any disturbances such as those which rocked Vienna yesterday. Police were out in force, and a special guard had been placed around the Austrian chancellery and other government buildings.

New York, Sept. 27—(AP)—Joe Louis, who will attempt to win back the heavyweight boxing title tonight in 15 rounds at a Yankee Stadium from Ezzard Charles, scaled 218 pounds when the fighters weighed in today. Charles weighed 184½ pounds.

Louis, with his usual deadpan appearance, shook hands with Charles, who won the title from Jersey Joe Walcott in June, 1949, at Chicago. Louis retired as the undefeated champion in 1948.

Labor Congress Tells Reds They'll Find Going Tough at Convention

Winnipeg, Sept. 27 (CP)—Reds had notice today that from here in they will find the going tough in the Canadian Congress of Labor.

They were thrown for two stiff losses at the CCL's annual convention yesterday and indications are they will be manhandled further before the end of the meeting late this week.

Yesterday's convention action saw the CCL's shrunken leftwing minority kicked around when it opposed policy statements from the anti-red Congress leadership on wages and on "economic philosophy."

Two turbulent debates blew up over the points during the day, but the best the left-wingers could muster in votes was about 25 against some 700.

In addition to being booted around in the voting, the left-wingers also were told from the convention platform by CCL president A. R. Mosher that they are going to have tough sledding.

"The time has come when 95 per cent of the delegates at this convention are not going to have their minds diverted from the important things they have come here to do by a small minority that wants to kick up a racket," the veteran president said.

Later, Mosher shut off a number of leftists trying to get the floor to attack the executive-sponsored declarations on wages and economic philosophy, which were adopted by the delegates generally.

These declarations were that:

1. Wages should be hoisted to meet higher living costs but individual Congress unions should handle their own wage deals rather than have them co-ordinated centrally through the Congress.

2. The Congress denounces comunism and sets up a "positive" program of political and economic action.

The leftists seized on wages and political and economic angles to attack the Congress leadership.

Executive spokesmen slammed back at left wingers in the pair of confused debates, which eventually wound up late in the day with votes showing the anti-red faction on top by about 30 to one.

Closing Noose Around Thousands Of Trapped Reds

Allied Line Spliced at Changji 25 Miles South of Seoul

By DON HUTH

Tokyo, Sept. 27—(AP)—U.S. marines today captured and raised the U.S. flag over the south Korean national capitol building and foreign consulate buildings in the heart of partly burned-out Seoul.

Fighting blazed on in the capital city but the clean-up battles of liberation appeared to be nearly over.

The marines fought their way into the capitol, the French and Russian consulates and the U.S. ambassador's residence against fierce north Korean death-stand resistance.

All are in the northern, modern section of the lopsided city of ancient and new structures.

Thousands of shattered houses marked the path of the marine drive into the approximate centre of Korea's 500-year capital which the communists took three months ago Thursday.

Seoul shuddered and rocked Wednesday under massive barrages of fire and steel.

Some Reds Resisting

Small pockets of the die-hard reds still were resisting. The marines fought through winding alleys and from house to house to oust them.

By late Wednesday afternoon, only a small section of Seoul still was in north Korean hands, AP correspondent Tom Lambert reported from the Seoul front.

Earlier, AP correspondent Don Whithead had reported from another sector that marines held only one-third of the city Wednesday morning.

Lambert said American casualties in Seoul were light compared with those of the reds. Official sources said United Nations forces killed, wounded or captured nearly 6,000 reds along the entire Korean battlefront Tuesday.

While marines fought to clear the reds out of Seoul, other allied forces closed their noose around many thousands of reds trapped and thinned by desertions and casualties in southeast Korea.

The allied line runs unbroken for 215 miles diagonally across the peninsula from extreme southeastern Pusan on the sea of Japan, through the flaming mop-up battles of Seoul, to the Inchon second front beachhead on the Yellow sea.

The reds once advanced to within 30-odd miles of Pusan.

The allied line was spliced together at Changji, 25 miles south of Seoul.

A United States armored 1st Cavalry Task force from the south sped 106 miles through red territory to close the gap between the two fronts.

United Nations forces, spread out on both sides of this line, liberated great areas of the U.N.-sponsored republic from the North Korean communist grip.

North Korean troops were fleeing in disorder—in a rout at some places—all along the battlefront. But suicide rear-guard units, ranging in size from a few troops to thousands, fought bitter delaying actions.

The fighting remained hottest in Seoul, where red holdouts, fighting over a maze of alleys, ridges and buildings, held off final liberation of the capital which Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced Tuesday was back in friendly hands and liberated.

At the link-up correspondent Bill Ross said 1st Cavalry tanks rammed through a last-ditch red attack to join 7th Infantry Division units from Inchon-Seoul in the walled town of Changji, about 25 miles south of Seoul.

Race 55 Miles in Day

The task force raced the last 55 miles through communist territory in one day.

"While mopping-up fighting is still in progress," MacArthur announced "all effective escape routes are closed and the fate of the North Korean forces caught in this pocket is sealed."

How many that was, no one knew.

Two weeks ago, just before the Inchon landing, the communists had an estimated 130,000 troops massed against the Pusan perimeter.

United Nations forces in their massive breakout starting Sept. 15 killed thousands of North Koreans. Hundreds of communists surrendered. Thousands still are fighting in scattered pockets of resistance.

AP correspondent Don Whitehead said retreat of red divisions from the southern front is a big puzzle of the war.

Seem to Have Evaporated

"They seem to have evaporated—dissolved into thin air," Whitehead reported from Seoul. He said American planes had not spotted any large northward movement of enemy forces.

"And yet divisions are gone, except for rearguard elements. It is as if an army had walked into oblivion."

Many reds in the south have been reported changing from battle dress to white civilian clothing and retiring cross-country in hopes of reaching their homes in the north.

But there was no question about where the reds were in Seoul. Whitehead said they still held two-thirds of the capital city Wednesday morning.

He reported allied troops held only the southwestern and southern sectors at that time.

As result the salesmen became tired of waiting and the cheese were sold each factory selling its cheese to the same buyers as last month. The price was 26⅝ cents per pound. A total of 2,760 cheese were offered. The board was then adjourned for one month.

Their vehicles crashing head-on in a dense fog when one driver turned out to pass a transport, two motorists were admitted to Belleville General Hospital early today. Both vehicles were almost complete wrecks but fortunately the drivers escaped with but comparatively minor injuries.

Provincial police investigating the accident said that visibility on the highway was seriously reduced by the dense fog at the time of the accident. Smith was eastbound while the westbound Cummings vehicle apparently turned out to pass a transport the driver failing to see the approaching auto.

Both drivers were alone in their cars at the time of the accident. The injured were taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance. Provincial Constable J. L. Pelissero investigated.

The entire sixty foot frontage of the new store is a glass showcase and the brilliantly lighted interior enable unrestricted vision clear to the rear of the store. The front of the store is done in vitrolite with the name in huge block letters above the glass frontage. A side entrance provides a direct exit to the adjoining parking lots.

Th floor area of the store, measuring 60 by nearly 120 feet and the positioning of the various departments and self serve counters has been planned with an eye to handling large numbers of customers in the easiest possible manner.

As stated above the wide aisles permit free movement of customers' shopping carts and aisles are so planned that any department of the store can be reached without passing through another department.

Vegetable Counter

To the right along the west wall as the customer enters the store is the store-long fresh fruit and vegetable counter. Concealed belt conveyors underneath the counter bring up the fresh stock from the basement.

At the rear of the store is meat and poultry counter with its 48 feets of counter space. In addition there is a 24 foot self-serve counter for frozen foods. The meat cutting department is situated directly behind the meat counter and is complete with its spotlessly clean receiving department and walk-in refrigerator.

Everywhere it is at all possible self-serve counters have been installed with the various bulk commodities being ready packaged.

But it is the full sized nine foot basement which is really the work centre. Here a large staff is employed in packaging bulk commodities and in preparing fresh fruits and vegetables for display on the main floor. The fruit department has its own walk-in frigerator where perishable fruits are kept.

Departments Divided

The receiving department is divided from the main basement area, enabling transport drivers to unload their loads at any time of the day or night. When produce is unpacked or otherwise prepared for store display an automatic belt conveyor emerging at store level from beneath a centre counter, carries the produce into the store.

An ingenious inter-communication system allows employees in any part of the store to contact workers or store management in any other point of the store. At the same time the manager from his office can page workers in any part of the store.

Six Checkout Counters

Store manager Howard Coles of Toronto, coming to Belleville from the Dominion Store at Orillia, stated that although experienced personnel had been brought in for the store opening a considerable number of local workers had been employed.

The office is at the rear of store on a mezzanine floor where the store manager at any time has an uninterupted view of the entire store area. Washrooms and lunch rooms for the employees are situated in the basement.

Six chckout counters so placed to handle customers without interrupting normal store traffic have been provided.

Night School Students Urged To Register by Thursday Eve.

An appeal for Belleville and district students interested in night classes this fall and winter to get their registrations in by Thursday night of this week was made today by G. E. Currie, principal of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School.

On Tuesday evening, the first night for registration of students for this season's classes, only 197 persons enrolled, this being only approximately one-third of the numbered registered for classes this year. Thursday evening of this week will be the next and last night for registration.

The school principal stated that the first night's registration was very disappointing with only five classes having the required number of interested students to warrant setting up of the class. A minimum of 12 students is required before night school classes can be set up, it was stated.

Minimum Requirements Met

Classes thus far having the minimum requirement, in enrolment are cabinet making, drawing, painting, typing and sewing. Sixteen other classes have now fewer than the required number of registrations.

Of the 197 students registering last night, 154 were from the city, and 43 were non-residents. Last year there was a total registration of 660.

Next Tuesday evening is the opening date for night school classes when all teachers will be in their rooms ready to start classes and therefore there will be no time for further registration.

English, Citizenship Course

Mr. Currie was particularly anxious that all employers of new Canadians bring to the attention of such employees that registration for the English and Citizenship courses on Thursday evening of this week.

Many new Canadians, it was pointed out, have not sufficient knowledge of English and possibly would not know of the registration unless it was brought to their attention by employers.

The report, which was requested by city council some months ago, covered all phases of hospital operation and took Mr. McFadden over two and a half hours to present.

Past Presidents Of Kiwanis Club Outline Years

Every year a review of the work done by the Kiwanis Club is given by the past presidents of the club and yesterday it was Past Presidents' Day at the weekly luncheon of the club at the Kiwanis Centre. Bruce Lattimer, a past president and past lieutenant governor, occupied the chair and associated with him at the head table were past presidents Cliff Baragar, Past Lieutenant Governor, Eddie Logan, Lorne McDougall, Mark Vanner, Norman Edwards, Jack White and A. B. Collins.

Each of the past presidents gave a resume of their work while in office with Cliff Baragar in 1935 bringing in the greatest revenue to the club when $13,000 net was raised through a mammoth draw and carnival. In Eddie Logan's year the Child Welfare Clinic was established and Lorne McDougall stated that Roblin Lake Fresh Air Camp was inaugurated in his term of office in 1945. During the tenure of office of Mark Vanner in 1946 the Scout movement was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, while in 1947 the Key Club came into existence under the presidency of Jack White. Norman Edwards in 1949 had the club branch out in more entertainment for the younger people and the Kiwanis Centre was renovated in which the Hobbycraft classes are held.

It cost Bill Brown, L. A. Kells, Claude Tice and William Stovin large fines for not knowing all the members that were sitting at their tables during the luncheon period. The chairman of the meeting had the club sing "Now Is The Hour" and at that point all the members walked out before the main speakers had been heard but fearing heavy fines all returned to their places. All the members were invited to the inter-club meeting held at the Country Club this afternoon and evening. A splendid program has been arranged. A television set has been installed and the members and visitors will be able to witness the heavyweight fight in New York. Golf will occupy the afternoon and a dinner party at night.

The sing song was under the direction of Harold Carruthers with Phil Huddleston at the piano. Fraser Fulton collected the fines. The chairman was thanked by the president.

Camera Club Hears Interesting Talk on 'Camera Accessories'

On Monday evening the Camera Club held their bi-monthly meeting in the Corby Public Library, with the president, Mr. Johannus Holmboe, presiding. Mr. Holmboe gave an interesting elementary talk on "The Camera and its Accessories."

Mr. Bill McCormich also showed a color movie entitled the "Family Album" which demonstrated the technique of picture taking.

A motor trip was taken on the Sunday previous to the meeting to Yarker where several pictures were taken of the "Tonkin Mill" and its surroundings. Next week the Kaladar district will be visited by the club, and members are cordially invited to attend.

TO BE JAILED AND FINED

Washington, Sept. 27 — (AP)— Adrian Scott, movie writer and producer, was ordered today to serve a year in jail and pay a $1,000 fine for contempt of Congress.

Scott was among the 10 film writers, directors and producers who refused to answer questions in the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee's Reds-in-Hollywood investigation in 1947.

The other nine received identical snetences and now are in jail.

Jack Lundberg Named Director For Province

Jack Lundberg, member of the Belleville Branch Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada, was named the Ontario director on the Dominion Command Standing Resolutions Committee, at the quarterly meeting of the Provincial Command held in Simcoe, Ont.

Mr. Lundberg, who is vice president of the Provincial Command ANAF., will, in his new capacity handle all matters pertaining to members welfare in Ontario. He was accompanied to Simcoe by President William Ford of the Belleville branch.

Sports, it was decided at the meeting, will play an important part in the clubroom life of the organization. To this effect, the Command elected Earl Gladwell, Hamilton as its provincial sports director.

The province will be zoned and extensive programs of billiards, darts, cribbage, etc. be drawn up. Zone winners in all phases will be declared and will take part in round robin tournaments for the provincial championships.

Provincial padre the Rev. R. S. Skinner of London, Ont., told the meeting that he will donate a trophy to be awarded to the branch having the best conducted club rooms. Interior decoration, methods of reception of guests and visiting members; general club room deportment of members; operation of the clubs and conditions existing in the club beverage rooms will be among the factors governing the award.

The various branches will hold darts singles tournaments with the club winners playing off for the provincial title in Hamilton. The Belleville branch has signified its intention of sending a representative.

Leaves His Bed, Found Happily Drifting in Boat

Apparently fed up with the regularity of classes following the summer holiday period, a nine-year-old student of the Ontario School for the Deaf here decided early this morning that he would seek other excitement for the day.

The lad's dormitory bed was found vacant at about four o'clock this morning and his disappearance was reported to the police station. But it all turned out okay when the lad was discovered and returned to his home.

Before daylight the lad apparently had left the OSD premises in search of the day's diversion. Near the Water Street plant of the Northern Electric plant he discovered an old flat-bottomed boat some time after daylight was seen in the boat some distance out from the shore. A boat was secured and the lad was brought back to shore little the worse for his experience.

IN MEMORIAM

DELINE — In loving memory of my dear father, Christopher Deline, who passed away September 27th, 1949.

Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

Ever remembered by sons Francis and Henry. S27

DELINE — In loving memory of my dearest friend, Christopher Deline, who passed away September 27th, 1949.

Oh what would I give to clasp your hand,
Your dear kind face to see.
Your loving smile, your welcome voice
That meant so much to me.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have such can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one I loved so well.

Ever remembered by your dearest friend, Florence. S27

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP) —Industrials dipped for a second successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Market leaders declined slowly as yesterday's profit-taking continued.

Losses ranged from fractions to more than a full point as the list slipped back from a three-day advance into new high price ground.

Steels, utilities, constructions, foods, refining oils, agricultures and textiles showed majorities of declines in the groupings. A few papers held firm and moderate support appeared in several key issues.

Western oil stocks jumped into the trading limelight in mid-session, spurting ahead to the highest average price level in 13 years. In recent weeks the list has been held to a narrow price path but renewed buying in several leaders again boosted the group.

Golds also advanced with senior producers leading. Junior issues were mixed. Hollinger featured brisk dealings, climbing strongly following reports of financing plans for development of Labrador iron.

Labrador exploration held traders attention in base metals on the financing reports. Otherwise base metals weakened as Hudson Bay and International Nickel dropped.

Volume for the first three hours was 900,000 shares.

Many From Far and Near Attend 75th Anniversary Of Carmel United Church

On Sunday last, Carmel United Church and Carmel Jubilee Hall were filled to capacity with a large number standing throughout the service in Jubilee Hall.

The central theme in the church was a blue and silver motto "Seventy-five Years", with the letters accentuated with silver Maple leaves also the lovely blue pennant "1875-1950".

The floral decorations consisted of large baskets of gladioli, asters and autumn blooms, trailing white vines added beauty and the honor rolls were draped with flags. In Jubilee Hall the walls were decorated with pictures of many of the older residents who had worshipped in the church during the past years.

The Tobermore band of 40 members occupied the platform in Jubilee Hall and Stirling Royal Junior choir, of about 40 members sat directly at the front of the hall, while Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.T.C.M., presided at the piano in the hall.

In the church, Carmel choir with their pianist, Mrs. Arthur Pyear, were seated in the choir loft.

Band Presents Prelude

At 10:45 a.m., D.S.T., the Tobermore Band, under the leadership of their conductor, Mr. R. J. Woodley, marched from their chartered bus to the hall and gave the prelude, also delighting with several other numbers throughout the service. Later the band members were entertaind at various homs for the noon meal and then left at 2:30 p.m. for Stirling.

The morning service opened with that old favorite of the early pioneers "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E., minister of Carmel, paid tribute to the pioneers who built the church and took his audience through the garden of memory.

Mr. William Carlisle attended the dedication in 1875, and has been a member continuously ever since and attended the Sunday services.

There are also four others living who attended that dedication service, John Richardson, Sarah Anderson Hanna, Estella Lawrence Johnston and Roxanna Lawrence Langman.

Officials Say They'll Prosecute 'Brassiere' Cases

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27—(AP)—Officials said today they will prosecute members of the "brassiere brigade" who allegedly smuggled thousands of dollars in coins from a telephone company counting room.

County solicitor Robert R. Taylor and J. M. Phillips, district manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, said the case against 13 persons questioned in the long-term thefts was not closed.

Police estimated that more than $100,000 was stolen from the telephone company's counting room over a period of years by girl employees who sneaked rolls of quarters out in their brassiers.

"If everyone will just keep their brassieres—I mean their shirts—on for a few days", Taylor said, "we will have some cases. It is a question of assembling evidence and charges definitely will be filed."

Because the telephone company had not signed a complaint, all 13 persons held in the case were released yesterday. They included six telephone employees, their boy friends and members of their families.

James S. Rainwater, lawyer representing the 13, said he would personally escort the girls back to their jobs today and if the company refused to take them back he'd sue.

Rainwater also announced he would file suit to recover $10,000 which was turned over to the clerk of circuit court pending further action in the case. Rainwater called it "personal property" taken from the girls.

Grimy Rescue Workers Haul up Mine Victims

Creswell, Northumberland, England, Sept. 27—(AP)—Grimy rescue workers today hauled up the bodies of 47 miners from the fire-wracked pit of Creswell Colliery. Eighty men died there yesterday in fumes and flames 1,000 feet underground.

The bodies of three other victims were taken from the pit last night. A mine official said five other bodies had been seen in one shaft but could not be reached at present.

The other 25 bodies had not been located, he added.

Although 120 miners escaped from the main shaft when the fire flashed along the black alleyways of coal, it was Britain's worst mining disaster since 1947. That year 104 died in undersea workings at Whitehaven.

The flames broke out about 4 a.m. yesterday while the night shift was on duty. The ventilating system went out and deadly fumes swirled through the tunnels.

Mine officials said reports today from workers below indicated the flames had been choked by sealing off the area with sandbags.

It was believed to be still smouldering, however, and smoke and fumes continued to make operations dangerous.

2,000 BOX CARS ON ORDER

Hamilton, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Two railway companies have placed orders for a total of 2,000 box cars with the National Steel Car Corporation, R. S. Hart, company president, said today.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has placed an order for 500 all-steel 50-ton box cars. Today an order for 1,500 box cars from the Canadian National Railways was confirmed.

STRANGE BLUE SUN

In Rome, Paris and Brussels the sun was its usual color.

In Oslo, Frankfurt, Stockholm and Helsinki it was hidden by heavy clouds.

Washington (AP) — This and other east-coast cities hoped to see the sun really shine today.

It disappeared behind a smoke-haze, Sunday morning and has stayed there ever since.

And from Scotland yesterday it was reported that telephone lines were clogged by calls from people who demanded to know whether the "perfect pale blue sphere in the western sky" was just an obscured sun or signified the end of the world.

The weather bureau said the forest fires in northwest Canada were the reason the sun was obscured in both cases.

The fires extend over hundreds of miles in Alberta and British Columbia.

Neither weather experts nor forestry officials here can recall a blackout so far east from fires 2,000 miles away.

Forecaster Ernest Rampey said the smoke was expected to drift away Monday night. It didn't, and thousands of people who stayed up to watch a total eclipse of the moon didn't see it.

The eclipse came through all right in some places, but in most it was blurred by the high riding smoke.

The smoke has been funnelled in from the west at an average elevation of 2 1-2 miles by the prevailing northwest wind.

Hangs Like Blanket

A shift to the southwest was supposed to clear the skies, but it didn't materialize. In fact, Rampsey said winds in the upper air have softened to around five or 10 miles an hour, and that means the smoke is just sort of hanging over these parts like a blanket.

Carl A. Gustafson, chief of the forest service division of fire control said the west has often had worse and longer smoke-covers than this one. The famous 1910 fire in northern Idaho and western Montana, he said, carried a much heavier pall of smoke hundreds of miles out into the Pacific Ocean. It lasted many days.

Today's big smoke extends to Cape Hatteras, N.C. Much of the area between here and the fires has already been cleared of smoke.

LIBERATION OF SEOUL

For the first time in history the girded strength of freedom-loving nations has struck a resounding blow for the security and guarantee of peace in the world of nations, September 26th, 1950, will go down in annals as the first great result of the solid strength and determination of the United Nations to safeguard freedom. The past three months have made global history of a kind never before known. Nations banded together under the flag of the United Nations have been fighting side by side and have now liberated the capital of the first state which called for protection against an aggressor.

It will be a day long remembered in South Korea and in North Korea too, for the one it meant that freedom will be recovered, for the aggressor North Koreans it will mean that aggression is doomed.

But not for South Korea only is it a time of deepest significance. It is a day in which the U.N. Powers cannot but feel proud that their first blows for an overrun state have brought the triumph of the free.

For the first time in history a world organization has stood together for the sake of freedom and has freed the capital of a people from bondage impressed upon them by their neighbors.

Five hundred years of Korean and Seoul history look down upon Tuesday as a great day, the herald of the continued advance of the forces of justice and freedom until the invader is expelled and until aggression is slain.

This will be a memorable time in South Korean and United Nation history as the UN flag floats over the old capital as symbol of freedom and justice and united efforts of the democracies.

The United Nations Organization has marked its greatest moment so far in its brief history. It has upheld its honor and that of the member states in the guarantees of freedom. This event has a deep significance for the future, it is the proof that the United Nations stand as guardian of freedom and as enemy of tyranny and aggression.

SEASON FOR INNER WARMTH

Methods of heating buildings in this clime are well establisher, people use wood or they burn coal or they use oil. In some parts of the United States a method of heating by the water containing the heat of the earth is used.

There has been unveiled a seven-room house in Cincinnati which according to the Windsor Star requires no heat in winter and no air cooling in the summertime. Everything is done by radiation and absorption, it seems, with the result that occupants feel warm when the outside temperature is 26 above and cool when the temperature is actually 96 degrees. But the Star thinks that all will not be able to adjust themselves psychologically to these conditions because man has been too long determining degrees of comfort and discomfort according to what that instrument the thermometer says. "It's going to take a lot of indoctrination and perhaps a new generation to sweep away all those assumptions.

ON THE ROADS

Some of the pests on the roads are defined by the Stratford Beacon-Herald. "The car jockey who swings in and out of line to gain a few feet or inches is a recognized traffic hazard but even the cautious driver will display lack of foresight and ability. A common fault is to stop at a traffic light in such a position that his single car takes the place of two or to occupy double space in parking. Little things perhaps but they add up to confusion and make for slower traffic.

"Even when there are lights and white lines to guide drivers it is surprising how many persist in moving as if they were alone on a prairie road. Straddling a white line or crossing, making a right hand turn from the centre of the street or a left turn from the curb are all common occurrences. Travelling the centre of what should be a two-lane street is another practice that slows up all traffic."

Everyone who travels the highway can cite many ways in which drivers add to the problem and danger of making their way through the traffic.

Common sense is the best guarantee of safety for one's self and for others. Taking what seems a trivial advantage of other cars and drivers may prove disastrous to more than the offender. That is a way in which one can run into a heap of trouble.

These and others are the causes of trouble and difficulty on the highways and roads. It is the drivers who obey the laws and drive considerately who make the ways as safe as they are. It is generally felt that the vast number of drivers are thoughtful, careful and experienced. For these the public must be grateful.

MIND READER

Thought his palm I cannot read,
Prophecy in cards can't find,
Lacking all that gypsies need,
I could clearly read his mind.
This is what he thought of me:
"What a bore he's grown to be."

Proudly taking time to boast
Of a little boy in bed,
I was just a chattering host
Telling bright things he had said.
I could read, had I been blind,
This was running through his mind:

"Why do grandpas prattle so?
Must I hear these tales again?
Why so foolish do they grow?
Why so wearisome to men?"
Thoughts like these I always find
Reading any bachelor's mind.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE JOY OF IGNORANCE

No matter how much we think we know, actually we know so very little. Even after long years of learning things, we meet someone who puts us to shame because of our ignorance. But this ignorance has its advantage—it gives us constant joy in discoveries!

Rare is that day in which we do not learn of something, about which we were entirely ignorant. The out-of-doors is one vast class-room, where silent teachers hold forth. How many trees, flowers, or birds do you know the names of? They may be perfectly familiar, yet only a selected few ever go to the trouble to learn all possible about them. I say trouble. Rather should I say effort, for that is all that it takes— and what a joy is the discovery of secrets about them all!

The more ignorant we are the greater is the thrill over learning something new. Recently I drove through a country road and showed my friend a beautiful team of oxen. He had never seen oxen before, and the sight thrilled him. I then explained about their use and how proud their possessor was of them.

I always learn something new every time I watch a carpenter, mechanic, or fisherman, for one never knows when that knowledge may come in handy. We learn a great deal from books, but our best knowledge comes from observation, and the happiness experienced is far greater. The naturalist who gains his knowledge this way experiences the joy of a new world revealed.

I learned some interesting things about chipmunks this summer. I had them so tamed that they took peanuts from my hand. I noted that as fast as I fed one the peanuts would disappear as though eaten. But they were only stored in its cheek until it could hold no more and then it would scamper away to store them for a later repast. The chipmunk's cousin, the squirrel, doesn't do this.

Every time we meet a fact, or situation, strange or unknown to us, our ignorance is at once challenged, the mind is stimulated, and our ignorance shrinks, giving place to added joy.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At this phase of the moon last month, the weather in these parts was very bad; and we were all wondering when we would get a change.

An Englishwoman on a visit to Canada was in the party. "What phase is the moon in," she asked.

The last quarter, she was informed.

The weather will stay bad until the last quarter ends," said the Englishwoman. And she was right.

"For five years during the war," she explained, "we lived by the moon in England. It was on moonlit nights that we were bombed. And more people became aware of, and interested in the moon than perhaps in all the past history of Britain.

"Not only were we all moonconscious; we studied it. In each community on each street of the cities, in each town and village, people pooled their observations from month to month, until a certain folklore and tradition of the moon began to take shape. For example one thing we learned to count on was that if the weather was bad at the start of the last quarter, it would stay bad. This generation of English can predict, with pretty fair accuracy, just what the weather is going to do merely by watching the moon."

Actually, nobody, not even the meteorologists can predict the weather. Too many factors enter into it. Weather moves too fast to be predictable. It can be fair and cool here, just as the weatherman predicted. But if you had been fifty miles west or north of here when you heard the weatherman's prediction, you would think he was an awful dope; because there it was raining and cold.

When the new moon rises lying on its back, like a dish, one school of wise-acres declares this to be the sign of a dry month, because the new moon will cup the rain. But another school, with the same air of wisdom, predicts a wet month, for the new moon is on its back to catch the coming rain. Whatever happens, one of them is right; and therefore the art of weather prediction is vindicated.

GOADED TO ACTION

Humanity learns slowly and generally the hard way. The point to the Garden of Eden story is that God gave humanity—and continues to give us as individual human beings — the opportunity to learn by obedience. "No", said our first parents (and "No" say we); we will learn by experience."

So many a hard experience we have to go through before we learn our lessons. Adam and Eve had to leave the Garden and go out among the brambles and thorns. Usually, God cannot get a man down on his knees until He confronts him with an appalling crisis. In fact the crisis method is one God usually employs to reveal Himself to our dull and obdurate hearts. We just won't seek God and his help until we get into a tight place. So God allows us to get into tight places aplenty.

Is this indifference and cruelty on God's part? Quite the opposite. It is his mercy to those who are stupid and slow of heart to understand. If the only time we look up is when everything in life begins to look down, then God in his mercy sees to it that we have some crisis to goad us to spiritual reponse.

We wish it might be otherwise, but being such persons as we are, it cannot be.

COASTAL VESSEL SEIZED

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 27 (AP)— A Russian coastal vessel was reported today to have seized the 684-ton British trawler Swanella yesterday in the White Sea and escorted it to a Russian harbor.

The White Sea, which straddles the Arctic Circle, is surrounded on three sides by Russian territory.

The Vardoe radio, in northern Norway, which reported the seizure, said it was witnessed by another British trawler, the Kingston Agata.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

THESE ARE THE GOOD OLD DAYS

A young man dropped in to see me this afternoon.

"I'm doing a magazine piece about New York night life in the Twenties," he said, "and seeing as how you were around in those days, I'd like to ask you a few questions."

"Okay," I said, "but perhaps I ought to ask you one first. How are you going to slant your piece?"

"Oh, the usual," said the young man. "Glamour, wild parties, raccoon coats, big spenders — you know, the F. Scott Fitzgerald angle."

"I doubt whether I can help you much," I said. "As I remember night life during Prohibition, it specialized in bums and bad booze."

"Wasn't the entertainment a lot better?"

"Not particularly," I said. "With the exception of Jimmy Durante and Harry Richman, few of the old acts could stand up to Danny Thomas and the other kids who are functioning today."

"Weren't the torch singers better? Helen Morgan, for instance?

"Helen was plenty good," I said, "and I ought to know because she broke in at the first watering hole I ever operated—the Backstage Club. But meaning no disrespect to her memory, she was a Johnny One-Note compared to, let's say, Edith Piaf, the French gal."

"How would you compare the customers?"

"It's not even close," I said. "I was at the Versailles a couple of Wednesdays ago when Piaf opened, and the ringside tables were filled, not by characters with blackjacks and broken noses, but by the kind of people who really belong down front—Ginger Rogers, Louis Sobol, Judy Garland and Prince Serge Obolensky who hasn't toted a gun since he was a paratrooper in the last war. As for the rest of the room—well, it was jam-packed with plain Joes and Jennies out for a good time—folks you could rub up against without getting homicide all over you."

"If I wrote that sort of debunking piece," said the young man, "I doubt whether anyone would print it. These days, you know, everybody is moody-eyed about Dixieland jazz, flappers and the Charleston."

"I can't go along with that hooey about the good old days," I said. "As far as I'm concerned. these are the good old days. Order a Scotch and soda now and you get Scotch and soda. Twenty-five years ago, it was varnish remover and tap water. As for the meals, the old-timers seem to have forgotten those dent-proof steaks they used to serve at a fin a throw. And when it comes to atmosphere—you'd have to be a masochist to prefer the cigarette smog of the speakeasy cellars to modern air conditioning."

"You'll grant me one thing," said the magazine writer. "The girls used to be prettier."

"They were no such thing," I said. "Let's go way back and take Lillian Russell, for example All my life I've heard about how beautiful this doll was. Well, I finally got to see her the other night in one of those movie documentaries, and unless the film was out of focus she was lugging around about forty pounds too much rear. And if you don't think she was typical, take a gander at pictures of old-time showgirls, clear back to the Florodora Sextet— you'll find most of them zigged where they should have zagged, and that a good many could have used caps on their teeth."

"This hasn't been much of an interview," said the young man, snapping his notebook shut. "I can't use a word of it."

"Fortunately I can," I said.

Mackenzie's Column:

Russian Peace Talks Create New Interest

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

While western observers generally accept the current Russian peace talks as camouflage, the fact remains it has created interest among publics sick and tired of wars.

This is a wide-open opportunity for the western nations to reiterate their well-known desire for peace and to restate their conditions relating to peace. Such statements couldn't be mistaken for weakness, because the Soviet union already has broached the subject.

I believe the publics of the western countries would welcome such handling of the situation. It would reassure them that nothing had been left undone to encourage restoration of peace.

British Position

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin gave a thumb-nail summary of Britain's position in addressing the U.N. Assembly Monday. He declared that Britain wants peace but "we are equally determined, if necessary, to fight to the bitter end for the liberty for which we have struggled so hard and which we are resolved to defend."

That's wrapping it up in rather a tight package, but it gives the two cardinal points: The democracies want peace, and they are ready to fight to defend their liberty.

As regards the Russian position, Eddy Gilmore, AP chief of Bureau in Moscow, reports that the signs are giving foreign observers the impression war is not imminent and that chances for peace are better than they were, say two or three months ago. He says the colossal program of public building gives the Russian public the idea that the government expects long years of peace, and then he adds:

"However, the U.S.S.R., is certainly not going to weaken its defence forces. . . the country definitely is going ahead to perfect its technique in the production of airplanes, tanks, weapons large and small and in atomic research, and it is most surely going to remain strong militarily."

Baltic Wall

At the same time a Stockholm newspaper, the Stockholms—Tidningen, publishes a report that Russia is rushing construction of a gigantic "Baltic wall" of coastal defences from Porkkala, a Soviet base in Finland, to Ruegan Island in the southern Baltic sea.

Thus both Russia and the democracies are preparing for untoward possibilities, if not probabilities. The saving grace is that there is not present indication another major war is imminent, or that either side wants war.

However, there is no end to the cold war in sight. That must be halted if there is to be peace between communism and democracy. If Russia really wants peace she will stop this world revolution.

The consensus of western observers is that Moscow has no intention of making such a move.

MIRACLES ARE MIRACLES BECAUSE THEY HAPPEN RARELY

Come to think of it, a miracle wouldn't be a miracle if it were an everyday occurrence, and yet the birth of a baby is nothing less than a miracle to parents who love each other. It is for this reason that, primarily as a health adviser, I urge all prospective parents who have a home fit to live in to have their babies at home, or, if they have to settle for institutional care, to stipulate that the husband remain with his wife throughout delivery.

This is no mere matter of sentiment. Neither is it a detail of formality or fashion or custom or etiquette to be prescribed by hospital "regulations." The institutions that impose such "regulations" on people who are homeless do so, not for the public welfare, you bet your boots, but to conceal from the public the things that go on in the delivery room and other departments of the institution where the customers are not permitted to enter. If any physician or hospital representative of standing cares to controvert this allegation of mine I'll be happy to print his or her confutation, provided it is reasonably short and within the bounds of professional courtesy (too many communications from readers who purport to be physician or dentists are not), and moreover I'll reveal the identity of such correspondent only on his or her written consent.

From my own study and observation and experience as an intern in a charity hospital with a large maternity department, a country doctor, an attending physician on the staff of a city hospital with private rooms and wards for public charges, parent, grandparent and great scott let's take a breather...I have reached the conviction that artificial separation of prospective parents at the supreme hour of their married life is a great factor in the dreadful divorce rate in Yankeeland.

Is it right, decent, safe or proper for expectant parents to study and plan together for the birth of their baby? Is it the manly thing to leave all that to the expectant mother alone? Can a doctor or a nurse teach anything or say anything to an expectant mother or do anything for her that is not proper to teach, say or do in the presence of her husband? Can any doctor, obstetrician, surgeon or nurse conjure up even a hypothetical objection to the presence of the expectant father at his wife's side during delivery?

The old antiseptic bunk about the danger of bringing infection into the delivery room is ridiculous in view of what doctors, nurses and their professional friends bring into the delivery room.

The men, if we can call 'em men, of America should blush prettily at the objection to the husband's presence expressed by the superintendent of a hospital up in the north woods—Duluth. St. Paul or some such place—in her stern letter to the newspaper: The nurses are so busy during delivery that they just haven't time to take care of fainting husbands. The dears! Isn't it a touching picture?

When I had my first baby (with the nominal assistance of my first wife) we had the very—we had a lot of trouble, all trumped up from a conflict of nurses. We had engaged the best doctor in the community to attend the confinement, at home of course — even in the first years of practice I knew that home is safer than any hospital—and the patient herself was a trained nurse. That makes one. Then we had a trained nurse to attend her. That makes two. The plot thickens. A day or two after the baby was born things became complicated —the third trained nurse arrived —the patient's elder sister who had a private hospital of her own and a way of taking charge. The poor (No. 2) girl who was doing a good job, carrying out the doctor's orders, found herself in between. Presently temperatures rose—at least the patient's did, and nurse number three demanded that a "specialist" from far away be summoned instantly. To this the doctor, in his timid way, demurred. Finally we compromised by calling in the next best doctor in the community. He was a man of experience and judgment. Having sized up the situation and agreed with the attending physician that the elevated temperature was partly from excitement and partly a reaction to the establishment of lactation, he gave his professional opinion, for which I have revered his name ever since. "Brady," he said, slapping me on the knee and taking up his hat, "damn the women!"

Whereupon I went upstairs and suggested that nurse No. 3 get the ——— and she did so, in high dudgeon, and it was a year or two before we got back on speaking terms. But we didn't mind, because we knew these dudgeon spells were just part of the old girl's way of life.

CLAMS FOR FOUR

Dalhousie, N.B.—Twenty miles is, I'll admit, a pretty poor total for a day's travel, but our daughter's shoes went to sea and that led us to the Indian with the fiddle and the two buckets of clams. . . .

But perhaps a full report will be in order. Anyway, I'd like to get it down so I'll have a reminder some future day of another of the pleasant times.

So. We set out shortly after nine in the morning from Campbellton, bound for Moncton, a couple of hundred miles down the coast. It looked like a miserable day. The clouds were like gauze. Except that they weren't clouds at all, but our first experience with an Atlantic fog. It shredded away 10 minutes after we'd set out and the curtain went up on a spectacular Indian Summer day. Not a cloud in the sky.

We rolled through the small town of Dalhousie, up a steep hill, and then back to the sea. . . or, more properly, the Bay of Chaleur. Here the highway went straight as a string along the shore and here the spring acted up again. A leaf in one of the trailer's springs works loose. Every other travelling day I have to get out and get under an knock it into place with a hammer.

While I was struggling under the beast, the ladies had repaired to the sand beach and, when I'd completed my chore, called for me to join them. Well, Moncton was only a couple of hundred miles away. No need to kill ourselves. And that blue, dancing sheet of water had a hypnotic appeal.

I sauntered down to join them, little dreaming (as the saying goes) that it would be six hours later when I'd saunter back.

Sailing Shoes

They'd found a treasure trove of shells of that kind you put to your ear to hear the sea. These were miniatures, exquisitely fashioned and colored with some like pastel calico, some with peppermint-stick swirl in blue and green and gold.

The gals had decided they'd make beautiful necklaces or even earrings and a concerted search was under way for choice specimens. The kids had taken off their shoes and stockings to retrieve the more priceless gems from the water.

I lay back on the warm sand, closed my eyes and dreamed of making a million with a seashell necklace factory. When I glanced up some 10 minutes later I saw that the incoming tide had picked up Judy's oxfords and they were floating like toy ships some distance offshore.

A hundred yards down the beach was a heavy old dory, silver with age (obviously placed there for scenic effect), and with all hands shoving we managed to get her into the water. She took a lot of water, but we poled her out over the sandbars and retrieved the errant shoes, still bone-dry on the inside and obviously headed for Prince Edward Island.

We drifted along with the tide, leaning over the gunwale to watch the show under the bay's calm surface. Small fish flashed through a sinewy forest of sea plants, purple jellyfish undulated bonelessly by and an occasional crab moved rheumatically down a street of kelp.

The tide had now swept us along a quarter of a mile from where the trailer was parked and within earshot of violin music. Looking up, we saw an old and weather-beaten Indian bowing away at a battered fiddle. It was a strange, discordant pixie kind of music but a happy sound and suited to the surroundings.

The old man stood up with an almost audible creaking and beckoned us to come ashore. We beached the dory, which was now half filled with water, and the ancient native came down the beach and said "You like to buy clams?"

The Feast

An hour later we were squatting around a hot fire of driftwood that burned with a green and orange flame. In two old four-pound Crisco tins, each filled with a couple dozen clams, the water was coming to a boil.

Clarence (for that, so help me, was the Indian's monicker) had told us that the secret was to let the water boil over three times. Then the clams would be ready.

At the first boil the grey shells had opened their arms, revealing the pale yellow delicacies inside. The water was the color of milk and with a creamy head on it and the steam drifting by four eager schnozzles had the aroma of the Atlantic in it.

They lived up to his advance notice and, following Clarence's inelegant instructions, we ate them with the fingers, nipping off the black collar at the teeth, and thus gaining every last ounce of that firm, subtly flavored flesh. That such morsels should come from such an uninspiring creature as the clam!

Then we strained the water from the tins and drank the hot nectar which has a tang and a gentle bite. to it like nothing you've ever had before.

When we'd collapsed back on the beach Moncton suddenly seemed an enormous distance away and when the gals wandered off again to augment their shell collection I lay back in the sun, dreaming of making a million with Scott's Own Original Bay of Chaleur Clam Nectar ("It's Brewed Over Driftwood Fires.")

Never did get beyond that 20 miles.

How One Tells Trentonians From Visitors in Town, Watch Reaction to Planes

Trenton (Special) — It's easy to tell a stranger from the Trentonians.

How? Watch the reaction when a big bomber from the RCAF Station, Trenton, zooms low over the business section of the town. Or take a good look when a Harvard trainer snarls above the business blocks. Better still, watch closely when a fast-moving jet whistles over the town.

Trentonians, veterans of more than 10 years of aircraft motors snarling above their heads, pay no attention to the RCAF. Not a head is lifted to see the planes go overhead, even when the roar of the aircraft would drown out ordinary conversation. But up on the other corner, a visitor to the town has his head thrown back, his eyes shaded with his hand, and he's intently watching a jet plane streak across the sky.

That's how you tell the strangers.

In Other Places

Even the young boys, who were probably thrilled in former years if an airliner chanced across the sky above, pay no attention to the lumbering bombers or the greased lightning jets. In other centres, there is a universal craning of heads and necks to see the planes dip and dive. But not in Trenton.

A fair indication of the difference is that officials of exhibitions, including the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, always arrange for flights of aircraft over their location every day. A nice stunt, it provides an added thrill for the fun-seekers. Hence, if you ever go to an exhibition while the planes are wheeling and snarling in the sky, it's an even money bet that that man walking along the midway with his head down, showing little regard for the display, is a Trentonian.

They say here that the bombers dipped so low during the war the pictures rattled on the walls in some houses, and that some housewives gave up trying to hang pictures at all. It isn't as bad now, because the flights aren't as regular, but there are still plenty of aircraft in the sky.

Take a look next time. You'll see how to tell a veteran from a yokel.

Smog Clears But Haze Still Lingers on Lake

Trenton — (Special) — The weatherman snaked his little black book out of his hip pocket yesterday, and gave Trenton just a little bit of everything. Combined with the efforts of Mother Nature and fire out in Alberta his menu for the day ranged from a brassy sun in a cold sky in the morning to a smoky fog at night.

The cold weather of the past week went by the boards early in the morning as the sun came out for the first time. But there were no rays from the sun—it was shaded by high fog most of the morning. By mid-afternoon, the fog seemed to have dispersed for the most part, and the sun's warmth was starting to penetrate.

At night, the procedure was reversed again, and Trenton got a fine dose of the smog that has been pestering communities as far away as Cleveland in the United States and Scotland. By 10.30 headlights on cars were casting gloomy shafts of light through a smog that smelled as smoky as if the fire were in Algonquin Park.

Traffic Slowed in Hollows

On the highway east of the town, traffic was slowed as the heavy smoke settled into the hollows. Visibility was curbed as far as Belleville, where the fog intensity seemed less. Visibility over the lake was poor, and from the bridge over the Trent River, the two small islands at the mouth of the river could barely be distinguished at 11 p.m.

This morning, the sun is back in full force, and while the most of the smog is gone, a haze still lingers over the lake.

Series of Suits Shown by Adrian

New York, Sept. 27 (AP) — Another American revolution was launched yesterday with a declaration of independence by fashion designer Adrian from Hollywood.

In a season when practically every crossroads store in the U.S. is advertising Paris copies, Adrian's all-American collection created a sensation among the fashion press present at his New York showing.

He showed a series of suits which could be entitled "the spirit of '76 with their George Washington jackets, velvet weskits and cocked hats.

Similarly, he showed a discreet grey worsted suit called "Buffalo Bill," with loops of self fabric fringe outlining the sleeves from shoulder to cuff, and adding a pioneer touch to the jacket front.

His collection was divided into three parts—clean-lined coats and suits for town and travel; "at home" clothes for relaxation around the television set or canasta table; and costumes for important evenings.

Some of his street outfits definitely predict the future, such as a dress called "rocket ship," in a pink and maroon checked wool with soaring flanges, suggesting a maid from Mars.

Women's Activities

MT. PLEASANT-RAWDON W.M.S.

Mount Pleasant, Rawdon Woman's Missionary, Auxiliary convened at the church last Wednesday afternoon, one week later than usual.

The pianist played softly and Mrs. Roy Thrasher opened the meeting. There were nine members, two visitors and one Baby Band member in attendance. The treasurer reported over $133 to end of August.

The president received a letter of appreciation for recent memorial service from Rev. F. G. Joblin, Port Perry.

An invitation to attend a special service of St. Paul's W.M.A. to hear Mrs. C. Maxwell Loneys, Home Missions' secretary, was read and some are planning to attend.

Another invitation to visit Springbrook W.A. on Sept. 29th., was accepted and Miss Ruth Linn was asked to furnish the special number.

The delegates chosen for sectional rally were Mrs. John Holmes and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, for reports, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Roy Thrasher and Mrs. Blake Sharp.

The president read, a poem "Power of Prayer", The September theme was "The Spirit of the Cross". Mrs. Thrasher told of the beautiful flowers in Japan and then placed three gladioli in a silver basket on the communion table—a white one to represent heaven; salmon to represent earth, and purple to represent man. A Japanese vase of flowers was also placed on the pulpit. The president thanked Mrs. MacMullen for providing the flowers. After the service they were taken to Mrs. Milford Wrightman.

A special article from the "Missionary Monthly" was read. Mrs. Ross Jeffs read a poem taken from "Songs from the Land of Dawn".

After the outbreak of the war, he was interned for six months and returned to America on the S.S. Gripsholm.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave Chapter one of the Circle Study Book "The United Church Re-enters Japan", by Sybil Courtice. This chapter began with the collapse of Japan in 1945, and told of the excellent work of the faithful Japanese Christians, who carried on mission work despite the devastation of war.

A deputation of missionaries visited Japan and Christian fellowship was restored, based on the words of St. Paul: "Ye are all one in Christ Jesus". Ambassador Grew has said "For better or for worse, Divine providence has placed our respective nations on either side of the Pacific. We are neighbors for all time to come and nothing that anyone can do can alter that fact."

The chapter tells of the destruction of mission property, the relief work of the "L.A.R.A." and the gratitude of the Japanese.

Bright Rainwear In Style, Price For Every Woman

London, (CP)—There's a style and a price for every woman, in this year's British rainwear.

From liquid-shaded, rubber-backed rayons, costing around five guineas ($16.27), prices range upward through gay plaid checks and tartans, tailored gabardines and proofed whipcords from £18 to £20 ($62) convertibles.

Donkey brown gabardine reversing to fine West of England check, or black-and-white dogstooth, alternating with black gabardine, are two of the more popular numbers.

Overseas visitors, however, seem to favor the lively plaid checks and tartans reversed to equally bright gabardines.

For those who dislike the bulky convertibles, there are smooth, silk-lined gabardines with matching hat or hood. A lime-green gabardine with deep, wide raglan sleeve, swing back and optional dog-lead belt, has front cuff-panel of black to match the deep, pointed black collar and cuffs and matching Deerstalker bonnet, Price 18 guineas.

Gay For Dull Winters

The gayest of brighteners for dull British winters, are the shimmer-surface nylon satins with light rubber backs. In shades of orchid-pink, seal black, cherry red and gooseberry, they are in popular demand.

The highlights of this year's rainwear, however, is a soft leather or suede top coat. Combined travel coat, raincoat and winter warmer, it is expensive and ultra-smart.

Lined with tweed or fur, built to defy the hardest winter, part of the charm lies in the exact matching of accessories.

If the top coat is worn over a suit, a smart accessory is the matching waistcoat.

Popular with Canadian, American and Scandinavian buyers are the short boxy suede jackets worn with pencil-slim, tweed or gabardine skirts. With shoes, gloves, hat and bag to match, they make a startingly vivid ensemble.

Colors range from soft tans, browns and mustards to vivid coronation red, purple and emerald green.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

Christianborg, Denmark
The conference gets down to business this morning, meeting where the Danish Parliament assembles. Standards bearing the names of all the countries represented show each delegation where to sit. Lots were drawn for position and unfortunately Canada draws the back of the room. But the loud speaker system is encellent, and as we sit on a raised platform at the back our position is much better than we had hoped.

Mrs. Sayre's report is excellent—showing the wisdom of the delegates in 1947, in naming a woman of such outstanding ability and personal appeal as president of our international organization. I'll just give a few of her statements:

1. "Our primary aim has always been and still is, to promote and maintain friendly and helpful relations between countrywoman's and homemaker's organizations of all nations. 2. I sense a new awareness that the countrywoman no longer lives an isolated life, but that she has, in truth, become a citizen of the world. 3. A.C.W.W. must be ready —not only to co-operate but to give leadership to the formation of countrywoman's associations in every part of the world. 4. What kind of an organization do we really want to be? Are we an organization for action in the international field or are we to be a clearing house for discussion and exchange of opinion and mutual help? 5. I do not believe countrywomen can be very effective in building a peaceful world if they isolate themselves from the bloodstream of international life. I believe the work of the conference will be carried on patiently, conscientiously, co-operatively, democratically. I believe you will all act resolutely and courageously upon the issues where we must make choices.

Consideration of resolutions started this morning and the urgency resolution submitted by Ontario and approved by our Canadian delegatoin came up before the conference. I had been named by the delegation to propose the resolution, which gave me five minutes to speak in support of it, and Mrs. Houck, Brampton, had been named to second it.

I feel you will be interested to know the resolution, coming from Ontario, and after lengthy discussion on board ship, acepted by the Canadian delegation as a whole, here it is: "That a letter be sent from this conference to the Security Council of the United Nations, endorsing its action in the use of force to stop aggressor nations from preying upon weaker ones, and further that we favor a permanent United Nations force to preserve peace." You can see its controversial nature, but Mrs. Sayre's report was just right for its introduction — were we to be a conference that discusses only or one that takes action? I had barely ten minutes to prepare our reasons for presenting it. You understand with what mixed feelings I got up to present our views. Here they are —many of you would have made much better use of that precious ten minutes:

1. We of the Canadian delegation feel this emergency resolution speaks for itself. We all must realize that today United Nations is our only road to peace. 2. We feel that there is great need that men in government today know that they have the support of women in the momentous decisions they are called upon to make. 3. To become an effective body and to make worth while our journeyings of hundreds of miles, we must take a positive stand on matters of international importance. We cannot stay on the fence, if as an organization we are to give guidance and leadership.

4. Our president just stated in her masterly report, 'As countrywomen we have the responsibility of making known to United Nations the position we take in matters with which United Nations is dealing." 5. Our president further stated "Every new development in world conditions has its perils, but it also has its promise." 6. We exist as an organization today and we have grown in influence because we believe in equality, in mutual help and in liberty for all. 7. In two great wars we have seen smaller and weaker nations trampled upon without provocation. As women we are terribly interested in seeing that this does not happen again. 8. Let us take a strong stand in support of United Nations. Let us really measure up to our international status. It is with a firm confidence in the future that I move the acceptance of this urgency resolution. Mrs. J. E. Houck, in seconding, spoke ably, as she always does, in support.

When you cast your mind over the countries represented at the conference and when you recognize that all these countries are not in agreement as to United Nations policy, you will realize the type of discussion that took place. But our resolution was sustained with a large majority —a few voted against and a few abstained from voting, which is their privilege at this conference. Other resolutions of policy and constitution were acted upon during the morning sessions.

At three o'clock our conference was officially opened in the Copenhagen town hall and once again these huge entrance auditoriums were put to good use. Literally thousands of women were present, for all interested could attend, and the Danish housewives were there in full force. We were given three rosebuds for a corsage and were entertained by a Copenhagen orchestra until proceedings got under way, thus giving us ample opportunity to admire this beautiful municipal building with its balconies and galleries and ornate carvings and placques. Mrs. Johannes Dahlerup - Petersen, president of the Danish Housewives, first spoke her welcome. The Prime Minister and the mayor of the city both brought greetings and paid homage to housewives the world over as their task is of the greatest importance to national economy and to the welfare of the nation.

Mrs. Sayre spoke again, stating how delighted we were to come to Copenhagen, where agricultural achievement is so well known. We speak different languages, we owe allegiance to many nations, but we speak a comon language in our love of the land. The future is full of uncertainties, but we must face the days ahead with courage. We have the ability to make real contributions. We must dare to explore what these contributions will be. We need the sound of each other's voices. We need to remember each other's faces when the time for decisions comes.

Her Majesty Queen Ingrid extended a hearty welcome. She is youthful in appearance, very graceful, of average height, was dressed simply in black and wore one of the new tight-fitting hats on the back of her head. She said: "It is of greatest value that women today meet and discuss mutual problems and thus by discussion diminish these problems.

A civic reception in our honor completed the first day of the conference.

NO "TRUTH DRUGS"

London, Sept. 27 (CP)—Dr. Ellis Stungo, of the Department of Psychological Medicine at University College Hospital here, says in an article in the current issue of "The Medical Press" the tag "truth drugs" is an outright misnomer.

"There is no drug which can force an individual to produce facts," he writes. "It is quite possible to be honestly mistaken and the use of drugs cannot enable one to distinguish between what a person believes to be true and what is, indeed factual."

Tips on Home Manicure

The first step in your home mani cure should be the removal of old polish. A sterile cotton ball is handy for this, and does a thorough job.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF convenient, if one has leisure, one should have professional attention for one's finger nails. It is not possible for self-treatment to be as thorough because of the awkwardness of using the left hand to groom the pink sheaths on the right on. Yet there are times when one can't rush away to the beauty works to have a manicurist attend to this necessary matter. Every woman should know how to give her talons a clean-up and once-over.

It is a mistake to start with a handwashing because it softens the nails. Remove polish, (a sterto have a manicurist attend to this use the nail file of flexible steel, pass the orange wood stick under the eaves, have a second shaping with an emery board. Now you are ready for a soapy scrubbing with a nail brush. Don't hurry. The longer the hands remain in warm water, the soften the condition of the cuticle surrounding the nail.

Cuticle Cream

The hands should be thoroughly dry. Apply a cuticle cream, friction it in well. Do circles with the orange wood stick to free the flesh from the nails. Do not press down at base. The slightest pressure may so injure the matrix that a ridged or deformed nail may emerge.

You may flush up some shreds of skin which must be neatly removed with the curved, needle point scissors else you may be tormented with hangnails. Any wound here will invite infection and an infected nail may develop into a serious matter.

Now for a second scrubbing. Every bit of the cream must be removed so the polish will not go patchy. Rinse and dry.

When using liquid polish, let most of it flow from the brush so the application will be only a light film. Two or three minutes later, when this has dried, make a second application.

You will find it worth while to take a look-see at the new veneers. The variety of colors are intriguing. Avoid true red; it is a bit too starling. You have your choice between crimson, cerise, garnet, lovely delicate coral tints and, of course, the standardized wine shades.

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE W.I.

September meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Halsall, Frankford, with fifteen members present. Meeting was opened by Mrs. Milton Grills as president, Mrs. Frank Loney, as secretary, gave the report of last month's meeting. Business for the evening was dealt with. On Nov. 1, a short course will be held in Brookdale school with the topic, "Canning Canadian Foods".

On October 10, Uniondale will serve meals at 'Scott's Sales Barn'. The committee of four was made up to look after ordering and menu for the sale, these being: Mrs. M. Sine, Mrs. H. Frost, Mrs. G. Herrington and Mrs. W. Rose.

Letters were read from Mrs. Fisher, who is trying to start a fund to help needy and crippled children. Reports of proceeds from Belleville Fair were $180.

Program consisted of a reading "Don't Tell", by Mrs. H. Frost; reading, Mrs. H. Richards, "Certain People"; reading, Mrs. G. Burkitt, "A Farm Woman's Day".

A paper was given by Mr. V. Wardle, "Diplomacy is the Art of Letting Others Have Your Way", and was capably given.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

The October meeting is to be held at Scott's United Church, 6th Con. of Sidney, the first Thursday, October 5, with Mrs. Morley Sine as convener. Each member is to bring cookies or sandwiches.

SAMPLE NEW CHAIRS

Hamilton, Sept. 27— (CP)—City council worked overtime last night—sampling new chairs for the council chamber. The samples—upholstered in green, red and mustard — were sought when a spring worked through a chair during a council meeting a short time ago and gave one alderman an uncomfortable session.

Women's Activities

WHITE'S W.A.

White's District—Mrs. George Bilham was hostess to White's Woman's Association on Thursday afternoon last with 18 members, 2 visitors and several children present.

The president, Mrs. Glen Meyers, presided and opened the meeting.

The devotional service was taken by Mrs. Casey Ketcheson. The scripture reading, Isaiah 1:1-6 was read by Mrs. Ketcheson, also a reading entitled "How Thick is Blood?" and one taken from "The Broad Horizon." There was one new member and two members paid dues and joining fees.

It was decided to hold the anniversary at White's Church on Sunday, October 22nd, with a morning and evening service. The Rev. A. C. McCallum was to obtain a guest speaker and plans were made—for special music and anthems. This is to be followed by a hot supper on Tuesday evening, October 24th., climaxed by a worthwhile concert. Committees were named to make all necessary preparations.

Mrs. Ross Stickle now took charge of the program and a reading entitled "Way Back When" was given by Mrs. W. A. Jeffery. "Indian Summer" was read by Mrs. George Bilham. Mrs. Stickle conducted a contest with Mrs. Jim Palmer winning the prize.

Ottawa — (CP) — Those same old sandwiches day after day — they're monotonous to make and can become pretty dull eating unless mother determines to introduce a little variety into junior's school lunch.

Health experts warn that a child's health as well as his progress and interest in school may be affected by the meals he eats. In view of this, the school lunch should be regarded as more than just a mid-day snack. It is a mid-day meal. Sandwiches are easy to carry and nutritious if ample portions of the right fillings are selected.

Meat and poultry: Sliced, with lettuce. To left-over meat loaf, bologna or liver, add grated onion, celery or carrot.

Fish: Flaked with cucumber, or tomato juice.

Egg: (Hard cooked or scrambled) chopped or mashed with diced celery, parsley or chopped onion.

Cheese: Sliced or grated, plain or with onion, lettuce, celery, parsley, jam, jelly or nuts.

Peanut Butter: Plain or with honey or molasses, banana or other fruit.

Vegetables: Shredded lettuce, sliced tomato, cucumber, radish, chopped raw cabbage, carrot with raisins or grated cheese, baked beans.

Fruit: Chopped raisins, dates or prunes.

A hot dish in the school lunch is highly acceptable, particularly in cold weather. Food should be selected which can be successfully heated. It is placed in a glass jar labelled with his name. This can be heated in a hot water bath at school.

Creamed beef may be the selected hot dish, accompanied by raw carrot, brown bread, cookies and milk.

Thick vegetable soup is another easy-to-make preparation. Brown bread also may go along with this, together with an apple for dessert and milk.

From the tea bureau come several interesting suggestions for dressing up the popular beverage.

Tea Cocktail: One tea bag; one cup boiling water; one cup grapefruit juice; two teaspoons lemon juice; cracked ice.

Add boiling water to tea bag and brew for five minutes. Remove the bag and allow the brew to drop to room temperature. Put into a cocktail shaker or jar with tight-fitting cover, add fruit juices and cracked ice. Cover tightly and shake vigorously until the ice is practically dissolved. Serves from four to six persons.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

Those who live close to the soil don't always enjoy its fruits—and vegetables.

While crowded apartment dwellers in cities can eat fresh strawberries for Christmas and baby string beans in March, rural folks live on potatoes, turnips and dried beef. Not all of them own deep freezes with a store of garden vegetables. They can't get to city markets which receive fresh food from all sections of the country in summer and winter.

Tests by the Maine Experiment Station showed that nearly half of Maine's farmers were suffering deficiencies in carotene and vitamin C. They needed green and yellow vegetables as well as tomatoes, cabbage and citrus fruits in their diet.

Farmers who toil cannot be expected to live on a pallid vegetable plate. But a green vegetable like broccoli, when baked with a smooth, cheese flavored sauce should draw respect from the staunchest Maine lumberman.

Scalloped Broccoli—4 Servings

Remove leaves from 1 medium size bunch of broccoli. Wash the stalks well. Cut thick ends of stems lengthwise into quarters or sixths to hasten cooking.

Bring 1-2 inch of water in a saucepan to a boil. Add 1 teaspoon salt. Add broccoli.

Cook covered until broccoli is barely tender. Avoid overcooking. Check water in saucepan occasionally to see that it has not evaporated. Drain broccoli. Place in a baking dish.

In a saucepan melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Remove from flame. Mix in 2 tablespoons flour. Gradually add 1 1-2 cups hot milk. Add 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Return pan to a slow flame. Simmer slowly 10 minutes.

Remove pan from flame. Add 1-4 cup grated cheese and 1 slightly beaten egg yolk. Mix well.

Pour sauce over broccoli. Sprinkle with 1-4 cup bread crumbs. Sprinkle lightly with salad oil, or dot with butter. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Place pan in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, until crumbs are brown, 20-30 minutes.

Officials Estimate 50,000 Troops Available Without U.S. Help if Drive Continues

EARNS MORE MEDALS

One of the most decorted men in the U.S. Marine Corps, Lieut-Col. "Chesty" Puller, is on the way to acquiring a few more medals for his tunic. Leading the marines in Seoul, his jeep could usually be seen where fighting was the most violent, was the object of sniper fire so often that count has been lost of the number of times. — Central Press Canadian.

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP) — If the United Nations undertakes to restore peace and order in North Korea, American officials figure that other member countries have 50,000 troops available for the job without U.S. help.

The United States is telling friendly U.N. members in informal negotiations they will have to carry the main burden if the current military drive in South Korea crosses the 38th parallel or if the U.N. decides to place an army of occupation in North Korea after the fighting stops.

This attitude is aimed at quieting any possible Russian fears the U.S. is edging in for a position from which a blow might be aimed at the Sovict.

Any such plans are based on an assumption that Russian or Chinese communist troops will not move into North Korea.

American forces in South Korea are in process of being reinforced by some 30,000 ground troops from nine other U.N. members.

Officials are hopeful that India and Pakistan which have kept out of the actual fighting, may contribute substantial military forces to join other U.N. troops already available for such duties as occupation administration and supervision of elections.

Authorized officials gave this summary of aid from other countries to date:

Ground troops already in Korea—Britain, approximately 5,000; Phillippines, vanguard of a regimental combat team of about the same size.

Troops due to sail shortly — Turkey, Greece and Thailand, one regimental combat team each; Australia and New Zealand 2,000 each; Belgium and Netherlands, one or two companies. Canada's contingent of 10,000 sails in November for Okinawa for final training.

Naval — Canada, Australia, France, Netherlands, New Zealand and Britain have units operating with the American sea forces. The Royal Navy contingent includes an aircraft carrier.

Air—Combat units from Australia and South Africa are in action or en route, as are transport planes from Canada, Belgium and Greece. British naval planes have been taking part in the fighting.

Non-combat contributions include army hospitals from Sweden and India and a hospital ship from Denmark. Other contributions include rice from Thailand, medical supplies from Denmark, Israel and the Philippines, wheat from Pakistan, and cash from Lebanon, Uruguay and Ethiopia.

DO VANISHING ACT

Manila, Sept. 27 (AP) —A big band of communist-led Hukbalahaps pulled a vanishing act today.

The Philippine army figured that for two days it had several hundred guerrillas surrounded in a jungle village about 20 miles south of Manila.

Sporadic gunfire was exchanged throughout Monday night. The army got reinforcements yesterday and poured mortar fire in to the area last night. Patrols went in early today. They found only trees and shrubs.

'Crisis Greatest In Civilization' Says Cardinal

London, Sept. 27 (AP) —Francis Cardinal Spellman said today that the peace created after the Second World War has been "squandered," and that every man in the world today now faces the "greatest crises in the history of civilization."

The Cardinal, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, spoke to the congregation gathered in Westminster Cathedral for a special mass held as part of celebrations of the 100th anniversary of the re-establishment in England of the Catholic hierarchy.

Spellman's sermon depicted spreading communism as the anti-Christ bringing "peril out of the east, bent upon robbing God of His glory on earth."

Cardinal Spellman called for a return to Christian religion as a means of gaining lasting peace.

Wolves Carry Off Four Children Near Lucknow, India

Lucknow, India, Sept. 27—(Reuters) — Wolves terrorizing people in parts of the United provinces carried off four young children near Lucknow Monday night, reports reaching here today indicated. The children were from two months to three years old.

Wolves and hyenas have so far taken a toll of 23 children in and around Lucknow, according to reports.

Troops, helped by police and hunters, yesterday continued their operations against the hunger-mad marauders from the jungle.

MUST LOCAL KOREAN WAR SAYS NEHRU

New Delhi, India, Sept. 27 — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has told communist China the Korean war must be localized and has expressed the desirability of a peaceful solution, an authoritative source said today.

The source denied reports, however, that India had threatened to withdraw her support of red China if the regime there sent its troops to Korea or Formosa.

PRODUCE SECRET ALLOY

Birmingham, England, Sept. 27 (Reuters) — A Birmingham rolling mill is producing a secret alloy designed to improve the performance of jet engines, which may give Britain the lead in jet propulsion. British security has just been lifted on even the mention of the name of the alloy, "Nimonic 90." What goes into it besides Canadian nickel still remains a closely-guarded secret.

SPOTTY DAMAGE

Leamington, Sept. 27—(CP) — Two successive nights of frost has caused spotty damage to crops in this southwestern Ontario area. Farmers said that heavy smoke from Alberta forest fires over the district probably prevented damage from being heavier.

Pay of Soldier Goes to Wife On Assignment

Ottawa, Sept. 27 (CP) — The army said Tuesday pay arrangements for the special United Nations force work out so that the wife of a private with children gets, by automatic assignment, more than 70 percent of his total pay.

A spokesman said the arrangements for the thousands of married men in the force come under two headings, one covering those with no children and the other embracing these with children.

There is no longer any special allowance for children as there was in the last war. A soldier gets so much pay and out of that total the army assigns a certain amount to his wife. There is nothing to stop the soldier from giving her more from his own portion but that isn't compulsory. The assignment is:

The system works out this way:

A married private gets a total of $141 a month. Of this his wife gets $94, he $47 if they have no children. If they have children regardless of number, she gets $103 of the $141, he gets the remainder of $38. If he wants to give her part of that $38 he can.

HARVESTING STARTS

St. Thomas, Sept. 27—(CP) — Harvesting of Elgin County's late apple crop has started but producers say the outlook is not too good. Despite heavy spraying, many of the apples are diseased.

GAS PUMPS NEEDED

Meshaw, England, Sept. 27—(AP)—The local council has approved erection of two gasoline pumps in this little Devon village after a motorist complained he had to buy up the town's lighter fluid supply to nurse his car to the nearest filling station.

Another Attempt Being Made to Launch Project

New York, Sept. 27 (CP) — The Ontario Hydro Commission and the New York State Power Authority plan another attempt to get federal approval in the United States and Canada for the proposed St. Lawrence River Power project, Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Commission, said Tuesday night.

Saunders said he talked Tuesday with New York State officials on the steps to be taken.

If the development goes ahead, he said, it will not interfere with long-term plans for a future seaway project.

"Our plan for joint power development provides for future navigation development," Saunders said.

Ontario and New York asked for approval of the project in 1948 after consideration of the seaway was shelved. The U.S. government withheld approval and Canada followed suit.

Driver is Told to Drive More Carefully

Winchelsea, England, Sept. 27—(AP)—Winchelsea's 13th-century strand gate, built by Edward I, cannot be a nuisance—it's an ancient monument, a judge has ruled.

A furniture company sued the town for damages to one of its trucks which hit a hook sticking out from the gate.

"A most ungracious action," snorted Judge K. F. Archer as he told the truck driver to drive more carefully the next time.

Offer Services In Civil Defence

Guelph, Sept. 27 (CP)— Services of the Electrical Contractors Association of Ontario were offered yesterday to the provincial government in civil defence organizations.

The move was the highlight of a day-long session which saw 30 zones of the association represented. The organization takes in an area from Port Arthur to Kingston and from Kirkland Lake to Toronto and Windsor.

It was pointed out that electrical contractors could render great service to municipalities in controlling fires by removing wiring hazards both before and after a bombing attack.

Barking Dog Saves Life of Owner

Toronto, Sept. 27 — (CP)—A barking dog aroused Thomas Vandemark last night in time for him to escape from a 2,000 fire that roared through his house. But Vandemark couldn't save 16 prize canaries that he kept in the kitchen.

$15,375 DAMAGES AWARDED

Brantford, Sept. 27—(CP) — Damages of $15,375 were awarded yesterday to Mrs. Frank Casey and her three young children, who sought $20,000 in a lawsuit over the death of Mrs. Casey's husband in a traffic accident a year ago.

The husband, 26, was struck by an automobile while on his way home from visiting his wife in hospital a few days after she had given birth to the couple's third child. A jury found George De Palmo, driver of the car, 75 per cent negligent.

Street Car Fares Will be Increased In Toronto

Toronto, Sept. 27—(CP)—Mayor Hiram McCallum said Tuesday night that Toronto Transportation Commission fares will be increased to three tickets for 25 cents. The rate now is four tickets for 25 cents.

He told delegates to the Chamber of Commerce of Quebec province at a civic dinner that the T.T.C. would charge the same fare underground as on the surface when the city's subway is completed.

The mayor gave no indication as to when the increase would become effective or whether it would be deferred until the subway is finished.

He said that in Detroit the fare is 13 cents and in most other cities 10 cents.

CANNOT DRINK IN HALL

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP) — If you live in a rooming house it is illegal to drink beer in the hall, Magistrate F. C. Gullen ruled Tuesday.

It cost Terry O'Neill $10 and costs to find out. Mr. O'Neill has a grocery store with an apartment above it. He lives in three rooms and rents the others. Police said they found 72 pints of beer in the hall outside O'Neill's living room last Sept. 17.

Magistrate Gullen's ruling: "The building as a whole may be construed as a private residence only to the tenants but the privacy does not extend to any individual tenants. The hallway was not exclusive to O'Neill."

Department Asks Tougher Penalties For Desertion

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP) —The Ontario Welfare Department wants to toughen the penalties for men who desert their wives and had asked municipalities for information on desertion cases.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow told reporters Tuesday: "The alarming number of desertion and separation cases receiving public assistance in the form of direct relief is a major concern of the department."

He said he believes something must be done to halt the increased number of desertion cases. He has asked municipalities for data on the types and lengths of desertions and the efforts that have been made to track down absconding husbands and make them contribute to the support of their wives and families.

Kennedy Blames Wholesalers And Distributors

Toronto, Sept. 26 — (CP) — Wholesalers and distributors were blamed today by Agriculture Minister Kennedy for the high cost of foodstuffs in the Toronto district.

Declaring food distribution cost more in Toronto than in New York and Washington, the minister said immediate steps should be taken to correct the situation.

Mr. Kennedy said that Toronto's distribution was being conducted under the same set-up as it was when the city had a population of only 100,000. As a result labor costs were away out of proportion.

Completion of the Ontario Farmer's Market on Lakeshore Road on the outskirts of the city in a year or two would result in reduction by 66 per cent, he said.

The Ontario farmer was not reaping any benefit from increased prices, the minister said. In 1949 the farmer received $22.60 per ton for tomatoes while this year the return was $21.85. Green peas which returned $78 a ton last year netted $75 this year; sweet corn $22.50 a ton in 1949 only returned $18.75 this year; green waxed beans dropped to $80 a ton as against $82.50 last year; beets held their own at $60 as did cabbage.

Milk Prices Compared

Milk producers get more for their milk in western Canada and the consumer pays less per quart, Agriculture Minister Kennedy said today in announcing he intended to survey prices in Buffalo and Detroit as a result of the boost in Toronto prices.

He said that in Edmonton and Calgary the milk producer gets $4.59 per cwt. as compared to $4.07 1-2 in Ontario. He added that milk, in the west, retailed for 18 cents a quart while in Ontario the price was .19 cents and in Toronto now 20 cents.

In Montreal, he said, the price paid the producer was $4.10 per cwt. and the retail price 17 1-2 cents a quart.

The minister said there was obviously something wrong with the distribution system in Toronto.

Don McKinnon, probation officer for the Belleville and Hastings County Family Court was guest speaker at the regular Kinsmen Club dinner meeting held at the Hotel Quinte Monday evening.

Mr. McKinnon gave a very informative and highly interesting talk on the activities of the family court and on the many and varied duties of a probation officer. His talk was well received by the club members who were out in good numbers for the first full meeting under their new president Murray Davis.

The Kinsmen Club will sponsor a hockey team in the Bantam hockey league to operate this coming winter. The club voted $100 to assist in carrying the team during the playing season.

Members discussed their club Ladies' Night to be held during October at Tobe's county gardens.

Owing to Thanksgiving Day falling on October 9th, the next regular meeting date of the club, there will be no meeting on this date.

St. Paul's Anglican Church Holds Harvest Festival

Marmora—The annual harvest festival of St. Paul's Anglican Church was held on Sunday. The church was decorated for the occasion with flowers, colored leaves, grain, vegetables and fruit. Rural Dean, J. M. Brownlie, officiated at an early celebration of Holy Communion. Rev. F. F. Downing, rector of Tweed, officiated at the 11 a.m. service of morning prayer.

Mrs. R. Frost was organist in the absence through illness of Mrs. L. R. Rundle. The choir sang, Praise to the Lord, the Almighty, the King of Creation," during the offertory.

Rev. F. F. Downing preached an appropriate sermon on the character of Jacob, in which he stressed the duty of giving God thanks for His goodness, and the folly of seeking to condition God.

No other truck comes close to these 12 features you get in a GMC

Before you buy a new truck, study the chart above. It lists twelve important facts about the trucks offered by GMC and other makers in Canada. You'll find yourself drawing two main conclusions from it:

1. No matter what you want in a truck, GMC offers it . . . there's no need to look beyond GMC, for GMC and GMC alone offers every style, every capacity, every feature you can require.

2. You can't afford to buy any other make, if real truck value is what you're after! For time after time as you go through the list you'll find a feature you want—important to your profits or comfort or safety—that's offered by none of the other makers listed! No other maker offers more than 2 of the 12 features that the GMC line, up to and including the three ton, gives you.

GMC's many plus values help to explain why a GMC will give you years longer service—with lower maintenance cost. It's a real truck—built by the world's largest exclusive maker of commercial vehicles.

Your GMC dealer will be glad to show you the ruggedly handsome new 1950 models—in a wide range of types and sizes to fill every need. Measured in years of extra service, a GMC is your most economical buy.

Pat Maracle Hurls Three-Hit Shutout as Point Anne Evens Series With Howe-Hagerman

There were two kinds of fog at the Fair Grounds last night. One was the near-miasmic kind that hung over the baseball diamond and the other was that used by Pat Maracle, Point Anne ace righthander who hung a juicy duck-egg on the Howe and Hagerman team and won by a 3-0 score.

Maracle "fogged" the upholstered baseball past Cy Barriage's "How-Hags" in the second game of their Commercial Softball League 'A' section finals in a three-hit effort, that evened the three-of-five series at one-all. The third game is scheduled for the Fair Grounds Thursday night in the top-half of another mushball doubleheader.

Fine Pitching

In one of the best, if not the best game of the season, the Point Anners swept back to the form that gave them a three straight string of victories over the Brewers Warehouse team and the right to enter the finals against the Howe and Hagerman squad.

To the dusky hurler must go the main credit for the win although his team fielded superbly behind him. They bobbled the ball on two occasions but no damage was done. Maracle swept that fast ball past eleven How-Hags for strikeouts and issued one base on balls. He fielded his position flawlessly and had four putouts and three assists. Only 32 men faced him over the nine-inning route and on the three occasions Howe and Hagerman threatened to score he came through with brilliant clutch pitching to retire the side.

Al Adams, who went the route for the losers deserved a better fate. He gave up but six hits, one a screaming home run that blasted into deep right field off the bludgeon of Horwood, Point Anne second baseman in the eighth. Adams whiffed seven and walked two.

Score in Third

Errors did not help Adams cause, paving the way for two of the runs scored against him. A pair of wild heaves in the third plus three hits, one a scratch bunt enabled Point Anne to shove over the first marker.

Finlan, first man up for Point Anne in that innings lined out the first hit off Adams and went to second on a wild throw. He scooted for third and another throw that saw the ball go nearly out of the park sent him across the plate. Logue banged out the second hit of the innings and Sword struck out, Jack Hunter laid down a scratch bunt and both runners advanced on a passed ball. Adams settled down and struck out Horwood and Everettt, the Point Anne big guns to end the rally.

The Ox Pointers got their second marker in the fifth on a How-Hag error after Sword had slammed a hit to the outfield. Jack Hunter sacrificed him to second and when the How-Hag second baseman bobbled the ball and let it roll past him, Sword galloped across the plate. Horwood went out on a force at second after reaching first on the error and Adams struck out Brant to retire the side.

Came Horwood's screaming line drive into deep right field in the eighth for a round-tripper and the scoring was over for the evening.

Only One Reached Third

Only one Howe and Hagerman batter reached third base and he was Adams, the first baseman, who reached there by virtue of a Point Anne error, a sacrifice and a passed ball. Two reached second base on an error and the other a passed ball, but the three rallies died as Maracle retired the side.

Rollins, Wardhaugh and D. Adams were the only How-Hags to connect safely with the Maracle slants while Finlan bashed out a pair of singles to pace the Point offensive. Horwood's homer and singles by Logue, Jack Hunter and Sword accounted for the remaining Point Anne hits.

The teams:

Point Anne: Sword, 3b; Jack Hunter, lf; Horwood, 2b; Everett, cf; Brant, c; Baldwin, ss; Maracle, p, Finlan, rf; Logue, 1b.

Howe and Hagerman: Rollins, 2b; Amo, cf; Spafford, ss; D. Adams, c; Mallory, c; Wardhaugh rf; Donovan, lf; Doyle, 3b; Al. Adams, p. Tomaso batted for Doyle in the eighth.

Miss Canada on Way to Picton For Trial Run

(By The Canadian Press)

The unlucky Miss Canada IV will be taken to Picton today for another assault on the world's powerboat speed record.

She will probobly make a trial run Friday, and, if all goes well, will attempt to beat the world record Saturday.

Owner Harold Wilson, Ingersoll sportsman, has said the attempt will be his last fling at the title in the boat that has run into trouble on nearly every record attempt it has made. Present record is 160.3 miles an hour, set by Stan Sayres of Seattle in Slo-Mo-Shun.

Miss Canada IV isn't the only racing boat with tough luck. An attempt to take a turn too fast resulted in the sinking Sunday of the $100,000 "Miss Pepsi" at New Martinsville, West Virginia.

Damage was estimated at $3,000 when the boat was fished out of the water Tuesday. "Miss Pepsi" was also after the world record when the mishap occurred.

Bob Moran, president of Toronto Argonauts, says he had heard nothing about a protest that an official of the Ottawa Rough Riders claimed was made by three of the big four football clubs against alleged illegal blocking by Argo backfielders.

Moran said if Ottawa, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes had protested, it appeared to be a case of "sour grapes" on their part because of Argos' success this season.

J. P. (Jimmy) McCaffrey, vice-president and general manager of the riders, said the three other clubs think that Argo halfbacks "are getting away" with too much illegal interference. He added that they are asking for strict enforcement of the rule, which allows backs to block only one yard in front of the line of scrimmage.

Moran said McCaffrey "is crying out of his teacups." He pointed out that Argos beat the Rough Riders for the first time in two years last Saturday and it appears that McCaffrey "can't take it."

Moran said there are efficient referees in the league and "surely they are more capable than McCaffery in knowing when illegal interference is committed."

Pete Peterson of the Brantford Navy Club pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Stratford Kroehlers in the Memorial League finals to win 5-0. Pete saved his own no-hitter by knocking down two line drives and throwing the batters out at first base. Brantford leads the best of five series 2-0.

Lou Alter, Montreal featherweight making his first appearance in a British ring, scored a technical knockout over Stan Rowan in the seventh round of a scheduled eight-rounder in London Tuesday night. Each weighed 126 pounds.

Tommy Farr, who went 15 rounds with former world champion Joe Louis in 1937, starts on the comeback trail today.

He will meet Jan Klein, Dutch heavyweight champion at Pontypridd, Wales just a few hours before Louis comes out of retirement to fight Ezzard Charles at Yankee Stadium, New York for the world title.

Arthur King, British Empire lightweight boxing champion from Toronto, dropped a 10-round decision to Bobby Lloyd of Kingston, Pa., at Wilkes-Barre last night. King weighed 138¼ pounds Lloyd 139¼.

In running his record to 37 victories in 39 starts, Lloyd won the nod of all three officials. Judge Stanley Kulakowski gave Lloyd seven rounds and King three. Referee Johnny Kelly and Judge Andy Mihal saw it five and two with three even.

The defeat was King's first in his last 18 starts. But Tuesday night he was no match for the Kingston boxer as Lloyd beat him to the punch consistently.

McFater Earns Decision Over Young Junior

Toronto, Sept. 27 (CP)—Alan McFater earned a unanimous decision over tough Young Junior of Springfield, Mass., with a late flurry of furious action in an eight-round bout before about 4,200 fight fans here Tuesday night.

McFater who trailed the American in early rounds, weighed 138 3-4 pounds, Junior 136 3-4.

The Springfield Negro took an early lead on points, and bothered McFater throughout with a stinging left jab. But from the fifth round on it was all McFater. He drove Junior to the ropes with a rapid flurry of punches in the final round.

Avon Jewellers Oust Bakelite In 3 Straight

Avon Jewellers won the right to enter the Commercial Softball League 'B' section finals last night when they defeated the Bakelite squad by an 8-6 score in the fourth game of their three-of-five semi-finals series.

The victory was the third straight for the jewellery lads with the Bakelite team taking the first victory in the opening game.

Avons meet the Bateman Motors in the first game of the three-of-five finals series on Thursday night in the opening half of a doubleheader at the Exhibition Grounds. Batemans became finalists when the Belleville Motors defaulted their semi-finals series because of inability to field a team at the time laid down by the loop executive.

Bakelite threw a bad scare into the supporters of the Jewellers in the eighth inning, when trailing by three runs they smashed out four hits for a trio of tallies to even the score.

Avons however, came back strongly in their half of the innings to score a brace of runs and clinch the game and series.

Game Tied Three Times

The game was tied three times before the winners made victory definite in the eighth. Both teams scored single runs in the third and Avons forged ahead by two tallies in the fourth only to have the planters even the score in the next frame.

Scoring three in the fifth and blanking the opposition until the eighth, the Jewellers appeared to have the game in the bag, when the Bakelite bats exploded in that inning to draw up on level terms.

"Yank" McBride went the route for the winners and was touched for nine hits two of them homers by "Pied Piper" (bat breaker) Peever who homered with one aboard, and Cousins. McBride struck out four and issued three walks.

The Jewellers got to Burtch, Bakelite hurler for 11 clouts two of them homers by Ford and Ethier and a double by Bellios. He whiffed six and did not issue a free ticket to first.

Cousins led the hit parade for the losers with a homer and two singles. Peever's homer and singles by Burley, Littlejohn, Powers, Lucas and Burtch rounded out the team clouts.

"Hank" Ford paced the Jewellers offensive with a homer and two singles with Ethier connecting for a round tripper and a single. Bellois hit a double and single and B. McTaggart, Cowan, McBride and Reid pounded out singles.

The Teams:—

Avons: Reid cf; Cowan, c; McTaggart, lf; McBride p; B. McTaggart 3b; Miller rf; Bellios 1b; Ford ss; Ethier 2b.

Bakelite: Cook lf; Arnott 2b; Burley ss; Cousins c; Littlejohn 3b; Powers 1b; Peever rf; Lucas cf; Burtch p; Lawn 1b.

UNLUCKY THIRTEEN?

At 10 o'clock tonight Joe Louis, the Dark Bomber, the Sepia Slugger, the Black Panther, call him what you will, may embark "on the last mile," so to speak. Then again he may not. Mayhap he will "live" to retire again, and like the late Sir Harry Lauder, make another farewell appearance.

Tonight at Yankee Stadium, N'Yawk, the dark phantom of the ring, in the opinion of many the greatest heavyweight champion of them all, will hurl his leather against a much lighter, much less fancied fighter, one Ezzard Charles, another colored moustachioed boxer, who wears the bauble of the heavyweight championship on his woolly pate.

The experts, the lads in the know, alas are divided in their opinions as to the outcome of the fight. Gene Tunney has said Louis will win in five rounds. (If he doesn't, look out.) Others are of the opinion Charles will thump the former champion into defeat. Louis thinks he can win, Charles figures it is in the bag.

The bookies favor Louis at 1 to 2. If you think Ezzard can send Joe to bye-bye, one will get you five.

But there is another angle to this fight which may have some effect on whom you lay next year's payment on the mortgage. If you are the superstitious type think well before you go gallivanting around, tossing your shekels heavily on the Louis chances. If you are not superstitious, then go ahead and shoot the works.

Joe Louis is the 13th heavyweight champion since 1900 to emerge from secondary cover, don the gloves and attempt a comeback up that long hard trail. And twelve of them have failed.

Yes, kiddies, twelve wearers of the heavyweight purple have continued to hurl leather after defeat or retirement, and all dozen have tasted the stigma of defeat.

Five of them — Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Jack Dempsey and Max Schmelling, climbed back in the ring with the current champion, and all five came out on the wrong end of the decision.

Gentleman Jim Corbett, who took a licking from Bob Fitzsimmons in 1897, had a couple of whacks at Jim Jeffries who took the title from Ruby Robert in 1899. Jim squared off in front of Jeff the first time, in 1900, and was put to sleep in the 23rd round. He tried again in 1903 and this time Jeff applied the K.O. in ten heats.

In 1902, Jeffries had whipped Fitzsimmons, putting him to sleep in eight rounds.

Then came Jeffries turn. In 1910 he attempted the comeback trail after listening to the pleas of those who wanted a white champion. He made the mistake of dropping his guard too often in front of Jack Johnson and heard the birdies twitter after fifteen rounds of terrific punishment.

Johnson, who shaded his eyes from the Havana sun while big Jess Willard stood over him and heard the referee intone the count of ten, never had a chance to hit the comeback path. Neither did big Jess who went down before the murderous gloves of Jack Dempsey in 1919.

Dempsey's knockout by Gene Tunney and his famous long-count comeback failure needs no recounting here. Max Schmelling made the mistake of climbing back into the ring with Joe Louis in 1938 and after one round was willing to call it a night. In fact, he had to.

Other champions who battled after being dethroned but who never got a second chance at a champion, were Jack Sharkey, Primo Carnera, Max Baer and Jimmy Braddock.

So twelve of them have tried and failed. Now the question is, Will the superstitious jinx hold good in the case of Louis, or will it?

Tonight will tell the story.

Jinx or no jinx, superstition or no superstition, and we were born on Friday the 13th, here goes: Louis in the eighth.

By the way, the Louis - Charles fight is being televised and radioed tonight starting at 10 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time. We understand the show is being T-V'd over the Columbia Broadcasting System, while the CBS chain will also carry the blow-by-blow description.

Batawa is up in Bowmanville as this is being read, battling in the fourth game of the War of the Roses. Art Wright was the big thorn in the side of the Bowmanville team here on Monday night and it is likely Gordie Muffitt who defeated the Roses last Saturday will get the pitching nod. If the Roses win this afternoon the squads take off in the payoff playoff in Exhibition Grounds on Saturday night.

THEY'RE BACK AGAIN . . .

The Fred Atkins - Leering Lee Henning team gloated gleefully last Friday night after they had received referee Bert Maxwell's decision over those dashing Adonises of the ring, Whipper Billy Watson and Timothy Geohagen. But the latter pair figure the Atkins-Henning duo had too much co-operation from the umps, so they promptly demanded a re-match and another referee. And look who's coming? None other than the ole reliable arbiter "Bunny" Dunlop "Bunny" is known for his showmanship and likewise his ability to keep matters in hand especially when the going is tough. There'll be no partiality come Friday, when the furry fireworks will again light up Walter Gerow's wrestling cathedral . . . Ski Hi Lee, the towering Ozark is back again and will meet popular Ray Gunkel . . . Jim "Goon" Henry will attempt to subdue Toar Morgan in the opener.

N.Y. Yankees and Phillies In Position to Cinch Major Loop Flags in Today's Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

This could be "Flag Day" for New York Yankees and Philadelphia Phillies.

New York's magnificent "clutch" team and Philadelphia's dashing youngsters are in a position to lock up the American and National League championships before sundown and put to rest all the feverish excitement over who will play in the 1950 World Series.

This would make a mere formality of the weekend windup that was figured to be loaded with high tension stuff.

AMERICAN

	W.	L.	GB	GL
New York	96	54		4
Detroit	92	57	3½	5
Boston	91	57	4	6

NATIONAL

	W.	L.	GB	GL
Philadelphia	90	58		6
Brooklyn	84	62	5	8

The so-called magic number for the Yankees thus is two. For the Phillies it's three.

That means any combination of those numbers—in victories for the Yanks or Phils and defeats for their challengers — would clinch the pennant.

Yankees moved today into Philadelphia for two games with the last-place Athletics before finishing off against Boston at Fenway Park.

A Yankee victory linked with a single loss for Detroit and Boston would return the Bronx Bombardiers to familiar World Series surroundings without further ado.

Must Keep Winning

Detroit Tigers, their once-flaming pennant hopes chilled by a last week letdown, met the cantankerous St. Louis Browns at Detroit. Boston entertained Washington in a doubleheader. Both must keep winning to stay "alive."

The Phillies, meanwhile —already long overdue in staging their flag-clinching party — moved into New York where the first item of business was a doubleheader with New York Giants.

The challenging Brooklyn Dodgers, five games in arrears, play the Boston Braves twice at Ebbets Field. The Phillies could clinch by winning two while the Dodgers split or by splitting while the Dodgers lost a pair.

Yankees manager Casey Stengel wasn't in a mood to prolong things.

He sent his ace lefthander, Ed Lopat (18-8), to the mound against the Athletics. Tomorrow he'll come back with 21-game winner Vic Raschi, in hopes of taking all pressure off the windup two game series at Boston's Fenway Park.

At Detroit, manager Red Rolfe sent out Art Houtteman, his 19-game winner, against St. Louis' Dick Starr, (7-5), a former Yankee.

The Phillies also shot for a quick decision, pitching Robin Roberts and Bubba Church against the Giants' Jim Hearn and Dave Koslo.

Roberts is making his fourth shot at the 20-victory mark.

Brooklyn Dodgers, still hugging hopes of a miracle pennant used Don Newcombe and Dan Bankhead on the mound against Boston's Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn.

All But Disappeared

The Tigers' pennant hopes, already ebbing, all but disappeared yesterday when they could get no better than a split with the Browns.

The Brownies won the opener 3-1 behind Don Johnson after the Tigers left a dozen men on bases. They were ahead 3-1 in aftermath until George Kell unloaded the bases in the eighth to help the Tigers to a 5-3 triumph.

They had a chance to pick up ground on the Yankees who lost a weird game to Washington Senators 11-9 before snatching the second 10-7.

After spotting the Senators a 10-1 lead in the opener, the champions had the winning run on base in the ninth with one out but couldn't quite make it as Mickey Harris put down the uprising.

Phillies eliminated Boston's last mathematical hope of a pennant by whipping the Braves 8-7. Bob Miller was relieved by Jim Konstanty, making his 71st relief appearance for a major league record. Konstanty in turn was relieved by Blix Donnelly, who was the winner.

Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo banged home runs as the Dodgers turned back the Giants 8-4.

Cleveland Indians blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0 on Early Wynn's six-hit pitching at Cleveland. Al Rosen homered for the Indians.

Further misery befell the once mighty St. Louis Cardinals who lost to Cincinnati 7-2.

GIVEN GREEN LIGHT IN TITLE BOUT

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, chief physician for New York State's athletic commission, is seen giving Ezzard Charles, N.B.A. heavyweight champion, a preliminary check-up at his training camp at South Fallsburg, N.Y., prior to giving Charles the go-ahead sign for his title bout with Joe Louis in New York's Yankee Stadium tonight. Looking on is Dan Dowd, the commission's executive secretary. Despite cold, gloomy weather for the past few days in New York, fight officials reported that the advance ticket sale indicated a gate of approximately $300,000. Wonder what Joe is thinking?
—Central Press Canadian.

Flood of Charles Money Lowers Louis' Odds

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Sept. 27—(AP)—Joe Louis, who retired two years ago, battles Ezzard Charles at the Yankee Stadium tonight in an effort to become the first heavyweight titleholder in history to regain the prized crown.

A fresh flood of Charles money has dropped the price on the title fight to 5-to-8 in favor of the Brown Bomber.

If the odds hold up until the 10 p.m. (EST) fight time, Louis may enter the ring at the shortest odds since he first won the heavyweight crown from Jimmy Braddock in Chicago June 22, 1937.

Not since his second scrap with Max Schmeling 12 years ago has Louis been held in such low esteem by the bookmakers. That night he was the 5 to 9 choice when he annihilated the Uhlan in one round.

A crowd of around 30,000, paying from $3 to $30, is expected to visit the big ball park.

Another 25,000,000 fans probably will watch the 15-round bout via television and millions more will listen in on the radio broadcast over a national CBS network. The fight descriptive will be shortwaved to Australia, Korea, Europe and all over Latin America.

The weatherman is optimistic. He says it will be warm, "In the mid-seventies," with increasing cloudiness in the evening.

As for the fight itself, it boils down to this:

Can Louis catch Charles?

If he does almost everyone concedes he will blast Charles out quicker than you can snuff out a match. Even at 36, he still throws a devastating punch.

May Not Have Legs

But there are many, including this observer, who believe Louis hasn't the legs to corner his 29-year-old opponent. Charles, we believe, is one of the most underrated fighters in many years. He has lost only one fight in the last seven years—to Elmer Ray—and he caught up with his conqueror shortly afterward and knocked him out.

Louis hasn't had a regular fight since he blasted Jersey Joe Walcott in 11 rounds in the Stadium June 25, 1948.

Charles, embittered by Louis' return and still peeved at the Louis shadow hanging over him, says "I'm going to stop him no later than the 12th round. Joe can be chopped up like any other old guy."

Charles won National Boxing Association recognition as heavyweight champion when he defeated Walcott in Chicago June 22, 1949. That fight was staged when Louis officially announced his retirement on March 1.

He never gained New York recognition but tonight he will get his chance. The empire state will hail the victor as champion. Thus the winner will be listed as champion everywhere except in England and maybe one or two European spots. There Lee Savold of Englewood, N.J., is recognized as king by virtue of his knockout triumph over Bruce Woodcock of England.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting: George Kell, Tigers—Kept Detroit's pennant hopes alive with three-run double in eighth inning to give Tigers a 5 to 3, second-game victory over Browns.

Pitching: Don Johnson, Browns—Though in frequent trouble, stopped Tigers in opening game of twin bill, 3-1 on nine hits.

Batchelor Topples Maples For 928 In Season Record

Rolling the highest score of the young season, Dave Batchelor of the Sacos squad paced his team to a 7-0 victory over Hibbard's Electric in the regular session of the Major 'B' (Tuesday) League at Recreation Alleys last night.

Batchelor kegled a triple of 928 with singles of 311 and 360.

In the other games the "Just Us" five tacked a 7-0 setback on the Opticals while the Ontario Intelligencer "Inkspots" filled in a date unopposed. The sixth team of the league will be on hand next Tuesday.

Moreau of the Inkspots turned in a neat 823 with a high single of 313. Others 'over 600' bowlers were W. Moore, 621; Bert Hardwick 610; Bill O'Brien 645 and B. Colclough, 600.

$460,000 Assets In Pension Fund Of National Loop

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 27—(CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said here yesterday that assets of the league's pension system started three years ago now total more than $460,000 and will reach $1,500,000 by 1957.

He told members of the Toronto Maple Leafs Club in training here that 160 players, both active and retired, are taking part in the plan.

Campbell is on a tour of N.H.L. training camps talking to the players about the plan which they operate themselves through representation from each club. Players contribute $900 a year to the fund and to qualify for a maximum pension must remain in the league 10 years.

Other sources of revenue are the annual N.H.L. all-star game and a percentage of gate receipts from annual playoffs.

Accompanying Campbell was Carl Voss, recently appointed referee-in-chief, who said he has signed five referees and 13 linesmen for the 1950-51 season.

Bill Chadwick of New York and George Gravel of Montreal are the two senior officials. Hugh McLean of Hamilton will be starting his second season. Newcomers will be Red Storey of Montreal and Bill Knott of Seattle who officiated in the Pacific Coast League last season.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Lou Gehrig hit his first home run for New York Yankees 27 years ago today at New York. The big first baseman was voted the most valuable player in the American League in 1927, 1931, 1934 and 1936. His record of playing 2,130 consecutive games with the Yanks still stands. He died June 2, 1941.

Puck Patter

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit Red Wings worked so hard at their fall training camp they wound up with a pack of injuries.

Ten members of the world hockey champions squad were on the injured list when the National Hockey League club headed back for Detroit from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Manager Jack Adams says that unless the injuries keep coming through the season, the Wings "should finish the schedule on top again."

Marcel Pronovost is out with a fractured cheek bone and nerve disorders and Nelson Podolsky is home in Kirkland Lake, Ont., with a fractured leg. Both are expected to be out of action for some time. Also injured are: Jerry Couture with a bruised knee; Larry Thibeault with a sprained knee; Jim McFadden with a sprained wrist; Frank O'Grady with a groin injury and Eldor Thomas with a bone chip in his ankle.

Bud Poile, who has played for every team in the National Hockey League but Montreal Canadiens, showed up at the Toronto Maple Leafs camp at St. Catharines, Ont., and disclosed he's having contract troubles with Boston Bruins.

The big winger says he thinks he's being asked to take too big a cut in salary. He said he was told not to show up for training at Hershey, Pa, until he had signed "so I stayed at home."

Poile, with a good job as a car salesman in Toronto, indicated he might not go to Boston unless he received a salary offer similar to last year's.

It's early in the season for this sort of thing, but assistant general manager Hap Day of the Leafs figures his club is on the way to a good season—even, perhaps, to the Stanley Cup.

Day claims there's no reason why more goals should be scored against the Leafs than last year. And the way the club is lining up, it should be good for a lot more scoring.

The team's lineup doesn't appear to include Bill Ezinicki, still at his home in Winnipeg. Ezinicki told the club he isn't feeling up to par and wants to stay home until he does.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard got off the holdout list yesterday and finally signed his 1950-51 contract with Montreal Canadiens. No salary figures has been announced but the chances are he got a fat increase.

You can be trump rich to your own disadvantage. When you find yourself in such a situation you must get rid of some trumps. This may involve astute play with careful advance planning.

South was declarer at a grand slam contract of seven spades. They should have been in seven no-trump which will make hands down. But being in seven spades, how can 13 tricks be taken?

The opening lead from west was the club queen. Dummy hand goes down and south stops to look over the project. With no losers in any of the side suits his only concern was trump division.

Five outstanding trumps are known to be in the hands of the opponents. Most frequently they will split three and two. So, the declarer hoped to pick them up with three straight spade leads.

Dummy club king took trick one. A small trump was led from the dummy. Not yet knowing that east held four trumps, south won with trump king. The trump ace was then slapped down.

When west showed out of trumps on the second round declarer saw what he was up against. It looks now as if east will take a defeating trick with trump jack. Is there any help for it?

With no more dummy trumps to lead through east, the jack will not be captured by a trump finesse. Nor will east voluntarily ruff any dummy card to let south overruff. Not if east can help it.

The hope is to lead from dummy when east has nothing left but his two trumps. But with four trumps in south, how can dummy remain in the lead at the last two tricks? South is too trump rich.

So, the problem for south is to get rid of two trumps as fast as he can. At least before the final four tricks are played. Take the hint and go to work on it.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 27 (AP) — Ever wonder what happened to Skippy Homeier, who played the mean nazi kid in "Tomorrow the World"?

The young actor was a stage sensation when he played the German boy who didn't take to democracy. He starred in the film version with Frederic March and Betty Field in 1944. What has happened to him since?

"I got lost inside a big studio" he says. "MGM signed me when I opened in the try-out of the play. They loaned me out to do the picture version for another producer, making a profit on the transaction. But the studio never planned anything for me.

"Finally I got to do one picture—'Boys' Ranch' with Butch Jenkins. It was lousy."

In Between

Homeier now is 19, a six-footer and a University of California freshman. He hopes that he has bridged the in-between stage that every child actor has to face.

"I hope I am through it," he told me. "I take my hat off to anyone who can get through that age successfully in pictures. It's murder."

Among those who have discovered that fact are Jackie Coogan, Jane Withers, Jackie Cooper, Freddie Bartholomew, Peggy Ann Garner and Baby Leroy. None was able to recapture the film charm they had as children. On the other hand, such stars as Shirley Temple, Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney made the grade.

Light Comedy

"I hope I can do as well," Homeier remarked. "My ambition is to play light comedy—the kind of thing Clifton Webb does."

So far in his grown up career he hasn't had much luck along that line. He was the yellow kid who plugged Gregory Peck in "The Gunfighter." He plays a marine who blows his top in "The Halls of Montezuma." And he has a lighter role in his current film "The Gaunt Woman."

Favored Hangout

Critics of Hollywood morals may be surprised to learn the favorite hangout of the film famous is not a gin mill but an ice cream parlor.

It is safe to say that more movie stars patronize Wil Wright's four ice cream dispensaries than visit the satin-lined night spots of the Sunset strip.

"Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan used to come in regularly when they were courting," reports Wil (short for Wilbur). "Also Laraine Day and Leo Durocher. Bing Crosby is a regular customer. I even air mail quarts of ice cream up to his ranch at Elko, Nev. He likes pistachio."

Ingrid Bergman used to be a steady patron too, but never with Roberto Rossellini.

Somebody took Howard Hughes a pint while he was in the hospital after his plane crash and he became an addict. When David Selznick was opening "Portrait of Jenny," he ordered special favors for a party. They were ice cream portraits of his then bride-to-be Jennifer Jones. Joan Crawford is another Wil Wright enthusiast, buying for her four kids.

AT THE CAPITOL — Arlene Dahl and Joel McCrea, as they appear on the Capitol Theatre screen in MGM's excitement-pitched outdoor drama, "The Outriders," opening tonight for its first city showing. The new offering, filmed in Technicolor on location in the Utah mountains, also features Barry Sullivan, Claude Jarman, Jr., James Whitemore and Ramon Novarro.

Baltimore Needs One Game to Win Int. Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

Two righthanders were slated to oppose each other on the mound in tonight's (8:15 p.m., EST) crucial sixth game of the International League final playoff series between Baltimore Orioles and Rochester Red Wings.

Holding a 3-2 lead in the series, Orioles manager Nick Cullop was expected to send Tommy Fine to the hill as the series returned to Rochester for a decision. Red Wing pilot Johnny Keane planned to counter with big John Yuhas.

Orioles grabbed the edge in the series last night in Baltimore as Karl Drews hurled a classy five-hitter for a 3-2 triumph. Austin Knickerbocker, whose pinch homer Monday night won for the Orioles, and George Byam slugged successive sixth inning round trippers as the Birds touched John Faszholz and Bill Reeder for nine safeties.

After the sixth inning in which Don Richmond homered, Drews pitched hitless ball, setting the Wings down in 1-2-3 order.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was walking around the living room pushing crooked things strate and strate things crooked, and she said to pop, William, where is the other blue china candlestick? Did you do anything with it? she said.

If there's anything I dont do things with, it's blue china canglesticks, pop said, and ma said, Benny?

Yes mam, I was just going to tell you about that, I said, and ma said, What happened to it? I want to know immeeditly, and I want you to be breef and not long winded, she said.

I been saving it for you, I said, and ma said, Why isn't it on the mantel-peece where it belongs? That's the important point, she said.

Well, you cant quite say it's broken, I said. I meen it's in 2 exactly even places, just as neet as if they had come from the store that way, all reddy to be stuck together, and even that mutch was a pure accident, I said, and ma said, Did you hear that, William? He said no more bizzness on that mantelpeece than a snowball in summer, and yet in his own werds the whole thing was an accident, he said.

Let the prisoner complete his testimony before sentence is passed, pop said.

Meening how was it an accident, and I said, Well, I was making a scientific experiment to see if I could tell what time it was just by feeling the hands of the clock with my eyes shut, and to make it still more scientific I shut them before I even started to walk over to the clock, and that's how the blue candlestick accidently got in my way.

The result being sentence was passed, me having to pay for a tube of Atomic Household Cement out of my allowance.

Canning Crop Growers Hard Hit by Severe Frost Monday

Picton— Canning grop growers in Prince Elward were hard hit by the severe frost early Monday morning. Thousands of bushels of tomatoes were completely ruined, many more were damaged and the amount that can be salvaged will not be known for a few days.

Corn was hard hit. This loss is particularly heavy since the season was just getting nicely under way. Corn that had matured is expected to be fit to harvest, but hundreds of acres were ruined before they were ready to harvest.

In fields throughout the county, the early morning hours saw smudge fires lit in an effort to save the crop-oil-soaked bales of straw sent up clouds of smoke, but had little effect, so severe was the drop in temperature.

50,000-Case Loss

One leading canner estimated that 50,000 cases less than usual would be packed as a result of the frost.

Some growers were harder hit than others. Some had large quantities picked, others had late-ripening fields and have not harvested sufficient to pay for their plants.

Some sections, particularly those near the water, escaped serious damage.

The frost was unusually early, as the killing kind has been, with a few exceptions, at the end of the month.

J. E. Baxter of the Baxter Canning Co., Bloomfield, said they had asked their growers not to pick for a couple of days until it is seen how badly the fruit is damaged. Their recording thermometer showed a low of 27 degrees—five below freezing—and ice one-quarter of an inch thick formed.

"Everything is going to be needed this year," Mr. Baxter pointed out.

Seriously Effect Pack

The cut in acreage, together with this loss will seriously affect the total pack. The season was late in starting. From 8 to 10 thousand cases had been packed at this big plant in August, instead of the usual 50 or 60 thousand.

The Baxter factory has had a big pack and expects to run around 175,000 cases. This is a drop of about 25,000 cases. Last week, the pack averaged more than 9,000 cases a day.

While in Oshawa last Wednesday, Mr. Baxter learned that there had already been a heavy frost in the Whitby area.

The Baxter plant will can tomatoes, which though small in acreage, are good. Later, pork and beans will be canned.

Mrs. Keith VanDusen of Sun Joy Foods Ltd., said the frost pretty well fixed the tomato crop except in districts near the water. One of their growers reported a temperature of 20 degrees and smudges failed to save his crop.

Corn was hard hit, said Mrs. VanDusen. The season had just nicely started and that which was not matured will not do so now. A late start in the season has cut down production.

Smoke Prevented Kill Frost

Mrs. VanDusen, in conversation with a broker in Toronto, was advised that clouds of smoke prevented killed frosts in western Ontario and as far east as Brighton. These clouds were the result of forest fires in Alberta and while over Toronto made it so dark, motorists were forced to use their car lights in daytime.

Earl Benson of Benson & Leavens Canning Co., Cherry Valley, said damage was heavy. Reports were that some patches around they were completely ruined, and others escaped. The frost will mean the end of tomato juice canning as tomatoes touched by frost cannot be used.

Canners agreed that more than one-third of the crop which would be normally harvested was still in the fields. It is never expected that 100 per cent of the crop will be harvested.

Agricultural Representative Donald Taylor in a survey across Prince Edward, found all sections had been hit, some more severely than others. Some growers were just reaching the peak of the harvest. Weather has not been conducive to ripening.

Stops Maturing Process

United Canners, canning corn at Consecon, reported young ears of corn nipped and this would stop the maturing process. Canning tomatoes at Wellington, they report the vines killed but that given favorable weather, a lot of tomatoes would yet ripen. Their corn pack is away down. Surveys in these two areas revealed the frost to have been less severe than in Picton district.

Mowbray Foods Ltd., found matured corn not frozen but immature ears had been affected and stalks killed. A visit to Northport revealed damage not too great. Elmbrook was badly hit. A field at East Lake was not too badly damaged. This year, canning of corn started on Sept. 27 and only half a pack has been handled. Last year, the season began on August 20 and 72,000 cases had been packed by this time that year. The frost appeared to reach its height around 2 a.m.

WORST POLIO YEAR AT WINDSOR

Windsor, Sept. 26—(CP)—Essex county is having the worst poliomyelitis year on record, health officials reported today. Admission of two mild polio cases to isolation hospital here yesterday has boosted the county toll this year to 75. The previous high in the county was 70 cases in 1946.

The new admissions to hospital are a 13-year-old Windsor boy and a two-year-old Harrow boy. Both cases are considered mild.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Randolph frowned and picked up another typed sheet. "No. . . and yes."

"The King loss happened right inside the apartment building," said the insurance man. "King was in the habit of leaving the ring in the hotel safe at night. He called down at eight o'clock this particular evening and asked to have it sent to his room. He and his wife were going out unexpectedly to a swanky party. The fact that the party was gotten up on the spur of the moment was later established.

"The clerk got the box out and gave it to a bell-boy to take up. He got out of the elevator and started down the corridor to the King suite. As he passed an alcove he was tapped on the back of the head and knocked out cold. When they found him ten minutes later the ring had vanished. It hasn't turned up since."

Shayne was tugging at his earlobe and listening intently. "King?" he suggested.

Randolph shrugged. "Naturally we made a very thorough investigation before allowing the claim. There wasn't a particle of evidence. He lost twenty thousand on the deal."

"If the ruby could be fenced for fifty percent he'd have made thirty grand," Shayne pointed out.

"If," Randolph agreed. But that's the big if, Mike. Look . . . you might cut it down to say six carats. A six-carat ruby might bring fifty thousand in the open market. But those things are distinctive. There aren't many six carat stones like that around. We have records of every unique stone like that. If it had turned up later, we'd know it. It hasn't. Shayne crushed out his cigarette and nodded thoughtfully. "But you have to admit it looks like an inside job. Who else but King could have known the bell-boy was going to bring the ring up just then?"

"Only the clerk, but he actually had no time to notify a confederate to get up there in time to waylay the boy. If we'd had anything else to hang on, we migh have tried to make a case out of it. But we went through King's background with a fine-tooth comb. He was absolutely legitimtae. From a small town in Ohio where he and his wife had lived all their lives. He was an engineer, graduate of Purdue, who'd worked on a small salary all his life until he fell into a fortune a couple of months previously.

"He inherited the estate of a wealthy uncle in California, estimated at between two and three hundred thousand. He and his wife sold their home and went west to collect the money, then started out to have some fun for the first time in their lives. They hit Miami the first of October, spent money lavishly, and ended up by splurging on the ring. I remember King and his wife," Randolph went on reflectively, leaning back and closing his eyes.

"They were nice people, a little bewildered by sudden wealth. He was about forty. Thin and stooped, as though he'd worked too hard all his life without quite enough to eat. His wife always managed to look dowdy, even when she was wearing a Paris original. There wasn't one single thing to hang anything on, Mike. We sent a man to Ohio to check their background, and they were exactly what they claimed to be."

Shayne said "that doesn't sound like very much," his eyes bleak and staring into space.

"By itself, it isn't," said Randolph. He shuffled the papers until he found the one he wanted. "The next case is another star ruby sold by Walter Voorland. I was in New York at the time and the policy on this one was issued by Provident Casualty. To Roland Kendrick of Westchester County, New York, a wealthy sportsman and playboy. That was in October of forty-five. He bought an eleven-carat star ruby pendant for his wife. Stanley Ellsworth made the appraisal at one hundred and ten thousand. It lasted longer than the frist one. Almost a month. The Kendricks went from here to New Orleans and were held up by two armed men late at night when they were returning home from a night club. Kendrick was knocked cold as he stepped out of his car to open his garage door, and when he came to his wife was dead. Shot through the head. The ruby pendant was gone. It has never turned up, either. That claim was paid promptly, after the New Orleans police reported it absolutely straight."

"I was in New Orleans at the time," Shayne broke in. He lit another cigarette and continued "I wasn't in on that one, but I don't recall a whisper of suspicion attaching to the widowed husband. The couple were apparently happy together, and she had been flashing the pendant around at night clubs. I don't see much in any of this," he ended soberly.

"Except that both were star rubies. . . both were sold by Voorland. . and both have disappeared as completely as though they had disintegrated. Now, it happens again. There's a pattern Mike, a definite pattern, but a completely illogical one. Who could profit if the stolen stones aren't resold?"

"I suppose you didn't meet this second victim, Kendricks."

"No. As I said, my company didn't handle that one. But Kendrick's background was just as thoroughly checked as King's had been. He was rather a well-known sportsman around New York, and a heavy gambler. Had a piece of two or three fighters and was reputedly wealthy."

Shayne said slowly "the one thing that sticks in my craw about all these cases is the way Voorland always has these big star rubies for sale. You and he both say the value of them lies in the scarcity of such stones. Yet one dealer seems to have got hold of a lot of them in the last few years."

"I know." Randolph's round and slightly distended eyes looked troubled. "It is a remarkable coincidence, but I can't believe it's more than that. Voorland has an unimpeachable reputation throughout the world. And it isn't quite so remarkable when you realize that star rubies are his personal passion. They have been for the last forty years. He is known throughout the gem markets to pay well for every good one that turns up. That Dustin bracelet, for instance: I've known for years that he has been searching for the perfect stones to match up in it."

Shayne asked moodily "could not those two stones. . .the eight and a half and eleven-carat stones. . have been cut down to make two of the rubies in the Dustin bracelet?"

Randolph pursed his lips and looked doubtful. "It's possible but certainly not probable. Remember, Voorland sold the stones originally. It would be mighty hard to cut them so he wouldn't still recognize them in reduced size."

"Is there any way to check the sources from which he acquired the stones in the bracelet?"

"I'm afraid not. That sort of information is regarded as a trade secret. In some cases a particular stone can be traced . to its original source, but most dealers don't keep a record of such transactions."

"Why not?"

"For various reasons," Randolph again pressed the finger-tips of his hands together, and continued thoughtfully, "customs duties are high. Suppose Voorland announced in Burma that he had acquired a perfect star ruby for a large price. He would then have to declare it to get it into this country where it could be sold."

"Do you mean to say Voorland smuggles such stuff in?"

"Not necessarily. Someone else may smuggle them in. Let's say rather, that Voorland is a business man. His store is one of the most successful in the world, I imagine. He does what every business man does these days. . . meets competition."

Shayne grinned suddenly and said, "I guess a private dick doesn't have so much to complain about after all."

"Right," said Randolph with an answering smile. "But what Voorland does is considered no less ethical thah for a stock market manipulator to beat down the price of a stock so he can buy low. Voorland is responsible to a board of directors who look only at the profit sheet each year. No matter what his personal ethics may be, to remain manager of that store he has to play the game according to the rules made by others. It's a competitive and cutthroat business."

So you're going to get married

When Mary and John got married . . . John made a decision. "Mary," he said, "our income is going to be very small. But if we watch it well, it should cover our food . . . the rent, and one day perhaps, a house of our own." Then he laughed, and said: "Mary, I want you to look after all the money for us. I'm not just trying to pass the buck . . . It's simply that I believe a small income should belong entirely to the wife." So Mary took over the entire responsibility of saving the money. John settled down to making a success of his work. John's plan worked, until the first baby came. Then he had to take over the family bank account. He found everything in splendid shape. Mary was well known at the Branch of the Dominion Bank near her home. And, over the years, John established a good credit. They had many of the things they wanted, by building up their Bank Account ⚬=⚬ . . . a little at a time.

Today, John's financial responsibilities are more complicated than they were when he and Mary were first married . . . More complicated, yes . . . but in no way confused . . . He looks after many of them himself . . . with the help of his friendly, helpful Branch Manager.

Whenever you visit any Branch of The Dominion Bank, you'll find friendly, courteous and efficient service. Drop in today!

RED RESISTANCE IN SOUTH KOREA COLLAPSES

'In Complete Rout' Gen. Walker Tells Correspondents

Bombers Strafe Escape Route Ahead of The Reds

By DON HUTH

Tokyo, Sept. 28 (AP) — The Allied High Command in Korea said today the North Korean army now is a smashed remnant and finished as an organized fighting force.

This was announced amid racing new Allied advances throughout South Korea where where the reds are reduced to small combat pockets or retreating and fading from view.

The United Nations armored fist tightened in Seoul.

Taejon, Namwon and Hadong were recaptured.

Ninety-one American prisoners of war were rescued in the latter two southern towns. All had been abandoned by fleeing communists.

Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. Eighth Army commander, told war-correspondents at his Korean headquarters the reds were in complete rout, and added that their army no longer exists as an organized force.

Local Fights Ahead

He said hard local fights may lie ahead but that United Nations forces are wiping out many communists before they can reach the 38th parallel. That's the dividing line between the Russian-sponsored North and South Korean Republic.

AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported white-clad South Korean civilians cheered and waved Korean flags as the American columns pushed ahead on the southern roals almost unopposed.

Taejon, highway-rail hub 90 miles south of Seoul, was recaptured two months and seven days after outnumbered and out-gunned U.S. forces yielded the city to the onrushing red hordes.

With the reds making tracks for the 38th parallel, an answer appeared forthcoming shortly on whether U.N. troops will cross the boundary. Gen. Walker said he expected instructions on this soon.

Raked by allied fighter-bombers, red columns fled from Seoul toward the 38th parallel, 35 miles north of the South Korean capital. B-29s bombed the escape route ahead of the reds.

Keays Hearing Is Adjourned Until Monday

Ottawa, Sept. 28 (CP)—Hearing in the trial of J. E. (Ernie) Keays, former Ontario Provincial Police constable charged with illegally wearing a police uniform and carrying an automatic, was adjourned abruptly Wednesday after a three-hour session.

Magistrate Glenn Strike brought the hearing to a close after Keays, arrested in county court here Sept. 11, when he brandished an automatic in open court, spoke for some time in his own defence. Assistant Crown Attorney Rupert Broadfoot will present his final argument next Monday.

The former constable began by reviewing his part in the royal commission appointed in 1948 to investigate his charges of "irregularities" in the force in the Belleville area. He claimed that he had never been given a formal notice of dismissal by the force. Without this document, he said "my reputation, the reputation of my family and my future was at stake."

In court Tuesday, he admitted that he had received a letter from Inspector W. R. Page of the O.P.P. Belleville division, but did not recognize it as formal.

Keays is at liberty on $50 bail.

Charge of Neglect 'Utterly False' Say Trustees

London, Ont., Sept. 28—(CP)—Victoria Hospital Board of Trustees Wednesdty night labelled as "utterly false' a charge of neglect on the part of the hospital resulting in the death of an accident patient early in August. The charge was made by Robert Findlater, delegate to the London Labor Council.

"This type of criticism must stop, and if someone must pay the penalty for making such charges, it's just too bad," chairman William Loveday said. "Such charges are unfair to the board and to the hospital."

Findlater, a delegate from Local 35, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, told members of the L.L.C. at a meeting on Aug. 27 that a woman accident victim lay in the corrider outside the emergency department of the hospital for more than an hour before receiving attention. It was "just through neglect" of the emergency department that the woman died, he said.

The next day Mr. Loveday demanded that the charge be substantiated in writing by Mr. Findlater.

At Wednesday's meeting of the board of trustees Dr. Carman J. Kirk, superintendent of the hospital, said no such communication had been received although city solicitor Huron R. Davidson had written Findlater requesting one.

Dr. Kirk said he had written Mr. Davidson about further legal action and said Mr. Davidson replied he thought the hospital had a suit and could win it but didn't advise taking the action.

"Perhaps we should take the solicitor's advice but to take legal action might put a stop to this criticism," Mr. Loveday commented.

In a report from the medical committee Dr. A. J. Grace said the charges made by Findlater had been investigated and found to be "utterly false"

Hooked Gull Nips Angler's Finger

Peterborough, Sept. 28 (CP)—A seagull got hooked when it tried to fly away with the flatfish bait with which Charles Ansley was fishing on a lake near here the other day.

Ansley reeled in, picked up the gull and removed the hook. The gull stayed quiet until the hook was gone. Then it nipped its benefactor's fingers and flew away.

Sun Casts Weird Bluish Light Over Gibraltar and African Coast

Gibraltar, Sept. 28 (Reuters)—The blue sun, which has caused the whole world to wonder, broke over Gibraltar today.

It cast a weird bluish light over the whole of the rock, the Straits of Gibraltar and the neighboring African coast.

Local weather men said: "We have never seen anything like it."

The blue sun was first seen over North America Sept. 24 and over Britain and other parts of Europe two days later.

Latest reports from other parts of the world:

France—People in Toulouse and Lyons said yesterday the sun was "light blue". They thought it might be due to fog.

Portugal—The freak sun caused panic in the Braga district of northern Portugal.

Denmark—The color seemed to vary between a yellow grey and an azure blue in different parts of the country. The weather men here said it was due either to forest fires or to particles of volcanic dust.

Switzerland — Mother-of-pearl clouds are travelling at a great height over Central Europe, causing intense blue coloring of the sun.

Canadian weather officials said they were convinced the original theory about the blue sun was right—that smoke from the giant chain of forest fires in Alberta and British Columbia was responsible.

LEADERS AGREE BNA AMENDMENTS WILL SUCCEED

Constitutional Parley Nearing Adjournment

Quebec, Sept. 28 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent told reporters today as the Federal-Provincial Constitutional Conference neared adjournment that "everyone is agreed that this thing is going to succeed".

This was the first clear indication that the Federal and Provincial delegates, striving to bring to Canada full and complete power to amend the Canadian constitution, are coming closer to agreement on the many-sided issue.

Heretofore, official comment from the closed sessions of the conference have been confined to sparsely-worded statements indicating only that it was making headway or progress.

Mr. St. Laurent's statement was not taken to mean that agreement necessarily will be reached in the Quebec phase of Federal-Provincial negotiations, but rather that the Dominion and the 10 Provinces are moving along the path to eventual solution of the problem.

The Prime Minister, speaking as the delegates emerged from their fourth secret meeting, indicated the conference will be adjourned later today and likely will resume in Ottawa early in December.

He said the next meeting will follow a Federal-Provincial fiscal conference tentatively scheduled to open Dec. 4 in Ottawa.

Fear Third Worst Polio Year in U.S.

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP)—It now appears that 1950 will be the third worst polio year on record in the U.S., the public health service said today. The worst are recorded as 1949 and 1916.

There were 2,170 new cases of polio last week, 1½ per cent more than in the preceding week — which, in turn, showed a 22½ per cent inrcease compared with the week before.

Furthermore, the service said, the peak of the disease is occuring later than at any time in the last 20 years except for 1932.

The cumulative total since the disease started its upswing last March is 18,403 cases.

U.S. Funds Flow in At Border Points

Windsor, Sept. 28 —(CP) — Windsor bankers today reported an increased flow of United States funds into local banks for conversion to Canadian dollars. They said the increase in conversions is apparently due to a rumor current in the United States that the Canadian dollar will shortly be returned to par with the U.S. dollar.

One banker said the federal government has gone on record as denying that the Canadian dollar will be raised to par at this time.

Forty Countries Gather For Horse-Trading on Global Scale at Tariff Conference

Torquay, England, Sept. 28. — (AP)—Horse-trading on a global scale began here today with representatives of nearly forty countries opening an international tariff conference.

Task of the delegates is to pull down tariff barriers. The job may last six to nine months and may be the largest concession swapping meeting in history.

Represented at the conference are signers of the general agreement on tariffs and trade which held previous meetings at Geneva in 1947 and at Annecy, France, in 1949, plus seven countries which have accepted invitations to join.

Results of the negotiations will be secret until the conference ends. Many delegations brought with them special security officers to enforce the rule.

The United States, with a delegation of more than 100, will seek to swap tariff concession with at least 24 countries. Britain has announced plans to seek agreements with 12 member countries.

Western Germany, long a high-tariff country, will be under strong pressure from both the United States and the British Commonwealth to lower its barriers.

Czechoslovakia is the only iron-curtain country represented.

Accepts Invitation

Battered Korea has accepted an invitation to participate. Besides Korea other first-timers at the meeting are Austria, West Germany, Peru, the Philippines, Turkey and Uruguay.

Some 700 delegates are housed in huge hotels at this seaside resort. Meetings will be in Torquay's giant marine pavilion.

Dana L. Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner in London and chairman of the 1949 tariff conference, will open the parley.

Speakers at the opening session—the only one at which the press and the public will be admitted—include Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade and chief of the British delegation; Andre Philip, chairman of the French delegation; and Willard Thorpe, assistant secretary of State, chief United States delegate.

Then the negotiators will begin their difficult bilateral talks under the provision that any concessions granted one country must be extended to all other members.

Britain's preferential trade with Commonwealth members is expected to be attacked by some participants.

United States tariff walls, already reduced by earlier concessions, will get another smash from countries which have goods to sell. The American delegation has authority under the reciprocal trade act to cut existing tariff rates by 50 per cent

Communists Seize Control Of Two Danube River Bridges As Disturbances Break Out

Vienna, Sept. 28 (AP) —Scattered communist disturbances today broke out for the third day as Russian-organized workers in Vienna continued to harass the Austrian government.

Communists seized control of two Danube River bridges connecting suburbs in the Russian sector of the four-power city with the central part of the town.

One railroad station also was occupied.

The Danube bridges were blocked by automobiles and communists sitting astride the road.

In another Russian sector reds held up street car traffic for several hours.

The demonstrations were all restricted to Russian districts of Vienna.

There was a back-to-work movement in many factories, although in some Russian-controlled factories workers remained on strike.

Austrian sources said the Russians apparently had given orders that factories which had fulfilled their production quotas could remain idle. Those, however, which had failed to do so apparently were ordered back to work. Similar sporadic strikes were reported throughout the country.

Socialist party headquarters, which has good intelligence of communist developments, said last night that the Austrian reds had decided to call off their strikes after two days of disturbances and sporadic interruptions of rail traffic.

Communists who seized the chamber of labor at Linz yesterday in a series of scuffles and proclaimed a rump "provisional local executive" in that American zone city left the building without further incident last night.

Meanwhile, there were additional reports of active Soviet support of the demonstrators. Austrian police said a civilian arrested in one demonstration in Vienna turned out to be a Russian. He was released later.

Canadian Sailors Raid Orang Is., Navy Announces

Tokyo, Sept. 28 — (AP) — Canadian sailors joined South Korean marines in a shore raid on the southwestern Korean island of Orang Monday, a naval release said today.

The Canadian destroyer Athabaskan and two South Korean naval craft shelled the island for 2½ hours before the raiding party went ashore.

The release said the Canadians and South Koreans withdrew after completing their mission, leaving an estimated 70 North Korean troops dead.

The same units bombarded and sent a landing party ashore on Byang Island, five miles from Orang Island, but found no enemy troops there.

TERM, LASHES FOR RAPE

Hamilton, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Raymond Gilliam, 28, no fixed address, was sentenced today to five years and 10 lashes when he pleaded guilty to a charge of rape, committed Sept. 8. Gilliam was recently released from prison after a six-year term for rape on conviction in 1944.

50,000 Aliens Caught Entering U.S. Illegally

Washington, Sept. 28 — (AP)—An immigration service official said today that 500,000 aliens were caught trying to enter the U.S. illegally during the last 12 months, twice as many as in the preceding year.

It is anybody's guess, he said, how many others actually got in without legal means.

Harlon Carter, chief of the border patrol, said the service is "concerned" over the situation and has asked Congress to supply money to hire 800 more patrol officers, bringing the total to almost 2,000.

Carter said there has been a "new influx" of attempts at illegal entry, by persons from Southern Europe, many of them via Canada.

He noted increased activity along the Canadian border, particularly from Maine to Michigan.

LINEMAN ELECTROCUTED

BRITAIN RUSHES WORK ON PLAN FOR POST-WAR KOREA

Pearson Calls For Free And United Korea

New York, Sept. 28. (CP)—British delegates rushed work today on a four-point plan for post-war Korea. They hope to present it to the United Nations General Assembly tomorrow.

The British proposal is expected to be combined with another post-war Korean plan presented to the assembly yesterday by Canada. Canada's proposals, given by L. B. Pearson, External Affairs Minister, in a major policy speech, contained many of the British ideas.

British delegates are holding almost continuous conferences with other delegates to work out details and especially with Asian countries. The Asian countries would be called on, under the British proposals, to make up the greater parts of a U.N. commission to supervise post-war Korea.

Pearson called for a free, united Korea, with U.N. assistance and military support for the united country. He urged U.N. assurance to the people of Korea that no power will try to put bases there for military domination of the country and said Korea's future should be planned in such a way that the peninsula's neighbors—communist China and Russia—would find nothing to menace them.

He also suggested that the free governments of Asia take the major responsibility for advising the Korean peoplein the future.

Pearson emphasized that the U.N. must leave its military forces free to ensure that the reds are not allowed to re-establish a base of aggression in North Korea. This was interpreted as Canadian approval of proposals that U.N. forces cross the 38th Parallel northward, if necessaary.

He is honorary colonel of the Elgin Regiment.

'Package Plan' Medical and Hospital Care Service May be Available Soon

Smiths Falls, Ont., Sept. 28 — (CP)— The president of the Ontario Medical Association has intimated that a "package-plan" medical service may be made available for Ontario soon.

Dr. M. C. Harvey of Kitchener told a district medical meeting here last night that this "package plan" for both medical and hospital care likely will involve the joint operation of the Association's Physicians' services and the Blue Cross plan for hospital care.

A country-wide system of medical care plans, co-relating existing provincial services, he said, could be put into effect. It was blocked only by the legislative machinery required to start the plan rolling.

Commenting on health plans generally, Dr. Harvey said:

"Just as our standard of living so has the standard of medical care—and even more spectacularly. But just as the cost of living has risen with our standard of living, so has the cost of medical care skyrocketed as that care has improved.

"Canadians want an increasing degree of medical care security, yet more and more of them appear unable to pay for it."

The answer to that demand, he said, was in voluntary pre-paid medical care plans.

"The wise application of this insurance principle will result in the best medical services for Canadians. It wil not only allow us to retain the best traditions of medical progress, but it will provide the necessary checks against the irresponsibility of individuals and the too-zealous use of power by governments."

All Troops Ordered To Retreat North Of 38th Parallel

United Nations Forces In Full Control of Seoul

Seoul, Sept. 28 — (Reuters) — North Korean leader Kim Il Sung has ordered his troops to break off contact with United Nations forces and retreat north of the 38th Parallel, an authoritative source told Reuters tonight.

The source said that American intelligence agents had intercepted a top-secret order from the communist leader to his field commanders telling them they must get as many men as possible back into North Korea, taking arms and equipment with them.

The source said that American intelligence officers were at first doubtful of the authenticity of the intercepted order but recent events on the Korean battlefield combined with reported peace moves, appeared to prove it genuine.

Retreat "In Orderly Manner"

The intercepted order said that the withdrawal beyond the 38th parallel was to be made "in as orderly a manner as possible."

There has been no serious resistance to United Nations troops in Korea in the last week except at Seoul.

The rapid collapse of the North Koreans has surprised military observers. Only 10 days ago the communists were on the offensive. A few days earlier their all-out assault had smashed open the northern line of the Pusan "defence box" which was then reduced to about 100 miles perimeter.

Today United Nations forces occupy about half of South Korea and control most of the remainder of the country.

Delaying Action

There is evidence that the communist defence of Seoul was intended only as a delaying action. The purpose was apparently to keep the escape route to the north open as long as possible to allow the majority of communist forces in Seoul to be withdrawn.

Communist opposition in the city, fiercely stubborn for almost three days, suddenly collapsed last night while the defenders were still in a strong position.

Observers say this indicated that the bulk of communist troops were out of the city and the signal was then given to the Seoul defenders to join them.

Papa Dionne Accepts Offer For Outfits

New York, Sept. 28 (AP) — Papa Oliva Dionne put his foot down. Positively, he said, he could not afford to outfit the quintuplets in clothes from New York despite their pleas.

But today it developed he had lifted his foot—right down to the telegraph office in Callander, Ont., where the Dionnes live.

He telegraphed Walter Rothschild, president of Abraham and Strauss, that he would accept Rothschild's offer to outfit the quintuplets in identical gowns.

Now the five girls, 16 years old, can attend the benefit dinner at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel for the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Building of St. Vincent's Hospital Oct. 19. Womanlike, they had complained that they didn't have a thing to wear.

It will be their first trip to the big city.

Papa Dionne even included dress sizes in his message, as Rothschild had requested.

The sizes show there have been some changes since the quintuplets were born, weighing a total of 12 pounds, six ounces.

Annette, Cecile and Emelie wear size 17; Yvonne and Marie, size 15. Annette's hips measure 40 inches; Marie's, 38; Cecile's, 41 1-2; Emelie's, 38 1-2; and Yvonne's, 37 1-2.

BOY FRACTURES LEG WHILE PLAYING

Thrown or falling to the ground while playing with a number of other children, eight-year-old Robert O'Hara, son of Mrs. Mary O'Hara, R.R. 6, Belleville, Cannifton Road, Wednesday evening suffered a broken leg.

The lad was attended by Dr. Jack Empson of Roslin and later was admitted to hospital where he is under the care of Dr. Austin Walters. The doctor said the lad was resting comfortably.

Mother, Three Children Flee In Night Attire

A mother and three children dashed from their blazing farm home yesterday morning clad only in their night attire, and watched flames destroy the house and its entire contents.

Believed to have started from overheated stove pipes, flames swept swiftly through the dwelling of Alex Brant, Tyendinaga Indian Reserve farmer, while he was away working on the farm of a brother.

A few hours later nothing but smouldering ruins marked the spot where the Brant home stood, not a stitch of clothing or other contents of the house were saved.

Brant, who left early for his work, is believed to have started a fire in the kitchen stove. He left his wife and three children sleeping.

Flames and smoke apparently wakened Mrs. Brant. She quickly gathered her family, and took them to safety. She had no time to secure clothing for herself or her children.

Neighbors raced to the scene but the house was beyond salvage and the structure was quickly reduced to flaming ruins.

The loss was the second for the Indian war veteran this year. A gale-like wind that swept the western part of the reserve where he lives, ripped his barn to shreds and scattered the debris over the landscape a few months ago.

Neighbors and friends, it was stated last night, are rallying to the aid of the stricken family.

Many Enjoy Fight on TV

There were plenty of "ringide seats" for the Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles heavyweight championship fight last night.

Through the magic of television a large number of fight fans saw the bout that ended the colorful career of Louis.

Many of them viewing television for the first time, and for more, the first time to watch a heavyweight championship bout, they thrilled as the dramatic action swiftly unfolded round-by-round and blow-by-blow in front of them.

Perhaps the biggest T-V party was held in the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corporation's canteen where over 100 guests of the management saw the fight. Two sets were in operation, assuring continuous vision.

Tobe's County Gardens was the local "Yankee Stadium" for another gathering of fight fans where the David Electric Shop acted as host.

Many private television parties were held among which was that of President Don Lee of the Commercial Softball League, who entertained radio and press and a number of the sports fraternity of the city.

Trumpet Band To be Featured At Band Festival

Top ranking band organization of its class in the Dominion, the RCAF Trenton station trumpet band will be one of the feature attractions at Monday evening's band festival to be held at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

The appearance of this outstanding trumpet band which during the past summer has won laurels in both Canada and the United States, is by kind permission of Commanding Officer Group Captain G. P. Dunlop. Sponsors for Monday's band festival is the Belleville Municipal Band.

The Trenton RCAF trumpet band began to gain provincial recognition last year when it competed at the Waterloo Band Festival. Since that time it has travelled extensively both in this country and in the United States and last June won honors in its class at the Waterloo festival.

Presented With Trophy

As sequel to their fine performance at Waterloo in June, Professor Thiele of that city last week at a brief ceremony at Trenton presented the band leader with the trophy as well as presenting individual awards to the band members.

The Trenton band members are not professional musicians but are regular members of the Air Force who have a "yen" for music and are willing to devote many hours of their own time for practising.

Colorful Organization

Dressed in their smart uniforms liberally adorned with rope and braid, the 40 odd members of the band are truly a colorful organization both in appearance and in performance. Belleville residents attending the first annual band festival held in the city will recall the reception given this particular band last year and the high acclaim afforded helped to stir the interest in a repeat performance for this year.

Also music lovers who last year missed the festival, now realizing the high calibre of the show, have asked for the repeat performance.

Many of the best known bands in the Belleville district will be on hand to help entertain Monday evening. These include Belleville's own Kinsmen Boys' Band, the Argyle Pipe Band, the Trenton Lions Club Band, the Stirling Citizens' Band and last but not least the highly touted RCAF Band from Central Command at Ottawa.

All bands will play individual numbers as well as take part in the massed band playing. Sponsors for this outstanding show, the Belleville Municipal Band, will be at full strength for the occasion and will take its own individual part in the festival program.

Return to Work Or Face Dismissal Notice to Strikers

Striking employees of the Belleville Lock Company who do not report to the plant for work at 7 a.m. Friday morning will consider themselves as dismissed, D. L. Storey, manager of the company announced this morning.

The announcement followed the refusal of a labor conciliation board which arrived in the city this morning to hear arguments of union and management. The board returned to Toronto after studying the aspects of the strike.

"The strike is illegal," Mr. Storey told the Ontario Intelligencer. "Last Tuesday the plant was operating on its regular routine when employees went on a sit-down strike. As long as this condition exists, the Conciliation Board will not deal with the matter."

Mr. Storey stated that his plant is working on important war orders in connection with naval production.

He further stated that he will speak over the local radio station this evening at seven o'clock in a special address to employees of the company.

Playgrounds Committee Favors By-Law for Formation Of Recreational Commission

Encouraged by the success of the playgrounds operation during the past season and enthusiastic about expanding the program next year, members of the local playgrounds committee will make every effort to have a recreational committee formed in Belleville.

Wednesday afternoon at a special meeting in the City Hall council chambers, members of the local playground committee together with other interested persons heard requirements for the setting up of a recreational committee and the amount of government grants to be expected. A tentative by-law for setting up of the committee will be drafted for later presentation to council.

Speaker for the special meeting was Charles A. Weir, Toronto, area representative for the Recreational Planning Commission. He told his listeners that his organization was not interested in facilities or in paying grants on capital expenditure.

By-Law Required

Their interest was mainly in leadership and grants would be paid for such leadership and to a certain extent for maintenance. First a by-law was required to be passed by council properly setting up the committee and then the grant would be paid to the municipality for the program.

Maximum grant for a city under 25,000 population would be $3,500 annually and would be based on the anual expenditures of the recreational authority.

The grants would include 33 1/3 per cent of the salary paid to a full-time director of recreation up to a maximum of $1,000; 33½ percent of the salaries paid to part-time or full time assistant directors of recreation to a maximum of $500 for each assistant; 33 1/3 percent of the salary of the director's secretary to a maximum of $500, and finally 20 percent of the annual operating and maintenance of the community program to a maximum of $400.

At the request of the planning commission representative, Alderman Dr. R. T. Potter, acting as chairman, asked that information with respect to the operations of playgrounds in the city this season be given.

38,000 Children Accommodated

A. L. Davis noted that total attendance of children at playground during the season had been roughly 38,000 with an average daily attendance of about 700. Supervision by senior high school students, university scholars and school teachers and cost about $4,500.

Dr. Potter referred to the Quinte Skating Club and asked if such an organization could be tied in with the recreational committee. The answer was yes, to the extent that such a private organization could be paid for services recieved by the recreational committee.

Just how the local Memorial Arena could enter the picture was also discussed, with Alderman Claude D. Tice as member of the arena commission assuring that eventually some arrangement could be made with the recreational committee, if organized.

Seven for Committee

Membership of a recreational committee would advisably be made up of members of city council, Parks Board and Board of Education with the addition of two members at large. Membership should be confined to seven to nine members to avoid becoming unwieldy.

Dr. Potter suggested that a mill on the tax rate would carry the requirements of a recreational commission but Mr. Weir noted that many cities in Western Ontario aimed at a budget roughly one dollar per head of the population.

Enos David said the playground comittee had been very appreciative of the private donations of money to this year's playground budget but he said there had been a feeling on the part of many taxpayers that the money should be provided out of the tax rate.

Generally speaking there was a feeling of optimism that council would approve of the recreational committee when it was again approached on the matter and the meeting broke up with the decision that tentative by-law would be immediately drafted for presentation to council as soon as possible.

PROBE MAN'S STORY

Montreal, Sept. 28—(CP)—Bernard McKinnon, 40, whom police say is an "informer who always has the wrong information," was held by police today for investigation into his story that he knows who staged Boston's $1,500,000 Brinks holdup last January.

McKinnon returned to Montreal last night after claiming in Boston that he could "expose" the Brinks case.

Police described him as "a for a price."

'Y' to Observe Centennial Year In 1951

C. A. Schell, executive secretary of the National Council of Canadian Y.M.C.A.'s is spending a brief few days at the local association advising on trends and policies as developed in over eighty Y.M.C.A.'s across Canada.

Significant dates are before the Y.M.C.A. 1951 will mark the centennial of the Y.M.C.A. in North America.

The first association on the continent was organized in Montreal in 1851 and a few weeks later aa American Association was founded in Boston. This development took place just seven years after Sir George Williams organized the first Y.M.C.A. in London in 1844, to meet the need for fellowship, recreation and wholesome environment of youth caught up in the big city by the industrial revolution. This centennial was celebrated throughout over seventy countries of the world into which the Y.M.C.A. has reached, on D Day June 6, 1944.

Celebration of the Canadian and American Y.M.C.A. centennial will take place in Cleveland in June 1951. A history of the Y.M.C.A., now being written, will be published at that time.

In 1952 the Belleville Y.M.C.A. will mark the sixtieth year of its founding and the fortieth year of operation in its present building.

Complaints Made Of Stone Throwing By Juveniles

Stone throwing seems to have become a habit by certain juveniles in the city.

On several occasions during the past few days there have been reports of lads breaking street lights in the Victoria Ave. and MacDonald Ave. district, and today there were two more complaints.

Members of the Quinte Skating Club complanied that windows in their club house had been broken, while a resident in the Dufferin Ave. area said that more light bulbs had been broken.

A Howard Street resident reported that while riding his bicycle on Octavia Street a dog ran out and bit him on the leg. The attention of the city dog catcher was called in the matter.

A Strachan Street householder is losing carrots and other vegetables from his garden, apparently the work of boys who in a spirit of adventure figure that stolen vegetables taste better.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 28—(CP)—Prices opened with an upward rush but encountered mild selling as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today to settle back slightly.

Base metals were moderately strong with Quemont again highlighting activity. Drill reports from the company's property in the Noranda district, northwestern Quebec, sparked heavy demand in Quemont yesterday that continued today. Golden Manitou, Quebec Manitou and Steep Rock were also in demand.

Western Oils jumped ahead at the opening only to settle back in mid-session.

Six-Point Peace Formula Outlined By United States

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—American sources today outlined a six-point peace formula for Korea calling for a unified country to be put back on its feet by the combined resources of the United Nations.

The elements the United States considers essential for Korea's future follows closely proposals advanced by Canada and Britain. British authorities are rushing work on a post-war plan for Korea.

American informants said the "United States has no desire for bases or special privileges in Korea" and wants the country to be free from the domination of any other country.

It also desires Korea's admission to the U.N. and the organization of the country in such a way that it "will pose no threats to its neighbors" — China and Russia.

Basic in the whole American idea is the establishment of a strong U.N. commission with wide authority to handle on the scene the multiplicity of post-war problems in the country. The U.S. favors strong Asian representation on that commission.

Poland Will Not Suspend Shipment Of Timber to UK

London, Sept. 28. (Reuters)—The Polish Embassy in London today denied reports that Poland had decided to suspend shipment of timber to Britain.

"The Polish government will scrupulously fulfil the Anglo-Polish trade agreements on timber supplies," an official said.

"It is entirely wrong for anyone to suggest that timber to Britain would be stopped as supposed reprisals for Britain's restricting supplies of machinery to certain countries."

A spokesman of the Bowater Paper Corporation, British newsprint company, said yesterday that a contract for wood pulp from Poland equal to 20,000 tons of newsprint had been suspended.

He said the corporation had been advised by cable through its London agents that the "validity of the contract" was cancelled.

A spokesman of the Polish Embassy yesterday said there might be a technical hitch between the Polish exporter and the British importer.

Kiwanias Hold Inter-Club Meeting, Tourney

Members from Kingston, Peterborough, Madoc and Belleville joined in an inter-club and golf tourney at the Bay of Quinte Country Club Wednesday afternoon and evening. After the luncheon the guests and visitors enjoyed a view of the Charles-Louis fight by television, the set being provided by the Fralick Radio Store and was much enjoyed by everyone present.

In the afternoon a tournament was held on the splendid course of the Country Club with Jack McIntosh securing the low gross with Don Stanton second. The first low net was turned in by Len Fozard followed by Lorne McDougall. The team prize was won by Jack McIntosh, Don Stanton, Len Fozard and Jack Walton. The two-team match was won by Felix O'Riordan and Earl Bench. Taylor Franklin, president of the club, won the prize for the honest score while special prizes went to James Cowan, Hub Husband and Harold Carruthers. Tommy Carruthers presented the prizes.

At the luncheon Taylor Franklin presided and the meeting was graced by the presence of Bill Richardson, Lieutenant-Governor of No. 6 District and complimented the Belleville club on the inauguration of this event, which it is hoped will be an annual one. The Belleville club members were taken to task for not having a better representation of their members at the meeting but this was partly due to the fact that a regular luncheon was held Tuesday.

Worthwhile stunts were given by members of the various clubs present while Murray McMillan, president of the Kingston club brought greetings from that body. Rufus Payne and Vincent McCabe of the Peterborough club gave a duet. A social time was spent previous to the television show and until the party broke up shortly before midnight. The thanks of the club was extended to the stewards of the Country Club for the delightful dinner served.

He said the company had signed a new contract with the Amalgamated Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, Union (AFL) Aug. 18.

1,036,609 CARS IN ONTARIO

Toronto, Sept. 28—(CP)—Ontario residents are driving more automobiles this year than in 1949.

Highways Minister Doucett said that up to the end of August, 1,036,609 vehicles had been licenced this year, compared with 914,569 for the corresponding period last year. He said these vehicles included 99,000 new cars.

Miss Part of Program And Get 'Scare'

Stockholm, Sept. 28 (Reuters) —Swedish radio listeners were given an 'Orson Welles scare' last night when they heard the Swedish Broadcasting Corporation announce that "a western power" had invaded Swedish territory.

Panic gripped parts of the country. One woman ran out screaming and naked from her bath. A middle aged woman fell ill with shock.

But there was no cause for hysteria. Many listeners had tuned in late, and missed the name of the program "In the Year 1812."

The excitement recalled the pre-war alarm in the United States over the Orson Welles "Invasion From Mars" broadcast.

LADY STRICKLAND DIES

Valetta, Malta, Sept. 28 (Reuters)—Lady Margaret Strickland, widow of the former prime minister of Malta, died today. She was 82.

Her husband, the first and last Baron Strickland, died 10 years ago. From him she got the title of Countess Della Catena, in the Malta nobility. She was his second wife.

Her father, the late Edward Hulton of London, left her and her sister an income for life on two-thirds of the Hulton newspaper estate. The estate was estimated, 22 years ago, at £2,000,000.

Mabel Strickland, editor of the Times of Malta, is a stepdaughter.

Will Ask Statement On Validity of Votes On Sunday Sports

Hamilton, Sept. 28. (CP)—Controller H. Arnott Hicks said today he would take the stand at tomorrow's Board of Control meeting that the provincial attorney - general's department should be asked for a definite statement that it is convinced of the validity of municipal plebiscites on the Sunday Sports question.

"If they won't give such a declaration ,then there must be some doubt as to its legality, and I think there is some doubt," said the controller. "I understand that some leading members of the legal profession think it is 'ultra vires'."

CONDEMN OVER-INDULGENCE

Toronto, Sept. 28 — (CP) — A gathering of Salvation Army officers from Ontario and Manitoba yesterday gave unanimous approval to a declaration that "the greatest single evil of modern times is over-indulgence in strong drink."

It criticized the licensing of what it said was a growing number of liquor outlets, expressed opposition to commercialized Sunday sport and commended the CBC Board of Governors for "stifling" attempts to promote radio bingo.

Red Chinese Say U.S. Destroyer Shelled Vessel

London Sept. 28—(AP)—Communist China has charged that a U.S. destroyer shelled one of her ships in Chinese waters and demanded a hearing before the United Nations General Assembly.

Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai, in a message broadcast over radio Peiping, said the merchant vessel was "shelled Sept. 21 off the Shantung peninsula." He claimed that the destroyer, identified as the D-29, lobbed four shells across the stern of the Chinese vessel, the "Anhai 21" then a loading party questioned the captain while her 14 passengers and 11 crew members were lined up on deck. An hour later the destroyer sailed away.

Jane's fighting ships for 1949-50—authoritative index of naval craft—lists no U.S. destroyer with a number designation as low as D-29.

Magistrate O. M. Martin fined Doig $10 or 10 days. Doig took the 10 days.

EARLY AUTUMN

One of those fair days of early autumn was Wednesday with that touch of the warm sun which had lifted the pall of the dun clouds of smoke which for several days had made the skies lowering and removed the possibility of the sight of the eclipsing of the moon the other evening.

It is to be expected that those who were concerned both in the Western Hemisphere from the Americas to the nations surrounding the North Sea with the darkness of the pall of smoke will have recovered any trepidation they had felt before the clearing of the smog from the skies.

After all people are very much interested in the aspect of the physical world around them. They are ever on the alert for weather news for the weather is vital as affecting business, pleasure and the welfare of the produce of the fields.

The weather is of course most easily noticed by the phases of the earthly surroundings in which we live.

Now all hope for some of the fine weather of which they were deprived during the summer when nature was wayward in sending very frequent rains and in fostering temperatures which appeared abnormally cool beyond the average.

In this hope they have the fact that autumn in its early phase is generally one of the mose enjoyable seasons of the entire year. It offers wealth of produce, it paints everything with the hues of red and gold and it brings that sense of satisfaction and gratitude which finds its highest expression in the spirit of Thanksgiving.

WAY OF HOPE AND SECURITY

A great part of the world now knows that there is a United Nations flag and what it means. That flag as representing the nations banded for the purpose of preventing aggression came into being out of the desire of many powers that all nations might have security.

Events of the past few months have forcibly brought to the mind of the pepoles in the United Nations Organizations that it is a great reality and has struck its first great blow to ban aggressors and guard weaker states.

Nations who have united in this determination have put their great combined resources into the undertaking and have as their reward achieved something which will add to the strength and will of the organization.

Their liberation of Seoul bears its own mighty message across the earth with the hope that the organization will continue to grow in influence and transform the world so greatly that the curse of the threat of war may be removed and in due time all nations may be possessed of the desire to guard freedom as the most precious gift of life.

The U.N. appeal expresses the truest hopes and determination to give protection to all nations at all times from aggression. Its eye is on the ideal of a peaceful world. Its victories in South Korea have stimulated the spirit of freedom and desire for action on a world scale to down aggression whenever it raises its head. When that day comes, then only will the world's great era have begun. The U.N. organization looks forward to a harmonious world, every part of it seeking to live in peace, amity and justice with the other part.

Events of the past three months and more have strengthened the will of all free states to support the U.N. For in that direction only as far as men can see lie hope and assurance of safety.

EGG PRODUCTION

The hen remains one of the chief benefactors of the human race. Eggs are eaten everywhere and will be while the human race and the poultry continue to exist on the globe.

Hens in the Dominion have been tireless in their maintenance of the production of eggs. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics says that the hen flocks of Canada laid during June 30,000,000 dozens of eggs or a million dozens a day. January-to-June production stood at 179,200,000 dozens, just a little less than the million-a-day (dozen.)

Ten million eggs are produced every working hour on the average. That is what the patient and docile hen piles up every working hour.

Hens have come into their own in the modern world. They have held their place against meats and form one of the greatest industries. Those who have to do with raising so many fowl and developing this egg market deserve the thanks of the Canadian people.

The praises of others may be of use in teaching us, not what we are, but what we ought to be—Hare.

A good man's prayers will from the deepest dungeon climb heaven's height, and bring a blessing down.—Joanna Baillie.

THE INTENDED LETTER

At him I do not mean to scoff,
But these were his excuses slight
That always kept him putting off
The letter that he meant to write:

"Because no postage stamps he had
And would tomorrow buy a few.
Because the pen and ink were bad,
Because he'd something else to do.

"Because a friend dropped in to call
And visiting had stayed too late."
Nor have I named the reasons all
He let the cheering letter wait.

To send it now there is no need
Because his soul has taken flight,
That friend of his will never read
The letter that he meant to write.

Mackenzie's Column:

Quick Decision About Crossing Line Must be Made

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The toughest question which the United Nations faces is whether its military forces shall be sent across the 38th parallel from South Korea.

The problem not only is tough but it is urgent. The fate of the North Korean army is sealed and with its collapse must come a quick decision about crossing that imaginary line which looms more realistically than the Great Wall of China.

But why cross the 38th parallel at all? Because the U.N. envisages establishment of a free and United Korea, and that can be achieved only under supervision of the peace organization. A militray halt at the border might defeat this plan by leaving Korea a country divided against itself.

The delicacy of the situation lies in the fact that Korea is of great importance strategically. It not only touches communist China but also adjoins Soviet territory close to Russia's great naval port of Vladivostok.

So naturally both Moscow and Peiping are watching Korean development with a weather eye. Probably they are asking themselves if the United States has any ulterior objective in view—whether, for instance, she is manoeuvring into position for a move against the Soviet.

No Designs

Of course the United States has disavowed any territorial or permanent military interest in Korea, and has made clear that she has no military designs against Russia. In addition American officials in Washington are figuring that if the U.N. decides to order troops into Northern Korea, there now are plenty available without using American forces.

While this question of crossing the 38th parallel hangs fire in the U.N., the peace organization is going ahead with plans for Korean peace and rehabilitation. Britain is taking the lead in this and has drafted a program which includes the establishment of an independent and United Korea, with a democratic government elected under U.N. supervision.

Force Necessary

It is difficult to see how the U.N. plans could be carried out without sending a strong military force across that 38th parallel into North Korea.

However, there is no need for employing American troops and thus creating a position which would antagonize Russia and China. Troops would be available from the contingents being provided by Canada, Britain, the Philippines, Turkey, Greece, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand Belgium and The Netherlands. What more could be wanted? And even this list doesn't include the South Korean army which has been fighting with the American and other U.N. troops. What's the matter with sending a South Korean military contingent into North Korea for police work? It strikes me that would make an excellent selection.

To sum up: The sending of American troops into Northern Korea might create a dangerous situation, while the U.N. likely could avoid this difficulty by using non-American forces.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

SEEING SIGHTS

Moncton, N.B.—Moncton has a couple of real good phenomena.

Ordinarily I am kind of lukewarm on phenomena. Mountains that look like things, for example. I can never figure them out.

When we were in Port Arthur a couple of native sons nearly went berserk trying to show me "The Sleeping Giant," a long low mountain across Thunder Bay. Just looked to me like a long, low mountain. They finally got so red in the face and threshing their arms about so that I said I did see it. People are touchy about their phenomena.

Indian legends, too, leave me cold. The Indians of this country have sold the white man some fairy tales that make Hansel and Gretel look as straightforward as a bank report.

Let an imaginative Indian get a glimpse of some unusual rock or a cave or waterfall and he can whip you up a quaint tale involving the great wind of the Thunder Bird, a princes named Nek-Ee-Hok-A-Ug, or some such handle, the Great Manitou and assorted fixtures. All of which will be promptly put between covers by a Junior Chamber of Commerce and distributed to tourists (who put them away carefully in the glove compartment of their cars, never to be seen again.)

But to get back to Moncton. Moncton's phenomena are so simple that a child or even a tourist can understand them— or, at any rate, know that they exist. I refer, of course, to the famous tidal bore on the Petitcodiac River, upon which Moncton is located, and the so-called Magnetic Hill, both moderately astounding.

We took in both events yesterday and while this has been done before (as far back as 1758 in the case of the bore) I have some notes here on both.

The Bore

Best place to see the bore (and please, none of your jokes about mothers-in-law) is from a small park in midtown Moncton. A clock-face is displayed prominently here to tell you when the thing is next due. If you're early I suggest you try a small cafe there called the Bore's View Cafe which serves a plate of fresh lobster for 75 cents. Quite a phenomenum in itself.

The tourists all line up at a railing which looks out on the Petitcodiac and a most uninspiring sight it is. There's a great wide bend in the river here and at low tide, which it is when you turn up, it's a rather desolate looking mudbank. The dirty chocolate stream moves sluggishly down to the Bay of Fundy.

Then somebody (possibly a plant by the Junior Chamber) shouts: "There it is." And away off at the bend you see a thin white wave moving upstream, stretching from one muddy bank to the other.

At this point everyone begins talking and you can pick up some mighty interesting, if unreliable, information. Wave moves at six miles an hour. . . or perhaps it's eight. Caused by the terrific high tides in the bay. So much pressure and volume of water squeezes into the river that it gets all heaped up and the wave forms.

Sometimes its only a few inches high, sometimes up to four or five feet. Today's, we hear, is a good three feet in height. American in brown gabardine suit says: "This is the second biggest bore in the world. The biggest is my wife." Everybody titters.

And now the bore is coming past us. It has a small, but impressive roar. Its wave curls along the muddy bank, slurps through the pilings of docks and wharves and goes by like a line of cavalry. I was delighted to see that hundreds of seagulls were riding along with it, making a good haul of befuddled fish. Behind the first foaming wave comes the tide and now—hesto! presto! — the Petitcodiac is running backward!

We thought the bore anything but. It's a first-rate phenomenon.

The Hill

From the river front we drove back through the town and five miles north to the Magnetic Hill.

Story is that about 25 years ago some Moncton blades parked their Model "T" at the foot of this hill and got out to have a couple of snorts. Whereupon the old Ford started silently backing up the hill and all the lads solemnly swore off drinking. Probably not a true story.

We followed instructions, drove the car "down" the hill to a white post, turned the motor off and put her in neutral. Car promptly began to roll backward "up" the hill.

Course, there's nothing really "magnetic" about the slope. It's a very deceiving optical illusion which tourist-conscious Moncton has carefully preserved (a new highway skirts around the original road so that you can spend all the time you like coasting "uphill").

A native we met on the scene told us he likes to hang around and see how the hill divides people into two classes. "Get one type who knows that the hill isn't what it seems and won't admit it looks that way," he said. "Other type sort of enjoys being fooled. Get a lot more fun out of life that way."

The commercial possibilities of the phenomenon haven't been overlooked and there's a fine inn right alongside. Serves delicious lobster.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FLOATING MUSIC

Compete silence is impossible. There are always sounds floating about in the air. The wind, be it ever so slight, is an orchestra in itself. The trees, the waves of the sea, river, or inland lake, and the patter of raindrops upon window panes, or roofs, are instruments that play their music to our listening ears.

Sitting before a log fire there is revealed another form of floating music in the whisper of the flames. And every song from the throat of a bird sends forth music that floats upon the air like rich perfume from the earth's flowers. And there is the hum of bees, insects, and an endless variety of sounds that nature furnishes, each to mingle with the other and to float out into space.

At my summer island retreat in Nova Scotia, these floating sounds that were always so fascinating, because so gentle at times, were emphasized by the absence of the familiar train whistles in the distant mainland, during a railroad strike. Then it was that Nature's floating music came most in play, and was noticed most.

Said Thoreau: "There was never yet such a storm but it was Aeolian music to a healthy and innocent ear." The song of pines in a storm, or upon a sunny day with the winds on running races, form floating music as dramatic as that under the baton of a great leader with his orchestra in watchful unison.

That which makes a sea voyage so restful and comforting is the wash of the waves as the great ship plows its way to its destined port. Even in the silence of nature everything of beauty creates floating music in color and contrast. The water-fall, the romping stream, and the bend of trees as they nod to the wind.

How rarely do we give thought to this floating music that is so comforting when away from the rush and turmoil of city streets and business activity. Is not all this floating music medicine to both the mind and the soul?

ARREST OF LEPROSY AT THE SAN

Ordinarily I might apologize for using the name "leprosy" instead of Hanson's disease, but in this instance "leprosy" seems more likely to catch the eye and perhaps the interest of people who still harbor morbid obsessions based on lifelong mumpsimus. We can only conjecture what diseases the lepers of scriptural allusions had—probably other than what we call leprosy today, in most instances.

The "release" of a missionary from the National Leprosarium at Carville, Louisiana, as completely cured of leprosy after more than twenty years of treatment there, was recently reported in about one-third of a column on an inside page of a newspaper in the community where the clergyman had been hounded out of town within 20 hours when it was discovered that he had leprosy in 1928. The hounding was by the health department. The health officer asserted that he had no alternative under the law but to ask the clergyman to go to Carville of his own accord or to remain imprisoned in the leper cubicle of the county hospital until officers of the U. S. Public Health Service could arrive (probably by camel caravan from St. Louis or Las Vegas) to transfer him to Carville.

This shamelses conduct of the health officials, city, state or federal, was as reprehensible then as it would be today. Even today, I imagine, the outbreak" of a case of leprosy in some communities would occasion the same misbehavior on the part of the so-called health authorities, or as nearly so as they might be reckless enough to try under the hazard of civil damage suit by the patient.

The cure of leprosy (Hanson's disease) at the United States Marine Hospital at Carville is nearly as routine as the cure or arrest of tuberculosis in any sanatorium for patients in the early stage of what in later stage the old timers called consumption.

An individual with leprosy is muchless likely to infect neighbors, friends or associates in everyday occupation than is an individual with pulmonary tuberculosis. Leprosy is not readily transmitted from person to person. In Carville and other hospitals for Hanson's disease instances of infection of doctors, nurses, attendants, clerks, cooks, waiters or frequent visitors are virtually unknown. The popular fear of this disease is as groundless as the fear unenlightened people forty or fifty years ago felt when a hospital or sanatorium for tuberculosis patients was proposed in a community where such protection was obviously needed.

The term "cured" as applied to either pulmonary tuberculosis or leprosy, is tentative. Physicians today prefer the term "arrested"—which means the disease is no longer active, there are no symptoms, no germs are given off, and hence the individual is no more likely to spread the disease to others than you and I are. He or she may still harbor somewhere in the body, say in deep lying lymph nodes, the germs of the disease in a latent or dormant state, and at some future time this latent disease may again become active. But you and I whether we know it or not, may likewise harbor such latent tuberculosis or even leprosy, which may never light up into active disease, yet we menace those around us quite as much as does the person with arrested tuberculosis or arrested leprosy.

More than two-thirds of the patients admitted to Carville—I say admitted advisedly, for it is a delightful place to stay—are native born, coming chiefly from Florida, Texas, New York, California etc. Leprosy, like tuberculosis, occurs everywhere.

—U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D.C., publishes at intervals reports of the work carried on at Carville. Write that address or your congressman for such government publications.

Strength for the Day

ONE SMALL IMPEDIMENT

Several years ago a man went to Jerusalem to pursue a very extensive study in Arabic. For several months he seemed to be getting nowhere. At last he learned to pronounce a consonant which has no parallel in English. Finally when this student was able to master that one pronunciation, his studies took a new turn. The thing he had hoped for in matters of education now began to materialize. He had overcome the one thing which stood between him and failure. He had found the little thing which was frustrating him and keeping him from success.

More often than we are willing to admit, it is a little something in our lives which keeps us from the full and happy utilization of our powers. The amazing thing is the smallness of this impediment. It may be, a selfish streak in us or some habit which alienates us from others, or a peculiarity which we could easily conquer, if we would. Even more often it is a defect in character. The slightest trace of insincerity, for instance, will keep us from making friends or being trusted by the few we have.

Get rid of that one thing, and your difficulties will begin to disappear. Remember the man who had to learn to pronounce one consonant in Arabic before he could successfully continue his study of the language.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My watchmaker instructs me to wind my watch first thing in the morning, never the last thing at night.

"It stands to reason," he explains. "If you wind the spring up tight at bed time and then leave the watch lying motionless for eight hours or so, it can not keep accurate time when, on rising in the morning, you subject the delicate mechanism to a full sixteen hour day of jolting, swinging, bouncing, during the period that its spring is relaxed and running down."

He is no doubt right. But the chances are very slight that he will convert me or any of the other hundred millions of the earth's population who likely own watches. Winding the watch at bed-time is part of a ritual. People did not have to learn to wind watches at bed-time, when watches first came into general use less than a hundred years ago. It was as instinctive as yawning.

In fact, when you think of it, the idea, of putting your watch, unwound, on the bureau or bedside table as you retire has a decidedly uneasy and uncomfortable feel to it. In every ancient days, when we all lived in caves or hovels, the last thing we did at night was bank the fire with logs or peat not merely to keep some warmth about us through the night, but also to insure that the precious fire would be there for us in the morning. That looking-to-morrow instinct in us must surely be one of the oldest of all our subconscious thoughts.

Now that we no longer have to bank the fire, the instinct still tries to utter itself. And as we yawn and dawdle by the bedside, we pick up the watch and wind it, assuring ourselves, as it were, of tomorrow, the hours of which this watch we wind will measure.

I have tried to adopt the technologically sound morning-winding system. But it doesn't work. My watch is usually stopped around noon.

Appeals Court Says Jan Bata Must be Released

New York, Sept. 28 (AP) —An appeals court ruled Wednesday that Jan Bata, jailed in a civil action involving a $10,000,000 business, must be released.

The appellate division of the State Supreme Court ruled that the failure of a lower court to release Bata was "an abusive discretion."

The court said that civil arrest was a drastic remedy seldom resorted to, and should be used only where the right to it was clear.

Bata, half-brother of the late Thomas Bata, founder of the Czechoslovakian Bata Shoe firm, was jailed in default of $50,000 on an arrest order obtained by Mrs. Marie Bata widow of Thomas Bata.

She asked the arrest of the Brazilian National to insure his appearance in connection with law suits started by herself and her son, Thomas, Jr.

They are asking the court to rule that Bata holds in trust for them capital stock and interests in 53 companies in 27 countries, including a plant at Batawa, Ont.

Bata contended that he had purchased the stock from his half brother.

The appeals court held that "the civil liability of defendant to pliantiff has not been shown to be the counterpart of criminal liability" and added:

"The affidavits before the court, in our judgment, leave this whole subject in too much uncertainty to warrant resort to so severe and summary a remedy . . .

"The order of arrest should have been vacated and the failure to do so constituted an abusive discretion."

SMITH—CRONK

A pretty candlelight wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 16, at 3:00 p.m., in Wellington United Church, when Doris Lealla Cronk, Reg.N., Belleville, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Cronk, became the bride of Franklin Clayton Smith, of Brighton, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Smith. The Rev. J. F. Lane, of Madoc, officiated before a background of multi-colored gladioli and ferns. The guest pews were designated by white bows and gladioli flowerets.

The traditional wedding music preceded the ceremony, and the soloist, Miss Joan Richard, of Wellington, sang, before the ceremony, "I Love You Truly", and during the signing of the register, "Through the Years".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a charming bridal gown of white slipper satin, featuring a high, standup collar, long torso bodice buttoned down the back, long sleeves coming to points over the hands, and short train. Her fingertip veil was held by a halo of white satin with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and bouvardia.

Miss Jean Onyon, Reg.N., of Brighton, was bridesmaid, gowned in apple green taffeta, fashioned with semi-hoop skirt caught up in the front with bows showing rows of French lace, and wore a matching headdress in Queen Anne style and matching mitts.

The bride's table was centred by a three-tiered cake, flanked by silver candles.

For travelling to Lake Huron, Detroit and Adirondacks, the bride chose a heavenly blue gabardine suit with topcoat of natural wool whipcord, black velvet accessories, and corsage of blush rosebuds. Upon their return, they will reside temporarily in Belleville.

Club Activities

PRINCE EDWARD-BELLEVILLE CLUB

For the September meeting Mrs. Charles Earle opened her lovely home, 224 Ann Street. Mrs. Jeffrey, as co-hostess, assisted in welcoming over fifty members and guests. The rooms were bright with a profusion of late autumn flowers and ferns.

After the usual opening with Mrs. F. Lent, presiding, the members stood in silent prayer, after which the president paid tribute in memory of Mrs. Joe Shortt, whose passing was so keenly felt by all. Her helpful service and loyal association with the club will long be remembered.

Mrs. Osborne opened her program with a poem. Mrs. Ernest Martin led in community singing with Mrs. LaRue at the piano.

The musical program consisted of several fine piano solos by Mrs. Millar and Mrs. Currie.

In a brief talk Mrs. Youdale gave a resume of many great artists and composers who, in spite of great physical handicaps brought a wealth of music and art to the country.

Mrs. Northcotte, brought a message of helpfulness and outlined some of the work in connection with "The Manor", and Albert College Guild.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel spoke briefly of her interests in U.E.L. historical research, and of her larger interests in hospital work since her appointment on the provincial association.

The social hour took the form of a "cafeteria supper" with long tables in the sun porch and dining room, with numerous small tables where a happy get-together was enjoyed.

Mrs. Weese extended appreciation to the Club, to all assisting in the program, to Mrs. Earle for her hospitality, to Mrs. Jeffrey as co-hostess and to all those who assisted in serving.

Mrs. Lent has invited the club to her home on Bleecker Avenue for the October meeting which will meet one week later than usual.

TWEED

St. John's United Church Holds Rally Day Service

Tweed.—Rally service was held in St. Johns United Church Sunday School, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with a good attendance of pupils, officers and teachers present. The meeting opened with quiet music played by the organist, Mrs. John Sager.

An order of worship for Rally Day was presented. Theme "For the Healing of The Nation", was the thought carried out through the service.

Promotion of the scholars to the different classes was conducted by Mrs. L. Elliott, and while the beginners and primary classes were being promoted, two little girls held open the gates that were arranged on the platform while Mrs. Provost sang "Open the Gates". Mrs. C. E. Way read portions of scripture and Mrs. P. C. Barnett read the prayer as arranged. "O Lord, the Healer of all our disease, who knowest how the sick have need of a Physician, let Thy perpetual providence guide and direct the work of hospitals throughout the world. Instruct all whom Thou hast called to be sharers in Thine own work of healing, that the pain and the grief of the world may be lightened and the bounds of Thy Kingdom enlarged through Jesus Christ, Our Lord. O God our Father, who dids't send Thy son to save the world, we pray Thee to bless all who work for Thee at home and in distant lands. Make us glad to help Thy work, so that all Thy children everywhere may learn to know Thy love, and to share with us the joy that comes through our Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen". Suitable hymns were sung.

"Lionga" the Leper

Mrs. L. Elliott told the Rally Day story, "The Story of Lionga", a little Korean boy, whose parents were farmers who lived not far from the sea.

It was a sad story, for Lionga had developed the dread disease of leprosy, for which the doctor said there was no cure. But as the days and weeks went by, he met a missionary who could speak the Korean language. The missionary told him of a place where lepers were living treated with a marvelous new drug that would cure him if the disease were not too far advanced. Lionga went and after many months of treatment he was miraculously healed. He also learned about Jesus, the Great Physician and Saviour of men.

The story as told by a missionary, was that later he attended a theological college where he graduated as a minister, and returned to his own home village, where he established a church.

On Sunday morning Rev. A. L. Sisco of St. John's United Church, Tweed, conducted anniversary services at Point Anne and Rev. O. A. Wagar had charge of the service at Tweed.

After spending the summer months at Metis Beach, Quebec, Mrs. M. C. Sims returned to her home in Tweed, on Monday.

Rev. A. L. Sisco, chairman of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church, and John O. Sager, laymen, attended a meeting on Tuesday in Centreville Memorial Church, the Enterprise pastoral charge at Centreville, Ontario.

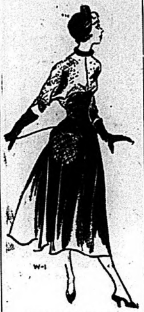
Charming And Youthful



Attractive date dress

By VERA WINSTON

A DATE dress that is striking and fashionably smart, without sacrificing its youthful appeal is a treasure. Here two separates get together for young sophistication. The blouse is of wool jersey with a little rolled collar of satin. The sleeves are loose underarm and draped at the elbow. The satin skirt has a built-up waist band and one large pocket of the jersey, quilted and stone studded, with petal-like turned back flaps. It is charming in two shades of brown, light for the top, deeper for the skirt.

Women's Guild Enjoys Address On Trip to Europe

Tabernacle Women's Guild met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. G. Coulter, Evans Street. The president, Mrs. H. R. Gibson, was in charge. Miss Alice Hessman conducted the devotional period envisioning a world minus a lot of the present discrepencies. Man plays a part in human development, he is of the earth, but also is akin to the creative spirit. All nature stimulates him and his response has achieved all the triumphs of the manual arts and science. He responds to beauty and the results are music and art. He is stimulated by human hopes, triumphs and tragedies and produces literature and drama. He has learned by experience that his fellows can co-operate with each other and with God. Intelligent co-operation with things as God created then makes for even higher individual and social living. Mankind dreams and longs for its Utopia and yet conditions remain bad because so many will not work with God. If the democratic ideal which is no near to the genius of Christianity is desirable all classes must cultivate that spirit in themelves and practise it in their daily life.

Mrs. Gibson introduced Mr. George Wishart as the guest speaker. Mr. Wishart had spent four months in England, Scotland and several European countries, in connection with a survey regarding natural enemies of insect pests. This was conducted in co-operation with the Commonwealth Entomological Labratory at Zurich, Switzerland. He showed colored film showing views of many interesting places.

"In London, England, after feeding the pigeons in Trafalgar Square" said the speaker, "we visited the National Art Gallery, saw the changing of the horse guard, visited the house where Christopher Wren lived, saw St. Paul's Cathedral and visited Kew Gardens with its colorful rhodedondrens. The buildings in connection with Cambridge are all very beautiful.

"In Exeter there were many views of the results of the bombing. Many of the cathedrals that are being rebuilt still have not had the stained glass windows replaced. Typical country scenes in South Devon were very colorful. Here also was shown a building frequented by Sir. Frances Drake."

Visits Large Estate

Plymouth Harbor was seen and many new housing schemes, also St. Ives and Penzance were visited viewing a large estate where the gardens and tropical trees were in perfect condition.

In Scotland, Edinburgh was visited showing the lovely grounds surrounding the castle, the home of John Knox, and St. Giles Cathedral. In Aberdeen where the buildings are nearly all granite, the streets are cobblestone, and the pedestrian is king.

Zurich, Switzerland with the Alps in the background is a lovely city. The people are noted for their neatness and tidiness.

Several scenes along the Seine in France were shown as well as the Palace of Versaille, and several buildings that had been built by King Louis for Marie Antoinette. In France the parks and buildings were quite unkempt.

A coal mining area near Liege, Belgium was shown and several scenes in Ghent. An old castle dating back to 1100 was visited complete with torture chambers and dungeons. The sidewalk cafes are typical of many cities. Cheese day in the market place at Alkmaar was an interesting item.

In Harlem a statue has been built to the "Little Hero of Harlem" to satisfy inquiring tourists.

The city hall in Oslo, Norway, is extremely modern as are most of the buildings. The majority of the people live in modern apartments.

The flight from Oslo to Stockholm covered many interesting Swedish countryside scenes. There are over 20,000 boats in the city of Stockholm. Everyone appears healthy.

In the parks the people are taught folk dancing which seemed to be enjoyed. The streets are divided into three parts, one for motors, one for cycle and the other for pedestrians. Cyclists are very much in the majority.

The Palace Square in Copenhagen, Denmark, still has its air raid shelters. Much international travel is done by air on the continent, thereby simplifying customs difficulties.

Like most travellers, while it is very nice to be away and see all the interesting places and people, it is also pleasant to return home and the dock at Montreal was a welcome sight.

Miss Olive Elson expressed the appreciation of the Guild to Mr. Wishart for his interesting address. Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee.

An Inspired Hat

BY ALICE ALDEN

FASHION draws inspiration from many sources, geographical as well as historical. A Dalmatian headdress, for instance, serves as the source from which Harryson worked out this muffin of a dinner hat. Posed straight on top of the head, rather than atilt as is the way with most hat of beret persuasion, it is dramatized by a glittering rhinestone teardrop and a stiff edge veil of coarse black mesh.

MARSH HILL

Bride-to-be Honored With Many Gifts

Marsh Hill.—On Thursday evening last a delightfully arranged miscellaneous shower was held in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Vanderwater, at the home of Mrs. John Brown, with Mrs. Berson Mitts as co-hostess.

Margaret was presented with a corsage and then was seated in a chair beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers. Over her head was a pink umbrella from which balloons were suspended. Later in the evening the balloons were broken and the bride-to-be was showered with confetti.

A short program was enjoyed by all. A short sing-song with Mrs. Fred Campbell at the piano.

Readings were given by Doreen Bartindale and Lois Mitts. Contests by Lois Mitts and Barbara Brown.

Mrs. Berson Mitts gave a brief address, extending to Margaret, best wishes for much happiness and joy.

Little Miss Marilyn Finkle, brought in a beautifully decorated wagon in which was a lovely basket full of gifts, for which Margaret thanked her friends.

Campbellford — The re-organization meeting of the Campbellford Women's Liberal Association was held last week with about 25 members present. The group elected officers for the coming year, and discussed future plans of the organization.

Two noted guests were on hand for the occasion. Dr. F. G. Robertson, (L-Northumberland), reviewed the events of the recent session of parliament and explained many points to the ladies.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

The Seattle man who ate 100 frankfurters in 25 minutes is not always given the complete credit he deserves. People sometimes neglect to mention the almost incredible fact that the frankfurters were on rolls.

Making frankfurters alone for dinner can hardly be called cooking. Since the wieners are already pre-cooked, your only task is to heat them. But when they are served with sauerkraut or red cabbage or dark beans, they make a delicious hot dinner that should tame the most weather bitten appetites. The cost of frankfurters per serving is only a fraction of most meat dishes.

In buying frankfurters you will sometimes notice differences in color among various brands. The natural color is a pinkish tan. If the frankfurters have a deep orange color, this is merely harmless color added to satisfy the demand in some sections of the country.

All frankfurters are cooked in casings by the manufacturer. Skinless frankfurters are those with the casing removed after the cooking has been completed.

Canned kidney beans can be given a fresh flavor with small mushroom cubes and a few added seasonings. Beans and frankfurters should be brought to the table bubbling hot.

Frankfurters with Kidney Beans.
4 Servings

Cut 4 slices of bacon into 1-4 inch squares. Put bacon pieces in a saucepan. Simmer slowly until bacon is nearly crisp. Remove bacon pieces; let fat remain in pan.

Wash 1-4 pound of fresh mushrooms. Cut mushrooms into 1-4 inch cubes. Add mushrooms to the bacon fat and simmer slowly 5 minutes.

Sprinkle the mushrooms with the juice of a quarter lemon. Sprinkle with salt. Chop 2 tablespoons parsley fine. Add parsley to mushrooms and simmer 3 minutes more.

Add a number 2 can of red kidney beans to the pan. Add 1 tablespoon brown sugar and 1 tablespoon catsup. Simmer beans over a slow flame 10 minutes.

Put 8 frankfurters into pan. Cover with beans. Heat slowly 10 minutes. Stir frequently during cooking to prevent beans from sticking. Add bacon just before serving.

Knockwurst may be substituted for frankfurters. Allow 1 knockwurst per serving.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, envelope for his reply.—Ed.

DON'T SOAK

Vegetables should not be soaked before cooking, as much food value is lost this way.

LARGE FAMILY

Benjamin Franklin was the 15th child in a family of 17.

BABY'S UPSET STOMACH QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. B. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote restful comfort."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and her stomach became quite upset. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—and quieted down."

Equally effective for teething troubles, constipation, simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easily crushed to a powder, if desired—prompt in action. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 29 cents.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her childhood was unhappy—now she fears for her daughter

No mother who had an unhappy childhood herself wants to see her own child go through the same sort of unhappiness. Yet sometimes, hard as she may try, she is not always able to prevent it. Then it seems to me, what she must do is to give her child a philosophy that will keep her thinking and her emotions on an even keel, so that she will not grow up with them warped and distorted.

A mother who is facing this problem writes me as follows:

"My father deserted my mother and became involved with another woman. My three sisters and I, as children, heard people whispering that he was no good; that he didn't live up to his marriage vows, etc. We were so ashamed of him, especially because my mother was a wonderful woman.

"My sisters never married, and I believe it was because of the disillusion my father's actions caused in them at an early and impressionable age. I know I felt that way when I reached maturity, but the man who became my husband won me over with his kindness and patience."

Now, this wife goes on to say, history is repeating itself in her own family. Her own husband has deserted her, and, as she puts it, "is running around with another woman". Not only that, but before he left, this man—whose "kindness and patience" had prevailed upon a disillusioned girl to take a chance at trusting him—had taunted her about her father, reminding her that he was "no good", hadn't supported her mother, and in general had been a "bum".

"I am fearful that my husband's behavior will make my eight-year old daughter feel that all men are unfaithful and not to be trusted, as my father's conduct did to my sisters and me", her letter concludes.

Here is where I think it depends almost entirely on the mother's own wisdom whether or not the child does grow up with such an attitude. It not only depends on her skill in handling the child, but also upon the attitude she herself takes toward her unfaithful husband.

As her own early unhappiness and disillusion come to the surface again now, and are accentuated by her husband's behavior, it is going to be very difficult for her to avoid passing on this feeling to her daughter. A child's philosophy of life is developed not nearly so much through the things that happen to it, as through the emotions its parents create in it by those experiences. Hence, the mother's responsibility here is to take such an adult attitude toward the child's father that she will inevitably absorb and exhibit the same feeling.

Naturally, this woman will not be able to suppress all her own hurt. But she can, if she exerts sufficient self-control, avoid showing bitterness and resentment. She can tell the child that, unhappily, not all people are loyal to the man or woman they married, and that, unfortunately, her own father is one of the unreliable ones. She can assure her, however, that there are far more marriages in which husband and wife are faithful to each other than the other kind, and so preserve her trust in marriage itself.

Apart from this problem, this wife wants to know how she can make her husband "see the error of his ways" and return home, ready to live a normal married life again. "I love my husband and would be willing to forgive and be reconciled", she says, "but he is very bitter. He is very stubborn and difficult to reason with."

Curiously, she than adds a postscript, in which may possibly lie the key to at least part of the whole trouble. "He has felt," she writes, "that I place the child before him."

It would not be at all unlikely that she has actually done this. Her instinctive distrust of men may have caused her to concentrate on the child, rather than on her husband, feeling that the child would not disappoint her, even though the husband should. If she can think all this over, and decide whether or not her marriage may have gone wrong on this point, and if so, resolve to correct it, she may yet be able to straighten out her tangled situation and build a better future.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Her brother died in Korea . . . . She writes thank-you notes for messages of sympathy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother was killed in Korea. We have received many messages and cards of sympathy. Isn't it correct for us to send notes of thanks for these messages? If so, should we write these notes or have them printed?

E. N.

Yes, for every message of sympathy —letter or card or telegram—someone in your family should write a note of appreciation. It should be a written note . . . .not a printed or engraved card. It may be written on plain white note-paper or your own personal paper and a sentence or two is adequate. For example:

Dear Grace,

You were most kind to send us such an understanding message about Bob, and your words were a deep comfort to all of us. Thank you, so very much.

Devotedly,

Or:

Dear Mrs. Blake,

You and Mr. Blake were so kind, and Mother wants me to tell you both how deeply we all appreciated your good words.

Sincerely,

Or:

Dear Cousin Frances,

Mother will write you later, but now she wants me to tell you that your dear and understanding message arrived, and that she and we are so very grateful. The tragic news about our beloved Bob was heartbreaking, and we needed so much your dear and comforting words. Bob went forth so bravely. . . .bless his valiant heart and spirit. . . .and we are trying to readjust our living without his fine and good and delightful companionship.

Dearest love to all there, from all of us here.

Affectionately,

And may I please send you, too, dear lady, my sympathy in this sorrow that has come to you? I understand full well what it means.

Order for processional and recessional

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am having two junior bridesmaids in my wedding party, as well as four grown-up bridesmaids. Also a maid of honor, and two flower girls. Please tell me the order for the processional and recessional.

Martha W.

Processional: First, the ushers, two by two. Next, the two junior bridesmaids, walking together. Next, the four bridesmaids, two by two. Next maid of honor, alone. Then the two flower girls. Last, you and your father.

Recessional: First, bride and groom. Next, the two flower girls, together. Next, maid of honor, either alone or with the best man. Then the two pairs of bridesmaids; followed by the two junior bridesmaids, together. Last, the ushers, two by two, as in the processional.

Simple evening menu for shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am giving a very dear friend of mine a bridal shower, probably to take place in the evening, about 8 o'clock. What should I serve . . . .a salad or only sandwiches and a beverage?

V. R. B.

Whichever you wish to serve is correct. After the opening of the presents, you might serve a delicious salad, perhaps a fruit salad, with heated finger rolls or slim sandwiches with simple filling; coffee and/or an alternative for those who don't drink coffee in the evening. Or you may serve only sandwiches and coffee; or small cakes and coffee or other beverage.

BEAUTY

Does your complexion have tantrums?

Loud are the lamentations of the woman who has a dry skin that flares up and reddens at contact with soap and water, and has a rough surface that refuses to co-operate with powder or make-up.

There are complexions that are as temperamental as prima donnas. They are in a constant state of rebellion. Nothing that is applied to them seems to be of the slightest benefit. They seem intent on making themselves obnoxious. They behave like spoiled brats.

There is only one sensible procedure, and that is to find out what the cantankerous epidermis wants and give it plenty. One must try out various creams. Solid oils are more conveniently applied than liquids. The skin that rebels against soap can be conquered, to a certain degree, by applying a cleansing cream, leaving it on, dipping a washcloth in soapy water and applying without friction, using cream afterwards.

Cosmetic lubricants vary in consistency and in the ingredients used; by making experiments, the beauty wailer may find one that the skin will accept. Sometimes it is wise to apply one of those semi-liquid, milky hand lotions.

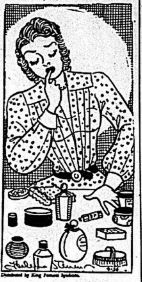
At counters where toiletries are sold one can find cosmetic meals that can be used in the place of soap. Some of these have finely powdered oatmeal as the main ingredient. They have cleansing qualities and the starchy content is soothing. Sprinkle some of the meal on a moist washcloth and go over the flesh lightly. Rinse, dry, and apply a cream.

The skin of fine texture and amiable disposition is often the reward of correct health habits. Diet has much to do with the condition. Certain foods may find you allergic, causes redness of the skin. If you are afflicted with a temperamental epidermis, and it shows excessive redness, recall what foods you have eaten the previous day. Sometimes it is possible to discover just what is causing the trouble.

We know that the excessivly oily skin, the one that is speckled with blackheads, or unsightly with pimples, will improve when the diet is fairly free of fats. It is necessary to cut down on fat meats, cream, butter, pastries and chocolate.

The dry skin needs not only more fat in the diet, but a larger intake of water each day. A considerable portion of the body is composed of water; lack of it will interfere with the normal functioning of the internal organs.

For the sake of good-looks, eat wisely, bathe daily, breathe deeply, get plenty of sleep and exercise.



Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

One must try out various creams.

Working Crews of Telephone Company Putting on Dials in Anticipation of Changeover

Trenton (Special)—While acual conversion from manuel to ial system in Trenton won't ome until some time next spring ll Telephone men have been orking for the past three weeks get the dials put on the phones. crew of six men has moved nto town, and will stay until all hones are serviced.

Each man in the group is xpected to average ten conversons per day, and with a total of pproximately 3,600 phones in the own, changeover will take more han three months. One repairnan emphasized that the time ay lengthen because of adjustents that have to be made to ome phones.

So far, the dials have been imited to the west side of the iver. Each of the phones is being ssigned a new number, but it ill not be used until the actual hangeover in the spring of 1951. he conversion is being done by crew from the eastern division of the Bell. The division extends rom Smithfield to the Quebec order, and the crew is constantly on the move in communities uch as Pembroke, Cornwall, and others changing systems.

Some-Did Not Want Dials

One of the crew said that he was surprised at the number of Trentonians who did not want the dial put on their phones. Many of them, he thought, were a little bit afraid of the new system, and others thought that there would be an automatic increase in telephone rates when the dials were put on.

"Even when he explained to them how to use the dial, so that they wouldn't be altogether lost when full conversion comes, they were still wary," he said. Some of them could not seem to understand that merely guiding the holes of the numbered and lettered dial in a clockwise direction with their index finger, could connect them with their party.

Each phone is disconnected for a short time while the dial is put on. That is, if there is an incoming call, the bell still rings, but it is impossible to answer it while the work is going on. The phone is disassembled, wires are re-arranged, a standard dial is attached, and the phone is hooked up again. The delay is short.

Actually, the people who object to having their phones serviced with a dial haven't much say in the matter. While the telephone is in the person's home, it is merely leased to the subscriber, the repairman said, and in that way it is still the company's property. Hence, they may do as they like with the equipment.

Conversion Heavy

Conversion in Eastern Ontario is very heavy, the Bell man said, with many cities now being serviced for dial systems.

The telephones are also checked by the men while they are putting the dials on, and after the job is done, contact is made with the operator who rings the phone to make sure that full contact has been re-established.

Subscribers will be notified by the company when the new system is to go into effect.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

Copenhagen, Denmark.

Today was a wonderful day. I'm reliving it as I write you about it. To be a part of it was worth coming across the ocean. For it was "The Danes' Day", the day when Danish housewives and rural groups flocked to Copenhagen to pay honor to the Associated Country Women of the World delegates and to show us what they do and how well they do it in Denmark.

Festivities started at ten in the morning in a large, rather barnlike auditorium, seating 5,000, and transformed that day by willing hands into a place of beauty. The stage was banked solid with sheafs of flowers, mostly dahlias and chrysanthemums. Flags of Denmark fell in artistic folds aross the back of the stage and throughout the building, and evergreens ut-leaf birch, and waxy shrubs were in huge tubs. Seating accommodation was in tiers, as in Maple Leaf Gardens and all around the edge of the floors were stalls containing the colorful handiwork of the women of Denmark. They have been working three years to be ready for this day and with funds taken in by the sale of their work they hope to finance the A.C.W.W. Conference.

I'm afraid we almost mobbed these stalls, unless you were very smart you found yourself on the outskirts of a crowd 12 to 15 deep, exactly like our bargain counters on the sale days. Among the displays were cushion tops, dolls in costume, knitted goods, handwoven linen pieces, handmade lace for hankies and pillowcases, colorful wall plaques, handwoven and embroidered luncheon sets, hemstitched linens of all kinds, just everything that women can make with clever and industrious fingers. We shopped for an hour, then were asked to take the reserved seats alloted to delegates and the program of the day got underway.

We were first welcomed by Mrs. Johanns Dahlerup-Petersen, chairman of the Congress Committee and chairman of the Danish Housewives Association, and reminded how happy this organization was to offer hospitality. Words of sincere greeting were then given by Mrs. Fanny Jensen, member of the Danish cabinet followed by an outstanding address by Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, United States Ambassador to Denmark, who spoke in part: "It is a thrill to be here with my own countrywomen. I could suggest that you call your conference a conference of countrywomen from the free countries of the world. Denmark is an appropriate place to meet—the excellence of Danish crafts and agriculture are known the world over—both go to make the home beautiful and comfortable, or as the Danish women like to say 'cosy'. It is one of their favorite words with the housewife in the centre.

"Housewives must now do more than work in their homes, they must help in the fight to preserve freedom. We must first understand clearly what our own freedom means. We must teach our children the great preciousness of our common way of life and that we must always fight to preserve it. If we do this, freedom will reign again one day in every land."

Every woman there was proud of Mrs. Anderson, proud that one of our sex could express herself so simply and so sincerely and yet be an inspiration. We were proud of the capable way we knew she would fill her important position and we liked her youthful appearance, altogether feminine, very trim in grey suit and small black hat with a veil tied under the chin.

Greetings followed from every member nation—many of them dressed in colorful costume. Increased applause was quite noticeable when the delegate from Germany spoke her few words. Last year Mrs. Sayre was asked by her government to re-organize these groups in the American Occupational zone. Her heart must have warmed at the reception given her—our organization is indeed living "brotherhood."

We were given a long noon hour to complete our purchases and called together again for a delightful afternoon of Danish music. We had piano numbers. Impromptu Opus 90, Schubert and Paganini, Etude No. 6 by Liszt, by a talented young Danish matron; three concertos for two pianos, by two young Danish pianists (men) and several selections by a soprano, an opera singer of the Royal Theatre, very fine indeed. A group of Greenllanders in the most colorful costume I have ever seen, about twelve women and four men, sang native songs, unaccompanied. Their voices were rather harsh, and their songs almost a chant but their harmony was good.

Can I picture these women for you? Let's start at the top of the outfit—a gorgeous collar a foot in width, edged with black seal skin and heavily embroidered and beaded in intricate, colorful patterns, came first. Under this a blouse of different shades; we wondered if it could be dyed seal skin. Knee pants, agains of brilliant colors, and highly decorated, met high boots that came above the knee. These were of spotless white, soft doe skin, also trimmed in gaudy colors. We have seen costume after costume since coming to the old land, but never anything as lovely as these Eskimo women from Greenland.

We had a surfeit of good things today. A full evening's entertainment had been planned. Mrs. Kennedy, our Scottish hostess in Edinburgh, turned out to pe a singer of renown and entertained us with three interpretations of old Scottish zongs. Eight Danish couples went through their colorful folk dances, some of their positions being similar to those in our square dances. Every costume was different—the men were in native dress also. It was very lovely.

We were entertained by two solo dancers of the Royal Ballet and were glad to see Danish interpretation of this art. Miss T. Coomaraswamy, of Ceylon, who is attending the conference with her mother, treated us to the interpretation of the "Oriental Dance" very different, rather mysterious and fantastic but very graceful. The womne from the East Ceylon, India, are very attractive and the rich materials of their costumes have a beauty that is never seen elsewhere.

Mrs. Sayre delivered another excellent address, this time speaking particularly to the Danish members. She spoke in English but they were all furnished with translations of her address, so could follow. She spoke of A.C. W.W., composed of 103 member societies, with five and a half million members. She described our emblem—the soft green of it standing for the carpet of the good earth, the round circle denotes the circle of friendship, and the compass points, the extent of our organization.

She noted the bridges over the canals in Copenhagen and likened our bridges to them, not of stone or steel, but of goodwill and held together by the slender strings of friendship. No man can ever again be an island unto himself, the war has changed this. We are all world citizens, but we are not yet one in spirit and that is our problem. We are living in a world where the clocks do not all tell the same time, there are different customs, language, religion, development. Peace will come when we know how to build a bridge over these difference and over frontiers.

The heart of a mother does not beat less strongly for her children because her color or country is different. We can't build a bridge of understanding by standing looking at each other—we must join hands and look outward together. An A.C.W.W. member will never lose faith in the ideal of brotherhood no matter what the future holds — she lives too close to nature, which seems to die, but comes alive again, green and vibrant.

Mrs. Sayre announced the winners of our essay contest "The Countrywomen' Day". I am sorry none of the first seven go to Canada. Here they are (1) Norway, (2) England, (3) U.S.A., (4) Finland, (5) Ireland, (6) Wales, and (7) a fisherman's wife in Finland. There were three judges, one an American, one English and one Danish, all judging independently. It is remarkable that they all chose the first fourteen essays in exactly the same order.

Danish women royally entertained us today, a happy change from the routine of business.

RAWDON

Many From Far and Near Attend 75th Anniversary Of Carmel United Church

On Sunday last, Carmel United Church and Carmel Jubilee Hall were filled to capacity with a large number standing throughout the service in Jubilee Hall.

The central theme in the church was a blue and silver motto" Seventy-five Years", with the letters accentuated with silver Maple leaves also the lovely blue pennant "1875-1950."

The floral decorations consisted of large baskets of gladioli, asters and autumn blooms, trailing white vines added beauty and the honor rolls were draped with flags. In Jubilee Hall the walls were decorated with pictures of many of the older residents who had worshipped in the church during the past years.

The Tobermore band of forty members occupied the platform in Jubilee Hall and Stirling Royal Junior choir, of about forty members sat directly at the front of the hall, while Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.T.C.M., presided at the piano in the hall.

In the church, Carmel choir with their pianist, Mrs. Arthur Pyear, were seated in the choir loft.

Bands Presents Prelude.

At 10:45 a.m., D.S.T., the Tobermore band, under the leadership of their conductor, Mr. R. J. Woodley, marched from their chartered bus to the hall and gave the prelude, also delighting with several other numbers throughout the service. Later the band members were entertained at various homes for the noon meal and then left at 2:30 p.m., for Stirling.

The morning service opened with the old favorite of the early pioneers "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E., minister of Carmel, paid tribute to the pioneers who built the church and took his audience through the garden of memory.

Mr. William Carlisle attended the dedication in 1875, and has been a member continuously ever since and attended the Sunday services.

There are also four others living who attended that dedication service, John Richardson, Sarah Anderson Hanna, Estelle Lawrence Johnston and Roxanna Lawrence Langman.

Carmel choir rendered "The Christian Army" by (Nichol) and Psalm 95, was read responsively.

The Royal Stirling Junior choir sang "Come Loyal Hearts" (Whitehead).

Mr. Douglas Pyear sang effectively, "The Holy City".

Land Donated

Shortly after Carmel church was dedicated the late Philo White donated land for the cemetery and many of the older people including the names of Abbott, Brooks, Hubel, White, Green, Mills Lawrence, Bailey, Edwards, Keating, Brown, Hagerman, Benedict, Wagar and Hammond are laid to rest there.

A period of silence was observed and the large group of worshippers in the two buildings sang "We Cannot Think of Them as Dead".

A loud speaker system connected the two rooms so all could hear the service.

Rev. A. E. Baker gave a brief message on "The Pattern of the Altar", taken from Joshua. Mr. Baker spoke of the need of reverence today for The Lord's Day, the Bible, and the church, and paid deep tribute to those early pioneers most of the United Empire Loyalists, who felt the need of a church in which to worship. Today men need reverence, strength and vision. It is a glorious sight in the Carmel district to view the quiet and beauty of the farm fields on a Sunday. He closed his message with a quotation from Tennyson.

Dedications

For the first time in 75 years Carmel United Church has a sign board, which was made, painted and placed on the church last week by Mr. Ernest Carlisle. This church board was dedicated to the church as well as two Bibles, one in loving memory of Ethel (Mrs. Harry) Hagerman, from her son, Arthur C. Hagerman; the other in loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hagerman, by their son, Harry C. Hagerman.

Special mention was made of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Holden, who were in attendance at the service and who have been members of the church for 60 years.

The service closed with that grand old hymn "Faith of Our Fathers".

Evening Service

At 7:30 p.m., D.S.T., both hall and the church were filled almost to capacity.

The two pianists, Mrs. Baker, and Mrs. Pyear gave a prelude of anniversary selections.

The opening worship for both services included Doxology, National Anthem ,and The Lord's Prayer in unison.

Worshippers were in attendance from all nearby points at both services and included visitors from Nova Scotia, and British Columbia which was quite unique.

The large audience sang as of one voice "O God of Bethel",

St. Paul's senior choir, of Stirling, occupied the platform in Jubilee Hall and were heard in two numbers throughout the service "The Day is Past and Over", with the obligato duet taken by Mrs. W. Wilkins, Stirling, and Douglas Pyear, of Carmel. The choir also rendered "O Lord How Manifold", (by Barnby).

By special request, Messrs. William and Ted Reynolds sang "What of the Night".

Carmel choir rendered "A Good Thing to Give Thanks", (Benson).

Fine Offerings

The offerings at the two services totalled $369 and there were several donations extra sent by friends unable to accept invitations.

A remarkable thing was the fact that over $80 was placed loosely on the plates, about double of any previous year. A special prayer of Thanksgiving was most appropriate for God's abundant blessings.

The pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E., gave a brief message on the theme "Retrospect and Prospect". He took his listeners back over the past 75 years and on ahead to future years when each individual is privileged to shape his own life as he wills.

More Dedications

Two music hymnaries, one in loving memory of Mrs. Joe Grills from her daughter, Hazel, (Mrs. Jack Johnston), and the other, in loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. John Foreman from their granddaughter, Hazel Johnston, were dedicated also The Lord's Table, presented by Mr. Edward Reynolds and his brother, Mr. William Reynolds in loving memory of their parents. This was of solid oak.

Mr. Frank Bailey received all of the day's gifts to the church on behalf of the trustee board.

The count was taken for the blue and gold "Silver Jubilee Year" pennant and won by Mr. Joe Grills and family. The Carlisles were a close second with Baileys, Brooks, and Pyears, not far behind in numbers.

Sixth Generation

A unique item is that the sixth generation of Abbots were in attendance at this historic service.

Mr. John Brooks donated the land for the church site 75 years ago and many of his descendants were in attendance at both services.

The evening service closed with the rendition of "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and after the benediction, a large number remained to view the pictures in Jubilee Hall and visit with friends from her daughter ,Hazel, (Mrs. who had travelled long distances to attend.

Interesting Booklet

In connection with this event, a booklet of great interest, which is a record of the church life and work at Carmel United Church Rawdon Township, Bay of Quinte Conference, has been compiled by Mrs. Russel Hubel and Mrs. Arthur Pyear and is being distributed by Mrs. R. Hagerman, secretary of Carmel W.A.

The book contains many picof 75 years, a full list of ministers, the officials of the church in Jubilee Year 1950, and a full list of every family, children and birth dates connected with Carmel in this Jubilee Year.

The anniversary chicken dinner and program was held on Tuesday evening to complete the 75th anniversary.

Wholesale Price Index Climbs 1.6 Points in Aug.

Ottawa, Sept. 28—(CP)—Pushed ahead by higher prices for automobile tires, rubber, sugar and other commodities, the wholesale price index climbed 1.6 points during August to establish a new high of 168.5, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

The August climb continued an unbroken series of monthly advances since the beginning of the year, when the index touched 157.1. The index is based on the calculation that 1926 prices equal 100. In July the index was 166.9.

Wholesale prices moved up sharply for a variety of goods in August, the bureau said. Prices for raw rubber advanced 31.5 per cent, calfskins 28.6 per cent; raw sugar 25.3; canned peas 25.0; automobile tires 20.7; pepper 15.3; toilet soap, 14.6; sheepskins 14.3 and tallow 50.

Declines ranged from 3.9 per cent for No. 1 northern wheat to 19.5 per cent for potatoes.

At the same time the bureau's general building materials index climbed 2.8 points from 224.2 to 227.0. The index has moved steadily upward without interruption since September, 1949.

Main increases in August were in brick, tile and stone, paint and glass and lumber.

Mohawk Fair in Tyendinaga Reserve Attracts Largest Crowd in Many Years

Favored by brilliant autumn sunshine and typical exhibition weather, the Mohawk Fair, show window of the Tyendinaga Indian reserve atracted one of the largest crowds in years yesterday afternoon and evening.

The tree-fringed "infield" with its colors of red and gold, the green sheen of the grass and the colorful crowd formed an ideal setting in the natural semi-amphitheatre that is the fair grounds just north of the council House.

Officials of the Tyendinaga Agricultural Society spared no efforts to make this year's exhibition one of the best. That they succeeded was evidenced in the variable program of events and fine array of exhibits that were apparent.

Exhibits of livestock, farm produce, school children's handiwork, the culinary and preserving achievements of the ladies of the reserve, horse racing, bicycle races, a baby show, the exhibit of the Tyendinaga Junior Calf Club, nail-driving contests, and a smart colorful parade of pupils of the reserve public schools, climaxed by a dance in the evening rounded out an attractive exhibition.

School Children Parade

Headed by the smart drum and bugle band of No. 6 Repair Depot, RCAF, Trenton, under the baton of Flight Sergeant (Drum Major) E. A. Cole, the pupils of the five schools of the reserve paraded along the track before the discerning eyes of the judges and the proud admiring glances of parents and other relatives.

Each school contingent carried its identity on gaily-colored banners at the head of its individual parade. School teachers at front and rear kept the boys and girls in step. Following the first phase of the parade, the children lined up in front of the grandstand to hear the results of the judging.

The smart Eastern Senior School was awarded first prize; Central School, second and the Mission School third. After the judging, the parade again marched past the stand where it was given rounds of applause.

Livestock exhibits were exceptionally good with the cattle being predominantly Holstein. Some splendid types of swine and horses were judged. The Tyendinaga Junior Calf Club exhibited seven entries and these, with the showmanship of their young owners drew unstinted praise of the judges. A 14-year-old girl, Lillie Maracle, won first prize for showmanship and a handsome leather calf halter donated by the Hastings County Holstein Association.

Fine Exhibits

In the Council House were displayed the exhibits of culinary art, preserving, garden products, floral displays and school children's handicraft. Products of the Tyendinaga Reserve's kitchen in the form of delicious bread, buns, cakes, pies, cookies and other goodies attracted a lot of interest as did the many jars of preserved fruits, pickles, vegetables, etc.

Crocheted, knitted and other ladies' work exemplified in the many exhibits of this nature drew the attention of lady visitors.

A feature of the afternoon program was the annual baby show held under the supervision of the Fair Committee and Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto, who judged the entries. Nine beautiful babies were entered and judging was difficult. Babies Connie Brant, Eileen Maracle, Harry Brant and Gary Brant were the winners in their respective classes.

A Perfect Baby

Dr. McVicker stated after the judging that Baby Eileen Brant, winner of the girls' six months and over class, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Maracle, was a "perfect baby". "The show," he said, "was the best he had ever judged at the Mohawk Fair."

Thrilling Races

The races were thrillers from the start. Four of the five entries in the trotting heats finished closely bunched with the result in doubt until under the wire. "Jack Sunday" won all three heats, but was pushed to the limit by "Matilda Henley". The purse was $200. The running race heats were also close with "Half Nelson" winning the last two heats to take the first prize money.

During the afternoon the No. 6 Repair Depot Band entertained the crowd with several selections. Food concessions catered to the hungry and thirsty with "Wes" Evans' "pull-taffy" being in great demand.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Rally Day Service Fittingly Observed At White's Church

White's District—Rally Day service was fittingly observed on Sunday afternoon at White's Church, the theme being "The Healing of the Nations", under the leadership of the superintendent, Mr. W. A. Jeffery.

The junior choir sang as an anthem "Father, We Thank Thee for the Night", with Mrs. W. A. Jeffery, as pianist.

The story "David's Dream" was dramatized. David, a junior boy, was portrayed by Donald Bowers. His mother was capably taken by Helen Hinton.

After David fell asleep, a Chinese boy named Song Min, acted by Bobby Meyers, entered and thanked David for praying for him.

Next an African girl, Njambe, portrayed by Marilyn Bowers also thanked David for his prayers.

Lastly, a Canadian Indian girl, Oowikapun, acted by Anne Blong thanked David for his prayers and his help. She said she had broken her leg and a Christian doctor had put it in a cast. The doctor told her he had been sent by people in Christian churches across Canada.

When David awoke, he told his mother about seeing these boys and girls, but she told him that he had dreamed about them because he had prayed for them before he went to sleep.

"The Story of Lionga" was given by Gary Jackson and Mrs. Leonard Young. This was a story of a Korean boy, who was a leper. After months of treatment he was cured. He attended a Mission School, became a Christian and later attended college and graduated as a minister. He returned to his home village where he established a church. His parents were proud of Lionga and were among the first to become Christians.

There are many other leper children who can be helped by giving to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum gave an interesting resume of the Sunday spent in Toronto in attendance at the World Convention of Christian Education.

The junior choir sang "Open the Gates" as a prelude to the promotion of Donald Bowers, a junior member, to the intermediate class, and of Anne Blong, a primary member to the junior class. They recited "The Twenty-Third Psalm" and "The Ten Commandments" respectively.

The offering was taken by Gary Jackson and Bobby Meyers.

SEES WHERE EARTHQUAKE MOVED MOUNTAIN

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India is shown (right) crossing a bamboo bridge during his inspection tour in the disaster area of Assam, where a series of earth shocks and a tidal wave killed an estimated 5,000 persons and did damage estimated at $20,000,000 last month. In left foreground is Miss M. Daulatram, daughter of Governor Jiramdas Daulatram, of Assam, who walks beside her. A geologist who made a survey after the earthquake said that Mount Everest the world's highest mountain, was raised another 198 feet by the violence of the shock. — Central Press Canadian.

BRITAIN RUSHES

Two Resolutions

The British plan, still subject to modification, envisages an independent, united Korea with a democratic government elected under U.N. supervision. The U.N. would continue to furnish assistance to prevent an armed attack and would set up the supervising commission.

Another hot Asian problem comes up in the Security Council this afternoon (4 p.m. EDT) when that body is expected to reach a vote on invisiting communist China to present in person her charges of American aggression on Formosa.

The council has two resolutions to this effect as the first order of business. They are a Russian proposition for an immediate invitation and one from Ecuador which would invite Red China provided debate on the Formosa question is put off until Dec. 1.

Ecuador's plea for delay is based on presence of the Formosa problem on the General Assembly agenda. Ecuador feels that the council might benefit from the assembly's investigations.

Since Ecuador would make the seventh vote needed to invite the Peiping government, she is in a strong position to bargain for the delay. She has announced that she will not vote in favor of the immediate invitation proposed by Russia.

No Definite Statement

None of the post-war Korean proposals yet contain a definite statement that U.N. forces will cross the 38th parallel and occupy the entire country. Their substance, though, calling for a United Korea, apparently takes such a country-wide occupation for granted.

The consensus here is that Gen. MacArthur already has the necessary authority to chase retreating reds into North Korea and that no explicit directive is necessary. The problem before the assembly, informed sources feel, is the political future of the war-torn country.

That question is expected to come up tomorrow when the 59-member political committee meets at Lake Success. The first item for committee discussion is slated to be the report of the U.N. Korean commission during which consideration of the British plan would come up naturally.

ALCOHOLIC CONSUMPTION

Consumption of alcoholic beverages in Canada in 1949 totalled 6,833,255 gallons.

IN COMPLETE ROUT

Inside the fire-blackened capital U.S. troops flushed out die-hard reds from building to building. Most of the rear-guard reds appeared resigned to die fighting.

Hold Two-Thirds City

More than two-thirds of the city was in allied hands.

Walker told correspondents that if the offensive continues as planned, more than three-fourth of the red army will have been wiped out. The communist force that invaded the fledgling republic June 25 was estimated at some 150,000 men.

The general said all red forces south of the Pusan-Taejon-Seoul highway, winding diagonally from southeast Korea to the northwest, will be anihilated. Any possibility of organized red retreat from the south was doomed Tuesday by the link-up of armored columns from the Inchon and Pusan beachheads.

That line now is "secure," Walker said.

Spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters said a communist build-up was observed around Suwon, in the northern corner of the huge allied trap.

Had Potentialities

He said it had "potentialities of being dangerous" but added:

"It is difficult to say at this time whether the enemy in this build-up is prepared to fight or whether they ar just trying to get out."

That area is about 20 miles south of Seoul. Seventy miles farther south, at Taejon, another red concentration was under attack by fighter-bombers and forward elements of the U.S. 24th Division.

MacArthur's 3:40 p.m. (2:40 a.m. EDT) summary said planes and ground forces destroyed 23 red tanks near Taejon. Infantrymen pushed within three miles of the city which they had yielded in a bitterly fought withdrawal in July.

A fighting front no longer existed around the old beachhead where allied forces had withstood repeated assaults for two months. Since pushing out from southeast Korea in mid-September, U.N. forces had raced 30 to 115 miles.

PRODUCTION JUMPS

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that industrial production jumped to a post-war record in August. August industrial production was listed on the board's index at 207 per cent of the 1935-39 average (that is, 107 per cent above it), compared with 196 in July and 170 in August a year ago.

Germans Hurl Out Reds to Make Way For British

Duesseldorf, Germany, Sept. 28 —(Reuters) — German police today threw communists out of their own party headquarters here to make way for British troop reinforcements.

A hundred men and women singing communist songs and shouting "Tommy go home" were pushed out of the main entrance as British requisitioning officers moved in.

The building — a new five-storey structure of 150 rooms, built with party funrs — had just been taken over after the West German communist party moved its headquarters here from Frankfurt.

A red flag still fluttered on the roof after the British troops moved in.

HELD WITHOUT CHARGE

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 28 (AP) — The body of nine year old Bobby Tipp, bound and gagged and partially decomposed, was found yesterday in an unused ice box in his mother's tavern. Bobby had been reported missing Monday. His mother, Mrs. Lois M. Tipp, a 39-year-old red haired divorcee, is being held without charge for questioning. Two .31-calibre bullets were found in the boy's head.

Reds in East Germany Plan To Make Every Candidate Hew To Moscow Line in Elections

By HEINZ SCHWAG

Berlin, Sept. 28 (AP) — The communists have worked out a system to make sure every candidate for the mid-October election in Soviet-occupied Germany hews to the Moscow line.

They call it "democratic examination by the working population," and it works like this:

Candidates nominated by the parties and communist-led mass organizations appear at a public meeting in their town, preferably held in some big industrial plant.

First, they must report on their political activities in the past. Then communists in the audience get up and ask them embarrassing questions.

One is: "Are you for unswerving friendship with the Soviet Union and the People's Democracies?"

If Not, Out He Goes

A candidate may think he knows how most of his voters feel about that. But if he expresses these feelings, the "working population" throws him out.

Another question may be what the candidate thinks of the single list of the communist-sponsored "national front" for the elections. With this single list the communists have secured for themselves in advance a 70-per-cent majority in the new parliament of the Soviet zone republic.

The population may want really free and competitive elections. But if the candidate says so, he's out.

The communist press reports that one candidate was asked whether it is enough to be against war and agitate for peace. It commended the man for his 'clear answer' which was: "No, we must fight for peace."

From Walter Ulbricht, Kremlin's political boss of east Germany, top communists have made it clear what is required of a candidate for the east German elections:

He must be 'progressive,' that is, an ardent fighter for peace and he must be a champion of the new "anti-fascist democratic order" the comunists have established in the Soviet Zone since 1945.

In other words, a communist. Or, if he happens to belong to a non-communist party, a "yes man," who dutifully obeys the orders from Walter Ulbricht's communist politburo.

$14,761 Damages Are Awarded To Five Persons

Hamilton, Sept. 28 (CP)—Damages amounting to $14,761 were awarded yesterday to five persons who sued the Hamilton Street Railway over a collision between a street-car and an automobile here May 28, 1948. Rene Sicard, driver of the car, was killed in the crash.

The jury said in its verdict that the street-car operator crossed an intersection against a traffic light but that Sicard had been partly to blame by neglecting to take proper precautions in approaching the intersection with the street-car in view.

The damages went to Aldea Pigeon, Rose Sicard, Edward Sicard, Gerant Sicard and Ernest Sicard.

Asleep on Tracks Lives to Tell Train Passed Over

Welland, Sept. 28 — (CP) — John Trussell, 35, of Brockville, is a lucky man.

A C.N.R. freight train passed over him early today as he lay asleep on the track. He dragged himself out from under the freight with only a cut on the back of his head and arm and body bruises. He told police he had been drinking wine.

The train was stopped within 50 feet by engineer H. Johnson, Mimico, after the body was sighted by fireman R. Dunlop.

C.C.L. Demands Improvement In Housing, Unemployment Insurance in Convention

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Sept. 28. (CP)—Policy declaratione on a wide range of national issues were on record today from the Canadian Congress of Labor at its annual convention.

Major demands made by the 700 delegates yesterday were for improvements in housing and unemployment insurance, for retention of rent controls and for a sweeping health insurance scheme.

The communist and anti-communist faction of the 360,000-member C.C.L., scrapping among themselves on the first two days of the convention, united yesterday to turn their concerted firepower on the federal government, condemned by speakers from both camps over the housing situation and unemployment insurance.

Delegates adopted a resolution urging the federal government to take home-building out of the hands of private capital and to launch programs for the construction of homes for rental and purchase by low-income groups.

The resolution also pledged the congress to rally its membership behind a concentrated drive to have the government wipe out what it termed "the shameful lack of decent housing in Canada."

Another resolution called upon the government to retain rent controls until all Canadians are "properly housed". These controls are due to expire next March 31 and the government has indicated that it does not plan to extend them.

Critical of Housing

Pat Conroy, national secretary-treasurer of the C.C.L., termed the government's attitude on housing "nothing short of a national scandal."

Other delegates suggested a mass delegation to Ottawa, the calling of a country-wide strike to emphasize the C.C.L. attitude on housing and the election of a C.C.F. federal government.

(The Congress is associated with the C.C.F. which it designates annually at its conventions as the "political arm" of Labor.-

The government also came in for criticism over its handling of unemployment insurance.

George Burt, of Windsor, Ont., national chief of the 50,000-man United Automobile Workers of America, said the government is turning a "deaf ear" to labor proposals for changing the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Mr. Burt, chairman of the C.C.L.'s Unemployment Insurance committee and a member of the advisory board to the Unemployment Insurance Commission, submitted a report—adopted by the delegates— calling for several changes in the Act.

These included larger benefit payments to those hrown out of work, without incrasing their payments into the insurance fund; reduction of the nine-day waiting period before benefits start and coverage from the fund for sickness and disability.

Test By-Election Held in Britain

London, Sept. 28 (AP) —Fifty-thousand voters picked a new Member of Parliament today in a by-election that may show whether Britain is ready to break its political deadlock in a new general election.

The vote will be the first test of political strength since the Labor party lost all but a six-vote edge of its majority in the House of Commons in last February's general election.

Political observers figure the Labor party will win the election with little trouble.

But the result may show a swing to or from the Labor party.

The Labor candidate is A. L. Ungoed-Thomas, a lawyer. His Conservative foe is H. A. Taylor, a London newspaper man who sought election in vain in the same constituency in February.

Present standing in the House of Commons: Labor 313; Conservatives and allies, 296; Liberals 9; Irish Nationalists 2; Independent 1; Speaker 1; vacant 3.

YEAR IN JAIL

Baltimore, Sept. 28 (AP) — A (negro) minister was sentenced yesterday to a year in jail after criminal court testimony loaded with references to black magic, witchcraft and voodoo. Judge Joseph Sherbow imposed the term on Rev. George Nathaniel Lee of Richmond, Va. He was charged with extortion in a shake-down scheme directed at a fellow (negro) clergyman, Rev. John Rowllins.

USED TO PAY CREDITORS

Marshalltown, Ia., Sept. 28 (AP) —In keeping with a promise made when his bank failed in 1930, Ollie Lutteken of Rhodes, Ia., directed in his will that his $144,766 estate be used to pay off his dispositions. Lutteken died recently at the age of 81 and his will has just been filed for probate.

SWITCHMAN KILLED

Toronto, Sept. 28 (CP)—E. Roy McGregor, 25, a Canadian Pacific Railway switchman, was killed today when he fell from the top of a box car under the wheels of another car.

Police said McGregor missed his footing when the train was shunted. An inquest will be held.

Prisoner Admits Escaping Twice From Sorel Jail

Sorel, Que., Sept. 28 (CP) — Sorel Police Chief J. A. Tanguay testified Wednesday that a prisoner at the local jail had admitted escaping twice, committing burglaries here and then returning to his cell.

Chief Tanguay appeared at the preliminary hearing of Donald Watso, 24-year-old Indian from nearby Odanak reservation charged with burglaries at two Sorel garages Aug. 29 and Sept. 4 and theft of a safe during the second job.

Last week the governor of 100-year-old Richelieu county jail was suspended after a series of escapes. The breaks now are being investigated by the Provincial Solicitor-General's Department. Last Monday, after two provincial police constables had taken over administration of the jail, another prisoner escaped. He was apprehended by Sorel police and returned to the jail before the provincial officers knew of his escape.

Watso and another prisoner are alleged to have left the jail twice on night sorties and a companion was said to have failed to return with them on the second occasion, he still is at large.

United and Free Korea is Urged By Pearson

New York, Sept. 28 (CP) — Canada yesterday called for a united, free Korea not disturbed by "subversive communist elements directed from outside Korea."

In an important policy statement before the United Nations General Assembly, L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister outlined the Dominion's ideas for settlement of the post-war Korean problems.

Calling for a cease-fire in Korea, Pearson said that if the communists admit defeat now, U.N. forces may not have to advance "far beyond their present positions."

Pearson said the U.N. must leave its military forces free to ensure that the communists are base of aggression in North Korea. This was interpreted as Canadian approval of proposals that U.N. forces cross the 38th parallel — dividing line between North and South Korea — if necessary.

Pearson outlined five points which he said should be embodied in any assembly resolution on Korea:

1. A united, free Korea in which the Korean people govern themselves without interference from outside powers.

2. U.N. assistance to Korea to establish peace and order.

3. Korea must be free of foreign bases and military domination.

4. Nothing done in the re-establishment of a united, free Korea which carries any menace to Korea's neighbors.

5. The free governments of Asia should take the big share of the responsibility for advising the Korean people on methods of government.

The Canadian minister also said the U.N. should try to negotiate an agreement on the question of international control of atomic energy if Russia indicates that such discussions might bear fruit.

DREAMS COME TRUE

Rome, Sept. 28 (Reuters) — Childhood dreams came true for three Irish colleens in Rome yesterday. They were married to their Irish sweethearts—the Heavet brothers, Michael, Thomas and Patrick. The three colleens had said "yes" on condition the ceremonies could be performed in the eternal city. So the enterprising brothers bought a handful of plane tickets and made it a triple holy year wedding at Sant Alfonso church.

We look at the article, the price, the material, the style, everything we can; in order to present to you, the customer, the finest merchandise available for the lowest possible price. Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"You still don't think Voorland's capable of engineering a holdup like that one tonight?" Shayne asked.

"Walter Voorland?" Randolp's voice was frankly incredulous. "Certainly not. Besides, what would it profit him? He, more than anyone else knows how impossible it would be to realize a tenth of their value from the stolen rubies. He wouldn't abet any finagling like that. Not with a star ruby. He takes personal pride in them. He would no more have a hand in anything like that than a father would arrange to have his own child kidnapped."

"That has been done," Shayne argued.

"For a profit maybe. If a man were dead broke. Voorland is a rich man and there would be no profit in it for him. I don't think you understand fully the way he feels about a star ruby. He hates to sell one."

Shayne nodded and there was wry grin on his gaunt face. "I noticed that he wasn't putting any pressure on Dustin to buy last Monday when I happened to be in the store. In fact he kept trying to slip the bracelet back into the vault and sell him something else."

"That's the way he is. He picks his buyers for a piece like that bracelet. I happen to know he refused to even show the piece to another prospective buyer less than a month ago."

"Why?"

Randolph chuckled. "Because he has certain theories about the way gems should be reguarded and treated. He wants them to be respected and enjoyed, worn and admired. He turned an Indian Rajah down cold when the poor devil had made a trip all the way from India just to bid on the bracelet. Voorland could have gotten a cool two hundred thousand if he'd been willing to let it go."

"What did he have against the Rajah?" Shayne straightened in his chair and leaned forward, his eyes keen with interest.

"This one is reputed to be a jewel miser," Randolph explained. "He has a huge collection in his palace; never been seen by anyone. Voorland was actually rude to him and refused to show the bracelet to him because he didn't want it buried in a private collection. The Rajah was naturally furious about the whole affair but Voorland was adament."

"That" said Shayne suddenly, "could explain where the other star rubies went. . .why they never turned up in legitimate channels again."

"The Rajah?" Randolph asked dubiously. "I don't see the connection."

"This one, or any other private collector who hoards gems or his private pleasure," said Shayne impatiently "would be in the market for a star ruby whether it was stolen or not. He wouldn't have to cut it up. He'd keep it whole and gloat over it."

"That's true. But there aren't many collectors like that. Not many with a bankroll big enough and a conscience elastic enough to finance wholesale robberies—and murders."

Shayne got up and paced excitedly up and down the room. "It's an angle," he argued. "Take this Rajah for instance. No wonder he was sore that Voorland refused to sell to him. If he had kept track of the bracelet, knew when it was sold and to whom . . ."

"I wonder," Randolph interrupted as though he was beginning to get Shayne's idea. "I wonder if he's still in town."

"He wouldn't have to be," Shayne pointed out. "All he would need to do is pass the word around that he was in the market for the bracelet when or if it went out of the store and become available. That would explain the planning the swiftness of the snatch tonight."

"How would they know who bought it?"

"Easy enough. How much do you think those store clerks earn in a year? A bribe could be easily managed."

"By God, I believe you've got something Mike." Randolph was sitting erect, staring at Shayne as he paced the floor. "If we don't hear from the thieves in a few days. . ."

"You won't," Shayne said strongly. "They're not out for any lousy insurance reward of a few grand."

"How can you be so sure?"

"I can take a hint," Shayne said grimly, fingering the bruise on his jaw where it contacted Blackie's knuck's. "What's this Rajah's name?"

"The Rajah of Hindupoor. He was at the Miami Waldorf a couple of weeks ago. I don't know."

"Why don't you check up those other two thefts of star rubies and find out if the Rajah was hanging around when they were committed?"

Shayne was on his way to the door. He took his hat from the rack and Randolph asked, "Where are you going, Mike?"

"To the Miami Waldorf." He jammed his hat on his head and pulled the brim low on his forehead. His eyes glinted hotly when he turned back to say "I'll let you know what I find out," then went out the door.

Benjamin Corey, oneofth

Benjamin Corey, one of the assistant managers of the Miami Waldorf Hotel in Coral Cables, greeted Shayne cordially and took him into a private office. After the exchange of brief social formalities, Shayne said:

"How's the traffic in visiting royalty these days?"

"We've got a Rajah right now."

"Of Hindupoor?"

"That's right." Corey was a thin, immaculate young man with very bright blue eyes. They rested on the detective with alert interest.

"Nice guy?"

"He spends plenty of money."

"Is he in now?"

"I can find out." Cory reached for the telephone on his desk, but Shayne stopped him.

"Find out some other things while you're about it, Ben. Whether he has been in all evening . . .any visitors. . . phone calls in and out. The works."

Ben Corey hesitated. "Care to tell me why you're interested, Mike?"

"I'd rather not."

Corey nodded and got up. "This will take a little time." He went out and Shayne leaned back to mentally check over a raft of hazy ideas he had accumulated while with Earl Randolph. They were all extremely hazy. Haziest of all was the motivation that had induced Mrs. Austin to drug her husband at midnight and then call his apartment to arrange a secret meeting with Mr. X who impersonated him. That didn't tie in at all with any of the other ideas he was beginning to formulate. It was the added unknown that made the equation unsolvable.

He had finished two cigarettes and reached no definite conclusion when Corey re-entered the office. He carried a slip of paper in his hand, and he glanced at the penciled notation when he sat down.

"The Rajah had dinner served in his suite and hasn't been out all evening," he reported. "The operator believes there were two or three incoming calls earlier in the evening. Only two calls went out. Both to Miami Beach. At eleven o'clock and eleven-thirty." He read off the telephone numbers.

As Shayne jotted them down, he recognized the second number. He had looked it up in Dustin's suite at the Sunlux under Voorland's name. The first number meant nothing to him.

"Two visitors were announced and went up," Corey continued, consulting his slip of paper. "At ten o'clock a man giving the name of Hays and a little after 12, a Mr. Smith."

"Any descriptions of them?"

"Only vague. Hays was tall, carried a briefcase, and looked like a lawyer. Smith was a big, solid man, with a broad face, and he spoke with a very faint accent. German, Maybe."

"How long did they stay?"

"No one happened to notice Hays leave. He may even be up there yet. Smith stayed about half an hour. . .and looked quite perturbed when he went down in the elevator."

Shayne said "thanks Ben."

Shayne picked up the telephone and asked for the first Miami Beach number Corey, the hotel man had given him. He let it ring for a long time without getting an answer, then got the Beach operator and asked for the address of the number.

It was a residence on Sunset Drive. He wrote the address down and sat tugging at his earlobe, staring across the room moodily.

Corey said "the Rajah is checking out tomorrow. Okay?"

"When did he decide to do that?"

"A couple of days ago. That is, it was a tentative arrangement. Confirmed a little after ten o'clock by phone from his suite."

Shayne said "I'll let you know if there's any reason why he shouldn't. Will you put a check on his line, Ben? Get me everything you can."

"I'd like to know what I'm getting into," Corey protested. "He's a rather important guest."

"Would you rather have me swear out a warrant for his arrest as accessory in a jewel theft?"

"Good Lord, no! Is he?"

"I think so. But I doubt if I can prove it and I'd rather not be forced to try."

"You'll get your tap," Corey assured him.

Shayne thanked him and said he would keep in touch. He started out of the office, then turned back to use the telephone again. He called his own apartment. A man's voice said,

"Patrolman Edmund speaking.

"This is Mike Shayne. Everything all right?"

"Everything's fine except this nurse is too good at gin rummy for me. There was a phone call about one o'clock. Some cluck wanted to know if there was a reward offered for the ruby bracelet lifted on the Beach tonight and said he'd call you back tomorrow morning. Taced lobby of the Sunlux Hotel and tipped the beach cops off on it."

Shayne said dily "that's what I call a real pal," and hung up. He stood with his hand on the phone, undecided for a moment, then quirked a rugged red brow at Corey as though in apology, lifted the handset again and called Timothy Rourke's number.

MARMORA

New Fire Equipment Quickly Extinguishes Bush Fire

Marmora — Fire Marshal Clifford Campbell of the Ontario Department, visited Marmora again on Thursday afternoon and Marmora's fire truck went into action at 4 p.m. turning the hose on a bush fire in the village six minutes after the alarm was given. The blaze, which was started deliberately, was a test for the 21 man volunteer brigade which was equipped last winter with a new fire truck.

As soon as the alarm was sounded the men left their work and were on the scene of the fire in three minutes. A clump of trees and bushes in front of the ruins of the old Pearce grist mill were burning and a thick column of smoke marked the spot from all parts of the village.

Six minutes after the alarm was given 15 men of the brigade were playing a strong jet of water onto the fire. In about another six minutes the fire was out.

Fire Chief Arnold Walker and his son, Deputy Chief John Walker led the fire fighting operations.

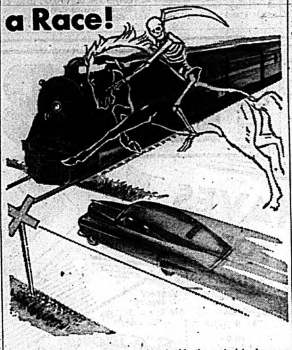
This is no time for a Race!



The unseen figure of Death rides beside the motorist who races a train to a level crossing. The way may look clear, and there may seem to be a split second in which to avert calamity. Unfortunately for many of the 140 who were killed and the 549 who were injured in 443 railway crossing accidents in Canada in the 12-month period ended June 30th last, the train was moving faster then they judged or they were closer to the point of impact than they imagined and they paid a high price for their impatience. The old rule of Stop, Look and Listen applies with more force than ever today when more automobiles and trucks are on the road. Make sure you have a clear path over the crossing; obey the signs placed there for your protection. It's better to be delayed a minute than to be killed or maimed.

Cobourg Blanks Napanee 2-0 To Even 'B' Series

Weens Jamieson, Cobourg lefthander, held Napanee in the hollow of his hand here as he hurled a two-hit 2-0 shutout to even the Eastern Ontario finals at a game each. Jamieson fanned six and allowed a single in the third to Markle and another through the box in the ninth.

Hayes, the losing hurler, held the locals to four hits until the seventh when Ross Zealand, Cobourg catcher, powered a three-bagger into centre field. An infield error followed to put F Goody on base, and then Don Goody singled into right field, scoring both runners.

Skin Eruptions

Here is a clean, stainless, penetrating antiseptic oil that brings speedy relief from the itching and discomfort.

Not only does this healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds but boils and simple ulcers are also relieved.

In skin affections the itching of Eczema is quickly stopped. Pimples — skin eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, Itching Toes and Feet and other inflammatory skin disorders.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at Doyle's Drug Store or any modern drug store. Satisfaction or money back.

Puck Patter

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Primeau says he's satisfied with the training camp work of Toronto Maple Leafs but he's concerned about how he'll make out as a National Hockey League coach.

He told reporters yesterday at St. Catharines, Ont., where the Leafs are training, that all his charges are "fighting for places, but don't overlook the fact that Primeau, too, is fighting for his place."

The former Leaf star, who piloted Toronto Marlboros to the Dominion Senior title last year, said that, fundamentally, coaching in the N.H.L. is not much different from coaching senior or junior hockey.

"But this is much more important. . . you can't afford to make a mistake. . ."

Hugh Bolton, 17-pound, six-foot-three defenceman, continues to sparkle along with forward Danny Lewicki among rookie prospects in camp as the Leafs prepare for the N.H.L. curtain-raiser at home Oct. 14.

Observers compare Lewicki's style to that of Aurel Joliat one-time star of Montreal Canadiens. He's working well on a line with Max Bentley and Joe Klukay.

Charlie Lumsden of Winnipeg, seperated from part of his equipment by a Bill Barilko-Bill Juzda check yesterday, was sent to Toronto Marlboro Juniors along with Danny Poland.

Rookies Jim (Bud) McPherson of Edmonton and Tom Johnson will be given plenty of chances to show their stuff in an exhibition game with Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec Senior Hockey League at Shawinigan tonight. Both are Montreal Canadiens rear-guards who'll be called upon to share the duties of big Butch Bouchard, expected to be on the sidelines by a mild attack of flu.

Coach Dick Irvin says his charges are well conditioned.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., yesterday Detroit Red Wings were given a civic send-off as they shut up camp and headed home.

Manager Jack Adams and coach Tommy Ivan said the club is set except for two forward berths which Steve Black and Jerry Reid appeared to have cinched earlier.

Now Black will have to beat out John Wilson, with Omaha last year, and Glenn Skov who played for Windsor (Ont.) Spitfires. Reid has some competition, too, in trying to salt away the other berth from Pat Lundy, Jim McFadden, Max McNab and Larry Wilson.

Baltimore Wins Over Rochester By 10-2 Count

(By The Associated Press)

Baltimore Orioles, after a six-year absence, will represent the International League in the Little World Series.

Baltimore qualified for the series last night by defeating the pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings 10-2 in the sixth game of the league's final-round series. The stunning upset gave the Orioles the series four games to two.

The Orioles will meet either Columbus or Indianapolis of the American Association in the L.W.S. Columbus and Indianapolis are tied at three games apiece.

If Columbus wins, the series will open in Baltimore Friday night for three games. If Indianapolis wins the first three games will be played in Indianapolis.

Tommy Fine pitched the Orioles to their clinching triumph. It was the veteran righthander's second victory over Rochester in the series.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair up to the fifth when the Orioles scored seven runs on as many hits to take a 9-1 lead. Eddie Yuhas and Johnny Wittig, a former Oriole, were the victims of the bombardment.

Austin Knickerbocker, who pounded out nine hits in 28 trips during the series, led the Oriole attack with three blows. Babe Barna started the Oriole scoring with a home run in the first inning.

B.C.I. Senior Gridders Draw Playdowns Bye

By DON DOLAN

Because of a lack of competition, B.C.I. seniors have been awarded the Bay of Quinte Senior Boys' Rugby Championship and are now awaiting to play the winner of the Lakeshore loop in the first round of the C.O.S.S.A. Senior "A" playdowns. However, the B.C.I. team will play exhibition games with anyone in it's age group. Those who wish to compete with the B.C.I. team please contact coach Townsend at Belleville Collegiate.

The first exhibition game of the season gets underway on Saturday Sept. 30 when "Red" Townsend's B.C.I. seniors journey to Port Hope to tangle with Trinity College of the Little Big Four. Mr. Townsend has been sending his charges through strenuous workouts in preparation for their all important first game.

Friday night, the first "pep" rally in the history of the school will be held on the campus at 9 p.m. There will be bonfires, cheers, yells, skits and an introduction of the members of the senior team. Following this rally, a dance will be held in the gym and an admission fee of 35c will be charged. This rally is being put on to raise money to pay for the new uniforms of the cheerleaders. The students of B.C.I. are urged to give their full support to the project. Once again the starting time for the campus activities is 9 p.m.

The junior team under the capable guidance of Mr. Bradley has been working out daily and are slowly rounding into shape. The team will play in a league with Trenton, O.S.D., and Albert College.

Football fans around the district will have an opportunity to see plenty of football this season. Along with a junior schedule, there will be a Senior "B" league in operation with teams from St. Mikes, Picton, Trenton and Albert College.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP) — When Joe Louis was asked about the "turning point" of last night's somewhat dismal heavyweight title fight, he answered: "The first round". . . . And that was about it . . . the whole affair had all the joyous atmosphere of a hospital waiting room as the small crowd huddled in the ringside sections. Even the "stage management" creaked as the semi-final bout ended prematurely, leaving a long, uncomfortable wait until the radio-television starting time. . . . From the start you could see that Louis was missing his punches at close range and lacked the speed on his feet and with his fists to catch the fleeting, clever Ezzard Charles . . . but the fans seemed to be hoping for a flash of the old Joe Louis — and a flash might have been enough. . . . When Ezzard's eye began to puff in the fourth round, Manny Seamon, Joe's trainer, screamed: "Ooooh, look at Charles' eye. Get him, Joe." . . . But Joe couldn't get him. . . . Again in the 10th when Charles' nose gushed blood and he seemed shaken, many began yelling: "Jab it, Joe, jab it. Step in; right hand to body." . . . And as the crowd began to scream too, Manny signalled furiously to Joe to move in. . . . Louis tried hard, but he couldn't get there and a couple of rounds later he was the one who had to hang on. . . . Nobody seemed surprised at the decision or the news that Joe wouldn't fight again. . . . Ringsiders were shaking their heads and muttering "too slow" as they filed out. They were sorry Louis had to go out looking bad.

Shorts and Shells

Looks as if the American League should pass a rule against giving the Yankees a second chance. Look what happened to Washington after Mickey Grasso lost that third strike the other day — same kind of lightning that struck after Mickey Owen missed one in the 1941 world series . . . and, incidentally, 97 victories has been the A.L. pennant-winning figure for the last three years.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE END OF THE TRAIL

Joe Louis, a beaten, battered, ex-champion, probably the greatest of them all, walked "the last mile" last night in Yankee Stadium. It was a pathetic ending to a glorious ring career.

Ezzard Charles, seven years younger, many pounds lighter, proved beyond the longest stretch of the imagination, that he held no fear of the famous Black Bomber's once lethal punches. He fought a patterned fight and it paid off. He took everything the former champion had and paid it back, with dividends. He won by a wide margin, according to the judges and referee, and we concurred in their decision from our ringside seat alongside Don Lee's television set.

The "Comeback Trail" added its thirteenth victim to its undefeated string with the dethroning of Louis. "They Never Come Back" once more held good. The inexorable finger of Father Time decreed that Louis must come to the end ed his title 24 times, did not believe the finger would point in his direction last night. For he knew that with defeat would come humiliation. He relinquished the heavyweight title while he was being hailed as the "greatest champion of all time." Forced to re-enter the lists in an effort to reline his depleted exchequer and make certain commitments to Uncle Sam, Louis declined to believe that the younger Ezzard Charles could defeat him. But he met an inspired, fearless fighter, who fought a carefully planned battle, showed no fear of his reputation nor his once mighty fists, and went on to win. Louis lost a lot of prestige as well as the fight last night.

SEZ HE!

A dusky scion of one of the fierce Indian tribesmen who roamed this district years ago, when you could get a hair-cut free if you stuck your neck out too far from the log-fire in the cabin, nudged us in the ribs yesterday afternoon while we were enjoying the sunny weather at the Mohawk Fair and murmured, "Listen, bub, (modern for paleface), havya heard the latest?"

The Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles embroglio not as yet having disappointed or pleased the millions; the world's series still a week away, and the third heat of the .20 Class yet to be trotted on the Mohawk Fair's Epsom Downs, we shook the pate.

"C'mon over here, bub," he shot from the corner of his mouth. We expected a tip on the fifth at Hialeah, whenever it is run; the inside info on tickets to the big baseball do in N'Yawk or Philly; the date of Princess Margaret Rose's engagement, or who will be the next president of the United States.

"Get this, bub," he hissed as we parked between two jalopies. "This is straight from the horse's mouth." We looked at him and pondered over that one. He could have been wrong.

"They tell me," he sidemouthed in approved track tout style, "that if Pat Maracle wins this softball finals series against Cy Barnage's pipe ticklers, they're going to change the name of his home village, Maracleville, or sumpin like that."

"Wait a minute . . . wait a minute . . . wait a minute," he chorused as we revealed the bridgework in feigned surprise. "Mebbe you think I'm nuts, or sumpin, huh?"

He apparently read the reportorial mind, a task which is fairly easy at times, although we've never been slapped when talking to a luscious redhead.

"Well," he shushed, "there's sumpin cookin' and it ain't a barbecued porker. Those guys down there in Point Anne are so het up over Maracle's duck-egg the other night they're figurin' on usin' him again tonight. But don't quote me, bub, don't quote me."

We had nothing to say by way of comment.

"Furthermore," he sotto-voiced again, "those Ox Pointers are willin' to lay Ham Legate's cement-making emporium, Telegraph Island, part of Muscote Bay and the Cement Karrier on the line, that the championship silverware will summer next year in a Point Anne cottage."

Any takers?

"One more word, bub, and I'm a friend of yours," he gurgled, "if you have any spare mazuma, a car, government bonds or war saving certificates, plunk them down on this Point Anne team. There in there like the Yanks in Seoul."

And with that he ambled off to Wes Evans' tented taffy factory, quaffed a lemonade, looked around the adjacent countryside, picked himself another listener, and, we presume, recited his Point Anne prose again.

In any event, the Ox Pointers are riding high and handsome after that sparkling win over their feudal foes, the How-Hags, the other night. They are fully confident they will take a game lead this evening under the lights at the Fair Grounds.

On the other hand the Barriage Buckaroos are quite as confident their batting eyes will assert themselves in tonight's battle, and if such is the case, the Ox Pointers will need all the Maracles and Hunters they can dig up. But that remains to be seen. It should be another thriller. Gets under way at 8 p.m. immediately following the Bateman Motors-Avon Jewellers tilt, which starts at 6.30.

WILTED ROSES

Batawa Shoemen advanced another step toward the Intermediate "A" championship last night when they defeated the Bowmanville Roses 4-3 on the latter's diamond to take the series 3-1. Gordie Muffitt went the route for the Shoemen who won the game in the last innings after trailing 3-2 at the end of the eighth. The Batawans will probably meet a Western Ontario team in the next playdown round. Their victory last night gave them the Eastern Ontario Title.

ST. CATHARINES TIES SERIES

St. Catharines, Sept. 28—(CP)—St. Catharines Athletics defeated Owen Sound Crescents 9-3 before 1,500 fans Wednesday nigh to deadlock the Ontario Lacross Association finals at one gam each. Crescents won the opener a home 9-7 Monday.

Third game in the best-of-seve series will be played Friday ni in Owen Sound.

Big Bill Whitaker sparkeled the A's nets as the visitors fired 34 shots at him during the bruising encounter. The winners had 21 shots on goal.

Harry Wipper, McGill University student, flew here from Montreal to play with the Athletics.

Ezzard Charles Slashes, Cuts Brown Bomber to Win Title Fight in Fifteen Bitter Rounds

By NORMAN MICHIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Sept. 28 (CP)—Ezzard Charles proved it again last night. Heavyweight champions don't come back—not even Joe Louis.

Charles, World's heavyweight champion, gave away 33 1-2 pounds. He slashed and harried the once-retired champion through most of the gory, 15-round bout to take a unanimous decision.

Referee Mark Conn called it 10 rounds to five, Judge Frank Forbes 13 to two, and Judge Joe Agnello 12 to three.

Some 22,000 fans at Yankee Stadium saw Louis put up the fight of his life, turning dangerous time after time even when he was obviously badly hurt and when his left eye was closed.

Charles now becomes recognized as world champion in the entire 48 states. In all but New York State he was supreme when he beat Jersey Joe Walcott by decision in 1949. But Britain and some European countries recognize Lee Savold as the titlist.

Stand-up Fight

It was a stand-up fight all the way. The 29-year-old Charles, a mere slip of a lad beside his huge opponent, took the offensive from the start and seldom dropped it.

He was intent on hitting Louis with all he had as early as possible to slow up the 36-year-old challenger. He drew blood from Louis' nose in the first round.

And Louis, who in training absorbed considerable knocking about, was out for a knockout from the start. He held his own pretty well for the first three rounds, and in the fourth came close to finishing Charles.

In the fifth Charles' left eye was almost closed and he was badly shaken—almost on his knees at one time—from the Brown Bombers' blows.

From then on, except for a brief recovery late in the 10th, Charles carried the fight to his 218-pound opponent. His body blows sometimes left Louis grimacing — something ringsiders could not remember having seen before.

In Good Shape

Louis, who retired undefeated in March, 1949, after almost 12 years as champion, was in much better shape than most expected. His left still worked with piston force and his timing in the early rounds was good. But he missed his famous follow-through rights.

In the 10th he staggered the champion with a right to the face early in the round, then stalked and smashed him in a style reminiscent of his youth. The crowd screamed for a kayo but Joe hesitated twice on what appeared to be chances for the lethal big one.

After that he appeared in pain and failing from the vicious body beating his opponent was dishing out. In the 14th at one stage he stumbled against the ropes and clutched them with one hand. He was finished then.

The crowd paid a total gross gate of $205,370. Louis got 35 percent of the net gate of $154,028, and Charles .20 percent. Louis also got $40,550 of the radio TV rights, giving him a total of $100,458.

Charles' share of radio-TV and the gate brought his total purse to $57,405—more than he ever got before from a single fight.

In addition, both get the same percentage of money earned by motion pictures.

25 Million See By TV

Television carried the fight to an estimated 25,000,000 persons.

Charles proved a better fighter than most suspected. His two-fisted attack was in sharp contrast to Joe's technique of jabbing fiercely with the left, stalking and cocking the right only when he scented a kill.

Always boring in, Charles at the end was looking for a knockout and had the Bomber stumbling across the ring.

Both fought fiercely and cleanly. Both were blood-covered and bruised when they embraced after the decision was announced.

Louis, who had never fought Charles before, re-entered the ring to pay off income-tax claims estimated at $150,000.

The fight proved once more that they never come back. Louis now joins the company of Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett, Jim Jefferies, Jack Dempsey and Max Schemling, all of whom failed on the comeback trail.

It also proved, the ringwise say, that television has ended the days of the huge-crowd stadium duels. Even a fine clear night failed to lure thousands of fans from the comfort and convenience of their fire-or-bar-side sets.

Alouettes Win From McGill 19-6

Montreal, Sept. 28—Montreal's Dominion-champion Alouettes finally won a football game last night—but a college team carried them to the third quarter before bowing to the more experienced Big Four squad.

The Als staged a powerful second-half drive which carried them to a 19-6 victory over the classy McGill University Redmen in the fourth annual Kiwanis exhibition match before 10,000 fans at Royals Stadium.

Alouettes showed they were finally getting into mid-season condition by rolling back the collegians with two converted touchdowns in the third quarter, another in the fourth and a kick to deadline.

Ralph Toohy, Virgil Wagner and Tommy Manastersky scored the touchdowns for the winners with Ches McCance converting the first two and Nick Scollard the other. Scollard kicked the single.

For McGill, it was George Valois with Frank Wilmot converting. The game proved costly to both teams. Valois was carried off the field with a separated shoulder that will keep him out of play for about three weeks. John Harper of Als is reported to have dislocated a shoulder, his second major injury of the season.

SECOND DEFEAT FOR LOUIS

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Joe Louis' defeat at the hands of Ezzard Charles last night was his second in a professional career dating back to 1934 and covering 62 fights.

Max Schmeling was the only other man to take the Brown Bomber's measure and he scored a 12th-round knockout in New York June 19, 1936.

Louis came back two years later, after winning the heavyweight championship, to settle this score with a first-round knockout over the German.

Coach Figures Way To Beat No-Icing Rule

(By The Canadian Press)

Bill Carse shuffled the salt and pepper shakers around on the table and drew diagrams furiously with a fork.

The Vancouver Canucks coach was explaining how he hopes to benefit from the new no-icing rule of the Pacific Coast Hockey League. The league opens Oct. 6 and Canucks as well as Victoria Cougars are in training at Nanaimo, B.C.

"We'll gamble," said Carse. "And the way some of our forwards can skate, I'm not so sure it won't produce a few goals."

The new rule prohibits icing the puck at anytime during a game even by a team that's shorthanded.

"Okay, we're shorthanded. If we have the puck in our end we'll try to toss it down the other end of the rink.

"But remember, when the puck crosses the red line at the other end, it isn't automatically iced. It doesn't become an iced puck unless a member of the defending team touches it.

"We'll have one forward breaking every time we get the puck. If he can reach it before the opposing defence gets back to its own end, it works to our advantage.

"We'll be in possession of the puck, or, with a break or two, we might get a goal. In any case it will help keep the opposition defencemen off balance and it'll give our forwards incentive to get up the ice and fight for the puck."

Tommy Farr, who at the age of 36 is attempting a comeback on the heavyweight boxing trail, scored a sixth-round knockout victory over Dutch champion Jan Klein at Pontypridd Wales, Wednesday night.

Farr weighed 196, Klein 218 1-2.

The elated Irishman, who went 15 rounds with Joe Louis in 1937 cabled Louis:

"I have just won my comeback fight I hope you win yours. Your old opponent Tommy Farr."

The former British heavyweight champion, made a brilliant return to the ring before 30,000 of his fellow Welshmen.

He knocked the Dutchman out in two minutes and five seconds of the sixth with a right hook to the jaw followed by a murderous short left. Klein landed flat on his back and was unconscious long after the full count.

Pancho Gonzales, former American champion, reached the finals of the world indoor tennis championships at Wembley Wednesday by beating Don Budge 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Gonzales will meet Welby Van Horn in the all American final. Van Horn upset Bobby Riggs 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 in the other semi-final.

Three goals by forward Roy Kelly led Cleveland Barons to a 7-4 victory over the Springfield Indians in an exhibition hockey game at Hamilton Wednesday night.

A small crowd of about 1,200 fans saw the two American League clubs play.

Five hockey leagues will definitely take part in a "major" series this season, Doug Grimston president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said at New Westminster Wednesday.

The leagues are the Western Canada senior, Ontario senior, Quebec senior, Maritime senior, and Cape Breton senior.

The CAHA decided on the major series because the five leagues were considered too strong for other senior contenders. A new trophy—donator to be named—will be put up for the major series while the rest will play for the Allan Cup.

Listowel Legionnaires, Western Ontario Baseball Association champions, have been ordered to meet Wallaceburg in the OBA Intermediate B semi-finals.

The first game in a best of three series will be played at Listowel Saturday night. These teams met in the Ontario semi-finals last year with Wallaceburg winning out two games to one.

Yankees, Phillies Flirting With Major League Pennants But Having Clincher Troubles

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

So near and yet so far.

That's the situation in the Major League Baseball pennant races today.

Both Philadelphia Phillies in the National and New York Yankees in the American are within two victories of a world series meeting but the road is strewn with glass.

The Yanks and the Phils have a chance to end it all today but the task is not as easy as it appears on paper.

New York can clinch with the help of St. Louis Browns. The Yanks must beat Philadelphia Athletics and the Browns must down Detroit Tigers in order to assure New York of its 17th pennant.

The Phils can nail down their first flag since 1915 by taking a doubleheader from the tough New York Giants. The Phillies can also win if they split with the Giants while Brooklyn Dodgers divide with Boston or if the Dodgers lost a doubleheader to the Braves.

The picture in both leagues:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	W	L	Pct.	GB	GL
New York	96	55	.636	—	3
Detroit	93	57	.620	2½	4

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	W	L	Pct.	GB	GL
Philadelphia	90	60	.600	—	4
Brooklyn	85	63	.574	4	6

Poison to A's

The Yanks appear a good bet to assure themselves of no worse than a tie. The Bombers are sending Vic Raschi (21-8) against the tail-end Athletics. Raschi has been poison to the A's ever since he came into the league, owning a 16-2 lifetime record over the Mackmen. A victory by Raschi will make it impossible for Detroit to win the pennant in the regular season.

Philadelphia, on the other hand, should find the Giants no pushovers. Ken Johnson (4-1) and Russ Meyer (9-11) are scheduled to face the Giants' Larry Jansen (18-13) and Jack Kramer (3-6).

The Phils have an unwilling ally in the Braves who have given the Dodgers a hard time all season. The Braves are shooting veteran lefthanders Bob Chipman and Mickey Haefner at the embattled Brooks, who are countering with Preacher Roe and Joe Hatten.

Yesterday the Yanks fumbled a chance to assure themselves of no worse than a tie by dropping an 8-7 decision to the Athletics while the Tigers nosed out St. Louis, 5-4.

The Phils bobbed an opportunity to clinch the pennant by dropping a doubleheader to the Giants 8-7 in 10 innings and 5-0. The Dodgers divided with the Braves, winning the opener but losing the nightcap 4-2.

Chapman Hits Homer

Sam Chapman doomed the Yanks by banging a two-run homer off Whitey Ford in the ninth to win the game. The loss was Ford's first compared to nine victories.

The A's rolled up a 5-1 lead during the first six innings for sore-arm Joe Coleman. The roof fell in on Coleman in the seventh when the Yanks scored six runs to take a 7-5 lead. Yogi Berra knocked in three runs with his 27th homer and second of the game. Johnny Mize completed the uprising with his 25th homer. The A's got one back in their half to set the stage for Chapman's game-winning clout.

The Tigers scored four runs in the sixth, three on a homer by Pat Mullin, to take a 4-1 lead against St. Louis but Art Houtteman, seeking his 20th victory, couldn't hold it. Houtteman was knocked out in the ninth when the Browns squared matters. The Tigers came back to win in the last half when Hoot Evers flied out with the bases loaded to score Johnny Groth.

Red Sox Eliminated

Washington eliminated the third-place Red Sox from contention by sweeping a doubleheader from the Sox in Boston, 2-0 and 6-3.

Bob Feller turned in his 16th victory for Cleveland as he pitched the Indians to a 7-0 five-hit victory over Chicago White Sox in a night game.

The Giants piled up a 7-2 lead over the Phils but the whiz kids tied it with five runs in the eighth only to lose in the 10th when Al Dark singled home Monte Irvin from second.

Jim Hearn shut out the Phils on seven hits in the finale to win his 11th game and ninth without a loss over Philadelphia in his career. The Giants sewed it up in the first inning when Bob Thomson homered with the bases loaded.

Pittsburgh Pirates trounced Chicago Cubs 7-4, with Ralph Kiner, Jack Phillips and Gus Bell leading the way with home runs. Kiner's belt was his 47th. Andy Pafko and Carl Sawatski homered for the Cubs.

TOSSIN' TEXAN

Lindy Berry, Edmonton Eskimos' 22-year-old quarterback import from Texas Christian University, shows the form that made him the leading passer in the first half of the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union schedule. In the first seven league games, Eskimos averaged 235 yards a game on completed forwards, mostly thrown by Berry. He played four years in the Southwest Conference against such stars as Doak Walker and Kyle Rote. — (CP Photo.)

Toronto Blues Trample Aggies

Guelph, Sept. 28—(CP)—Speed and the ability to capitalize on the breaks enabled University of Toronto Blues to trample Ontario Agricultural College Aggies 30-0 Wednesday in an exhibition football game. The Senior Blues didn't look that much better but they made the most of the intermediate Guelph team's mistakes.

Big Bob Bazos and Bill Bewley each scored two touchdowns. Jack Gray counted the other on a brilliant 75-yard run. Al Stevenson converted all five.

Shortly after he converted the fifth Toronto Major, Stevenson was injured in a pile-up after a Varsity fumble. He was carried unconscious off the field and taken to hospital here. He suffered a concussion and a possible fractured skull.

Watson-Geohagen Atkins-Henning Brawl in Ring

Whipper Billy Watson and Timothy Geohagen will team up again at the Memoral Arena on Friday night in an all-out attempt to square accounts with the team of Fred Atkins and Leering Lee Henning. Bunny Dunlop will referee.

Watson, one of the world's top wrestlers and a leading title contender, along with Geohagen the strongest man in Ireland and predicted to be a world champion by many in the near future, figure to be as strong a twosome as could be thrown at the Atkins-Henning duo.

However, Atkins, the rock-ribbed Australian champion, and Henning, the bashing, battering Iowa corn-husker, are likewise outstanding in their particular field, too, which is the rough and rugged department. They are about as punishing a pair as could be found in the game. Consequently, even wrestlers of Watson's and Geohagen's ability will have their work cut out for them in trying to tame that Atkins-Henning combination.

Ray Gunkel will go against Sky-Hi Lee, the towering Ozark hillbilly, in the semi-final. Jim "Goon" Henry will clash with Toar Morgan in the first match.

Waterloo Tigers Shellacked by Brantford Sox

Brantford, Sept. 28 (CP)—Brantford Red Sox took a licking in each of their first three Intercounty Baseball League final games with Waterloo Tigers.

But they got their revenge Wednesday night by shellacking the Tigers 25-3 in a 19-hit barrage. They belted starter Cy Bricker for a single hit, four walks and five runs in the first inning then raked reliever Jack Giffen for 18 hits in the rest of the game.

Catcher Juan Monje went wild at the plate. He belted out two homers—one of them with the bases loaded—got hits in each of his other two official trips, batted in eight runs and scored six times himself.

The Sox collected 14 runs in the opening inning during which Monje got his grand-slam homer. Lipka, Kirkgrasser and Hodara all doubled during the big inning.

Kirkgrasser, brouht in from Buffalo to pitch the game, coasted behind the huge lead, walking five and giving up eight hits.

Brown Bomber Lost Like Champ, Charles Delighted

By FRED HAYDEN

New York, Sept. 28 (AP) — After the long, hard road Joe Louis travelled to attempt a comeback, he lost like a champion.

As quiet and monosyllabic as ever, the big Brown Bomber, who never exploded in Yankee Stadium last night, took his decisive defeat by seven-years-younger Ezzard Charles without an alibi or a whimper. He reached the end of the road the way he had come up—with class. But now, Joe says, he's had enough.

Charles the conqueror was almost as quiet in his dressing room. Although obviously enjoying his greatest moment in victory. He did not boast about winning an unanimous verdict over the man who used to be his idol, but had only praise for his victim.

Not so dulcet was the comment from Jake Mintz, his Pittsburgh pilot who never was noted for reticence. Voluble Jake took full advantage of the happy occasion. Asked who Charles would fight now, he gushed:

"We'll fight anybody, but we'll have to have the champion's end. We came up the hard way, and always have taken the short end but now we're champ, and anybody who fights us must take the challenger's end. That goes for Lee Savold, too. We don't recognize no European world champion.

"I planned the fight. Did you see me in Louis' corner giving signals across the ring between rounds? We had a code worked out. At the end of the 13th round when I saw we had the fight won, I went around to Ezzard's corner and told him to coast. . ."

The boys thought the 36-year-old Louis had Charles in a bad way in the 10th, but Louis wouldn't even take credit for that.

Asked if this fight would take care of Joe's income tax troubles the beaten Bomber just replied "Yeah."

Charles, too, had to peep through one eye in his dressing room. The left one was closed by Joe's jabs. Ezzard's remarks went like this:

"Sure I was in trouble — all the time . . .the 10th round was pretty tough. . .he hit me a good left hook and a hard right to the back. . . his left jab is his best punch, though. . . it's real stuff . . .I can see why he was champion so long."

Charles said he'd meet any good fighter "when I get this eye opened." He hesitated, then went on:

"I think, though, I just fought the toughest round right now."

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Gordon Brydson of Toronto won the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship at Vancouver with a birdie on the final hole two years ago today. Brydson tossed away his 16th cigar of the course before sinking a three-foot putt. Runner-up was Staan Leonard of Vancouver, who missed an eagle and a tie on his last putt by an inch.

Dempsey Says He Picked Charles To Win Fight

Santa Monica, Calif., Sept. 28—(AP)— Jack Dempsey says he picked Ezzard Charles to win the heavyweight championship fight last night because "I know they don't come back."

The ex-champ, who made a try at coming back himself and missed, listened to the Louis-Charles fight by radio in the quiet of his Santa Monica home.

"Yes, I picked Charles to win because I know they don't co back," Dempsey said in an inte view. "Louis would have lick Charles before he retired tw years ago—but not now."

Dempsey recalled his comeba try when he had Gene Tunn down, and almost out, in the se enth round of their memorab "long-count" rematch in Chica in 1927, a year after Tunney h lifted the crown in Philadelphi

"The same thing happened Louis last night that happen to me in the second Tunn fight," said Jack. "His legs ca ed in. He'd been away from t wars too long and he was t old.

"Once your legs go you see to lose everything."

THIS FALL . . .

Thousands of people are still enjoying the beauties of the Canadian north. Holidayers everywhere are marvelling at the wealth of scenery and the abundance of wild creatures.

This natural heritage is yours to enjoy. But once it becomes depleted, it can never be replaced. If we all obey the rules of conservation we will be assured of even finer holidays in the years ahead. Think of tomorrow—Canada, with her forests and wildlife, streams and lakes, is yours to protect.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A coup is a clever manoeuver. The grand coup is a clever play that involves ruffing your own good card. Do it twice in the same deal and it is called the double grand coup. See it done in this deal:

♥A K Q J
♦A K Q J 10
♣A K

♥9 8 5 2

♣Q J 9 8 7 5 2

♥10 7 3
♦9 8 5 3

SOUTH
♠A K Q 10 8 6
♦6 4 2

South was declarer at a contract of seven spades. West led a club. Dummy took trick one with club king and led a trump. South took this and another trump round with king and ace of trumps.

On the second round of trumps the west hand showed out. Then it looked as if east has a trump trick. Leading the other south top trump will not pick up the east jack. What now?

In such a situation, south must get rid of two trumps in some way. Then he must take all the tricks except two. At the start of the last two tricks the lead must be in the dummy hand.

By then east will have only two cards. The idea is that the two cards left in east are both his remaining trumps. Any card then led from dummy compels east to play a trump that south overtakes.

Dummy took a second club trick with the ace. Also two rounds of hearts with jack and queen. Heart king was led. Instead of a sluff on it, south ruffed his own good heart trick and got rid of a trump.

A diamond entered dummy again. The heart ace was led from there. East sluffed a diamond. But again south ruffed his own good trick; the heart ace. This left south with only two trumps; ace and ten.

Again dummy was entered with a diamond. Another diamond trick was won in dummy. All hands now held only two cards. Dummy led a diamond and east was forced to play one of his two trumps.

Whichever trump east put on, south covered. This left south with the highest trump for the last trick. With nothing left except trumps there was nothing east could do about it.

After the double grand coup, east was smothered.

Hollywood, Sept. 28 (AP) — Katy Jurado, Mexican film star and bullfight commentator here for a peek at Hollywood, finds the place "fantastic."

"Fantastic" is the favorite American word of Katy Jurado (pronounced —Kotty Hoorahdo). She only started to learn the language five months ago, to play a leading role in "Torero," a bullfight film produced by John Payne in Mexico.

Katy uses "fantastic" in an admiring sense when she describes her impressions of Hollywood. But when she terms U. S. films about Mexico the same way, she is not being complimentary.

The trouble with most Hollywood films about Mexico is bad advice, the actress said.

Ask Angelenos

"When the studios want to know about Mexico, they ask the Mexicans who live in Los Angeles," she said. "But many of the Mexicans here have never been to Mexico and do not know what the country is really like."

Katy has appeared in 26 films in Mexico and also functions as an outspoken bullfight commentator on the radio. She lashes out at the inept toreadors and will accept no pay for the broadcasts. "That is so I can be independent and say what I want," she said.

Her commentaries on the bullfights have a large following, apparently including President Aleman. Once she directed a broadcast to him personally, asking that he do something to improve the quality of bullfighting. He sent her flowers the next day.

"Americans don't like bullfighting because they do not know all the skill that goes into it," says Katy. "It would also help if we could learn more about your football. That is the one American sport. Mexicans cannot understand.

"All those men pounding each other on the football field—it is fantastic."

SAVED BY MINUTES

Singapore, Sept. 28 (Reuters) —Three minutes saved six British members of parliament from a guerrilla ambush in Malaya yesterday. The delegation included Lord Listowel, former minister of state for the colonies. They passed a spot in Central Johore where three minutes later a police constable was shot dead.

London, Sept. 28 (Reuters) — London's borough of Edmonton has had to drop its plan to choose a carnival king this year due to the shyness of Edmonton's young men. Despite urgent appeals, there were only two applicants to rule during carnival week. In contrast, there have been 15 applicants for the position of carnival queen.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma started to laff out loud to herself saying to pop, Really William, I meen really, the more I see of human nature, the more I am mystified.

Me too, pop said. I dont know which mystifies me the most, men, women or children, he said, and ma said, What I'm particulilly thinking of is the time and trubble women will take just to catch a passing glimpse of a movie star in person. After all, William, I meen after all, what are movie stars? she said.

Meerly 2 legged animals with 6 legged bank accounts, pop said, and ma said, Exactly, they're just ordnerry people with heads on their shoulders the same as everybody elts.

And in the pictures they're just ordnerry people with their heads on each other's shoulders, pop said, and ma said, I wish you could of seen the crowd of women buzzing around the stage door of the Narcississ this afternoon, waiting for Clinton Dangerfield to come out. It seems he was making a personal appearance there. I stopped to watch them with a mixture of amusement and pity, marvelling at the thawt of how so many women could possibly be so agog at the chance of having an ordnerry man brush past them on his way from one place to another. Full grown women, William, litterly waisting their adult time. And the cream of the joke was, Clinton Dangerfield never did show up, she said.

How long did you stay there amusing yourself at the expense of the silly gawkers? pop said, and ma said, Oh, an hour at least.

Yee gods, pop said. What do you bet they weren't all standing there laffing at each other and not waiting for Clinton Dangerfield at all? he said.

And he laffed like anything and ma said it was the craziest idea

DELEGATES SEE AGREEMENT AHEAD ON NEW CONSTITUTION

Delegates to the federal-provincial conference in Quebec City may be able, even without the aid of a telescope, to forsee a new constitution for Canada. Latest reports from the meeting, attended by premiers of all 10 provinces, indicate that some measure of provincial authority will be written into federal affairs in the new constitution. CAMPBELLFORD

Parking Meters Made $7.85 Profit In Twelve Months

Campbellford — Council. W A. Kingston, chairman of the Finance Committee has released a statement of the income and expenses of the parking meters showing the meters made a net pro over a twelve-month period of $7.85.

The posts which for more than a year have supported the parking meters have now been removed and the sidewalks repaired. This is the culmination of long and sometimes bitter arguments both in and out of council.

Due to some of the wild rumors which have been circulating, concerning the cost of these meters to the town, it has now been brought to light that; (1) the instation and removal of the meters did not cost the town one cent in taxes. (2) had the metres remained on the streets beyond the one-year trial period, the contract called for the town to pay $3.00 per meter per month, and the sum of $318 per month for 106 meters would have to be sent to the meter company, regardless of how much the meters took in.

In five months of 1949 when there were 156 meters, the total collections were $1,751.75, or an average of $250.25 per month. Each meter brought in on the average $1.60 per month. During the next seven months, 106 meters brought in $1,678.75, or an average of $239.82 per month, or $2.26 per meter per month.

On the basis of experience the meters cannot be a paying proposition for the town of Campbellford for at least some time to come. If the contract had not been cancelled, the town would have had to pay $318 per month to the meter company, and $60 per month to the caretaker—a total of $378 per month.

The average take of the meters was, as is outlined above, $239.82 from the present installations. The taxes of the town would have to meet the costs not met by collections, or nearly $140 per month. In addition, the town would have to pay for any parts and service or repairs. This was done by the meter company prior to the expiry of the 12-month trial period. Taxes would hv had to be raised by $1,680, or one mill for the next 18 months, at which time the meters would be paid for. The town owed $6,033.66 on the meters a the time of removal.

During the year of operation the town retained $715.11 and paid the meter company $2,845.86. The cost of operation of the meters was $908.26. Fines of $201 covered the erating deficit, showing a total net profit for the year of $7.85.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotarians W. Wiggins, R. Locke Tell of Recent Conference

Campbellford—Rotarians Walter Wiggins and Ralph Locke of the local club were speakers at the noon luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday. These two men had attended the Rotary International Conference in Detroit earlier this summer, and told the club members what went on, and what they saw.

Mr. Wiggins told of an interesting address by a Norwegian cabinet minister and of one by the president of the Fourth General Assembly of the U.N. This latter individual is slated to be the next president of the Philippines.

Mr. Locke, who has attended three international conferences, urged any members who could to attend these affairs. He said members are missing a lot if they do not attend. He spoke of the fellowship and understanding between the various groups at the conferences, and of the interest they show in each other.

Rotarian Franklin Linton, chairman of the program committee, outlined the programs which will take place during the next few months. Many outstanding speakers will be on hand and the coming meetings appear to be quite interesting both from an educational and entertaining standpoint.

A beef session was held at the close of the meeting. Members wrote their "beefs" on pieces of paper which were handed in to the chair where they were read and commented on by the members.

Dr. W. W. Baker said his committee was in favor of sponsoring two hockey teams this season, the Bantams and the Midgets. This will be discussed by the board, and will probably go to a vote of the club.

"FELT TIRED FROM THE TIME I GOT UP IN THE MORNING"

Stomach Out of Order, Poor Appetite, Nerves on Edge, Couldn't Sleep Well. Felt Better After Taking First Bottle of Syntona, Says This Woman.

MRS. MARGARET SOMMERVILLE

Whether you are 18 or 80 you may at times begin to feel overtired, listless and rundown. Digestion is impaired, appetite lost, nerves on edge and sleep is neither sound or restful. At such times, Syntona Herbal Compound has given its very best results in helping thousands of men and women to regain their former good health and energy.

Here, for example, is the case of Mrs. Margaret Sommerville, 13 Erie Street, St. Thomas, Ontario, who said recently:

"I suffered from indigestion, gas, and stomach disorders for years, became rundown, couldn't sleep well and my nerves were all on edge. "I had a very tired feeling from the time I got up in the morning and in fact couldn't seem to get sound sleep at night. I would get bad headaches, dizzy feelings and had no appetite.

"I began to feel better before I had finished taking the very first bottle of Syntona and since continuing the treatment my entire system feels built up and improved. Food is digesting better; I am getting more sound, restful sleep at night and that awful fatigued feeling is gone. Also, my appetite is improved, headaches and dizzy spells do not trouble me and I haven't felt so well in years."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

Allow Red China To Debate Formosa Issue After Nov. 15

Resolution by Ecuador Passes Security Council 7-4

New York, Sept. 29. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council today voted 7 to 4 to permit communist China's participation in the Council's Formosa debate after Nov. 15.

Council President Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain ruled that the proposal was adopted. Nationalist China immediately challenged the ruling on the ground she had vetoed the resolution.

The resolution on which the Council voted was introduced by Ecuador. Yugoslavia withdrew a similar resolution of her own when the Council convened.

First Test in Debate

The first test came in a vote on the operative part of the Ecuadorean resolution, calling for a postponement of the debate on red China's charges of American aggression against Formosa until Nov. 15 and inviting the Peiping regime to send a representative here to take part in the discussions.

Voting for this were Russia, Britain, France, Norway, India; Yugoslavia and Ecuador. The United States, Nationalist China, Cuba and Egypt voted against it.

Then the Council voted on the whole resolution, including a long preamble. The result was the same except that Egypt switched from the negative column to abstention.

Council rules require seven affirmative votes, including those of the five permanent members, for approval of questions of substance. In procedural questions, the permanent members do not have to concur if a measure receives a total of seven votes. In other words, the veto does not apply.

The permanent members are the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China. Two of them—the United States and China—voted against the Ecuadorean proposal.

Nationalist China's Stand

It was on this that Nationalist China's chief delegate, T. F. Tsiang, based his contention that the proposal had been vetoed. He argued that it was a question of substance rather than a procedural matter. Other countries, including both the United States and Russia, previously had declared the question was procedural.

Ship's Grounding Due to Grave Error of Judgment

Quebec, Sept. 29 — (CP) — Grounding of the Cunard liner Franconia on the Island of Orleans on the evening of July 12 was due to "a grave error of judgment" on the part of pilot Edmond Lamontagne, Mr. Justice Arthur I. Smith decided in a ruling given here today.

The ruling following an investigation into circumstances surrounding the stranding of the vessel.

His Lordship ordered the pilot's licence suspended for the balance of the 1950 navigation season and recommended that steps be taken to compel all vessels to comply with Quebec harbor regulations limiting speeds to eight knots.

The vessel ran aground some 30 minutes after she sailed from Wolfe's Cove here with 846 passengers and a crew of 428. All passengers and crew were removed without loss of life.

His Lordship come to the conclusion that prior to the grounding, the vessel was travelling at approximately 12 1-2 knots through the water.

In that connection, he said, "the court does not find that the speed at which the ship was proceeding was a cause of the grounding.

"Nevertheless the court is of the opinion that in the circumstances the speed was excessive and had the Franconia been proceeding at a slower speed the danger might have been averted."

Flood Relief Fund Expresses Thanks To Broadcasters

Calgary, Sept. 29—(CP)— The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund today thanked the broadcasters of Canada for their help in raising money for families who suffered losses in the spring floods.

A resolution, moved by Mayor Garnet Coulter of Winnipeg, conveying thanks of the fund's officers was presented today at the convention here of the Western Association of Broadcasters.

It will also be presented to the Canadian Association of Broadcasters convention in February in Quebec City.

Radio stations raised $965,000 for the $8,800,000 fund through direct appeals to their listeners.

ONE-MAN STRIKER HELD

Amherstburg, Ont., Sept. 29 — (CP)—An Amherstburg worker, who staged a one-man strike in a canning factory, spent last night in jail.

Provincial police were called in when Robert Sanford slowed production at the Canadian Canners, Ltd., plant here. Police said Sanford barred a stairway, keeping others from getting to their jobs. He was taken to jail in Windsor where he will be charged with causing a disturbance.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 29. (CP)—Synopsis: Over most of Southern Ontario fine autumn weather is in store for today and Saturday. Early morning fog will give way to haze, and afternoon temperatures will climb above 70 both days. In northern regions the sky will be mostly cloudy with little change in temperature.

SLOW DOWN CLAMPED ON

Helmstedt, Germany, Sept. 29 —(AP) — Russian zone border guards today clamped a new slow-down on west German truck traffic to Berlin. About 200 Berlin bound trucks were queued up in front of the Helmstedt border barrier at midday. As usual in a Soviet slow down, there was no explanation.

11-YEAR BAN IS OFF GERMAN IMMIGRATION

No Ex-Nazis or Communists May Enter

Ottawa, Sept. 29 (CP)—Canada today lifted her 11-year immigration bar against German Nationals but said neither ex-Nazis nor communists will be allowed to enter this country.

The ban will continue against Germans who fall under those two headings.

Otherwise Germans have been placed on the same basis as any other foreigners for purposes of emigration to Canada.

Immigration Minister Harris said that the admittance of Germans has been restored to a peacetime basis for the first time since 1939.

Mr. Harris said in a statement that "the government has decided that, under present circumstances, it is appropriate to place immigration of German Nationals on a peacetime basis."

The ban against them and against other enemy peoples went into effect in 1939 when Canada went to war with Nazi Germany.

Change in Policy

The shift in immigration policy came after Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson advocated the rearament of western Germany and its integration within the family of western European powers.

Mr. Pearson's views were expressed to parliament earlier this month.

Mr. Harris said Germans now will be subject only "to general regulations governing the entry of immigrants of other nationalities."

The policy appears to be an effort to tap a great new source of population to bolster Canada's post-war immigration totals which recently have been falling.

The minister said an order-in-council dated Sept. 14 makes it possible for any German to emigrate here providing he or she can comply with federal regulations.

FOUR INJURED IN CRASH

Windsor, Sept. 29. (CP)—Three men and a woman are in hospital here after their car crashed and overturned on a small bridge a few miles south of Windsor last night.

They are Jack Keough, Robert McCartney and Clarence Adams, all of Windsor, and Mrs. Mabel Allen of Detroit. Adams and McCartney were reported in serious condition, with possible skull fractures. Mrs. Allen and Keough are suffering from laceration and shock.

The four were trapped for 20 minutes in the wreckage of their overturned car, which blocked the bridge.

Premier Johnson of B.C. and Wife Injured in Car Crash in Quebec

Quebec, Sept. 29—(CP)—Premier Johnson of British Columbia and Mrs. Johnson, returning home from the constitutional conference, were injured severely today when their automobile collided with another in thick fog at St. Augustin, near here.

Mr. Johnson, premier of B.C. since 1947, is 59 years of age.

Dr. Jean Paul Roger, attending physician at the Saint Sacrament Hospital in the fashionable uptown district, said:

"Our X-rays have not been studied thoroughly yet but there is no reason to believe Premier Johnson and Mrs. Johnson have suffered major injuries."

Dr. Roger described their condition as "satisfactory".

He said Premier Johnson had suffered a "small fracture" to the left hip while the nature of Mrs. Johnson's injuries had not yet been determined. He said she had a shoulder injury and possibly other internal injuries. Mrs. Johnson, 56, was also suffering from nervous shock, Dr. Roger said.

In Hospital For Some Time

The hospital physician said both the premier and his wife would have to remain in hospital for some time.

Premier Johnson has expressed the desire to go home as soon as possible, Dr. Roger said, and some arrangements will be made as soon as a clearer picture of their condition is available.

News of the mishap to Premier Johnson and his wife spread through Quebec's government and judicial circles quickly and numerous calls poured in radio stations and newspaper offices.

Provincial police said the collision apparently occurred when an auto pulled out from a long line fo cars travelling eastward to Quebec City.

The eastward-bound car apparently was unable to get back into line and collided violently with the auto driven by Premier Johnson who was travelling to Montreal.

Driver of the eastbound auto, and its sole occupant, was Mrs. Armand Letourneau of Quebec who was not injured. Police said she was suffering from nervous shock but refused to be taken to hospital.

Possible Truman May Name Gen. Eisenhower to Command Projected Army for Europe

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP) — Speculation increased today that President Truman may appoint Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to command the projected international army to defend western Europe.

This talk is based on what Truman said about Eisenhower at his press conference yesterday and in part on the fact that Washington officials believe a man of outstanding reputation and proved ability should get the supreme command post.

The mere naming of such a man, high officials say, would help to create in non-communist Europe a new sense of confidence and progress toward real security.

Truman was asked at the press conference whether he was considering Eisenhower for some new job, probably in Europe. He replied that Eisenhower is always available at the president's call but that he has not considered him because there is no appointment to make yet.

The foreign ministers of the 12 North Atlantic treaty countries decided in New York earlier this week that allied forces for the defence of Europe should be merged into a single army under a general staff composed of officers of all the co-operating powers and headed eventually by a supreme commander.

Theoretically this commander might come from any one of the Atlantic powers; actually, the Europeans have already told the United States they want an American officer to have the job.

In addition the State and defence departments are aware that many European leaders have tremendous admiration for Eisenhower because of his achievements as allied supreme commander in Europe in the Second World War.

His task then, of course, was to lead an international force somewhat similar to that now proposed. His popular reputation as a hero in Europe is considered here to be beyond question and unmatched by that of any other American.

Canada's 11 Governments Pass Another Milestone on Path Leading to Nationhood

Quebec, Sept. 29 (CP)—Canada's 11 governments have passed another milestone on the complex constitutional path leading to unqualified nationhood for the Dominion.

At the conclusion yesterday of a four-day Federal-Provincial constitutional conference, the governments reported in a prepared statement that substantial progress had been made towards agreement on a method of giving Canada complete power over her constitution.

They agreed to meet again in Ottawa in December and, in the meantime, to continue their negotiations through correspondence.

The prepared statement was read by Prime Minister St. Laurent at an open meeting in the Legislative Assembly Chamber where the government leaders sat for three days in private studying how constitutional changes should be made once control over the constitution is transferred from the United Kingdom.

Now, Canada has to apply to the London Parliament whenever the constitution is changed on a matter under joint jurisdiction of the federal and provincial governments. None of the governments is opposed to the transfer of the power from the United Kingdom to Canada. But there is some disagreement on how future constitutional changes should be made once the transfer is completed.

The conference statement said there had been a "full and frank discussion" on the principles of a general amending procedure, and agreement had been reached on many of them.

"Important sections of the constitution involving what are considered fundamental and basic rights of the provinces were studied at length and considerable progress towards agreement has been made," said the statement. "Various formulae for amendment were submitted which, while having in view the safeguarding of these basic rights, would assure adequate flexibility in the constitution.

Attention was drawn to the spirit of harmony and co-operation that had prevailed. At the final meeting, the good feeling among all delegates was apparent.

In a happy mood, Prime Minister St. Laurent and the premiers thanked Premier Duplessis for his hospitality and his geniality during the conference. Mr. Duplessis thanked Mr. St. Laurent for the way he had handled the chairmanship of the conference.

Russian Zone in Germany Is Shaken by Wave of Unrest, Resistance Gets Foothold

Berlin, Sept. 29 (AP) —A wave of unrest appeared today to be shaking Germany's Russian zone.

Reports of growing resistance to the communists were confirmed by the reds themselves.

The outbreaks may have been encouraged by the United Nations successes in Korea, judging from the timing.

East zone informants said the propaganda activity against the red regime was particularly heightened in Leipzig, Dessau, Magdeburg, Potsdam and Halle.

A flood of pamphlets urging the Germans to boycott the ration-free stores, the communist political meetings and the red press have been found in these cities.

Anti-Soviet posters in the Russian language have been posted in public places recently.

Western observers speculated that the tough Ukranian resistance movement may have got a foothold in east Germany. Members of the resistance group from the Ukraine are known to have sought refuge in western Germany, near the Soviet zone border, about three years ago.

SIGNS OF CRACKING

London, Sept. 29—(Reuters)—A gas strike which has lasted two weeks showed signs of cracking today. Strikers at one north London plant went back to work today and others called meetings to discuss ending the stoppage.

The strikers, numbering nearly 1,500, demand a three-pence-an-hour raise. They stopped work in defiance of their trade union.

INDIAN FLOODS RECEDE

Karachi, Pakistan, Sept. 29 (Reuters)—Flood waters from the Great Sutej, Ravi and Chenab rivers which last week covered hundreds of miles of North Punjab began to recede today.

Several areas remained isolated however, and food was dropped to besieged villagers by air.

In the Sialkot district alone, latest estimates suggested more than 1,000 villages were partially or wholly destroyed by floods.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN CAR CRASH NEAR PEMBROKE

Taxicab Plows Into Light Panel Truck

Petawawa, Sept. 29 (CP)—The death toll as a result of last night's crash between a taxi and a light delivery truck climbed to four with the death today of a third special service force soldier in Pembroke hospital.

Army headquarters declined to disclose the names of the three soldiers who have died as a result of the crash, nor the name of a fourth soldier injured until next-of-kin had been notified. All of the soldiers involved are believed to be from Nova Scotia.

In Petawawa military hospital is a soldier-victim of the crash, believed to be in critical condition, suffering from a broken arm, internal injuries and shock.

Young Girl Injured

Others injured are a 15-year-old girl, Louella Lachance of Pembroke, in Pembroke hospital in critical condition and Don Barnes of Ottawa, 32, driver of the truck, whose condition in hospital is reported "fair".

The civilian who died in the crash was Theophile Lair of Pembroke, the cab driver.

The crash occurred about two and a half miles west of Pembroke, about 20 miles east of Petawawa and about 100 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Police said evidence at the scene indicated the taxi, apparently heading back to Petawawa military camp where some units of the special service force have been training, was on the wrong side of a straight stretch of highway when the crash occurred.

Mrs. O. H. Kidd, who lives 25 yards from the scene of the accident said wreckage was strewn for 100 yards along the road in both directions.

Woman Severely Burned Saving Children and Dog

Toronto, Sept. 29—(CP)—Mrs. Dorothy Berthelot last night carried her two children from a burning apartment, then went back for a 14-year-old dog.

The fire, which broke out in a fish-and-chip shop below the apartment, was caused by grease. Damage was estimated at $1,000. Mrs. Ada Bluthner, proprietor of the store, suffered severe facial burns.

THREE MEN CHARGED

St. Thomas, Sept. 29. (CP)—Three local men, William Titchener, Lloyd Simonds and Victor Reeves, charged with theft of a $75 ring from the car of a California tourist, today elected trial by judge. Bail was fixed at $2,000 cash or $3,000 property for each.

Titchener and Simonds also are charged with theft of a car.

13 Who Survived U.S. Bomber Crash In Wilds Hold Reunion With Families

Tucson, Ariz., Sept. 29. (AP)—Thirteen United States Air Force men who survived a B-50 Bomber crash in the wilds of Labrador have returned to a joyful reunion with their families here.

The men landed here last night, looking somewhat haggard from their experience.

The return scene contrasted sharply with first news last Thursday that an Air Force plane was missing on a flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, to its home base at Tucson.

All 16 members of the crew were listed as missing, and a dramatic search reaching from Labrador to Arizona was started.

The crashed plane was found about 95 miles southwest of Goose Bay at 2 p.m. Sunday. Everyone aboard escaped serious injury.

Capt. Alvin B. Tonne, 29, a bombardier, today described how the 12 crew members and four passengers obaard, all military passengers aboard, all military to safety.

They were ordered to bail out after three engines went out during the first hour of the flight. The men plummetted into a marshy area.

Cpl. Richard A. McKenzie, 21, a gunner, landed in a lake and had to inflate his life jacket.

Sgt. Leon Poole, 25, broke his ankle when he came down in a river. Lieut. Jack A. Thompson, 31, was credited by Lt.-Col. Martin K. Boger with saving Poole's life.

The men had to survive on cranberries found in the marshes, a bird they managed to kill and two small cans of food. They were making plans to float down the river on a barge when their smoke signals were seen by an R.C.A.F. search plane and a helicopter sent to the rescue.

Enemy Positions On Line Pounded With Artillery Fire

No Announced Decision On Troops Crossing Border

By DON HUTH

Tokyo, Sept. 29 (AP)— South Korean troops today chased communist forces to the parallel 38 border of North Korea today and pounded enemy positions on the line with artillery fire.

It was the closest reported allied approach to the communist north and the first round engagement known to have taken place along the reds' home country.

There was still no announced decision on whether allied forces would cross the border into North Korea.

Across the peninsula, other South Koreans were reported nearing the 38th parallel north of liberated Seoul. The border is 30 miles north of the South Korean capital. The red capital, Pyongyang, is 70 miles farther north.

AP correspondent Leif Erickson, flying over the east coastal area on an observation mission, reported the South Korean big guns shells plumped into ridges on the boundary line.

Seoul was handed back ceremoniously during the day by Gen. MacArthur to President Syngman Rhee in a solemn victory celebration among shattered ruins in the capital.

Would the South Korean forces stop at Parallel 38 or drive ahead and try to seize the reds' capital, Pyongyang, 70 miles farther north?

MacArthur conferred in Seoul with President Rhee and his own allied top commanders on that point and others.

Then the United Nations commander flew back to his headquarters in Tokyo without announcing any decision on what his forces might do at the border.

In non-communist diplomatic capitals elsewhere, the United Nations circles particularly, it is generally agreed that MacArthur has broad powers under U.N. edicts to pacify Korea and the surrounding area in any way he deems best.

That means that crossing Parallel 38 is within his discretion if deemed a military necessity.

The aim of non-communist countries in the United Nations is to unify the Soviet-indoctrinated north and the U.N.-sponsored republic of the south, and clinch the union in general elections under U.N. supervision.

MacArthur's cavalcade of staff cars, flown from Tokyo and filled with brass and braid at Seoul's Kimpo airfield, served as the victory parade in the Korean capital.

Civilians Line Streets

It drove over rubbled streets flanked by blackened ruins to the capital building, which also wore scars of the seven-day seige battle for the city.

Hundreds of civilians lined the streets. Few applauded. They seemed too stunned to realize the United Nations' first armed peace-enforcement campaign had liberated their city.

In the capital building, shattered glass tinkled down on the high allied officials from the blasted dome during the 35-minute noon ceremony in the assembly room. Earlier in the day, security officers found a cluster of dynamite sticks with a wire attached in the capitol. The crude bomb was removed before MacArthur arrived.

MacArthur told president Rhee: "I am happy to restore to you, Mr. President, the seat of your government—that from it you may better fulfil your constitutional responsibilities."

Rhee expressed gratitude to the U.N. commander, then called upon Korean reds trapped by allied divisions in the south to surrender or die. Only sporadic resistance was reported there.

Bernardo Africa of the Philippines, current head of the U.N. commission in Korea, mentioned the 38th Parallel in his speech."

"This artificial separation can no longer be countenanced," he said. "It has long been the purpose of the United Nations to bring about conditions in which the people of Korea, both of the north and the south, can join together in building a new state based on the principles of freedom and democracy.

"Let no barrier prevent the achievement of that goal."

North Korean MD Says He Treated Missing General

Chinju Front, Korea, Sept. 29 (AP)—American prisoners of war rescued today said they were told by a North Korean medical officer that he had seen and treated Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean, missing commander of the U.S. 24th division. The time of treatment was not reported.

Dean was last seen by his troops just after the July 20 fighting in the streets of Taejon. The city fell then to the reds.

The rescued Americans reported the communist army doctor said Dean was seen later in a red prisoner-of-war camp in the north.

West Lake off Wellington has been yielding some fine specimens of fish during the past two weeks.

Charles Steacy, Pittsburg, landed a 9 pound pickerel that measured 28 inches in length and John Gilbert, Allison, Penn., boated a four-pound nine-ounce black bass.

Harry Gilbert of Pittsburg fought a 25½ pound muskie for 40 minutes before he landed it.

Joseph Lauer, Rochester, N.Y., hauled in the prize pickerel catch of the season off Indian Point. Two beauties were landed and coincidentally both weighed 10 pounds two ounces and both measured 30 inches in length. Bait used was a flat fish.

BEAVERS FELL TREES NEAR COTTAGE AT MAZINAW LAKE

The busy beaver is not taking any chances on a housing shortage this winter.

The other day a lady cottager near Mazinaw Lake found a colony of beaver engaged in felling large poplar trees near the front steps. The nearest tree was within ten feet of the doorway but fortunately none of the timber fell across the cottage.

A Department of Lands and Forests officer investigated but no beaver lodges could be found. It is believed the beaver were trying to establish winter quarters in the bank of a nearby stream.

Walter Whytock, Former County Warden Dies

Madoc — Prominent in the municipal life of his native village and Ex-warden of the County of Hastings, Walter Whytock, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Thursday afternoon. He has been in failing health for some time but has been seriously ill for the past ten days.

In the death of Walter Whytock, Madoc has lost a fine citizen, a man of high integrity and one who always had the progress of his community at heart. He had a wide circle of friends in his native village and also throughout the county and his death will bring sincere regrets. In early life he attended the public and high school in Madoc and then branched out into business. He followed the lumber industry for years and for some time operated a lumber mill. He farmed in Madoc township and in all his business dealings he was held in high regard.

The late Mr. Whytock served eight years as Reeve of Madoc and his fellow reeves of the county elected him to the post of Warden in 1933, a position he filled with distinction. Not only did he take an interest in the municipal life but he was also interested in the youth of his home town and he served for many years on the Public School Board. In all phases of community life he took an active interest.

Mr. Whytock was born in Madoc, 67 years ago, being the son of the late James Whytock and Jane Miller and lived his entire life in that community. He was a member of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church and was active in the work of that congregation. Fraternally he was a member of A.F. & A.M. No. 48 Madoc.

Surviving are his wife, the former Margaret Rollins, one son, Norman of Madoc, one daughter, Mrs. Charles (Helen) Noble of Toronto; one brother, Charles Whytock of Madoc, and four sisters, Mrs. Harry (Christina) Connor of Marmora; Mrs. John (Martha) McCaffrey of Madoc; Mrs. Edward (Lillian) Srigley of Windsor; Mrs. Alex (Lottie) McGregor of Napanee. Another son, Robert Whytock, was drowned in Moira Lake in 1933.

Resting at his home in Madoc, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Artificially Bred Heifers Reported In Heavy Demand

The demand for artificially bred heifers in the Bay of Quinte area far exceeds the supply, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The report notes that prices for artificially bred heifers range from $25 to $50 higher than for heifers sired by unknown bulls.

Four killing frosts visited the Hastings County area last week but growth of pasture still remains good where fertility levels are satisfactory. Warmer weather is needed to fill clovers and mature them properly.

In Northumberland county springer cows continue in keen demand and all beef cattle are selling readily.

With a good crop of home grown grain farmers are keeping pigs.

Public Sees Only Pretty Side Of Reporting Says Miss Howarth Speaking to Canadian Club

Thursday afternoon the Women's Canadian Club held their first open meeting of the autumn season in the assembly room of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where a fine audience, representative of the deep interest and patriotic spirit of the club, were privileged to hear Miss Dorothy Howarth, staff reporter of the Toronto Telegram, speak on "Reporters are People."

Miss Howarth, who was graciously introduced by the president, Mrs. W. J. Doyle, has spent several years in the reporting profession, beginning her public career as a teacher near her home town of Weyburn, Sask. Later, she entered the Leader-Post's classified ad department at Regina, from which she went to the editorial staff, and some years after became social editor of the Saskatoon Star.

In 1949 she received two awards one from the Women's Press Club Memorial for the best coverage of news event of outstanding significance for the year, the other from the Men's Press Club for the best feature stories, of the same year, which was open to everyone.

"Reporting," said Miss Howarth "is a job the same as any other job, resembling most of all that of a salesman. You need as your equipment the hide of a rhinoceros and a wooden leg; the hide to stand the criticisms, both of the public and of the City Editor, and the wooden leg to place in the door of your assignment till you obtain what you went after." The most important part of any assignment is first, the picture, and next, the human interest portion. Exampling this, she told of her four attempts to obtain the picture of a lovely exhibition baby, which had been accidentally electrocuted by touching an electric fan, which though not in motion, was somehow 'alive.' The parents refused and refused, but the emphasis were, "get the picture."

Only Pretty Side Seen

"Only the pretty side of reporting is seen by the public," said the speaker. "For every nice assignment, there are about 100 nasty ones. One she especially remembered was the city dump, down about Eastern Avenue. The residents had been complaining about the disagreeable odors, and she and the photographer were assigned to get a 'take' of it. During their stay, both became rather ill from the disinfectant sprayed upon it. The peculiar part being, it was the same deodorant which had been used at the Noronic morgue which they had had to cover, which, at the time, due to emotional tension, had not affected them, but one year later, the reaction came.

Miss Howarth gave a graphic picture of the morgue at the Exhibition horticulture building where the remains of those, partially cremated, had been placed and of the heaps of ashes of the deceased. She said that her reactions as the trucks backed in with their ghastly burdens, was quite normal, but after each slab had been shrouded in white, and the rows of palms and ferns placed, waiting for the relatives to identify the remains, it was a different story. Nothing could induce her to walk behind the rows of palms and ferns.

Scoops Accident

Practically all 'scoops' are accidents, though some might be achieved by dogged calculations. An assignment must be finished before going home, no matter what the hour, or how weary the reporter. This was born out by two of the Telegram's reporters, who had had an exceedingly wearying day of it and were remarking that no matter what came up they would not 'cover', they were finished for that day. Scarcely had the words left their mouth when, turning around, they saw the reflection of the Noronic fire in the clouds. Tiredness was forgotten, the news was the thing, and so they 'scooped' it. Which goes to show that reporters are people.

Miss Howarth also mentioned her assignment of the noted jewel case in which a beautiful girl was implicated. Of her many attempts to obtain a picture, and of how finally, torn between a sense of loyalty to her paper, and pity for the girl's family, she let pity triumph.

"The greatest bane of reporters," said Mrs. Howarth, "is the medical profession, and also the Ontario Medical Association; but the greater bane is the O. M. A. It is impossible to obtain news from these sources."

Men Preferred

Summing up, the speaker listed several reasons why Douglas MacFarlane says he prefers men reporters to women: Women cry; take criticism too severe; feelings are hurt too easily; then they get married; you spend months training a reporter, then she marries, and a year after she leaves for obvious reasons more tempermental; harder to handle; not accurate, they lose sight of facts in lieu of emotional appeal, and too squeamish for some assignments. But, added Miss Howarth a good woman reporter is better than a man, especially in the 'gossip' part.

Personally, Miss Howarth believes that a woman reporter sees more human misery, adding that the 'grief page' of any newspaper is the social page. More complaints come in to the social editor than to any other. In the Telegram there is an average of 33 wedding pictures received per day and of course these cannot all appear in the paper—hence the grief.

Aside from the grief part, there are the misplaced captions, which are funny, if one views them in that light. In evidence of this she told of how there was a picture misplaced of two black alley cats which appeared over a write-up of the reunion of two sisters who had not met for 22 years. The caption read: "Sisters United After 22 Years".

Miss Howarth was extended a vote of appreciative thanks by the president, after which aftrnoon tea was served.

Representatives State Workers' Side of Dispute

Failure of the management of the Belleville Lock Company Ltd. to give proper consideration to the workers' request for wage increases provided the basic cause for the current labor dispute at the local factory.

This was stated today by officials of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, Local 533, in making known the workers' side of the dispute.

Negotiations with respect to the asked wage increases at the plant came to a head on Tuesday when a number of plant employees requested a meeting with the management. When this was refused the workers' cards were punched out by the management and the employees were later sent home.

The Union members stated today that negotiations with respect to wage increase commenced at the plant last December and have dragged on for ten months due to the company's refusal to consider anything in the form of a wage increase.

This in spite of the fact that other workers in competing companies in the same industry, have received substantial pay increases. In the face of rising costs of living refusal of the company to consider pay increases had created a serious hardship for the Belleville Lock workers.

Other reasons given by the workers for the walk-out were the refusal of the Company to meet with them at the workers' request; the attempt of the management, in the person of Mr. Willerton to bypass the union by agreeing to meet with three workers not members of the bargaining committee.

They also objected to the return to work order with "no grace period" and the firing of 35 workers, union members, including union officers and three members of the elected bargaining committee.

Union officials said workers were prepared to co-operate in the settlement of the dispute but asked first that notices of discharge sent to 35 officers and members be withdrawn and that negotiations commence immediately on a "get down to business" basis on return to work.

If union officials fail to hear from the Belleville Lock management by four o'clock this afternoon, they will consider the company wishes to continue the dispute.

In this event the Union officials stated workers would be forced to take steps to protect the interests of the members. This undoubtedly would mean placing of pickets around the plant.

Wilson With Miss Canada IV Due in Picton Today For Trial Runs on Bay Saturday

Picton, Sept. 29 (CP)—Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, owner-driver of Miss Canada IV, was due here today for trial runs in preparation for another stab tomorrow at the world's speedboat record.

At mid-morning he was still enroute to Picton from his home. Meanwhile, Miss Canada's handlers were cautious about her chances of smashing the 160.3-miles-an-hour record set early this year by Stanley Sayres of Seattle, Wash., in his Slo-Mo-Shun.

Said Walter Harvey, one of Miss Canada's mechanics:

"If conditions are good, she should do something."

The trim $100,000 Canadian boat, built at Gravenhurst, Ont., was reported unofficially last month to have come close to Slo-Mo-Shun's record in test runs on Muskoka Lake.

Tomorrow the chips will be down. The test will be made at dawn, with officials of the American Power Boat Association on hand for Miss Canada's run along the measured mile.

There was a slight breeze today on the Bay of Quinte, where the test will be made. The sun was bright, despite forecasts of rain. Weather men predicted light winds for tomorrow.

Harvey said Miss Canada works best in "a four to six-inch chop, close together." He described the boat's recent performances at Gravenhurst as "pretty good" and said Wilson is optimistic about overtaking Slo-Mo-Shun's record.

Banquet Planned

The Picton Chamber of Commerce planned a banquet today for Wilson and his party at the Rickarton Castle Hotel, following the trial run. Everybody goes for a fishing trip later in the day.

Among the officials assigned to Miss Canada's bid tomorrow are Referee Reg Sparks of Toronto; Bob Finlayson, inboard representative of the American Power Boat Association, and Bob Schelling, chief timer.

In all, there will be six timers, plus Sparks and Finlayson, operating from two small boats at both ends of the course. Don Thomas, chairman of the race committee, said no other craft will be allowed on the long stretch of water.

Wilson will have about two miles at the closed end of the course, about five miles at the open end.

No official word has been received of the whereabouts of Tom Greavette of Gravenhurst whose company built Miss Canada IV. No one seemed to know last night whether or not Greavette would be here for the tests.

The Rolls-Royce Company, whose engines are installed in the craft, is sending Jim Hall to watch the proceedings.

May Be Candidate

Picton—Lloyd Jett of Seattle, Wash., here to watch Harold Wilson try to break the world speedboat record, said today he may be a candidate for next year's Gold Cup races.

The races, held annually on the Detroit River, are considered the "World's Series" of American speedboat racing.

Jett said he may also have a crack at the world's record, He said he is building a boat of radical design that will "take everything in sight."

"I'm waiting until all these guys get their world records straightened out. Then I'll go out and break the last one."

The record—160.3 miles an hour—was set early this year by another Seattle man, Stanley Sayres, in his Slo-Mo-Shun.

DRIVER INJURED IN SKID

Hamilton, Sept. 29 (CP) —A careening automobile skidded and zig-zagged for several hundred feet here last night and smashed into a hydro pole which it demolished. Driver Sam Fuller, 19, of Hamilton was taken unconscious to hospital.

Police said the car was stolen from a soldier who rented it from a car-rental firm in Guelph. They said Fuller would be charged with theft and with careless and dangerous driving.

IN MEMORIAM

CASSON — In loving memory of my dear father, Thomas Casson, who died September 29, 1947.

It's lonesome here without you, Dad,
And sad the weary way.
For life is not the same to me
Since you were called away.
If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it, yes, and more
To hear your voice and see your smile
And greet you at the door.
So you who have a father
Cherish him with care
You'll never know a heartache
'Till you see his vacant chair.

Ever remembered by daughter Donna and Stan. S29

CASSON — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Edmund Thomas Casson, who passed away September 29th, 1947.

Somewhere back in the sunset
Where loveliness never dies
He lives in a land of glory
Midst the gold and blue of the skies,
And we who loved him dearly
Whose passing has brought many tears
Will cherish his memory always
To brighten the drifting years.

Lovingly remembered by his wife and family. S29

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 29 (CP)—Prices settled into a narrow rut as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity slowed considerably as yesterday's mild pressure continued but individual issues were in strong demand.

In base metals, Golden Manitou Mines held the spotlight, booming up to a new high at $4 at one time before settling slightly.

Development reports from the company's property in the Val D'Or district, northwestern Quebec, has sparked heavy buying in the stock in recent sessions. Quebec Manitou, with a large interest in Golden Manitou, was also in strong demand.

Industrials tended mildly higher as the majority of issues trading chalked up small fractional advances. Key issues that paced last week's advances were under slight downward pressure. Federal grain was the highlight of the board, climbing briskly to a new high at 14.

Gold stocks sagged for a second session. Junior producers showed declines ranging up to 13 cents and seniors were off fractions following a sudden upsurge Wednesday.

Western oils started strong but settled into a mixed tone as trading slackened.

$488,385 REALIZED AT CATTLE SALE

Toronto, Sept. 29. (CP)—Ontario Department of Agriculture cattle sale at Little Current on Manitoulin Island resulted in a return of $488,385 to farmers, Agriculture Minister Kennedy said today. Similar sales at Thessalon on Tuesday resulted in 30 loads of feeder calves being sold for $31.75 a hundred. Price obtained in Manitoulin was $33.

Organized sale of cattle was started by the department in 1944.

The court said it wanted to examine the evidence closely before ruling whether the pictures are art or obscenity.

HOGS

Requirements

They must satisfy officials that:

1. They are suitable immigrants having regard to the climatic, social, educational, industrial, labor, or other conditions or requirements of Canada.

2. They are not undesirable owing to their peculiar customs, habits, modes of life, methods of holding property, or because of their probable inability to become readily adapted and integrated into the life of a Canadian community and to assume the duties of Canadian citizenship within a reasonable time after their entry.

Mr. Harris said "German immigrants who came to Canada in earlier years had become an important, industrious, and loyal element of the Canadian population."

Mr. Harris pointed out that in March regulations affecting German Nationals were modified by an order in council. This order permitted entry of otherwise admissible enemy aliens who could satisfy the minister that they were opposed to an enemy government; of immigrants of German nationality who were close relatives of legal residents of Canada; and of immigrants of German ethnic origin who were displaced persons or refugees and who were not German Nationals on Sept. 1, 1939.

Service Station And Car Storage Are Dismantled

Under the wreckers' hammers for the past two weeks the former Lafferty Service Station and car storage on Pinnacle Street, has now completely disappeared and a huge mechanical shovel has moved in to commence excavation, for the new Loblaw Store to be built on the site. Subcontractors for the basement excavation, the Holdcroft Construction Co., Kingston, yesterday moved in with their shovel and today the big machine is ripping up old concrete flooring with the apparent ease of a lad picking up sticks. The earth depth on the site of the new building is but two and a half to three feet and the balance of the 11-foot excavation will go down through rock.

The LaPalm property will also be wrecked to make way for the new store property. The present owners, however, have until January to vacate, it was stated.

NURSES' MEMORIAL IN ABBEY

Early in November there will take place in Westminster Abbey an event of wide significance to the great sisterhood of the members of the nursing profession. Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth will open the Nurses' War Memorial Chapel in Westminster Abbey and unveil a memorial window.

On that memorable occasion in the centre of the Commonwealth and in the shrine of faith, representative nurses and midwives from every part of the Commonwealth and Empire will be present.

The Chapel is the only one of its kind in the world, the nurses' own memorial to their colleagues who gave their lives in World War II. Not only the chapel will be the memorial, but the nurses' memorial will consist also of a fund to provide post-graduate travelling scholarships for nurses and midwives of the Commonwealth.

One of the striking facts about this memorial is that for the two purposes of the memorial $240,000 has been raised, mostly by the generosity of the nurses themselves.

All realize the debt which the world owes to the women in the nursing profession to whom is owing what nations can never repay. The service to the dying and wounded, victims of aggression, can never be repaid. The nurses themselves do not expect to be repaid for all they sacrificed for the defenders of the Commonwealth and for freedom's cause.

It is well that in the shrine of the Commonwealth there should be this memorial, the chapel to the memory of those who in this profession served with all their powers those who were victims of war's destruction. Their names will never die, they are enshrined in the hearts of the people. It is well that this memorial will provide scholarships for nurses and midwives for it is to be a living memorial whose benefits will be known in the future.

THE "PENNY"

"Pennies" are sometimes looked upon as a nuisance as a pocket weighted with them as change might incline one to think. But they are very active, very busy little things.

Even the "pennies," though material as they are, play no small part in national economy and in trade.

At the present time it is known that there will have to be minted new pennies because of the recent budget which has been called the "add-a-cent-or-two-budget. Soon the impact of the new budget will be felt more fully. It cannot be otherwise. During the last war owing to the various add-a-cent taxes the Royal Canadian mint had to issue millions of the "pennies" or one-cent pieces.

More of these copper coins will be needed than ever in trade.

Canada has a good many of these coins out now, approximately 929,732,100 being in circulation and this number it is said will not be nearly enough to suit the need. One billion pennies will be needed to make it possible for everyone to be able to make, to give and to receive proper change. So vast is the amount of business done.

Here are C.P. figures of coins in circulation: 2,512,108 silver dollars; 23,309,836 50-cent pieces; 129,746,812 25-cent pieces; 206,044,440 dimes and 302,114,020 nickels.

The Master of the Royal Canadian Mint, W. C. Ronson, revealed that besides these coins in circulation, there are still 1,050,000 20-cent pieces. Most of these were minted as long ago as before Confederation.

It is said that most of these are changed as 25-cent pieces though their legal value is only 20 cents.

It is difficult to grasp the millions of such coins as are circulating about the Dominion and serving as only they can serve in the country's trading.

There was a time when a fairly large number of pennies or coppers were used to buy a cent apiece "candy" as it was called. That was not as large as a "bar" of today. Grocers got their tills quite full of these coppers as children in those days had "sweet tooths" as well as boys and girls have today. The day of the one-cent candy is in the dim past and the oldtimers who served the juvenile buyers have all passed from the scene of business while most of their oldtime customers of the one-cent "candies" are in the serene and yellow leaf of age.

But the business of today has more users than ever for the one-cent pieces, though some have expressed the view that the time will come when one-cent pieces will not be needed. But not in the very near future will they depart. The addition of the tax will keep them in circulation by millions.

When a great merchant of Liverpool was asked by what means he had contrived to realize the large fortune he possessed, his reply was, "By one article alone, in which thou mayest deal, too, if thou pleasest—it is civility.—Bentley.

Civility is a charm that attracts the love of all men; and too much is better than to show too little—Horne.

Blessed is the influence of one true, loving human soul on another.—George Eliot.

TEN

Spill the milk and no word we'll say
Ellen Elizabeth's ten today.

Break a dish and no will scold.
Ellen Elizzabeth's ten years old.

This is a day without sigh or tears.

Ellen Elizzabeth's gained a year.

Never we'll say she is nine again.
Ellen Elizzabeth now is ten!

Make this a glorious day must we!
Only a year and eleven she'll be.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 29, 1930

Mrs. Miles O'Neill, of Trenton was killed when the axle of the car in which she was riding one mile south of Halloway on the Madoc road collapsed. Three others in the car escaped with minor injuries.

The Brighton Fair, held on Sept. 27, has been judged to be one of the best that community has ever had. The horse races in particular were of very fine calibre.

Word is received today that the home of Frank Tracey at Chisholms Mills, one mile from Roslin, was destroyed by fire Friday night. Neighbors who formed a bucket brigade were unable to control the blaze, and the house burned down to the foundation.

30 YEARS AGO

Sept. 29, 1920

Yesterday saw a terrible fatality at Frankford when Ray Gossen was electrocuted at the bridge. The 13-year-old lad had climbed up on the arch girder and then started down backwards on his hands and knees. It is thought that in this position he put his foot across an electric wire strung on arms at the top of the bridge. He was held there by the electric current and was killed.

The harbor has been cleaned of dead fish with the assistance of the government boat. In the river above the Upper Bridge operations are being carried out to clean the river edges. Conditions are better today owing to recent rain and the wind which has been prevailing.

40 YEARS AGO

Sept. 29, 1910

Madoc Fair for the year 1910 is now past and gone, but it will long be remembered for the great success it was in very many respects. A beautiful ideal autumn day for a fall exhibition was granted by Providence, and the people of Madoc district turned out en masse to show their confidence in the work of the directors of the society. And they were not disappointed, for everything was in first class order. Between 1800 and 2000 persons visited the grounds, and the attractions were numerous. The Madoc band was in attendance and supplied appropriate music. The horticultural exhibit was one of the finest ever in Madoc, and all others were first class.

Mr. Robebrt A Barber, a well-known Trenton merchant, died last night in that town after some weeks' illness. He was well known both in Belleville, having lived here for several years, and in Trenton and district as well.

50 YEARS AGO

Sept. 29 1900

The Hon. William Patterson Brantford, who is Minister of Customs is planning a visit to Belleville within a few days.

Messrs. J. C. Caskey, D. H. Houston and J. B. Porter will leave shortly to attend Queen's University, Kingston.

Mr. J. A. Joslin is planning a business trip to Cornwall on Oct. 1.

Mr. Bert Record will leave within two days for Toronto to take a position in Y. M. C. A. work in that city.

Mr. E. Guss Porter, barrister, will attend court in Cobourg.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THAT SOMETHING

There is a silent reserve in many people which enables them to do superhuman tasks at times, and which often sets them apart as exceptionally successful and inspiring. It cannot adequately be defined, but those who have this force make it evident at once.

Outstanding salesmen have this force, and demonstrate it by what they achieve. Speakers, singers, and many public performers also have it. Listening to an interview over the radio recently, with Miss Eva Turner, the world famous English singer, who is now giving lessons at the University of Oklahoma, this artist was asked how she worked so many long hours, and accomplished so much. Her reply was: "I work with my heart!"

Perhaps that reply explains it all. People who work with their heart achieve greatly, and happily. They inspire others because they themselves are inspired. They have that something that cannot be defined or explained, except that they have a heart that rules and guides them.

Often we call this force a God-given personality, but it is more than this. It has a spiritual cast, with a sense of joy to it. People are happy who work with their heart, who put their heart into their work and make their friends feel it. We often hear the phrase that such a one has a "big heart." Of course that covers a great deal. Big things, great achievements, come out of such a heart.

Usually people with this secret, or hidden power, are of few words, but their performance is extensive. You can well say that such folks have an educated heart, for it often dictates to the mind. And we have a generous, kindly, and loveable person. It's like electricity that we can't handle but we get its beaming light!

Work with your heart and you will accomplish miracles! People are doing it every day, and history is full of the stories of those who looked to their heart and did its bidding. The opportunity is open to us all. We can make of our heart a sanctuary from which a supreme joy is forever fomenting—to be distributed at will!

Medical Assoc. Announces New Health Plan

Toronto, Sept. 29 (CP) —The Ontario Medical Association and the Ontario Hospital Association Thursday announced a health-protection plan providing surgical, obstetrical and medical care in addition to Blue Cross hospital benefits.

The new pre-payment plan will be offered to industrial organizations in November for protection effective at Jan. 1, 1951.

Subscription rates are designed to give family coverage for $60 a year, the associations said in a joint statement.

The Medical Association operates Physicians' Services Incorporated. Blue Cross is run by the Hospital Association.

Officials said this is the first time in Canada that two non-profit health plans have formed a "firm health protection 'package' providing comprehensive coverage against the cost of unexpected illness."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

KNOW-IT-ALL LOUIE

Did anyone ever tell you the story of Know-It-All Louie, the East Side tough guy who thought he knew everything about everything? Well, it's been told, retold and mistold in the coffeehouses of Allen Steet for as long as I can remember, and today, in the interests of folklore and folderol, I'd like to pass it along. . .

As old-timers tell it, Louie had achieved quite a reputation as a know-it-all by the time he was kicked out of P.S. 20 after spending three years in the seventh grade. And before he had worn out his first pair of bellbottoms, this reputation had carried over into the poolrooms of the section where he seldom played but never missed a chance to criticize those who did. On the rare occasions when he did play, he always had a handy excuse for his ineptness—the cushions were too fast, the balls weren't true, etc., and so on.

Louie's omniscience was, if anything, even greater when it came to matters mechanical. Any time he saw a fellow tinkering with his car, it was only a matter of seconds before the know-it-all's head was right under the hood with the owner's, and if the guy took his advice he usually wound up with a face full of soot and a triple repair bill.

Understandably, the loud-mouth got to be known around the East Side as Know-It-All Louie, and just as understandably his brassiness finally attracted the attention of a local hoodlum known as Nick the Carp who, at the time, was planning to burgle a wholesale furrier and needed a nervy kid to drive the get-away car.

When he outlined the job to Louie he said, "Remember, no guns. Da watchman izza ol' guy and I can handle him easy. I ain't lookin' for no more trouble than I hafta."

Louie, of course, had his own ideas on proper stick-up procedure and lost no time in passing on his expert opinion to one of Nick's henchmen. "Betta pack a rod jus' in case," he advised. "Suppose a ol' guy spots ya an' starts blastin'?"

The night of the job Louie parked the car down the block a bit and began thinking about how he'd spend his share of the loot, but within a matter of minutes there were shots and Nick and the boys came running back.

"Ya dummox," said Nick to the henchman who had taken Louie's advice. "Ya put three slugs in da ol' man an' now we're in plennya trouble. Drive slow, Louie, in case any cops is aroun'."

"Dere ain't no cops aroun' here dis time a night," said the know-it-all, passing through a red light.

Suddenly a prowl car scooted around a corner and forced them to the curb, and the cops had the bracelets on the thieves before Louie even had a chance to criticize their driving.

Nick the Carp turned State's evidence and settled for 20-to-life, and Louie might have done the same but he insisted he could win an acquittal. "I know da law," he said. "I wuzzen atta scene a da crime, I wuzza block away. And when I get inna witness chair, I'll tell 'em a t'ing or two."

Well, as it turned out, the know-it-all told 'em so many things that the judged sentenced him to the electric chair.

"I shoulda been my own mout'-piece," said Louie. "Dat stupe offa lawyer couldn' hardly talk no English."

It would be nice to chronicle that Know-It-All Louie reformed during the last mournful mile, but I wouldn't be sticking to the coffeehouse facts. Actually he lectured the warden on how to run a prison, complained because the cook hadn't rubbed his last steak with garlic, and when his head and calves were being shaved he even advised the barber on how to angle the razor.

Finally Louie was led into the little room with the big chair and strapped in, but he wasn't through yet. When the executioner threw the switch all that happened was a cracking flash from the fuse box.

"Da fuse ain't big enough to carry da load," advised Louie from under his helmet. "Ya need a bigga one."

A few minutes later he was very dead. Know-It-All Louie had finally come up with a suggestion that worked.

HE LIKES IT!

Pte. Robert Esterbrooks of Kingston, Ont., finds that among the new weapons and equipment for Canada's Special Force there is nothing suitable for cleaning coffee pots as yet. Pte. Esterbrooks has earned the title of the "cheerful dishwasher" among his comrades at Petawawa. — Central Press Canadian.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

As this is the time of year when various organizations begin again to function, it is expedient to make known a few salient facts concerning the Women's Canadian Club. The Canadian Club does not seek publicity as such, but in order to do the work it should do nationally, more members are needed and more information should be brought to the attention of the public concerning the Canadian Club movement.

Aims of Club

The purpose of the Canadian Club is to foster patriotism and encourage the study of the institutions, history, arts, literature and resources of Canada and to unite Canadians for the welfare and progress of the Dominion. There are about 100 such clubs situated in all the larger cities, in most of the bigger towns and in many smaller centres across Canada. The meetings, nine or 10 in number, are part of a deliberate plan to get together a large audience which represents a good cross section of the community. Such an audience provides an ideal forum of Canadian citizens representing all political factions, religions, faiths and a wide range of social and economic viewpoints.

Great Scope Available

In this vast country of ten provinces, two languages, mixed economics, and broad vanities of livelihood, there is great scope for an association such as this, dedicated to the promotion of unity and nationhood. Because of these special circumstances existing in Canada, there is particular need for such an organization. It is, in fact, a unique movement, there is nothing like it in any other nation.

The Women's Canadian Club of Belleville has functioned continuously since 1914 bringing to this city many notable speakers from many different countries. For the coming season there will be offered once again a program both varied and stimulating.

Noted Speakers

Definite arrangements have already been made for the following speakers: Miss Dorothy Howarth, a well-known newspaper woman, winner of the Toronto Press Club award for the best feature stories for 1949, has chosen for her subject 'Reporters are People.' This is to be followed by David Yeddeau, Director of the Winnipeg Ballet, who will give a talk on "Ballet in Canada"; Professor Emmett O'Grady of Ottawa University, so well and favorably known to a number of Belleville people, will be the luncheon speaker on Armistice Day. His topic will be "Levity and Learning in Literature."

Following this, Madame Pelantova of Czechoslovakia, will give first hand information concerning the communist regime in Czechoslovakia at the present time. Later Dr. J. W. Watson of McMaster University will address the club on "Canada—Pivot of World Strategy," and from Lady Fletcher of London, England the club will learn of the present day problems of Africa.

For the latter part of the season plans are in the making to bring to this city other distinguished authorities on issues of national and international importance.

The Women's Canadian Club welcomes new members. All who wish to hear worthwhile speakers and at the same time participate in a nation-wide organization, should procure a membership at the beginning of the season. May this year see a bigger and better Women's Canadian Club in Belleville.

THE X-RAY MAN LIVES IN THE SHADOWS

One of the most useless possessions a lay person can have is an X-ray "picture" of any part of his body. To him it means precisely nothing. To a physician trained in the interpretation of X-ray "pictures" it may convey information of incalculable value.

In order to "interpret" and X-ray "picture," a physician not only has to be intimately acquanited with the form and function of the parts involved, but also has to be trained in judging the outlines and density of the shadows these parts create upon X-ray film when X-rays are first passed through the tissues when the X-ray "picture" is "taken."

Obviously, this is a large order. Anyone who would attempt to interpret an X-ray "picture" without this dual knowledge would do much better trying to interpret Chinese puzzles.

An X-ray "picture" is not a picture as such. Rather, it is a graphic record of the shadows created upon a film by the varying resistance of tissues to the passage of the X-rays.

The record thus obtained is the property of the X-ray man. The patient does not pay for the "picture." Rather, he pays for the opinion of the expert who interprets the film.

In order to create better or essential contrast, it is possible to introduce into the open spaces of certain organs a contrast "medium." This consists of a harmless chemical liquid which may be injected directly into the open spaces of the organs or into the blood stream from which it is secondarily deposited in the desired areas. A compound of barium is usually employed in examination of the stomach and bowel. This compound is "liquefied" by the addition of water or milk and produces marked opacity to the passage of X-rays with corresponding sharp contrast on the X-ray film.

The gall bladder, the funnel-like portions of the kidneys into which urine is expelled, the ureters which convey urine from the kidneys to the bladder, the urinary bladder, the interior of the uterus and uterine tubes, the spinal canal and the bronchial tubes are some of the organs which may be examined by these means. Information thus obtained cannot be obtained by any other known means.

Air may be used to effect contrast in certain X-ray examinations. Thus the abdomen may be "blown up" with air introduced through a needle to better visualize the abdominal contents.

A flouroscope is a part of an X-ray diagnostic machine, consisting of a glass screen which is coated with a substance which "fluoresces" or "lights up" when exposed to X-rays. The images created upon a fluoroscopic screen are identical with those created upon an X-ray film. The fluoroscope is used to observe the functional movement of such organs as the lungs, heart, stomach, bowel, and often for the observation of foreign bodies.

The image on the fluoroscopic screen appears only when X-rays are passed through it, and disappears when the X-ray is shut off. Fluoroscopy is always carried out in a darkened room.

The physician who specializes in X-ray diagnosis is known as a Roentgenologist, derived from the name of the doctor who first discovered X-rays.

The Roentgenologist is a highly accomplished man. He has great knowledge of things but little known to the surgeon or the internist or other physician. His services are absolutely indispensable and his knowledge is priceless.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Wrong Way

Where can one obtain legal information to prove that no hospital can forbid or prohibit the husband from remaining with his wife during delivery? (Rev. ———.)

Answer — Who cares? I should think any hospital may bar any one from any part of the institution at any time, but on the other hand no one is obliged to become an inmate of or patronize a hospital. You and I and our children were born at home.

Forced Right-Handedness and Stuttering

I have an extensive practice in speech correction and I wish there were more articles published about the relation between handedness and speech. (P. L. A.)

Answer—Compelling a left-handed child to use the right hand seems to precipate stuttering in many instances. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on Stuttering.

Adult Tetany

Two or three times a week I suffer with very painful cramps in the legs at night. (D. W. E.)

Answer—Perhaps the commonest cause of such cramps is adult tetany—due to a calcium and D deficiency through the years. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on Adult Tetany and Growing Pains.

THE LAW OF THE THUMB

In our state there is a law which forbids people to stand on a public highway thumbing a ride. But they get around this law easily enough. In villages and streets they stand on the curb, and out in the open country they stand to the side of the road. They break no laws, and they get as many rides as the people over in Pennsylvania or up in New York.

There are more ways of killing a cat than drowning it in molasses. There was never a law passed which could not be circumvented. Moses had scarcely set forth the Decalogue as God's divine command before the members of the Hebrew nation began falling over themselves in an excited endeavor to break these laws. And the people, of course, who broke them most flagrantly were not those who came out openly and defied them but those who broke them by circumvention. High priced lawyers today can show anybody how to get around almost any law.

Yet as a matter of fact, we never break laws. We disregard them or violate them, and in the end they break us. The laws of the universe—physical, spiritual, economic—are more unchangeable than the stars. They cannot be broken.

There are more ways to kill a cat—oh yes, but we said that before.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This is the time of year to visit your farmer relatives. They are almost certain to be home, due to the multiplicity of things that have to be done around the farm at this particular moment. And since you will catch them with their barns and bins loaded with every sort of fruit and vegetable, it is hardly likely you will come away empty-handed.

Needless to say, it being harvest festival time, you will doubtless be served a massive meal.

A generation ago, before the motor car and good road placed the farmers at the mercy of their city relatives and friends, a visit to the country cousins had to be pre-arranged. You just could not "drop in" on them. You wrote and asked if you could come, because they had to drive the horses in to the railway station to get you.

But now the farmer never knows when a jovial company of his city kin will descend on him.

"In the past five to ten years," writes a farmer's wife, "there has hardly been a Sunday from May to November that there has not ben three to six motor cars parked around our farmhouse from noon to night. Instead of Sunday being a well-earned day of rest for me and my family, it has been the most hectic day of the week. I have to spend every Saturday baking and preparing for the avalanche.

"But this year, I have had enough of my city relatives and friends. Sunday morning, I pack a big picnic lunch, and we all go to church. After church, we simply drive by a side road to the end of our own farm, where there is a creek. And with rugs and blankets, we just picnic and snooze a pleasant afternoon away by ourselves. We can faintly hear quite a lot of motor traffic up at the house. But our happy holidaying relatives and friends find the place all deserted.

"We just had to do it"

Ever since we commenced operating in 1945, our modest business has steadily expanded. Throughout these past five years we have had confirmation of our conviction that for a long term business program there is no substitute for hard work and the simple principle of giving the finest in value and service for every cent charged. We believe that our expansion is due to the fact that we have always striven in every way to provide the very best value and service humanly possible. We are humbly grateful to our many friends and customers who have made possible our latest move. Our future success will be measured by the degree in which we succeed in pleasing you. WEDDINGS

MELKS—BAUDER

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized in Holloway Street United Church on Saturday, September 23rd., at four o'clock, when Rev. S. Larman united in marriage, Anne Barbara, eldest daughter of Mr. R. T. Meeks, of Cloyne, Ont., and the late Mrs. Meeks, to Volder Burton, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bauder, of Collin's Bay.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor length gown of brocaded sheer, with matching headdress and shoulder length veil. Her only ornament was a silver pennant. She carried a cascade of red roses.

Maureen Horne was bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of Nile green taffeta with matching headdress and gloves. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. L. Bauder, brother of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of Mrs. Harry Meeks, Cloyne.

Later in the evening, a reception was held in the town hall, Cloyne, where many friends and relatives gathered for a social evening and to wish the young couple much happiness on their new road of life.

After the reception the happy couple left on a motor trip to New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Bauder will reside in Belleville.

WEBER—ROSE

Baskets of mixed Autumn flowers formed a lovely setting in St. John's Anglican Church, Portsmouth, on Wednesday, September 27th., at 3:00 p.m., when Audrey Jean Rose, of Kingston, formerly of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rose, of Kingston, became the bride of Howard James "Pete" Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Weber, of Kingston. The Reverend Minto Swan officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Miss Autumn Potter, soloist, sang, "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in white brocaded nylon over taffeta, featuring nylon yoke with bertha collar, molded bodice, long tight-fitting sleeves coming to lily-points over the hands, and full skirt. Her embroidered fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching, white Juliet cap. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Francis Hendry, of Kingston, and sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in pale yellow embroidered organdy with matching mitts and calot, and carried a circular bouquet of yellow and bronze 'mums.

Miss Lorraine Gladwell, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, wearing gown of pale blue embroidered organdy with matching mitts and calot. She carried a circular bouquet of white and yellow baby 'mums,tied with variegated ribbons.

Mr. Douglas Rose, of Kingston, was groomsman, and Mr. Francis Hendry and Mr. Harry Pickering, both of Kingston, were ushers.

The reception was held at Mox Toro Lodge, where the bride's mother, wearing a street-length gown of plum colored faille, navy accessories and corsage of cream roses, welcomed the fifty guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a street-length gown of grey crepe, black accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling by motor to New York, Washington, and Buffalo, the bride chose a brown gabardine ensemble with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow baby 'mums.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Picton, Brighton, and Kitchener.

St. Andrew's W. G.

The first meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild was held on Tuesday evening. In the absence of Mrs. H. Elvidge, president, Mrs. W. J. Talor, vice-president, presided. The meeting opened with the devotional period. Mrs. J. Brisbin read a passage of scripture.

The business portion of the meeting consisted of the reading of the various reports and also a report from Mrs. Taylor regarding the recent decorating of the Sunday school and ladies' parlor. The forthcoming bazzar was also discussed.

Mrs. Burrowes' group had charge of the program which consisted of dances by three of Miss Barbara Diment's pupils with Miss Diment at the piano.

Mrs. R. Michaud introduced the artsts, Brenda Archer, Sondrya Randle and Freddine Smith.

On behalf of the Guild, Mrs. M. C. Ward thanked Miss Diment and her pupils for their fine performance.

Refreshments served by Mrs. A. Bell's group brought the meeting to a close.

BRIDGE STREET Y.P.U.

Bridge Street Y.P.U. attended a meeting on Monday evening at which the church congregation decided unanimously to send a call to Rev. D. McTavish, of St. Catharines, to come to be their new minister. This meeting was late in adjourning so the Young People got together for a few items of business and 'Taps'.

The Mission convener came prepared with a program about 'Japan', which had to be set aside for a later date.

Rev. Sidney Larman Address Combined W.M.S., W.A. Meeting

Rev. Sidney E. Larman addressed a fine assembly consisting of members of women's organizations of Grace Church, Trenton, Foxboro, Holloway Street, and Bridge Street churches, in Tabernacle United Church, where members of the W.A. and W.M.S., were joint hostesses.

Rev. F. R. Harback, minister of the church, was delighted to be able to extend his welcome to all present but he frankly confessed he wasn't capable of introducing the guest speaker who had been called to Holloway Street United Church recently, but he was sure his spiritual influence will be extended beyond the church to the city and district.

Mr. Larman said in part, "As a Christian minister I believe in the United Church today as I have never believed before." He was so pleased to see so many of his church members present, and suggested that when the churches need officers in the future "Take your responsibility and vote, and if you do vote, get out and do something about it. Take this message back to your churches.

The first Christmas convention was in the clouds, and when it was over, what then? The Shepherds said "Let's go"! The convention in the Garden of Gethsemane,—The Master said "Let's go", but the disciples went to sleep. Three times he called them and after the third time he said "Thy will be done" but to them he said "Let's go".

Jesus has been the greatest robber of the world. He has robbed death of its sting, the grave of its victory, and the devil of his power. Who has emptied our churches at the evening services? If we would only say "Let's go" and do something about it!

Another convention in Jerusalem, a feast of the Jews, that Jesus attended. Jesus stole away from the convention and went to Bethesda where a great number of impotent folk lay waiting beside the pool in which it was traditionally believed an angel went at certain seasons and troubled the waters and the first one who stepped into the troubled waters would be cured. Jesus, seeing a cripple, of 38 years, who lay there, told him to take up his bed and walk. And when the people saw the cripple walking they murmured because it was the Sabbath day.

"What are we doing about Jesus' commands? Our need in the Christian church today is honesty with our weaker brother, not like the brother of the prodigal son when he returned; the brother who had been living a Christian life, possibly, out of the hardness of his heart said all manner of things about him instead of lifting him up. What are we doing when we see our brother has stumbled? Let us get in the spirit of the church and lend a helping hand.

A Final Thought

Three things as a final thought, Mr. Larman left with the assembly; wood, fire and sacrifice. The wood represents the church; fire, are we zealous of the church? Sacrifice, we have not begun to make any!

Shall it be conventions or shall it be Christ?

Shall it be organizations or shall it be The Spirit?

I urge you ladies to choose whom ye shall serve."

Mrs. W. J. Harrison, president of the W.M.S., and Mrs. W. Judge, president of the W.A., welcomed the guests and presided over the afternoon's program. Mrs. B. Fanning entertained with a delightful violin solo "Simple Aveu" with Mrs. M. P. Duff as piano accompanist.

Mrs. A. D. Archibald had charge of the devotional and expressed the appreciation of the assembly to the guest speaker for a fine and inspiring address.

Afternoon tea was served by Mrs. G. F. Lent and her committee, with Mrs. A. Rose and A. H. Fisher pouring tea.

"How About A Break? I've just made a pot of tea"

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

Copenhagen, Denmark.

We spent all day Tuesday in committee meetings. The conference is broken down into four working committees, to simplify the work of the conference in plenary session. These committees function under the headings: Constitution policy, finance and publicity. I chose to sit in on the policy committee and Ontario's delegates are divided among the others; Mrs. Hamilton being with me on policy, but we can just cast one vote.

In the packet given us when we registered the first day of our invitations to social functions, programs, agenda, lists of delegates, information of many sorts, and a green voting card about six inches square which we must hold up when we cast our vote—it is certainly a simple matter to count these rather than hands—and they are issued to only bonafide delegates.

Our first duty was to elect a chairman and Mrs. Bosanquet, one of the vice-presidents from England, was chosen. Then the policy committee started its business from a tentative agenda. I can't weary you with a detailed account of discussions, recommendations, amendments, etc. Any suggestion made by any committee must come before the whole conference for approval. If there is any major change in policy I will give it to you at that time. It was a privilege to hear a problem or a suggestion discussed by women from many countries with many different attitudes and ideas advanced. Several could not speak English and when important statements were made interpreters translated the remarks into Danish, French, German, Norwegian, etc.

Our Canadian legation honored us with an invitation to five o'clock tea. It is amazing how Ontario people turn up everywhere we go. I had a homey chat with Miss Masie Hyndman, formerly of Glencoe, who was anxious to hear all she could of our part of the world.

How these people enjoy a talk with someone from home. Mr. and Mrs. Don Cornett welcomed us; Mr. Cornett comes from a Stratford family. He is the charge d'affaires when the minister is away. Both he and his wife are graduates of Queen's. She has been with the legation for a few months.

In the evening we had an open forum on "The Countrywoman's Day." Representatives from various countries were on the platform and the audience could ask questions about living conditions such as housing, electricity, running water, farm and domestic help, what our organization is trying to do to improve the lot of countrywomen and lessen their burden, schools, family customs, etc. It was a very interesting evening and was very ably chaired by Mrs. Sayre.

The swarms of bicycles on the city streets continue to intrigue me. I learned today there are reputed to be 200,000 of them in Copenhagen. You notice them particularly morning and late afternoon when many are going and coming from work. Droves of them stop at street intersections. Yesterday one of Copenhagen's papers wrote an article on the American and Canadian women always asking for water to drink. And it is true. They rarely bring it to you when you order. You have to remind the waiter time after time for water until it becomes almost embarassing or you give up and go without.

Danish women smoke cigars. One of them told me they are much milder than cigarettes. I was rather startled to see this for the first time but we are getting quite used to it. The cigars are smaller than a man's and many of them use a holder when they smoke.

The store windows in this city are dressed very attractive and the goods they display are an answer to any woman's craving. I've never been a window shopper, but I could stand for hours with nose against the pane, lost in admiration of these beautiful things—if there was time. I notice particularly the gorgeous materials of color, pattern and texture, drapes unusual and smart in design, displays of silver, practical yet beautiful, and of course, window after window featuring Danish glass We have a good ten minutes walk to Christiansborg past all this allure. It is difficult to keep eyes front and reach the meetings on time.

We travel along crooked, winding streets, which is certainly one of the appeals of this city. You never know just what you're going to find around the next corner, or to be apt, I should say the next curve. In our new land the streets are laid out straight and square with street and intersection at right angles, efficient but uninteresting. Here it can be at any angle. The street we live on meets the next one at almost a point, with just a very narrow building fitted in. The next street down has a swelling or rounded front and it is here we sat outside for our first Sunday lunch. Along the main roads lighted glass standards about four feet high are placed in the centre of the highway at each intersection, keeping traffic in its own lane.

City squares are everywhere, usually centred with a monument and bright with flower beds, as always the red geranium predominating. Very often these squares serve as taxi stands, bus stands and contain market stalls. We can't buy oranges here, but plums, apples, grapes and pears are plentiful—no peaches as yet. When you ask for ice cream it is always decorated with great gobs of whipped cream, and their ice cream seems to always have a custard base.

Candy can be bought here, but is very costly. I wanted some today—put a five kronor note on the counter (we get a little better than six kronor here for one Canadian dollar) and received exactly eight chocolates, so I won't repeat this experience. We feel food in general is a little cheaper here, a good dinner can be had for 10 kronor and a good steak dinner can be had for 12 kronor (two dollars).

We do a great deal of walking because everything is too interesting to go whirling by. I had new lifts put on the heels of a camparatively new pair of shoes before I left home and when I examined them yesterday they were worn right back to the heel. I showed them to our landlady when she came in with breakfast, she took over and that night they were in my room, ready for action again—another example of their understanding and a desire to be of help.

Bake Pears For A Change

Centuries of cultivation have resulted in many varieties of pears and in a greatly lengthened season in which they may be enjoyed. Most of the pears grown in Canada are ready during the main growing season and are rivalled by the more flavorful peaches, plums and grapes as well as their close relative, the apple, which is so easy to ship and store.

Pears, unlike most fruits, are improved in flavor by being picked when still under-ripe and allowed to ripen indoors. The winter varieties, although gathered in the fall, will keep for several months.

D'Anjou, Winter Nells and Bosc are later varieties which will be found on the market now and through October.

Pears are excellent when baked in the same way as apples. Baked pears are a dessert treat which is easily prepared and will be thoroughly enjoyed.

When pears are baked whole with the skins on, there is less shrinkage than when they are peeled before baking. The skin contributes to the flavor. Usually, it is better to remove the blossom end but leaving the stem on adds to the appearance of the baked pears.

Peeled pears hold their shape and color better if sugar is added during baking.

Pears, being mild, may be lightly seasoned with lemon juice, ginger or spices. A few grains of salt will always improve the flavor.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, offer a basic recipe for baked pears and several suggestions for variations on the theme.

BAKED PEARS NO. 1

6 pears
1/3 cup sugar
½ cup water

Place whole unpeeled pears in a deep baking dish. Mix sugar, water and salt and pour over pears. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 60 minutes or until tender, basting twice with the syrup during baking. Yield: six servings.

BAKED PEARS NO. 2

6 pears
1/3 cup molasses
1/3 cup water
Juice of ½ lemon

Peel, quarter and core pears; place in a casserole dish. Combine molasses, water and lemon juice and add to pears. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., until tender, about 45 minutes. Serve cold. Yield: six servings.

BAKED PEARS NO. 3

6 pears
¼ cup chopped candied ginger or raisins
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup boiling water

Wash and core pears. Place in a casserole dish, fill centres with ginger or raisins and pour lemon juice over fruit. Dissolve sugar in boiling water, pour around pears and bake in a moderate oven 350°F., until tender, 50 to 60 minutes, basting twice with syrup during cooking. Serve hot or cold. Yield: six servings.

BAKED PEARS NO. 4

6 pears
3 tablespoons brown sugar
¾ cup water
Thinly shaved rind of ½ lemon

Wash and core pears; place in a casserole dish and fill centres with brown sugar. Add water and lemon rind; bake as in Method 3. Remove lemon rind before serving hot or cold. Yield: six servings.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

She "goes steady" with a married man

For the last two years I have been going steady with a man whom I have known for five years. I am very much in love with him, and he also loves me and wants me to marry him, if I will wait until he gets a divorce.

He and his wife never get along together. He has a son, and would, of course, take care of him properly if he were divorced. I have told him that I think it would be best if he stayed with his son while the boy is growing up, but he says he is going to get free whether I marry him or not, and that if I change my mind, I should go to him, and he'll be waiting.

I love him so much, I don't know which way to turn. Should I stay away from him or go to him?

J. D. S.

Dear J. D. S.:

My advice to you is to keep completely away from this man as long as he is married. You are putting yourself in a very hazardous position to have anything to do with a man who is still living with his wife, and you might suddenly find yourself in a most unhappy situation if she found out about your relationship and decided to make trouble for you.

I am also somewhat dubious about a married man who will "go steady" for two years, talking about divorce all that time and doing nothing about it. And what kind of man will "go steady" while married, anyway?

If you want to do the really sensible thing, you will never, as he suggests, "go to him", but stay away from him until he comes to you and tells you that he is free. His sincerity—or lack of it—will be quickly apparent if you are smart enough to test it this way.

Watch for the well-known rebound!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Until last summer I never thought much about the way my sister treats her boy friends, but now it's beginning to bother me. My sister, who is a year older than I am, is very tiny and attractive, and well aware of it. Whenever she meets a nice boy, even if he is younger than she is, she winds him around her little finger and literally makes a fool of him.

Last summer, she gave an exceptionally raw deal to an especially nice boy. She didn't tell him that there is another boy she is finally really sticking to. She doesn't care for him at all now, and I do.

How can I make him realize that I'm around and that she does not want him? I have reason to believe that he likes me a little, but that's not enough.

T. S.

Dear T.S.:

It's too bad that your sister treats boys so badly, but I don't believe there's a thing you can do about it.

What is most likely to happen is that one of these days, some boy she really likes will give her a raw deal, and then she'll find out what it's like. Heartless flirts usually get a dose of their own medicine sooner or later.

About the boy in whom you are interested, there isn't much you can do, either, to make him realize that she doesn't want him. You had much better let him find that out for himself. If you try to tell him, you're only going to make him think you're jealous, and show him, too, that you're pining for him yourself. You don't want to do that, do you?

Better just stick around and be there when he does find out, so you'll have a chance of catching him on the well-known "rebound". Treat him in a nice, friendly manner, while you're waiting, and you may be just the person to whom he'll turn naturally when his big disillusionment comes!

BEAUTY

Keep your figure neat and trim

In youth, the feminine figure is in the making; all too often, in middle-age, it is in the unmaking. According to the habits of movement and the health routine one follows, it retains neat and graceful lines or evolves into a pattern that excites no admiring glances.

At the age of thirty, the average woman has as youthful a shape as she had at twenty. Let her not take it for granted that it is not subject to change. Let her have an eye on the future. Let her visualize some of her friends and acquaintances who have edged over the forty line. What has become of the youthful silhouette of most of them? Lost, and probably forever.

Give yourself five minutes of exercises

What is known as the middle-age shape can be avoided; it is usually a woman's own fault if she has it. There are old girls of sixty who are as slender and graceful as saplings. There are teen-agers with hunched shoulders, tummy rolls, slouchy poses. So the years haven't as much to do with the matter as one may fancy.

Be regal; keep your backbone tall and you will walk in beauty. Don't hold the shoulders far back, according to the old-fashioned notion. Grandma will recall the period of Delsarte and the straight front corset, when the feminine anatomy followed the design of a broomstick.

The ideal figure has grace; that is not possible without ease. Tension or stiffness creates harsh lines. Tension is present when the shoulders are rigid and arms are held awkwardly. If you feel your muscles tightening, loosen up. Such a condition has a deplorable effect upon the nervous system, is reflected in facial tension.

Watch your movements and you will not only avoid awkwardness, but you will improve your musculature, will be less likely to take on adipose upholstery as the birthdays come skipping along. And how quickly they come.

When you stoop to pick up something from the floor, bend at the hips, not at the waistline, if you would avoid a bulge below it. The hips are the natural hinges, should be used when bending. When pivoting at the hips, the abdominal muscles are drawn inward, a movement that helps to keep them strong and resilient.

If you are a typist or desk worker, place your body well back in the chair. If it is necessary to bend forward, keep the upper portion of your body erect. Send the entire torso forward, not just the shoulders. Incorrect sitting positions lead to fatigue. By maintaining proper posture, one can work with greater ease, not be all in when the day's work is ended.

Before going to sleep at night and before getting up, give yourself five minutes of stretching exercises.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

The shape of food seems to affect its flavor.

Grated carrots are not the same as carrot slices or sticks. Mashed bananas taste different from whole bananas. A cube of chicken is not the same as a thin slice of chicken.

Flat ham slices with grilled pineapple are on dish. But slices of ham rolled up and filled with pineapple wedges seem to be something altogether different.

All of this merely shows that the texture of food, the kind of resistance it offers to our teeth, is sometimes as important as other factors which make up its flavor.

The hot rolled ham slices in today's recipe may be filled with bread dressing, with spinach or with fruit. If you have leftover baked or boiled ham and it can be cut into large slices, it will serve very well for this purpose. If not, you can buy boiled ham, allowing two slices per person.

Canned boiled ham has a tendency to break apart when the slices are rolled. Ask for the regular freshly boiled him at the store. These ham slices which are breaded and fried, should be lowered very carefully into the fat with a wire basket. Dropping them in carelessly may cause them to break apart or cause the filling to come out.

Ham Rolls With Pineapple
4 Servings

Order 8 slices of boiled ham cut 1-8 inch thick.

Drain a number 2 can of pineapple wedges. Spread pineapple on one side of ham slices. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Roll ham slices from short end, jelly roll fashion, so that pineappe remains inside. Fasten each roll with 3 toothpicks.

Dip ham rolls into 1-2 cup milk. Dip in flour. Dip in a beaten egg to which 2 tablespoons water have been added. Finally dip in 1 cup sifted bread crumbs. If any slices are not completely covered with crumbs, dip uncoated portion in egg, then ino breadcrumbs.

Heat a kettle of deep fat until fat thermometer registers 390 degrees or hot enough to brown a 1-inch cube of bread in 40 seconds.

Place breaded ham slices carefully in frying basket. Lower basket into fat. Fry until brown.

Serve with asparagus sauce: heat slowly a can of undiluted cream of asparagus soup mixed with 1-3 cup milk. Pour sauce on serving plates. Place fried ham rolls on sauce. Remove toothpicks.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

. By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman .

Something to cheer about! In today's mail I received three letters with All Right spelled correctly. . .All Right (Unfortunately and most boringly, "alright" is a grimly persistent misspelling.) Spell All Right with two words. . .All Right, Remember?

A Wedding Anniversary Present Should be Something for Both.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For two years our class has had an English teacher, who is our "pet"; she's a marvelous teacher and a marvelous person, and we all like her classes in English better than all our other classes. We have found out that soon she and her husband are to celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary, and we would like to give her a personal present of a compact with her name engraved on it. (We do not know her husband.) But several of the members of the class maintain that this would not be correct, and so we have decided to ask you if you will please tell us if this present would be all right for us to give

— High School Third

I entirely agree with the group in your class who feel that it would be inappropriate to give a wedding anniversary present to only one of the couple. . .a wedding anniversary is celebrated by both, and a present is given that both can enjoy, whether or not you know both I suggest that as a friendly gesture to the wedding anniversary, you send a note of congratulations and felicitations, addressed to your teacher, but including congratulations to her husband too. Then later. . .perhaps appropriately, as a Thanksgiving present! . . . send the personal present to your teacher, with a note or card enclosed and signed by each contributor-to-the-present.

Girl's Parents "Want to Meet" Young Man's Parents.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son has been going with a very fine girl from a fine family for about a year. Now her parents have asked to meet us. Would it be proper for us to invite them to our home? Or should we wait for an invitation from them? And if we are invited to their home, please give us a cue as to what to do and say.

S.G.

If your son has not told you that he and the girl are engaged it is correct and most hospitable for you to invite them to your house; and it is also correct for them to invite you and your husband to their house. In other words, this is a natural and charming gesture from either family. But if your son has told you that they are engaged, it is a social must that you (and your husband, too, if at all convenient) should go at once to call on the girl and her mother, to make the so-important and so-significant welcoming-into-the-family call. (Since you write that the girl's parents "have asked to meet us," I have a feeling that perhaps their daughter and your son are engaged, and that they are subtly trying to suggest to your son that it is the responsibility of you and your husband to come at once to welcome your son's fiancee into your family.) After you have made this call, it is correct for you to invite the girl and her family to your house, or for them to invite you and your family to their house. . .any charming social gesture makes the relationship between the families firmer and more delightful.

Bride's Young Cousin as Junior Bridesmaid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For my attendant I am to have a maid of honor. My groom is to have a best man. However, I have a young cousin, 10 years old, who has always been like a sister to me, and I would like so much to have her in my bridal party. I know she is too big to act as flower gril, yet I wonder if she is too young to be a junior bridesmaid. What say you?

M.G.

It will be correct, a charming plan, to have your beloved young cousin as junior bridesmaid. Then the processional: first, the ushers, two by two; next, the junior bridesmaid, alone; next, the maid of honor, alone, and last, you and your father.

Special Force Soldiers Given Four-Day Leave

[illegible]awawa, Sept. 28 (CP)—Hundreds of the army's special force soldiers were on a four-day leave today as speculation flew about their eventual destination.

The army said Petawawa camp, 125 miles from here, has given four-day leaves to men of the 2nd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment because they have finished their basic individual training.

An army spokesman said the same step may have been taken by other units.

On return to camp, he said, they will pitch into advanced individual training, the second of four phases in the training of combat troops.

The swift, triumphant march of American troops in Korea has given rise to speculation that the special force will not go to Korea but to western Germany instead.

Its destination is believed to be under consideration now both here and at United Nations headquarters in New York.

Russian Holiday In Trade Unions Ended - - Conroy

Winnipeg, Sept. 28 — (AP)—"The communist Russian holiday" in the Canadian Trade Union movement has come to an end, Pat Conroy, national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said today.

He served this notice as the C.C.L.'s annual convention was proceeding to administer one of its regular thrashings to its communist minority in adopting a resolution endorsing United Nations policy in Korea.

The declaration was fought hard by the small group of left-wingers on the floor, but they were snowed under by a vote of around 700 to 30.

One of the spearheads of the C.C.L.'s anti-red drive for several years, Mr. Conroy said that for almost 20 years in Canada communists have been using "bulldozing tactics in an attempt to drive free trade unionists to cover so they can take control."

"We in the Canadian union movement," he added, "now are serving notice on communists that their Russian holiday of the last generation has come to an end in that movement. Let that sink in right now."

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Real Christians Have Always Been Queer

By ROY L. SMITH

It was the chief purpose of Jesus of Nazareth to inaugurate a new way of living, among men When someone asked him about Himself He said, "I am the way." In many a pagan city of the ancient East the Christians were known as "the people of the way," which indicates that they distinguished themselves by a different manner of life.

These First Christians

The virtues which are accepted everywhere today as being Christian, were extremely unpopular in the Roman world. The Empire had come to its position of world authority by following a policy of aggression, and anything which seemed to undermine the "will to rule," was considered both ridiculous and wicked by the Romans.

Jesus' teaching that one should forgive his enemies, go the second mile, and be charitable toward those who hate us, was in direct contradiction of everything the Romans insisted upon.

In at least one city it was said of them, "see how these Christians love one another." In other cities they were referred to as peace lovers, as though that wre something shameful. When they refused to answer riots with rioting the pagans found it quite difficult to understand them. Everywhere the world was puzzled by them, and thought them very queer.

One Woman Distinguished Herself

In one city a humble Christian woman distinguished herself by doing a thing which is very common today. She gave her time to the relief of the poor, one of the first Christian social workers of whom we have record. She must have been an amazing person for when she died, one of the Apostles was sent for, and upon his arrival a display was made of the little garments she had sewed for the poor. The story of her helpful life was on everybody's tongue. In that pagan day, under the Roman Empire, such a career attracted much attention. It was so unusual. This woman named Dorcas was very queer.

The Long List of the Queer

One of the greatest tributes that can be paid to Christianity would be a listing of all the "queer" who have distinguished themselves for their queerness.

There were, of course, the martyrs who, bginning with Stephen died for their faith, preferring death to a renunciation of the thing they believed. In a time when paganism shifted its adherents easily from one religion to another the sight of a man dying rather than to admit that he was wrong or mistaken, was something to shake even the most supercilious.

> The Sunday School lesson for October 1: "What is Christian Living?" Matthew 5: 1-20; 18:21-35; Acts 11:19-26; Romans 12:9-21; Philippians 1:27-30 I Thessalonians 5:15-23; James 1:22-27.

The centuries since have furnished us some of the greatest names identified with moral and social reform and unselfishness. Such great souls as St. Francis of Assisi, Elizabeth Fry the little Quakeress who brought about English prison reform, William Booth of the Salvation Army, John Wesley with his program for the poor, Roger Williams and his doctrine of democracy and freedom, John Bunyan and his stalwart defence of the individual conscience. In every decade and in every community at least two or three of the queer are to be found.

Missing the Point

At the same time it must be said that in almost every community there are two or three who have missed the point of the Christian movement. These are the ones who create controversy, encourage bitterness, sabotage the spirit of goodwill in the neighborhood, and actually build up feuds between believers on the basis of theological diferences.

That Christianity rests down upon a base composed of accurate reasoning is true of course. There are correct and there are incorrect conclusions about the death of Jesus of Nazareth, His resurrection, and other aspects of His life. But it is easy to judge the accuracy of any man's theology by the quality of life it has produced in him. If it has made him bitter, vindicitive, and quarrelsome—if he is determined to have his own way, regardless of the cost to the cause—then his theology is heretical. If, on the other hand, it has made him gentle, courteous, gracious, and tolerant, there is a considerable probability that it is orthodox.

Pure Religion

It is very important to notice that among the New Testament churches the theological issues were in the background, for the most part. When one applied to a congregation for membership, only one inquiry was made "Has he received the Spirit?" It was relatively easy to determine that question. One had only to inspect his life, and see how he lived.

There is a sense in which it can be said that if he were "queer" he was regarded as one in whom the Spirit of the living God had come to dwell.

LOBSTERS FOR ALL

Shediac, N.B.—It has nothing whatever to do with lobsters, our subject for today, but I'm reminded of the time Miss Yvette Dare, the exotic-type dancer, introduced me to her parrot. Lipstick, a splendid looking bird who used to fly out from the wings to centre stage and unfasten a garment, loosely described as a sarong, worn by Miss Dare. This was always an agreeable sight and I enjoyed it for several years. Then I was introduced backstage to Lipstick and found her to be an ill-mannered and most untidy fowl. Somehow the act never seemed the same to me from that day.

What has this to do with lobsters? Simply that an old and deep affection for the flesh of the crustacean has been sorely tried by meeting several hundred lobsters, as it were, backstage.

The visitor's taste buds are apt to throw up their hands in horror on beholding lobsters en masse, green-brown and downright vicious, crawling about, like a nightmare, in layers four deep.

His gastronomic memory of the delicacy may be impaired for life by the sound of lobsters being consigned to a boiling pot, with a farewell vocal effect too horrible to describe.

Moreover, if he is visiting Shediac, where people keep breaking boiled lobsters in two and eagerly shoving them at him, the visitor may reach the saturation point and turn a pale olive color at the mention of the word.

A great many people in Shediac are just getting over this unhappy condition, induced by the town's annual Lobster Festival, an affair at which citizens and visitors enjoy a gala show, crown a queen and, above all else, eat lobster until they reach the snapping point.

During the three-day festivities there are three lobster-eating sessions of four hours apiece. In between these feats the celebrants keep in trim with oysters and the hard-shelled clams known as Quahaugs. The affair has been held two years now and, to everybody's astonishment, there have been no casualties.

Very Alive

Some of the world's finest lobsters come from the waters of Northumberland Strait between Prince Edward Island and the mainland on which Shediac is located. Although lobsters may be trapped the year round, the season here runs from August 10 to October 5, dates blandly overlooked by a few furtive lobster-leggers who operate their own tiny illegal canneries along the coast.

The season is restricted because lobsters are getting scarcer all the time. Some of Shediac's nonegenarians can remember when nobody would dream of actually eating a lobster and they sold at half a cent a pound for fertilizer.

Jacques Cartier, writing in his diary of a trip to these parts, described lobster so thick they had to crawl over each other three and four deep, like Toronto pedestrians, to move about. Another early tourist saw some with a claw or snapper so large that it will hold a pint of wine."

The biggest I saw today when I visited one of the large packing plants near Shediac was a barnacled brute 11 pounds. The kind that the good citizens kept thrusting at us ran about a pound and the first four or five were delicious. After that you're apt to lose your girlish laughter.

The lobsters are kept alive in large tanks fed by salt water (they succumb in fresh) and are sorted out by fearless gents who stomp in high rubber boots through a mass of snapping claws and lift out the victims with a trick grasp from the rear.

They are then boiled in vats and sold on the premises to tourists at 45 cents a pound or deshelled and packed in cans for export.

This particular outfit specializes in air-expressing live lobsters, packed in ice between layers of seaweed, anywhere in North America. I neglected to enquire what procedure the recipient is supposed to follow, but I expect to find out later since I've sent my boss a couple of large and mean-looking specimens.

Shediac abounds in opencounter "canteens" run by colorful Acadians (nearly all the lobster business is done by French-Canadians) and very few tourists get through the place without gorging themselves.

Mortality Rate

At the snug basin for the lobster boats I met Arthur Pellerin, a 27-year-old fisherman in peaked cap and turtleneck sweater.

Arthur's boat is a 30-foot, open cockpit dory-like craft. Each morning before dawn he chugs out into the bay. He has 150 traps, or "pots" in eight fathoms of water and he spends some six hours hauling these up. The traps are lath and twine jobs which look vaguely like bird cages and have a one-way entrance for the lobster into what the fisherman call "the parlor". Pellerin's best day was a 400-pound catch at 19 cents a pound.

Arthur gave us a quick summary of the life of the lobster. A lady lobster will lay up to 6000 eggs, but very few of her children survive.

"They do not want to get to the top, like you or I," Arthur explained. "They wish only to get to the bottom. But until they grow the shell they must swim about and become a quick lunch for every fish in the sea. Not one in a hundred escapes. If they do escape then we are after them."

Lobsters grow by moulting, struggling free of one shell, including the claws, and hanging around nakedly until its new and larger armor-plate begins to grow. Mating usually takes place within a few hours after the lady has a new outfit. Clothes aren't everything, as my wife sometimes says but they help.

Detroit, Sept. 29 (AP) —Mrs. Henry Ford, 84, widow of the late world-famed automobile pioneer, died early today of a heart ailment at Henry Ford hospital. Death came to Mrs. Ford not many hours after her third visit to the hospital for a heart condition in the last several months. Cause of death was given as acute coronary occlusion.

On the two previous occasions she was in hospital, Mrs. Ford had recovered sufficiently to return to her estate home at suburban Dearborn. Her return to the hospital yesterday was not generally known.

As wife, then widow, of Henry Ford, Clara Bryant Ford was one of the most influential women in the United States. Ford died in 1947.

It was said of Mrs. Ford that she was constantly at her husband's side as adviser and helpmate from the time of his early days in a small machine shop until he became world-famous.

Their only son, Edsel, died in 1943. At that time he was president of the Ford Motor Company as successor to his father. The elder Ford had been retired.

Mrs. Ford's survivors include her grandson, Henry 2nd, now president of the company.

Ford, who always credited his wife with much responsibility for his accomplishments, called her "The Believer." He used to say that she never doubted his ultimate success in the original lean days when he worked day and night at his mechanics.

Each, as it turned out, had the same span of life—84 years.

MARINES RECALL TRUMAN'S WORDS

U.S. Marines fighting in Korea feel free to make subtle or open-faced digs at President Truman for his statement that the Marine Corps was the army's "police force" and that the corps had a propaganda machine equal to Stalin's. This tank man lettered his machine with "Truman police force" and "just propaganda," to show his opinion of the presidential words. — Central Press Canadian.

Miser Had $91,000 Secreted in Clothing

Midletown, N.Y., Sept. 29 (AP) —A search for more money was started yesterday at the home of a man whose clothing disgorged $91,000 in currency when he was admitted to a mental hospital.

Mrs. Charles J. Wilson, wife of the patient, explained to authorities that the money was part of $500,000 inherited by her husband 20 years ago.

She said her husband, 59, who lived alone, carried large sums of money with him because he distrusted banks.

He was reported to have made a bonfire of $8,000 in bills on one occasion.

Mrs. Wilson said she took to nursing jobs to support herself and her daughter.

PROPOSES PEACE FORMULA FOR KOREA

A plea for a cease fire order in Korea was made by Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson, left, before the U.N. General Assembly at Lake Success, N.Y. Surrender by North Korean forces, he said, could result in U.N. forces remaining below the 38th Parallel and, he suggested, a U.N. sponsored vote might then be taken throughout Korea. Here he talks to Dean Acheson, U.S. Secretary of State before giving his address. — Central Press Canadian.

Heavy-Frosted Wheat Can be Used for Flour

Winnipeg, Sept. 29 (CP) — A considerable portion of Western Canada's frosted wheat — the first heavily-frosted crop in 22 years—is good enough for flour, it was reported today in a statement from the committee on western grain standards.

The 24-member committee met here yesterday to set standard samples governing the grading of No. 4 Manitoba Northern, No. 5 wheat and No. 6 wheat for the 1950-51 crop year.

Dr. J. A. Anderson, chief chemist of the Board of Grain Commissioners, reported to the committee that in spite of some frost damage No. 4 Northern should prove satisfactory for milling.

Some No. 5 might also be milled if markets can be found for low-grade flour of darker color and reduced baking strength.

No. 6, more heavily frosted and containing more green and immature kernels, would be fit only for feed.

(The Canadian Wheat Board has estimated the proportion in this year's crop of No. 3 Northern wheat and higher— the good milling grades—will be only 34 percent compared with 85 percent last year; No. 4 Northern will be 17 percent against only four percent last year and No. 5 and lower will be 45 percent compared with seven percent last year.)

Dr. Anderson said any Canadian baker who attempted to sell bread made from No. 5 and No. 6 wheat would be out of business in a week.

Open Hearings On Wholesale Price of Milk

Toronto, Sept. 29 (CP) —An arbitration board under the chairmanship of Judge John A. McGibbon of Lindsay opens hearings here today on the wholesale price of milk in the Toronto area.

Judge McGibbon, whose appointment was announced Thursday by Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario, was to meet with J. E. Houck, secretary of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association representing the distributors, and Roy Lick, secretary of the Toronto Milk Producers Association, representing the producers.

Regulations governing sale of milk call for arbitration when producers and distributors cannot agree on a wholesale price. Producers, now receiving $4.07 1-2 a hundredweight, turned down the distributors' offer of an increase of 12 1-2 cents.

Retail price of milk in the Toronto area increased to 20 cents a quart last Wednesday, an increase of one cent.

CAMPBELLFORD

Record Crowd Views Exhibits, Program Staged by Fair Bd.

A record crowd of more than 5,000 persons turned out on one of the brightest and warmest days of the month on Wednesday, to see the attractions at the Campbellford fall fair.

One of the finest displays of cattle and horses to be seen in years was on hand. Displays of gymnastics by the high school, and a wealth of displays and exhibits covering a host of subjects from both high, seperate and public schools added to the attractions. The midway was handled by Stenger Shows of Winnipeg and it abounded with games of chance, bingo, and all the other usual fair attractions. A ferris wheel and merry-go-round kept young and old alike amused.

Mr. Lon Simpson, who stopped counting after he passed his 90th birthday a few years ago, and has attended almost all the Campbellford fairs he can remember, agreed that the 1950 fair was the biggest and best yet.

The Campbellford Citizens' band was on hand to supply music but had to compete with midway hawkers, sound trucks and race announcers.

The judges spoke highly of the quality and quantity of the entries, especially in the classes of horses and cattle.

NORTH KOREAN CHIEF ORDERS WITHDRAWAL

250 Stray Dogs Shot in Los Vegas, Protests Raised

Las Vegas, Nev. Sept. 29 (AP) —This city is still celebrating National Dog Week, but those pooches which haven't already been shot to death would rather forgo the festivities.

It all started last week when the city decided there were too many dogs running around loose. Poundmaster Lee Oberman was told to get rid of them as best he could.

So Oberman and an assistant loaded up their rifles and went dog hunting. They bagged about 250. It was after the carcasses piled in the city dump that the citizens led by Mrs. Guy Murphy Humane Society member, began protesting.

The poundmaster said he only followed orders; that the dogs were endangering children on the streets. The city agreed to conduct a mass burial of the slaughtered canines and to stop the shooting.

That was on Monday. Now, Mrs. Murphy complains, the city has enlisted — with a bounty — the aid of children in rounding up stray dogs.

But the youngsters are barely making expenses. Right now, a dog is rather a scarce item in Las Vegas.

McKinnons Buy 130 Acres of Land Near Thorold

Ottawa, Sept. 29 (CP) —Negotiations have been completed for the sale of 130 acres of Crown land on the east bank of the Welland Canal near Thorold, Ont., to facilitate a $10,000,000 industrial expansion by McKinnon Industries, Ltd., the transport department announced Thursday night.

The department did not disclose the sale price of the Crown property.

It said construction of a malleable iron foundry and power plant would be undertaken on the site and grading and ground clearing operations would begin immediately.

Purchase of the land by McKinnon Industries would allow for a long-term development by the company "calculated to meet the anticipated expansion in the automobile and tooling for the Buick program which provides for the reinstated Canadian manufacture early in 1951 of the Buick automobile."

Permission has been given the company for construction of facilities on Welland Canal to permit the landing of shipments of construction and other materials. A spur line also will be run from the main Canadian National Railway line to the proposed site.

The property is located on the east bank of the Welland Canal and the major portion lies within the confines of Grantham township with a small triangular section situated in the township of Thorold.

Egypt's Army In Midst of 3-Months Purge

Cairo, Sept. 29—(AP)—Egypt's army, la[illegible]st in the Arab world, is in [illegible]idst of an unprece[illegible]-month purge which [illegible] to the 1948 war in Pa[illegible].

The Egyptian army made a poor showing against the Israelis. The present investigation indicates, according to press reports, that the army fought in Palestine with faulty guns and ammunition.

Now there are open newspaper charges of fraud and war-profiteering in the purchase of war material. Cairo's leading newspapers report that two generals, six colonels and a number of others thus far have been imprisoned. Their names have not been made public.

Al Ahram and Al Misri, leading Cairo dailies, say the investigation involves 300 military officers and some prominent civilians, including the wives of two officers and three vice-ministers.

Young army officers, demanding that the guilty be punished for what they term criminal negligence and fraud, have issued veiled warning in secretly-distributed pamphlets that any attempt at a whitewash would bring trouble.

It was these young officers, in the front lines with the troops, who suffered most in the fighting.

A young weekly magazine editor—Ihsan Abdem Koddous, of Rose El Youssef—is chiefly responsible for the investigation.

Last May he printed an article charging that the wife of an army officer had profited by serving as agent in the purchase of war material.

Called before a military tribunal, charged with spreading false news to the detriment of the army, he produced documents to prove his charge.

Other newspapers joined in as martial law and local press censorship was lifted. There were stories of guns that didn't fire, grenades that exploded in the hands of Egyptian soldiers.

The 30-foot tides which prevail at Inchon have left landing craft high and dry at low tide on sticky mud. But this L.C.M. stuck higher and dryer than all the rest of the assault craft when she grounded on the overturned hulk of a sunken Korean ship which effectively blocks Inchon harbor. The receding tide left her in the precarious position seen here. — Central Press Canadian.

Minister Says Power Project Is a 'Must'

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 29—Ontario and New York State can't make their maximum contribution in peace or war unless they are allowed to develop the power resources of the St. Lawrence River, George H. Challies, minister without portfolio in the Ontario government said Thursday.

He told the Ogdensburg Rotary Club these resources now are "wastefully gliding away. . . to the benefit of none, save those who seek the weakening or destruction of our economic system and democratic way of life."

Challies outlined how plans for a seaway project and power development on the river have been blocked since 1934.

Ontario and New York want to go ahead with a power project, pending eventual approval of a seaway project. The United States government has refused to approve one without the other.

"If it can be done as part of a combined navigation and power project well and good," Challies said. "If not, why not give New York State and Ontario the green light for power development with suitable provision in the structures for the requirements for navigation. . ."

He added: "One wonders. . . what would result if the Dominion of Canada should adopt a similar attitude towards some question being submitted by the United States to the International joint commission. . . ?"

Student Fires Five Wild Shots At Policemen

Whitby, Sept. 29 — (CP)— An 18-year-old high school student turned on two provincial police officers Thursday with a .22-calibre rifle and fired five wild shots at them.

Police did not return the fire. They took the youth—his name was not disclosed—into protective custody.

He left his home at Brooklin, 12 miles north of here, with the rifle and ammunition. When his parents reported his missing, police went looking for him.

The youth hid in a culvert and fired three shots at a police cruiser containing two officers and his uncle when it approached. When the officers closed in from each side of the culvert, he fired two more shots at close range. His uncle finally persuaded him to throw away the gun.

No explanation was given for the shooting. Police quoted the youth as saying he left home because he wanted to be alone.

Alouettes Must Come up with Win This Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Just about every one has counted the ailing Alouettes out of the football picture but the defending Dominion champions themselves.

Unless the Montrealers can come up with a victory this weekend against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, they're likely to finish the season right where they are now—in the cellar.

Alouettes have only one victory and four losses, and are deep in the basement as the Big Four loop heads into a busy weekend. The first-place Toronto Argonauts play in Ottawa against the Rough Riders Saturday, with the Hamilton-Montreal game scheduled for Sunday in Montreal.

In the West, Saskatchewan Rough Rider: and Edmonton Eskimos clash in Edmonton Saturday night. Winnipeg Blue Bombers meet Calgary Stampeders in Calgary Saturday. For the Monday night games, Saskatchewan goes to Calgary and Winnipeg meets Edmonton in a game that's likely to give the winner a firm hold on first place in the Western Conference.

Edmonton now is one victory ahead of the second-place Bombers, but Winnipeg has a game in hand.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior loop, Windsor Rockets come to Toronto Sunday for a chance to avenge the 19-0 licking they took from Balmy Beach last Saturday.

The first-place Sarnia Imperials have an exhibition game scheduled with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs in London, Saturday, while the University of Toronto meets Balmy Beach in a Toronto exhibition game.

Both Alouettes and Rough Riders go into the weekend with a heavy injury list. The Als are short three good halfbacks — Johnny Harper, Pete Thodos and Bob Cunningham. If they beat the Tiger-Cats—who'll probably be at full strength—it probably will have to be done on the passing of Frank Filchock.

Ottawa lacks three key linemen—Benny Steck, John Wagonner and Jerry Lefebvre, all uncertain starters. But they've been reinforced by halfback Pete Karpuk.

Harry Lumley Looks Sharp In Chicago Net

Sudbury, Sept. 29 (CP) —Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League turned on their American League farmhands from St. Louis to post a convincing 8-3 decision here Thursday night.

Supported by some stellar net work by Harry Lumley, acquired from Detroit in a midsummer swap, the Black Hawks ran up a 3-1 lead in the first period, outscored the Flyers 2-1 in the second and 3-1 again in the closing stanza.

Pete Babando, another ex-Detroiter, paced the N.H.L. skaters with two goals, while Doug Bentley, Adam Brown, Bill Mosienko, Gord Fashoway, Don Morrison and defenceman Jack Stewart scored once.

Stewart led the penalty box parade with a pair of minors, while rearguard Doug McCaig was tabbed with a major in the second period for opening a cut over Billy McComb's left eye. McComb was taken to the Copper Cliff hospital for stitches, but his injury is not considered severe.

St. Louis marksmen were Paul Lamirande, Al Baccari and Pop Backor.

Puck Patter

(By The Canadian Press)

Coach Lynn Patrick has his troubles finding enough right-wingers to go around as Boston Bruins go through their training acts at Hershey, Pa., for the 1950-51 National Hockey League season.

With Johnny Peirson the only right-winger sure of a starting berth, Patrick yesterday tried two left-handed shooters on the right flank as he drove the Bruins through their 11th practice session.

Milt Schmidt, veteran centre, and rookie Lorne Ferguson drew the assignments. Schmidt skated on a line with Eddie Sandford at centre and Ed Creighton at left wing. Ferguson worked on a line with veteran Porky Dumart at left wing and Phil Maloney as pivot.

Boston's high-scoring first line of Paul Ronty, Kenny Smith and Peirson on the wings remanied intact.

At St. Catharines, Ont., candidates for berths on the Toronto Maple Leafs staged such a spirited "hey rube" that coach Joe Primeau called a halt and read the riot act. Centre of most of the fireworks were rookie Tod Sloan and sophomore Ray Timgren, usually mild-mannered fellows.

Gus Morison and Jimmy Thomson contributed to the af-f: y by tossing their weight liberally about at the blue line in an effort to show bosses that Bill Barilko, Bill Juzda and Hugh Bolton aren't the only defencemen in camp.

On the offence, Joe Klukay stood out. The Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., winger showed sharp form around the goal mouth and beat goalie Turk Broda twice.

Detroit Red Wings and their Indianapolis Capitols farm club resumed training hostilities in an exhibition game at Windsor, Ont., last night and played a 1-1 stalemate. The teams trained together at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., prior to starting the pre-season exhibition rounds.

In another major exhibition last night, Chicago Black Hawks defeated their St Louis Flyer farmhands 8-3 at Sudbury, Ont. The Hawks were supported by some stellar net work by Harry Lumley, acquired from Detroit in a midsummer swap.

5 Municipalities To Have Vote On Sunday Sports

Toronto, Sept. 29—(CP)—Plebiscites on Sunday sports are being considered in five more Ontario municipalities — Hamilton, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Thessalon and Brampton.

Since the last session of the provincial legislature when a law was passed authorizing municipalities to decide the question themselves, nine votes have been taken.

Voters approved Sunday sport here, at Windsor, Port Dover, Dryden, Delhi, Crystal Beach, Port Stanley, Wasaga Beach, Port Dalhousie and Sturgeon Falls. Chatham electors turned it down.

Dr. C. W. Webber, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, indicated in an interview Thursday, the alliance might ask the government that municipalities be given less leeway in determining what is sport under the act.

Edinburgh, Scotland, Sept. 29 (Reuters) — Edinburgh has banned a huge neon sign, saying "Jesus Saves" in letters 10 feet high, planned for the city's main street. The mayor, Lord Provost Sir Andrew Murray, said it would be introducing an alien method of teaching the Christian faith. Town planners added that it would not be in keeping with the local achitecture.

Waterloo Tigers Win Loop Title In Intercounty

Waterloo, Ont., Sept. 29 (CP)—Manny McIntyre singled in the ninth inning last night to break up the ball game and give Waterloo Tigers the 1950 Intercounty League championship.

They beat Brantford Red Sox, who had licked the Tigers in the league finals last year, 6-5 to take the best of seven series 4-1.

It was only fair that southpaw Cy Bricker should get credit for the win. He pitched a wild first inning Wednesday when he gave up a hit and walked four as Red Sox pounded out a 25-3 win.

Bricker was called on in the ninth last night when starter Joe Yosurak wavered before a Brantford rally that tied the score.

Brantford went ahead 2-0 in the first on Tommy McGrattan's homer with a man on board. Waterloo came back in the second and drove Billy Gibbs from the mound with a five-hit five-run barrage.

Brantford picked up another run in the third on McIntyre's error and tied it in the ninth on a single, a double and a pair of infield outs.

It was the fourth year in a row the Tigers had made the playoffs. This year they led most of the way but a pre-playoff slump dumped them into fourth place at the end of the schedule.

Waterloo collected 12 hits from Gibbs and Gavey. Brantford got 10 from Yosurak and Bricker.

Maracle Scores Second Victory Over Howe, Hagerman Team To Give Point Anne Game Lead

A pair of two-run round trippers behind another fine hurling effort by Pat Maracle, sent the Point Anne softball squad to a 7-3 victory over Howe and Hagerman in the third game of their section finals series at Exhibition Park last night.

The victory was the second straight for the Point Anne team and tomorrow night the Howe and Hagerman squad has its figurative back to the wall. A Point victory will mean the section title while a loss will extend the series to the fifth and final game. If the How-Hags win tonight the teams will go into the final clinch on Saturday night. At present the series stands at 2-1 for the Pointers.

The winners turned in another fine all-round performance to grab the laurel wreath last night. Maracle hurled six-hit softball and was backed by some superb defensive work especially by Finlan in right field. He struck out nine Howe and Hagerman batters over the nine innings route and walked three.

Get 11 Hits

Behind him his mates pounded out eleven safeties off the offerings of youthful Bob Hunter. Perry Everett and Sword slammed out terrific home runs both coming with one man aboard. Everett's came in the first innings sending Jack Hunter home ahead of him after the latter had rapped out the first hit off brother Bob.

Swords clincher clout came in the eighth after the How-Hags had crept up within striking distance whittling the Pointers four-run score down to a margin of one. Brant had gone out, Pat Maracle singled, went to third on the play and scored on a wild pitch. Logue rapped out the second hit of the innings and Hunter forced Keith Baldwin to fly to right field. Sword strode to the plate and drove a sizzling liner to left centre field for the circuit scoring Logue ahead of him.

Errors Costly

The Point after scoring those two runs in the initial inning was never headed although the How-Hags whittled away at their lead bringing the score to 4-3 before Sword hit the circuit clout. Errors on the part of the losers proved costly and they could not solve the Maracle delivery when hits ment runs.

Maurice Rollins romped home with the first How-Hag run in the first inning, scoring after he drew a walk and crossing the plate on subsequent put outs. Widge Adams clouted a hit and got to third but Maracle forced Mallory to ground out.

Everett and Jack Hunter clustered clouts in the third to give the Point another run and a two-run lead and added another in the fifth of hits by Hunter and Horwood and an enemy error. The Point got that one back in the same innings when Donovan drove Doyle home who had walked and advanced to scoring position on a Maracle passed ball.

Widge Adams hit a double in the sixth and the How-Hags supporters hopes rose as Mallory followed with a single. A close play at the plate sent Adams to the dugout and Mallory scored from third on a daring steal. Maracle settled down and only ten men faced him in the next three innings.

Came the eight and Swords hard drive for his two run homer and the game was over.

Hunter Goes Route

Bob Hunter went the route for the losers and was touched for eleven hits. He struck out three and walked but one. His team committed four bobbles behind him which did not help the cause any.

Finlan, Point right fielder pulled off the prize fielding feature of the game when he galloped far to his right and pulled up a shoestring catch of a ball that was labelled for two bases at least. He rolled over after making the catch but came up with the ball. Mallory's daring steal home in the sixth was another feature of the hard-fought game.

Jack Hunter pounded out three hits for the winners with Everett and Sword getting a homer and single each.

Maracle, Logue and Baldwin got the remaining hits for the Point.

"Widge" Adams led the losers hit parade with a double and single with Donovan coming through with a brace of one-basers. Mallory and Wardhaugh were the only other How-Hags to connect safely with the Maracle shoots.

Boxing Experts Predict Long Reign for Charles

New York, Sept. 29 (AP) — Boxing men today forecast a long reign for Ezzard Charles, who finally showed some "Tiger" in the most important ring fight of his career.

Ezzard's thorough drubbing of Joe Louis Wednesday night was the best showing he's made here in many tries. He looked and acted like a real champion in a grade-A performance that not only earned him world-wide recognition—except in Britain—but which also brought him long-overdue credit.

Next stop for the 29-year-old Cincinnati Negro will be his home town in mid-November against Freddie Beshore. Ez halted Harrisburg Freddie in 14 rounds in Buffalo last August. The dickering is under way for the return now.

Charles hasn't appeared before the home folks since he won the National Boxing Association title by beating Jersey Joe Walcott in Chicago, June 22, 1949.

After Beshore, what? Who's going to beat him?

Maybe Lee Savold, the British-recognized titlist from Paterson, N.J. and that's a big maybe. Savold is 34 and has been around a long time.

Probably Summer Fight

Most likely Savold and Charles will battle it out next summer in a big outdoor production.

After Savold on the N.B.A.'s latest list of heavyweight contenders, you get:

Jersey Joe Walcott, Joe Baksi, Rocky Marciano, Bob Baker, Rex Layne, Roland La Starza, Cesar Brion and Frankie Buford. Put the name of Joey Maxim, the world's light heavyweight champion, high on the list, too.

But Charles already has beaten Walcott, Baksi and Maxim. It's doubtful if the Cincinnati cobra will give them another whirl at the gold ring for a spell.

All the others are youngsters who are not yet ready for the likes of the sharp-shooting champion.

No matter who he fights next, the big end of the purse is going to go to Charles, this time. He took only 20 per cent in the Louis scrap while Joe got 35.

"From now on it's the champion's cut for us," said co-manager Jake Mintz.

Rain Threatens Slim Chances Of Detroit and Brooklyn to Remain in Pennant Races

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"Rain, rain go away, come again some other day."

That's what the second-place teams in the major league pennant races are chanting today. This is especially true of the beleaguered Brooklyn Dodgers, and to a lesser extent, the Detroit Tigers.

Rain threatens to wash out what little chance the Dodgers and Tigers have to catch the Philadelphia Phillies and New York Yankees, respectively.

The Phillies in the National and the Yanks in the American assured themselves yesterday of finishing no worse than a tie for the pennants in their respective leagues.

Brooklyn, in order to tie the Phillies, must beat Boston twice today and the Phillies Saturday and Sunday. The Phils are idle today and can clinch if the Dodgers split. Detroit, in order to tie the Yanks, must win all three of their remaining games against Cleveland, while the Yanks, idle today, must drop single games to the Boston Red Sox Saturday and Sunday.

Showers Forecast

However, Brooklyn is in danger of having its thin chance wiped out. The Dodgers today are scheduled to play their third doubleheader in as many days against the Braves at Ebbets Field, and the weather forecast is for showers.

If rain prevents the twin bill from starting at the scheduled 1:30 p.m. EST, the games will be started as soon as possible. If necessary, the games will be played at night.

Ford Frick, National League president, said early today that the doubleheader will be played "if at all possible." Conceivably this means that the teams can play all night if necessary.

If the games are rained out, the Dodgers will be washed out of the pennant picture.

Season Ends Sunday

The season ends Sunday Oct. 1 and no post-season games are allowed in which to play off rained-out regular season games. So if the Dodgers are rained out it will be impossible for Brooklyn to wind up the race in a dead heat, as they have no open dates left.

Rain also threatens today's game between Cleveland and the Tigers in Detroit, but there's ample opportunity to make it up as part of a doubleheader Saturday or Sunday.

Brooklyn missed the boat yesterday by dividing a doubleheader with the Braves while the staggering Phils dropped their second twin bill in as many days to New York Giants. Philadelphia's once-imposing lead now stands at three games.

The Dodgers won the opener 6-5, but lost the nightcap 8-4. The Phils were beaten by identical scores of 3-1.

Four-Run Rally

Brooklyn pulled the opener out with a four run rally in the seventh inning against Mickey Haefner. Sid Gordon drove in all of Boston's runs.

He also started the Dodgers on the road to ruin in the nightcap, when he tripled with one out in the seventh and scored a moment later to shove the Braves ahead 4-3. Del Crandall followed with a home run and the game was in the bag.

Sal Maglie and Sheldon Jones turned back the Phils. Maglie stopped the Phils in the opener on five hits to gain his 18th victory. Two more runs by Bob Thomson put Maglie in the winner's circle. Jones scattered seven hits in out-duelling Robin Roberts in the second. The Giants broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning scoring twice when Whitey Lockman blooped a single to left with the bases loaded.

Cards Trounce Reds

In the only other National League game, St. Louis Cardinals trounced Cincinnati Reds 7-0 under the lights at St. Louis. Howie Pollett blanked the Reds on six hits.

The Yanks were forced to go 10 innings before defeating the tailend Philadelphia Athletics 8-6. Phil Rizzuto doubled home Cliff Mapes with the tie-breaking run and then scored the clincher on Yogi Berra's single.

Detroit stayed alive by edging St. Louis Browns 4-3 in 12 innings. The Browns held a 3-2 lead going into the ninth when Aaron Robinson socked a pinch-hit homer to send the game into overtime. Pat Mullin walked to start the Tiger 12th. Hoot Evers sent a bunt down the third-base line but Don Lenhardt had trouble picking the ball up. Lenhardt then spied Mullin streaking for third and fired the ball in that direction, but no one was covering and the ball sailed into left field and Mullin romped home to win the game.

In the only other game, the Red Sox edged Washington Senators 4-3. Chuck Stobbs, with help in the ninth from Williard Nixon, was the winner.

Batemans Defeat Jewellers 23-5 In Finals Opener

"Warpy" O'Brien's Bateman Motors bludgons exploded with atomic-like force in the seventh inning of their "B" Section softball final with the Avon Jewellers last night, blasting out six hits and sending thirteen runs across the plate to turn the game into a rout. The score was 23-5.

The game was the first of a Commercial Softball League double-header played at the Exhibition Grounds under the lights. The series is a best-of-five and the second tilt goes on tap tonight at 6.30 and will be followed by the fourth game of the "A" section finals between Howe and Hagerman and Point Anne.

For the first four innings the game was closely contested with the Jewellers who scored two runs in the first holding a one run lead up to the fifth.

Bateman's broke out in a scoring rash in the fifth shoving over six runs off three clouts and a trio of Jeweller errors.

14 Go to Bat

Fourteen Batemaneers batted in the disastrous seventh when the enemy kicked the ball around with more or less abandon while a half-dozen Bateman clouts aided in the 13-run debacle. Bateman's added three more in the eighth off a pair of hits and more errors.

Avons scored their third run of the game in the sixth when Yank McBride blasted a home run, and added their final tallies in the next innings off McBride's double, McTaggart's single, a walk and a Bateman bobble.

Holmes went the route for the winners yielding up nine hits, striking out ten and walking five. Bellios started for the Jewellers and lasted until the seventh when he gave way to McBride after giving up 13 runs for nine hits. McBride was just another pitcher as far as Bateman's was concerned and they nicked him for six hits and ten runs over the rest of the route.

The Jewellers were very sloppy in the field committing no less than eleven errors, the most of them the costly type.

Yank McBride paced the Jewellers at the plate with a homer, triple and double. Bone hit for the circuit for Bateman's adding a double for good measure. On another occasion he rounded the bases on an error to right field. Graham, O'Brien and Holmes helped themselves each to a pair while Thompson slammed out a double. The teams:

Bateman Motors: Thompson, cf; Hatfield, ss; Bone, c; Semark, 3b; O'Brien, rf; Wright, lf; Callaghan, 1b; Graham, 2b; Holmes, p. Brown replaced Wright in the 9th.

Avon Jewellers: W. McTaggart, lf; Cowan, c; Connell, cf; McBride, 1b, p; B. McTaggart, 3b; Miller, rf; Bellios, p; Ford, ss; Ethier, 2b.

Batemans 100 060 133x—23 15 3

Umpires: Pointer, plate; Young, bases.

Britain's Hockey Year Opens With Few New Worries

(By The Canadian Press)

Britain's 1950-51 hockey season opens Saturday with the same all-Canadian cast—and a few new worries.

Men connected with the ice sport admit this may be the last year of lush jobs for Canadian players. Hockey, they say, may ultimately be muscled out by the man on the flying trapeze.

Instead of playing an unbroken schedule, the National League's six teams will bide their time for eight weeks in the middle of the season. During their absence, the big rinks will stage circuses and pantomimes.

"Nobody should sing the blues, but it looks like a critical year," said Bobby Giddens of Ottawa, editor of a British hockey publication.

"We're all waiting for the answer to the test question—can you turn off hockey like a tap for eight weeks and then expect fans to pick up where they left off?"

Rink managers report advance bookings as good as ever, but acknowledge the winter break may harm attendances. They listed these other reasons for keeping their fingers crossed:

1. A circus is a bigger money-maker than hockey because it draws crowds every night instead of once a week;

2. Fans may be weary of the Canadian monopoly. Of 72 players in the league this year, only one is a native product. He is Johnny Oxley of Brighton Tigers, who learned to play on roller skates outside Wembley stadium:

3. Turnover among Canadians is so rapid fans seldom have a chance to develop favorite players.

Eddie Pellagrini, star shortstop of Baltimore Orioles, International League play off winner, has been sold outright to Philadelphia Phillies.

This will be Pellagrini's second try in the Majors, he was with the Boston Red Sox for two seasons and St. Louis Browns for one before coming to Baltimore this year.

He will report to the Phils next spring.

Tassel Hanover established a world record for three-year-old pacing fillies Thursday by going a mile in 2:00 2-5 at the Lexington trots.

The filly from the Arden Homestead stable of Goshen, N.Y., set the mark in the first heat of the Fairmeade-Greenacres pace but lost the race to Mighty Sun, owned by Sol Camp of Shafter, Calif., and driven by Joe O'Brien, the New Glasgow, N.S. reinsman.

O'Brien drove Mighty Sun to victory in the last two heats after finishing second in the opener.

Tassel Hanover lowered the old mark of 2:00 3-4 held by Anna Bradford.

Another world mark fell in a duel among some of the country's better pacers that went four heats. The combined time for the four miles in the event, the Tattersalls 10 class pace for $3,000, was 8:04 2-5, bettering the 8.04 1-2 mark set in 1947.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

New star Anthony Curtis has this advice for male hopefuls: take off your shirt.

"I admit it,' says the handsome young actor. "That's how I got my break."

Here's how it happened: Curtis was brought here from the east by Universal-International a couple of years ago. He was no overnight sensation. His career stumbled along through bit parts, none of them too impressive.

"Then, about a year ago," he recalls, "I had a dull day. I wasn't doing a picture, so the still photographer suggested that we go down to the beach and shoot some negatives. They put me in a pair of trunks and shot a lot of negatives."

"Whenever fans wrote in for my photograph, the studio sent them my beach pictures, instead of the usual dull portrait," he related. "The result amazed me."

Fan Favorite

Curtis shot to the top of the studio's fan mail favorites. Fan clubs were formed and movie mags went overboard for the boy. The studio caught on and gave him the starring role in "The Prince Who Was A Thief."

The actor has no objections to male cheesecake, or beefcake as it is called in Hollywood.

"The movies are the only business I would ever want to be in," he explained. "I'll do anything I can to stay in. I have no secrets; if people want to know whom I'm dating or what I eat for breakfast, I'll tell them. If taking off my shirt will help, I'll do it.

"All about Eve" ranks among the smartest comedy-dramas in many, many years. Written and directed with great wit by Joseph Mankiewicz, it is a backstage story which should appeal to all discriminating movie goers. It is all about Eve, who rises to become a prize actress by whatever means possible. The casting is perfect, with Bette Davis and Anne Baxter turning in topnotch jobs. Also fine are Celeste Holm, George Sanders, Garry Merrill and Hugh Marlowe.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Most bridge players make a big fuss over plays that produce a game or contract. But such things no longer excite master players. They know the routine play that may come up in any large bid.

What taxes their ingenuity is something that ends in a partial score. Why? The fact that they end at a part score indicates that one or more of the players has an extreme minimum.

So, the making of such a contract takes careful planning. And the defence against it needs careful analysis. Each is after the most that can be had. The meagre material is a challenge.

An edge is with the real master with an ability to read and picture the opponent holdings. His is a photographic mind that tells him the importance of the small cards and where arey are.

During the recent northwest championships came this deal:

NORTH
♠ 8 5 3
♥ J 10 7 6 4
♦ J 6 4

WEST
♠ J 9 2
♥ 8 5 3
♦ A K 10 2
♣ A Q 4

EAST
♠ K 6
♥ Q 9 2
♦ Q 8 3
♣ 9 8 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 7 4
♥ A K
♦ 9 7 5
♣ K J 10

At one table the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 S	Dbl	Pass	1 NT
2 S	Pass	Pass	Pass

In answer to the takeout double by west, the one no-trump reply by east was not a rule bid. It was a manoeuvre. If one no-trump is doubled for penalty, east expects to run to two clubs.

A response of one no-trump in that spot should have two stops in the opponent bid suit. So, do not take the east bid seriously. Consider it only what it was; a ruse by a deceptive player.

At the contract of two spades, an experienced player can play the hand carefully to go down only one. This is with the loss of three diamonds, two clubs, and a trump.

But west and east set the contract two tricks despite anything south could do. Your problem is to do it.

BRIGADE CALLED 25TH

Ottawa, Sept. 29, (CP) —Canada's special service brigade is going to be called the 25th Infantry Bridage because 25 is a nice round number.

That's how the army explained it as the official designation was made known Thursday.

"We wanted a number that hadn't been used before," a spokesman said. "All the numbers up to 23 had been used previously, and 25 sounded better than 24."

So they called it the 25th Brigade.

RIO DE JANIERO GETS TV STATION

Working on the antena which will bring Rio de Janiero, Brazil, its first television programs, these U.S. engineers ignore Rio's glamorous profile in the background. Shown here installing the transmitting equipment atop Sugar Loaf Mountain high over nearby Copacabana Beach, the engineers have announced their job is nearly done. Several tons of equipment had to be hauled by cable car, mule-back, and by hand to the summit of Sugar Loaf which towers 1,300 feet over Rio. —Central Press Canadian.

AT THE BELLE — Betty Hutton and handsome film newcomer, Howard Keel, as the singing and romancing couple, in "Annie Get Your Gun," MGM's biggest Technicolor musical film, closing a record-breaking six-days' engagement at the Belle Theatre tonight.

AT THE CAPITOL — Following his recent hit as the fighting parson in "Stars in My Crown", Joel McCrea is now on the Capitol screen in another two-fisted role in "The Outriders," MGM's thrill-packed outdoor drama, filmed in Technicolor. In this one McCrea is seen as an escaped prisoner who becomes the leader of a Santa Fe wagon train. Arlene Dahl has the feminine lead and the cast also features Barry Sullivan, Claude Jarman, Jr., James Whitmore and Ramon Novarro. The big Technicolor hit is showing today and Saturday for its first showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00. The doors open at 12.30.

Complainant Will Be Charged Not Three Accused

Hamilton, Sept. 29. (CP)—Detective work by defence counsel and quick action by two city detectives in verifying certain information and getting a statement from a complainant in an assault and robbery charge was credited here Thursday with saving three men from possible prison terms if convicted of the assault and robbery count.

The three men, Donald Lebarra, Thomas Anderson and James Gordon, were acquitted of the charge by Judge Theo L. McCombs after he had read the alleged "confession" of the complainant, Edward Ninham, of London. It was introduced into court as an exhibit.

Police said Ninham will appear in magistrate's court today charged with armed robbery, perjury and obstruction.

While the statement was not read in court, it was understood to contain an admission that the story Ninham told police earlier was untrue; that he was not assaulted and robbed by the trio, but rather, that he had held them up.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was shaking her head to herself, saying to pop, William, I could just kick myself.

That shouldn't be difficult if u dont aim to ohigh, pop said. ut dont do anything rash. What's it all about? he said, and ma said, Well, I dozed off for a mutch needed nap this afternoon, and I was awakened with a start by the doorbell ringing, and before I was quite awake I bawt a trial subscription to Modes of the Moment magazine from a soft eyed young man with wavy hair. Of course it was only a 2 doller trial order and it may actually tern up in the mail this time, but after all my vows and determinations never to trust another handsome young man at the frunt door, I feel it was very weak on my part, she said.

Dont be too hard on yourself, my dear, pop said. Some of the most brilliant geniuses have acted in the same way under similar circumstances. Did you know the grate Professer Einstein had a severe cold in the head the day he doped out the theory of relativity? he said, and ma said, I dont see what that's got to do with me.

It fits your case exactly, my dear, pop said. One cold nite the professer dreemed that he was sitting on an iceberg wearing a costume of buttons with nuthing between them but his own goose pimpels, and he awoke shivering to find that he had kicked off his blankets. But in his semmy conscious state he dozed back to sleep again instead of pulling the covers back, and he had another dreem in which he was sliding on a glacier clad only in a sarong made of icicles ,and he woke up again and still didn'tdoanything about the blankets, and that's why, he was interrupted by his own sneezes the whole time he was figuring out his famous theory. So you can seen even the most brainy of us are not quite ourselves when we are not quite awake, pop said.

I could still kick myself, ma said.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

When the reporter's sleepy voice finally came over the wire he said incisively: "Tim, get some clothes on and meet me at the News Tower right away."

"Whassat?" muttered Rourke. "Who the devil is this?"

"Mike Shayne. Did you hear me?"

"I heard you but it didn't take," he protested. "What time is it, anyway?"

"About three o'clock."

"When I left your apartment I thought you were set for the night, Mike.' The reporter sounded wide awake now, and worried. "I thought. . ."

"You always get mixed up when you think," Shayne snapped. "Meet me at the News Tower in twenty minutes." He dropped the phone on the hook and grinned at Corey. "Send me a bill for these calls, Ben." With an airy wave of his hand he went out, crossed the lobby to the outside where his car was parked in the driveway.

Twenty minutes later he parked on the Boulevard opposite the News Tower on Sixth Street. The elevator boy on duty said "Mister Rourke just went up. Didn't act he he was in too good a humor."

Shayne grinned and said "Tim getting old and needs his sleep."

Rourke was lounging just inside the door of the City Room when Shayne entered. He stifled a yawn and began querulously, "What the devil's the matter with you, waking a guy up. . .?"

Shayne took one of his thin arms and led him down the corridor towards the newspaper morgue. "Things are beginning to break. You know these files better than anyone else, and I need some fast action."

Rourke opened the door and switched on the lights as he went in. "What's happened?"

"That jewel robbery is breaking fast. I want you to dig out the dope on a couple of other big ruby thefts. First, a man named King. James T. King. October of forty-three. An $80,000 ruby ring Remember it?"

"Sure." Rourke's nostrils twitched and his eyes were suddenly very bright in their cavernous sockets as he went confidently toward the files. "At the Tropical Towers Hotel. Bell Boy got sapped." He ran a thin index finger down a file of bound copies of newspapers, selected one and pulled it out. "What do you want on it?"

"The man's background. Did you cover the story?"

"Yeh. Interviewed him that night. Didn't like the guy much, but his wife was nice. All that stuff will be in my first story," he went on as he turned the pages swiftly. Here's my story. . . first page of the second section. Pix and everything." He spread it open for Shayne to read.

"Good," said Shayne. "I'll get what I want here while you dig up one a little more difficult. This was a robbery in New Orleans a couple of years later. Probably October of forty-five. Will there be anything on it here?"

"Was it big?"

"A star ruby pendant. I think the insurance was a hundred grand. . .maybe a hundred and ten. The wife got killed."

"I remember that one," said Rourke eagerly. "Sure, I interviewed Voorland and gave it a local twist because the ruby was bought here. I tied it in with the King case. Man's name was Kendrick." Rourke was digging into the files again.

Shayne gave his attention to the feature story on the King robbery. There was a blurred picture of King and his wife, the man tall and thin and stooped, and worried looking, just as Earl Randolph had described him. His wife was a few years younger and had a pleasant placid expression though she appeared a little dazed in the picture.

Taking out his notebook, he ran his eyes swiftly down the printed column, copying the relevant material on King's background in Massillon, Ohio.

Rourke was standing by with the story he had written on the Kendrick murder robbery when Shayne finished. He laid the first story aside and concentrated on the New Orleans case, gleaned from the facts Rourke had learned from Walter Voorland. There were no pictures, and the background material was somewhat sketchy, but he found enough for his purpose, and quickly jotted it down.

He waited impatiently for Rourke to replace the files, then suggested "let's go in your office and charge a couple of telegrams to the Daily News."

"What are you onto, Mike?" What's the tie-up?"

"I'm not sure. There may not be one." Shayne sat down at Rourke's desk with his notebook before him. He said "Massillon, Ohio, should be big enough to have a Worldwide Agency." He lifted the telephone and called Western Union, then dictated the following message:

Manager,
Worldwide Detective Agency,
Massillon, Ohio.

Must have present whereabouts James T King formerly one three eight Birch Street, Massillon. Inherited fortune in nineteen forty three and sold home there. Spare no expense and wire me immediately care Miami ally News.

Timothy Rourke.

After the message was read back to him, he said "here's another one." He dictated a similar message to the New York manager of Worldwide, substituting the name of Roland Kendrick for that of King and an address in Bedford.

He hung up, sat back and grinned at Rourke. "Don't look so worried. Your paper can afford the price of a couple of telegrams for the story you're going to get—if my hunch is right."

"Why do you want to locate those two guys?" Rourke demanded.

"To ask them if they ever heard of the Rajah of Hindupoor and certain circumstances regarding the purchase and insurance on the rubbies they lost."

"What has the Rajah of of thing-a-ma-jig got to do with it?

"That's what I'm trying to find out."

A shirt-sleeved man wearing a green eyeshade came to the open door and said "saw your light in here, Tim. Since you're around you might as well cover an assignment over on the Beach."

"I might huh? What do you think I am? A slave? I'm headed for the hay right now."

"Okay, Okay," said the man soothingly. "I've known the time you'd jump out of bed to cover a sweet one like this." He turned to go away.

"Wait a minute," Rourke called. "What's sweet about it?"

"Just a little murder. . .maybe with a sex angle, and a couple hundred thousand dollars worth of rubies for a side dish."

Shayne was on his feet. "What are you trying to tell us?"

"They just found Mrs. Mark Dustin's body at the foot of the bathing pier at the Sunlux. If you don't want to cover it, Tim . . ."

Both men were on their way out before he could finish the sentence.

As they pulled away from the curb in Shayne's car, Rourke settled back in the seat beside the detective and said "what's this Mrs. Dustin like? What's been going on, Mike? Those wires you sent back in the office. . .and the Rajah of something or other."

Shayne said "Celia Dustin was a beautiful gal. I'd rather fill in some background, since it'll all have to come into the open now."

He guided the car around the traffic circle at 13th street and headed across the Causeway to Miami Beach. "It won't make me sore if you forget what I tell you about my secretary. Right after you left my apartment I went in the bedroom and found Lucy in there. She was on my bed dressed in a nightgown and robe and she was unconscious. Dangerous brain concussion. She was unconscious. . .blood oozing from her scalp. I called Doc Price. He came and dressed the wound. . ."

Shayne hesitated a moment and Rourke said "go on. If you and your secretary want to play rough it's none of my affair."

Shayne swiftly gave his friend a resume of what Lucy had been able to tell them during her brief period of consciousness, then added, "I called Mrs. Dustin at the Sunlux and her phone didn't answer. Harry Jessup is the house dick there. He went up to check the suite for me. Found her missing and Dustin knocked cold with an overdose of sleeping tablets. I got over there fast.

He told Rourke what he had learned upon his arryial, and the story Dustin told after doctor succeeded in arousing him.

Rourke said "so Painter thinks she arranged the holdup."

"I don't know what Painter thinks by this time. Maybe her murder changes that. . .maybe not."

"It could still add up the same way," Rourke suggested. "If Mr. X were her accomplice and he got the idea she was calling you to doublecross him, she was practically inviting him to murder her."

"Same way if he wasn't her accomplice and guessed from what she said over the phone that she had a line on his identity," Shayne argued.

"You're sold on Mrs. Dustin?"

"I liked her," Shawne hesitated, then went on slowly. "Remember telling me in my apartment that you'd been trying to reach both Randolph and Voorland without success?"

"Sure. I wanted some inside dope on the fabulous bracelet."

"Earl Randolph claims he has been in all evening," said Shayne quietly.

"I tried his phone half a dozen times. There was never any answer," Rourke complained.

"Maybe it's out of order. I found him in about an hour ago . . .going over old records and digging up the King and Kendrick thefts."

"What connection is there?"

"From where I sit the only connection between the three men is Walter Voorland. He made all three star ruby deals."

"And. . .?"

"And I think the Rajah of Hindupoor called him from the Miami Waldorf tonight and Voorland hurried out to see him, using the name of Smith."

S. Korean Troops Await Orders to Cross 38th Parallel

Estimated 100,000 Commies Massing to Defend N. Korea

Tokyo, Sept. 30—(AP)—Artillery and planes carried the fight today to an estimated 100,000 reds massing for defence of North Korea. South Korea troops awaited orders to cross Parallel 38.

One republic division already was at the 38th Parallel on the east coast and three other South Korean divisions were within a quick march of it. Plans have been completed for a drive against the red capital of Pyongyang, a south Korean army spokesman said.

If the republics army chief of staff gives the word, the war will be carried into red-held territory for the first time since communist aggressors left it in their June 25 invasion of South Korea.

AP correspondent Leif Erickson, from a U.S. air force plane, watched South Korean artillery shells burst on communist positions in hills along the artificial boundary.

Allied light bombers Saturday swept over the border to Chorwon, reported to be the headquarters of the red army, to bomb and strafe an estimated 100,000 communists believed concentrated there. Chorwon is 18 miles north of the border on the western side, 48 air miles north of liberated Seoul.

Within 24 Miles

Northwest of Seoul, United States troops advanced within 24 miles of the 38th Parallel. The troops sought to clean out reds in the Kimpo peninsula between the Han river and the Yellow Sea.

A U.S. navy summary said a party from the royal navy cruiser Ceylon landed more than 120 miles northwest of Seoul on the island of Taechong, within 10 miles of the 38th Parallel. British sources reported the reds had evacuated the island.

To the south, new bombardments by the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan were reported at Kunsan.

The red radio withheld from North Koreans the news that the war is over in South Korea for the defeated communist army. Instead, it reported "fierce street battles" in Seoul — where Gen. MacArthur Friday turned over civil control to the republic's president, Syngman Rhee. For the rest of Korea, the red communique summarized:

"On all fronts, units of the people's army continue to wage bitter battles against American troops."

Sound of Battle Heard

The sound of battle still rang in the ears of Seoul's dazed citizens as they strove to resume normal living in the war-ravaged 500-year-old capital. AP correspondent O. H. P. King said the thunder of guns sounded close to the northeast for two hours Saturday morning.

College St. Bridge Closed 3 Days Beginning Sunday

The bridge crossing the Moira River on College Street will be closed to all vehicular traffic for three days starting Sunday, October 1st, County Engineer W. L. Langlois announced today.

Mr. Langlois, who is engineer to the Hastings Belleville Suburban Roads Commission, added that the bridge will be open to pedestrian traffic at all times, as usual.

The bridge is being closed in order to effect necessary repairs.

In order to inconvenience traffic and bus service and the motoring public as little as possible, the Suburban Road Commission has arranged to carry out the work starting Sunday so that vehicular traffic will only be deprived of the use of the bridge on two week days.

Bus service from College and Cannifton Road or down Station Street by the Dunbar, Geddes or West Hill buses will be suspended during the three-day period.

Buses will be rerouted via Moira Street East to the Upper Bridge thus to the terminal.

Bus riders may walk across the Cannifton Road Bridge and embus at the corner of College and East Moira Street on the regular

Russian Leaders Called Group of Cruel, Selfish Men

Middlebury, Vt., Sept. 30—(AP)—Philip C. Jessup, United States ambassador-at-large, today denounced Russia's leaders as "a group of cruel and selfish men intent only upon the perpetuation of their own power."

In a bitter attack on communism, Jessup said Soviet leaders rely on "tricks and promises" to keep their people under control, isolated from the world of truth and freedom. He spoke before the Sesquicentennial Convocation of Middlebury College.

Jessup described top Soviet officials as "a favored elite who live in comfort or even in luxury —but always in fear."

At one point in his address, he described Russian leaders as "reckless and salvage men" who have the power "to move millions into war and who do not hesitate to do so if their personal power will be enhanced thereby."

PEDESTRIAN KILLED

Oshawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) — An unidentified pedestrian was killed Friday night when he was struck by an automobile at Happy Hollow, two miles east of here. He was the third person to be killed in a highway accident at the same spot in less than two months.

W. R. Noonan of Hamilton, driver of the car, said he struck the man in the centre of the road just after passing a car.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 30. (CP)—Synopsis—Indian summer holds sway in the southeastern half of the continent this Saturday morning, but cloudy cool weather prevails over most of Western Canada and the northwestern states in fact, snow is falling in some parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The dividing line between these two extremes of weather lies across Northern Ontario, through Lake Superior and the North Central States. This boundary will remain stationary or retreat slightly northward today, but there is a risk of the cold air moving southward by Monday.

Challenge Propriety of Admitting Russian Inspectors to Factories

Leeds, Yorkshire, England, Sept. 30—(CP)—The propriety of admitting Russians into British factories to inspect goods ordered by the Soviet government has been challenged by two prominent machine-tool manufacturers in Yorkshire.

They charged that the presence of Russian inspectors is often a cunning manoeuvre to obtain inside information about British designs and methods of industrial operation.

W. Berry, chairman and managing-director of Henry Berry and company, of Leeds, said:

"The Russian inspectors, are very highly trained technically, but they lack practical experience in the engineering field. When they are in a factory they go into every little detail of an order, often causing delays in manufacture and shipping.

"Then the inspectors are changed suddenly, which happens frequently. This seems proof sufficient that they are out to give their men practical experience and a good inside knowledge of our manufacturing methods and conditions."

Similar views were exressed by Charles Crabtree, former chairman of the east and west riding regional federation of British industries. He said he had been informed by manufacturers that the Russians caused considerable difficulty in the factories by holding up exports of machinery for "exceedingly trivial" reasons.

"It is possible," he said, "The Russians may place a comparatively small order with a company just to get their inspectors inside a plant."

EARL FOX, DRIVER OF WESTON BREAD, BADLY INJURED

Struck by CPR Train At Ivanhoe Crossing

His Weston Bread delivery truck struck by a westbound C.P.R. freight at Ivanhoe, 15 miles north of here, Earl Fox, 96 Catherine St., Belleville, was critically injured early this morning. He was taken to Belleville General Hospital where his condition was said to be critical.

The accident occurred in a dense fog at approximately eight o'clock, when Fox, a relief driver for Weston's, apparently failed to see the approaching engine. The train struck the delivery truck with terrific impact and the vehicle and driver were carried half a mile down the track before the train could be stopped.

Pried Out of Wreckage

The injured man was pried out of the wreckage by George Norton, section foreman at Ivanhoe.

Two doctors from Madoc, Dr. R. S. Beatty, and Dr. George Mullins, attended the injured man at the scene before he was taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance from Belleville. Provincial Constable Thomas Lummiss of Madoc investigated.

Fox, a married man with a young son, was stated to have left the Weston Bread plant on Parker street for Madoc at about seven o'clock. He was enroute to deliver bread at Madoc when the accident happened.

Golden Jubilee Of Churchill Will Be Marked

London, Sept. 30—(AP)—Fifty years ago tomorrow, Winston Churchill was elected to the House of Commons for the first time, and Tuesday the Conservatives will give him a "Golden Jubilee" dinner.

Churchill first ran for the House of Commons in 1899 in the Oldham district but was defeated. He tried again in the same district Oct. 1, 1900, and won.

Since then he has sought reelection 16 times and suffered defeat four times. He has served in the commons, continuously since 1924.

278 Fatalities In Six Months On Ontario Roads

Toronto, Sept. 30 (CP)—Ontario's highway death toll during the first six months of 1950 was 278, with a ratio of one fatality for every 65 accidents, the Provincial Highways Department said today.

The figures compared with 324 fatalities, a ratio or one in 44 during the same period last year.

One Dead, 75 Injured In Landslide in Sweden 30 Houses Destroyed

Surte, Sweden, Sept. 30—(AP)—Bulldozers worked throughout the night to clear rubble spread yesterday over this industrial town of 2,000 by a giant landslide which killed one woman, injured 75 other persons and made more than 300 homeless.

At least 30 houses were destroyed when a 1,500-foot-thick chunk of earth, loosened by weeks or rain, came roaring down on the town.

There were no estimates of the total damage. but the loss in building property alone was set at more than 3,000,000 Swedish crowns (about $600,000).

Communications throughout the area were paralyzed, and ship traffic was halted by the mass of clay which clogged the waters of the Goeta River, one of Sweden's most important transport lines.

The railroad station was almost swallowed up by the avalanche of earth. It took rescue workers nearly two hours to burrow through the roof and free Miss Ragnhild Rydh, the agent.

The only known fatality was Mrs. Hilma Wennerberg, 58, killed by falling rubble when she sought refuge in her cellar.

Miss Canada IV Develops Propellor Trouble and Trial Runs Delayed Until Repaired

Picton, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP) —Miss Canada IV quit on owner-driver Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., today as he started her on a trial run. It looked as if Wilson's latest bid for the world water speed record would be postponed at least until tomorrow.

Picton, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP) — Miss Canada IV's scheduled assault on the world's water speed record was delayed today because of propeller trouble.

Mechanics gave the sleek power boat a trial spin and said they got her up to 3,000 revolutions a minute. But they said her English-made steel propeller was "unsuited" to the water.

They said they would replace the English prop with a Canadian made one and would give the craft another trial spin before making a run at the record later today.

Observers said weather conditions were "almost perfect". There was a four-inch chop on the Bay of Quinte course, and a slight breeze was blowing across the course from the east.

The course — a measured mile — runs north and south on the bay. Miss Canada must take two runs in her record attempt — one south and another north.

This will be Miss Canada's last chance to prove she has what it takes to set a world mark.

The big, shark-nosed speedboat has just been a headache to owner-driver Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., in years of fruitless campaigns aimed at grabbing a chunk of international glory.

Weather permitting, Wilson will take Miss Canada out into the Bay of Quinte today for a crack at the world speedboat record of 160.3 miles an hour, set last winter by Stanley Sayres of Seattle in Slo-Mo-Shun. Wilson has announced that it will be his last racing effort.

He has until Tuesday to make his attempt under American Power Boat Association rules. If the weather stays bad over that period, he can apply for an extension.

Yesterday he was hampered by a cross-chop as he breezed to three trials at undisclosed speeds. Then he took the boat from the river to have her propeller shaved.

As Wilson moves onto the course for his last try, he and his boat have a long series of disappointments to live down.

Launched In 1949

Launched in June 1949, Miss Canada challenged for the Harmsworth trophy a month later. She developed supercharger trouble, finishing third among the four starters in the first heat, fourth in the second.

Propeller trouble fouled up a shot at the record here in August, 1949, and an effort to win the silver cup at Detroit the following month.

In October, Miss Canada set a North American mark at Picton, but broke a propeller shaft in her effort to smash the world mark.

This summer it was steering-shaft trouble that sent her wobbling to the sidelines with a smashed panel in her hull in the Harmsworth trophy race.

U.K. Stops Export Of 27 Machines To Russia, Poland

Stockport, Cheshire, England, Sept. 30 (Reuters) —The government today stopped the export to Russia and Poland of 27 vertical boring machines which could be used in the manufacture of arms. Craven Brothers, the firm of machine-tool manufacturers making the machines, were told that export licences had been withdrawn.

Conservative Leader Winston Churchill complained in a broadcast Aug. 26 that despite the international situation Craven Brothers were exporting important machine tools to Soviet-associated countries.

The government promised it would consider banning the export of machine tools which the Commonwealth and Atlantic treaty powers were likely to need for their own defence.

KING WILL OPEN SESSION

London, Sept. 30. (Reuters)—The King will open a new session of Parliament, Oct. 31, five days after he opens the rebuilt House of Commons Chamber, it was announced today.

Parliament will continue its present session when it reassembles October 17.

Nehru Opposes Proposal to Pass 38th Parallel

New Delhi, India, Sept. 30. —(AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India, said today he was "no great admirer" of Syngman Rhee and flatly opposed the South Korean President's proposal that United Nations forces push beyond the 38th parallel in Korea.

Nehru told a press conference India feels the U.N. armies should not cross the parallel "until all other means of settlement have been explored."

Reminded by a correspondent that this conflicted with Rhee's recommendations, Nehru said, "I'm no great admirer of President Rhee anyhow."

The Indian statesman said he was "very glad that aggression has been defeated" in Korea, but now he believes the "psychological moment should be seized to further the objective of the United Nations."

He described the objective as establishment of a free, United Korea.

Asked if he approved suggestions that some North Koreans be tried as war criminals for alleged atrocities, Nehru said, 'I am sure if people are tried for atrocities it will be a long list and include persons of both sides.

Replying to another question, Nehru called the reported stripping of North Korean prisoners by their captors "against all civilized conduct and decency.".

CANADA WATCHES FOUR MAJOR ISSUES IN ASIA

Korea Influences, Affects All of Them

Ottawa, Sept. 30—(CP) — At least four major issues are combining now to keep Canada's official attention focussed on Asia probably as never before in peacetime. They are:

1. The Korean war and it political, military and social ramifications.
2. Communist China's bid for recognition by western powers and her drive for a seat in the United Nations.
3. American steps — welcomed here—to discuss the calling of a Japanese peace conference with other powers, including Canada.
4. The commonwealth's program to build up the under-developed countries of Asia.

Korea affects and influences all of them.

Korea's impact on any final Japanese treaty remains to be seen, but it has certainly placed a new light on consideration of the question not only of Japanese security from aggression but of western military security in the far east.

Korea has spurred and hastened the commonwealth drive to do something about the backward countries, to build them up and to try to stop the tide of communism.

Pearson Outlines Policy

For Korea itself, External Affairs Minister Pearson has outlined to the U.N. a Canadian policy calling for democratic rule and for a primarily-Asiatic U.N. commission to chart the country's course in getting back on its feet.

For China's communists, Canada still has not acted on the months-old Peiping bid for recognition by Ottawa. In the U.N. last week, Canada abstained from voting on an Indian resolution to seat the reds.

Recognition of Peiping by Canada and by the U.N. are two separate things. But Canada's policies on the two could hardly long be divergent. Feelings here is that Ottawa won't act alone on recognition while the matter is before this U.N. assembly session but might not delay indefinitely if the session doesn't make a decision.

The U.S. diplomatic moves to consult other countries about a Japanese treaty are welcomed here because Canada has been arguing for that for months. The commonwealth countries have discussed the possible contents of such a treaty but felt the initiative should come from Washington.

It is likely that it will be months yet before the present moves bring any definite results. But Ottawa, expecting to be consulted in the fairly near future, looks on them as a good step.

TENDERS RESIGNATION

Stratford, Sept. 30—(CP)—Provincial police constable George A. Govier of Mitchell, a member of the Stratford detachment for the past three years, has tendered his resignation from the force. Constable Govier is planning to set up business in Paris, Ont.

School Children Know 'Saucers' Exist, School Paper Tells Them

Columbus, O., Sept. 30 — (AP) —Fifth-grade school children—if they learned their lessons this week — now know there are such things as flying saucers.

They know because their "newspaper" told them so.

Their newspaper is My Weekly Reader, published by the American Education Press of Columbus, one of the oldest educational publishing houses in the United States. It is required reading in many schools, in every state and 55 foreign countries.

My Weekly Reader for the Sept. 18-22 week, carried an article by "Tom Trott," a frankly fictitious character, on flying saucers. He told his youthful readers:

"This week, we are at an airport on the Atlantic coast. The most exciting thing we have seen is 'flying saucers.'

"For several years, people in many parts of our country have claimed to have seen flying saucers. The government proved, that some of these people were imagining things. However, I am allowed to tell you now that some flying saucers are real. They belong to our air force. They will some day be a big help to our country."

("Tom Trott" and other writers to the contrary, the U.S. Air Force has said and repeated: "We have investigated all reports of flying saucers and find nothing to substantiate any of them.")

Why, then, did the publishing house — which has a 50-year tra-

Foreign Exchange Trading Suspended By Control Board

Cabinet Meets to Consider Action Regarding Rates

Ottawa, Sept. 30. (CP)— The government meets today to consider Foreign Exchange rates, and the general expectation is that the Canadian dollar will be returned to near-parity in terms of the United States dollar.

Trading in foreign exchange by authorized dealers was indefinitely suspended last night on instructions of the Foreign Exchange Control Board, an agency under the finance department which has controlled foreign exchange since the first week of the Second World War.

Finance Minister Abbott made the announcement in a press release. He made a similar announcement when the dollar was revalued at its present rate—9.1 per cent discount—a year ago.

All signs and unofficial rumors have pointed for months to a revaluation of the dollar as Canada's exchange position has showed swift day-to-day improvement.

The brief announcement, without amplification or explanation, added that the cabinet today would consider action with respect to exchange rates.

It said also that the matter was being discussed with the international monetary fund and that "it would be inadvisable for. . . the public to form conclusions as to what action would be taken until an official announcement is made."

Just Forewarning

However, there seems little doubt that the announcement was a forewarning that the dollar would be revalued.

It is believed the announcement will come later today or Sunday so that normal trading may be resumed Tuesday at the latest.

Recent trading developments have piled up the Canadian balance of United States exchange in Canada to a figure believed to be around $1,500,000,000—more than what is considered a safe margin.

This is in comparison to the low mark of around $500,000,000 to which it fell when Canada embarked upon an austerity program in November, 1947, curtailing a large volume of imports from the United States.

Fixed at War's Start

The Canadian dollar was fixed at an arbitrary value of about 10 per cent discount in relation to the United States dollar a the start of the Second World War, and held there throughout the war and after.

It was put back to one half of one per cent discount—virtual parity—July 1, 1946, and remained there until the action a year ago when the pound sterling was drastically devalued and Canada dropped the Canadian dollar back to virtually the wartime level in terms of the United States dollar.

Putting the dollar back to virtual parity might mean a drop in the cost of what are considered living essentials, because it will

Justice Reserves Judgment On Application

Toronto, Sept. 30 (CP)—Mr. Justice G. A. Gale reserved judgment Friday on an application by the Globe Printing Company for an order quashing certification of the Toronto Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) as bargaining agent for circulation-department employees of the Globe and Mail.

J. L. McLennan, counsel for the company, contended that the Ontario Labor Relations Board had denied the company a fair hearing in the proceedings leading to certification.

In granting certification July 22, the board found that 57 of 92 eligible employees were members of the union. The company contended that 20 employees had resigned from the union before the board hearings were completed.

While rulings of the board are statutorily not open to appeal, Mr. McLennan argued that the board had refused to allow cross-examination of Guild witnesses by company counsel and had declined to investigate the reported resignations. He argued that this was a denial of justice by the board and made the hearing improper.

Eric Silk, counsel for the board, said the board had satisfied itself that a majority of the employees were union members in good standing before granting certification.

Mr. Justice Gale said he might not be able to deliver judgment before Christmas. The matter was of some consequence and considerable research was involved.

The problem here is whether or not I have the right to intervene, by reason of the statute enacted by the people's representatives," he observed.

407 Students In Night Classes

While 210 additional students registered for night classes at Belleville Collegiate Institute Thursday night, bringing the total to date to 407, this number is 280 short of the 1949 total, Principal George Currie said today.

Of the total registration, 303 students are from the city and 104 from outside points.

This enrolment, Principal Currie said, enabled those in charge to set up classes in the following subjects; bookkeeping, commercial art, cabinet making, crafts, drafting, drawing and painting, electronics, general construction, upper school mathematics, sewing, motor mechanics, shorthand, typing, welding and English for new Canadians.

The large enrolment, Mr. Currie said, has necessitated double classes in typing, motor mechanics, sewing and welding.

Some classes have reached capacity and waiting lists have been set up in typing, art, cabinet making, motor mechanics, and sewing.

POLICE BLOTTER

The job of a street letter carrier may seem but routine but it has its excitement as well as dangers. Just ask L. Wannamaker 154 Victoria Ave.

Delivering mail in the MacDonald Ave., area Friday afternoon, Wannamaker was a bit surprised when a dog raced down the walk as he approached the house and bit him on the hand drawing blood. The matter was turned over to Thos. Thorn, city dog catcher.

Mrs. Elsie Soules, 14 Sixth St., in the Veterans' homes project in the east end of the city, complained to police that her purse had been stolen Friday night while she attended the Front St. SACO Club. The purse was later found on an adjoining roof, but the contents—$90 in bills— were missing.

Storm Sewer On Catherine St. Is Discussed

Requirements in the way of a storm sewer needed to alleviate spring flooding conditions in the Catherine Street area were discussed Friday evening at a special meeting held at the new Prince Charles School for ratepayers of the area.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Allin, Ald. Thomas, as chairman of the works board, and Charles Mott and Stanley Price, members of the city engineering staff. Approximately 40 interested ratepayers attended the meeting, as well as Alderman Armstrong and Alderman Liddle.

Ratepayers whose basements and cellars are flooded in the spring and after heavy rains told city officials just how serious their troubles were, while members of the city engineering staff and works department outlined what in their opinion was needed to overcome the difficulty.

Recommended is construction of a new storm sewer varying in size from 18 to 36 inches and running from just south of Sidney Street to Octavia St. at the top of the Catherine Street hill. There the storm sewer would empty into the present storm sewer.

Much of the difficulty according to the engineering staff, is that with no storm sewer now running along upper Catherine Street, surface water and roof water drains into the sanitary sewer which backs up into basements in the spring and after heavy rains. With construction of a storm sewer this water would not go into the sanitary sewer.

Construction costs of the proposed sewer is estimated at approximately $80,000.

No decision was reached at the meeting and it is planned to hold a second meeting to further go into details with ratepayers.

Brother-in-Law Held on Charge Of Manslaughter

Toronto, Sept. 30 (CP)—Harry Gamblin, 35, died of injuries suffered in a fight at his home last night, and police have charged Buddy Jeffries, his brother-in-law, with manslaughter.

Oddly enough, Jeffries was picked up as a result of a series of incidents not directly connected with the fracas. Police said Jeffries apparently left the house and drove through the city. He was arrested after his car knocked down and injured a pedestrian and then crashed into another car, injuring the driver.

It wasn't until after Jeffries was questioned about the accidents that any connection between him and the fight at the Gamblin home was established.

Police quoted Thomas Capson, a resident of the Gamblin home, as saying that two men became embroiled in a fight after an argument between Gamblin and his wife.

School Girl Found Slain Along Road

Mission, B.C., Sept. 30 (CP)—A 13-year-old school girl was found slain last night on a roadside near this Fraser Valley town, and a senior R.C.M.P. official said she had been raped and murdered.

The girl, Laura Grant, daughter of R. G. Grant, a district farmer, disappeared yesterday afternoon. Her parents became worried and notified the R.C.M.P. detachment here, who instituted a search. Her nude body was found at dusk.

Outraged citizens, led by police are combing farmlands for her slayer. A bloodhound was brought in from Victoria.

Wilson Tendered Banquet By PE Chamber of Commerce, Yacht Club at Rickarton Castle

(By Staff Reporter)

Picton, Ont., Sept. 30—Harold Wilson hadn't been in this boating town two hours when they threw a banquet for him at the Rickarton Castle hotel.

The Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce and the Prince Edward Yacht Club combined to extend best wishes to the pilot of Miss Canada IV and to tell him that Picton and Prince Edward County as a whole were behind him.

The dinner was attended by more than 45 members and guests of the P.E.Y.C. along with Wilson and his crew Gord Patterson and Walter Harvey. Patterson is the boy who wheels the big tractor-trailer over the roads and doubles as mechanic. Harvey is the riding mechanic a short little man, who weighs about 140 lbs. and whose English wife Jean is one of the most fanatical, when it comes to Miss Canada IV.

End of Racing For Wilson

Hailed by several speakers as one of the greatest advertising attractions ever to bless Prince Edward County, Wilson still maintains that this is the end of the speedboat racing trial for him win or lose. "I'm sorry to say that this is very definitely my last attempt in any way in speedboating", Wilson said. "I simply cannot work and race boats at the same time," he said. "One of them has to go." Wilson further stated that he thought he could "come close to the record" but he really didn't know. His main objective now he said was wrapped up in these words "I still want to show Canada that Miss Canada IV can go."

The banquet was presided over by Dr. C. S. Slack and words of welcome and hope for success were extended to the Wilson party by a number of local men Included in the list of speakers were allowed just one minute each for their words were Frank Harris, Commodore of the P.E. Y.C., who said "we enjoy helping Harold Wilson, and all of us hope he breaks it wide open tomorrow morning (Saturday)".

Another who spoke were, Don Baxter M.L.A., who said "this man is a good sportsman, a cheerful loser, and a fine gentleman, if there were such a thing as an honorary citizenship in Prince Edward county, the Wilson family would have it extended to them gladly."

Wish Driver Success

Other men with long histories and high up in the P.E.Y.C. organization who wished Wilson success were Don Thomas, vice-commodore and race chairman for the attempt, Fred L. Ward, past commodore, the past president of the Chamber of Commerce, C. Carter, Jim Hepburn, Ed. Williams, Lindley Calnan, publicity chairman of the P.E.Y.C., William Henley, Mayor of Picton, Buff Cooper, who presented Wilson with some apples and cheese from Prince Edward County.

Wilson, whose slow wit has often been admired by the press and public rose to the occasion again by suggesting that it was 'rather like carrying coals to Newcastle' to give him cheese, when Ingersoll was his home. He accepted the gifts with thanks, however.

After the luncheon, there was a mass exodus to the P.E.Y.C docks to see the sleek Miss Canada IV make her trial runs.

Demolition Party of Destroyer Shows How Mine is Destroyed

(Editor's note: A press dispatch from Tokyo Thursday reported briefly that a Canadian destroyer, H.M.C.S. Athabaskan, has destroyed a mine in the vicinity of Kunsan, on the west coast of Korea. Here is a detailed, eyewitness account of how the operation was carried out.)

By LIEUT. ALBERT J. PLOZ
Royal Canadian Navy Information Officer

Aboard H.M.C.S. Athabaskan off the west coast of Korea, Sept. 29 (delayed)—(CP) — Demolition parties from the Athabaskan destroyed five mines—one Tuesday, three Wednesday and one Thursday—after this Canadian destroyer spotted a mine field in the approaches to the enemy-held port of Kunsan, on the west coast of Korea.

Tuesday's trip was called "operation whoomps" by the Athabaskan's commanding officer, Cmdr. Robert P. Welland of McCreary, Man., and Victoria. A party of 20 officers and men left the destroyer in two motor cutters.

The boats were under the charge of Lieut. Paul McCulloch of Victoria. Commissioned Officer David Hurl of Winnipeg was in charge of the demolition party.

Sight Two Mines

Two mines were sighted. Commissioned Officer Hurl and a four man demolition party transferred from the first cutter to a dinghy, which had been towed astern of the cutter, and headed for one of the mines.

The party included Able Seaman Edward Dalton of Fort Frances, Ont., Petty Officer Tom Shields of Calgary and Able Seaman David Kidd of Winnipeg.

As the dinghy drew alongside the bobbing, wicked-looking mine Dalton calmly but carefully reached out and grabbed it.

Hurl, an expert in this kind of thing, examined the mine to determine its type. The scrutiny over, he and his men fastened demolition charges fitted with a five-minute fuse.

This was no time for the dinghy to stick around and as soon as Hurl gave the word, they bent to the oars.

The motor cutter then swung in, took the dinghy in tow and headed away from the mine at full speed.

It moved away about 300 yards when there was a great explosion. That mine threat was no more.

Returning to ship—there was no time left in which to set off any more mines that morning—the demolition party received a "well done" from Cmdr. Welland. Four other mines discovered and marked by Lieut. McCulloch's party were destroyed in the same manner on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mine location and destruction was one of the ship's activities during the last four days. On Monday a landing party of 30 men, under Lieut. Cmdr. Stewart Peacock of Quebec City, executive officer of the Athabaskan, landed in support of South Korean marines on enemy-occupied Orang island, near Kunsan, after the destroyer had carried out a bombardment of communist positions. The landing force overran the island in two hours.

Obituary

ARTHUR A. SILLS

Stricken with a heart attack, while fishing on the Bay of Quinte with his son, early Friday evening, Arthur A. Sills, 105 Bridge St., East, died suddenly.

Prominent in the business, church and social life of this city for many years, the death of Mr. Sills will be a distinct loss to the community. A lifelong resident of this city, Mr. Sills was born in Belleville, 66 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sills. After completing his schooling in the public and high school, he entered business and 35 years ago founded the Roofing and Building Material Company, which still bears his name. Some years ago, his son, Jack Sills, entered the business, and Mr. Sills had enjoyed a well-earned rest.

He was a member of Holloway Street United Church and took an active interest in the work of that congregation. For some years he was chairman of the Church Board and also served on the executive for many years. Fraternally he was a member of IOOF No. 81 and the Sons of England. He was an active member of the Kiwanis Club for many years and at the present time was an honorary member of that service club.

Surviving are his wife, the former Perle Bowler, one daughter, Mrs. Allan (Alda) Lennox of this city, and one son, Jack H. Sills of Belleville.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

FREDERICK FRANCIS WILSON

Suffering a heart attack at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howard Fox, Corbyville, Frederick Francis Wilson, of 38 St. James Street in this city, died late Friday afternoon. He was born in Portsmouth, England, 79 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wilson. For the past nine months he has resided with his daughter in Corbyville but previously had resided in Belleville for 45 years, where he was well-known and highly respected. For many years he conducted a coal business in this city.

He was a member of Christ Church and fraternally was a life member of Moira Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 11, the Sons of England and the White Cane Club.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

LATE MRS. J. GORDENIER
(Marmora)

Marmora — The funeral of Mrs. James Gordenier took place on Friday afternoon leaving her late residence for service at St. Andrew's United Church at 2.30 which was conducted by her pastor, Rev. G. D. Young B.A., B.D. The church was filled with relatives and friends. The hymns were "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and "Abide With Me." The duet "In the Garden," was sung by Mrs. E. C. Prentice and Mrs. F. R. Wells. In his consoling sermon, Rev. Young touched upon the words of comfort as given to His apostles by Christ and narrated by St. John dwelling particularly upon the significance of "I will receive you unto Myself."

Burial took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes testified to the respect in which the deceased was held.

The pall bearers were Frank Leal, Nathan Mumby, Wilbert Bedore, William Forestell, Claude Nichol and Warden Chrysler.

Early History of the Moira Valley

From Moira Valley Conservation Report

Fifth Instalment

Meanwhile the settlement of the southern part of the watershed was going on steadily, but somewhat slowly. This was due in part to the nature of the terrain through which the river runs. The Loyalist and American settlers were looking for land which could be brought into profitable production as quickly as possible. They had little use for heavy land if it needed any draining, and avoided swamps and swales no matter how great their potential fertility. As a rule they also rejected thin-soiled rocky land and sandy pine barrens or oak plains (oak plains, i.e. stretches of open country sparsely dotted with oak, but not necessarily flat, were objected to on account of the lack of fuel,) if anything else was available. What they preferred was rolling well drained loam, and they would put up with stoniness, lightness and with steepness of slope, rather than sourness or wetness. For these reasons a large part of the Moira Watershel was not attractive to settlers of North American origin.

By 1790 a Loyalits family was usually entitled to far more land than it could farm. The government had come to realize that the original scale of grants was not so generous as it might appear to Europeans. Unimproved wild land had almost no immediate value and poor markets, the high price of importe dgoods, the need for large quantities of fuel and the primitive method of farming all combined to make a larger acreage necessary to support a family in comfort.

The basic grant of fifty acres for each colonist and one hundred for heads of families was finally increased to one 200-acre lot for each adult Loyalist, while military grants were made equal to the special scale promised to the 84th Regiment of Foot on enlistment. This ran from 300 acres for a private to 5,000 acres for a field officer. Further grants were made to justices of the peace, to merchants and professional men. (This was to encourage immigration of men of means and education. The grants to J.P.'s and Members of Council, etc., were in lieu of salaries increased and fees) and theri wives and children, while members of the legislative council received the same grant as field officers. Thus any Loyalist who could prove his military service could apply for "additional" lands, and if his first allotment had proved unsatisfactory, select a better location for the new grant. Wild land was untaxed and the poor lots were held until the "location ticket" or the land itself could be sold to some newcomer. (Patents were issuable on completion of settlement duties, but there was much delay on both sides and the rights to land were often sold before patenting.) Much of the land in the first six concessions of Thurlow had been taken up by 1786, but many lots were not yet occupied and at least one grantee complained that his lot in the sixth concession was "not improveable" and asked to exchange for one in another township. (William Kelly, Jr., on Lot 23, Con. VI near Plainfield.)

The more attractive lands in Sidney township were also being taken up, though there the steep hills checked settlement and made access to the front very difficult. Consequently settlement spread up the side valleys from the Moira to the Trent. Up to 1800 settlement on the Moira may be said to have been concentrated at the mouth of the river and in the neighborhood of Foxboro. Tyendinaga and Hungerford townships were still Mohawk lands, while Huntingdon, with Rawdon township, had been reserved for a group of men who had undertaken to bring in settlers in return for large grants of land. This system had been tried in a number of localities in Upper Canada, but only succeeded in a few cases. As a rule the syndicates failed to fulfil their contracts. In this case a few settlers may have been introduced into Rawdon, but none into Huntingdon. The townships were declared vacant and the survey ordreed to be completed in May, 1796, but Huntingdon remained a wilderness for many years after 1800.

Roads and Travel

In his account of Canada published in 1805, D'Arcy Boulton remarks of Thurlow that the land is good, but owing to the distance from markets "settles slwly." The "distance frm markets" was due to lack of roads and the westerly winds. The trip to Kingston by water was not over-long, but the return journey could easily be one long "buck" against head winds. The journey to York (Toronto) the nearest market to the west could also sometimes involve a hard "buck" and always a fairly lon gcarry overland, with trouble of loading and unloading. (Light winds could be nearly as troublesome as head winds. Doubtless, sailing vessels were as frequently becalmed between Presqu'ile and Toronto in those days as yachts are today.)

By 1800 Dundas Street had been opened from York to the Bay of Quinte, but this road crossed the isthmus to Prince Edward and the bay by a ferry to Adolphustown township, so that the inhabitants of Sidney and Thurlow were still left to provide roads for themselves. As soon as Danforth's contract for this road and the course it was to take were announced, the magistrate and commissioners of the County of Hastings petitioned the Board for a highway from Trenton to Kingston, through Sidney, Thurlow and the Mohawk Tract. Their statement that "there is a distance of about fifteen miles extending from the township of Thurlow eastward through the lands belonging to the Mohawk Indians and Masasagas, which is destitute of a road . . ." implies that a tract of some sort had been opened through Sidney and Thurlow along the bay.

This road, although probably opened by statute labor, was laid but "Yankee fashion" following the most convenient ground without regard for the survey lines. In all likelihood it stuck pretty close to the old Indian Trail and is fairly closely followed by the present highway. A similar trail led up the river, but this was so primitivve that travellers preferred to ride on horseback whenever possible.

The Board's reply was that the consent of the Mohawks had first to be obtained and this was evidently enough to shelve the scheme as far as the government was concerned and the highway continued to by-pass the Moira region. However, the inhabitants and local "pathmasters" seemed to have got something done. In 1804 a bridge was built over the river a little above the mouth, near the site of the present highway bridge, and a road seems to have been opened through the Mohawk lands, for in 1807, when commissioners were appointed to "establish" the road through the province, it was directed that this highroad would lead through the townships of Kingston, Ernestown, Richmond, the Mohawk Tract, Thurlow and Sidney where it is now laid out and actually wrought by the Statute Labor Commissioner."

Meyers Creek was now on the main highway through the province, but since this highway was a dirt road, varied by corduroy, the improvement was not great. Most travellers preferred to sail from Kingston direct to York and many of those who went by land still took the road through Prince Edward County. However, when war came in 1812, troops were mostly moved by the mainland route and the resources of the village near the bridge were often over-taxed in supplying their needs for food, fodder and lodging.

Conditions of Life

The Bay of Quinte now ranked as one of the best settled areas in the province, but the settlement in the interior of Thurlow was still in the primitive age. The hard conditions of backwood life were still the rule there, though the "front" was progressing towards civilization. The days of scarcity were over. By 1791 the Midland district was producing more wheat than it consumed (Campbell was told in 1791 that the merchants of Kingston had "purchased and stored 6,000 bolls of wheat" and expected a 25 per cent increase each year.) Campbell probably meant the Scots "boll" of 6 bushels. The market at Kingston was well supplied in every way, and the quantity available for export was steadily growing. Nevertheless the farm still had to produce directly most of what was required for the family, and clothes, shoes, harness, tools and furniture were still largely homemade.

There were as yet neither churches nor schools in the township, though travelling clergymen had begun to hold services in private houses or in the open air. Wedding parties had still to go to Meyers Creek to the Justice of the Peace, the women riding pillion behind the men on horseback. Money was still scarce and little in the way of luxuries could be purchased, but most necessities were plentiful in spite of raids of wolves and bears on the poultry and hogs and of the deer on the crops. "Bees," weddings, prayer meetings and militia days furnished chances for social intercourse and relaxation. Whisky was fairly prevalent on those occasions and though dancing seems to have been frowned upon in the back settlement, it was apparently permitted on the more sophisticated "front." For this reason marriage parties usually stayed long enough for a dance before setting out on the return journey. (See Canniff for details of thel ife of this period. He probably extends the very primitive stage over too long a period and is sometimes confused by archaic language. For example "naked" usually meant destitute of necessities not actually nude. A Masonic Lodge had been formed in Thurlow in 1801. It met in Simpson's Tavern at Meyer's Creek and moved to John Everhad burned in 1812.)

War 1812-1814

The militia of Hastings County was organized in 1799 and there was a company in Thurlow under the command of John Walden Meyers, who continued in command until 1812, when the was succeeded by his son, George. Five companies of the Hastings militia were ordered to assemble at the mouth of the Moira on November 12th, 1812, with arms, ammunition, a blanket and three days' provisions. However, their chief duties seem to have been in connection with moving troops and supplies. This work was probably done by detachments selected by lot or by volunteers. In 1813 the Thurlow company was ordered to ballot for 175 men (if volunteers were insufficient) to serve at Kingston and to be relieved every two months. An attack was expected at that time, but the danger passed and it is unlikely that any relieving detachment was needed. Apparently the "draftees" could hire substitutes. Those who neglected to serve in person or by substitute were fined fairly heavily.

The district escaped invasion and the consequent plundering and destruction by the enemy. The effects of the war were largely limited to high prices, scarcity of supplies and the destruction of the highway by heavy traffic. These conditions helped the development of the district in the long run. The farmers and millers profited by the demand for flour, beef and pork and commissariat payments lessened the shortage of hard money. The difficulty of the journey to Meyers' mill had already encouraged John Read to build a grist mill near the site of Corbyville, probably by about 1804 and in 1811. John Cannifff bought a tract in the third concession from Peter McDougall and the first Cannifff mill was erected soon after. These mills did good business during the war, as the government was forced to import provisions from the States and much of the imported wheat was ground in Canadian mills. The difficulty of transporting troops, with the enemy in force on the lake, compelled the government to do nothing about the roads and on the whole the war was of considerable advantage to the settlements in Upper Canada.

The necessity of leaving their homes for militia service and the "damage in billets" wrought by the British troops were compensated for by the improved markets and by the cash from militia pay and compensation payments. Incidents of property damage on the Moira were limited to the village near the bridge and disturbances such as the brawl of Capt. Meyers in 1814 were probably rare. (On this occasion drunken troopers, who had been sent to Meyers with requisitions for horse forage, owing to the scarcity of the landing, demanded provisions to which they were not entitled and when refused assaulted members of the household including the old captain himself. The depositions are in the Archives at Ottawa and contain interesting details of the arrangement of the house and of the household. Meyers refused provisions on the score that he had hardly enough for his own people, who included married daughters, grandsons, stepsons and at least one manservant. Bureau of Archives, Ottawa, U.C. Sundries 1814.)

The first generation of Loyalists were now beginning to pass from the scene, though a number survived well into the next period. (Some Loyalists were remarkably long-lived. Canniff mentions several who were nearing or had reached a hundred years of age in 1863.)

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

BLACK AND GREEN

Black-throated green warblers are now on their way from their northern nesting grounds to Mexico and Central America. Their summer residences were in tall trees in coniferous forests. If given a preference they generally choose hemlock or pine; but now, when "on the march," these jewel-like wood warblers may be found on cedars or any kind of evergreen. In fact, it is possible to see them on decidious trees. How will you know them? Although particularly suitably named as far as adult males are concerned, at this season the bright yellow cheeks make the best identification mark, because they are conspicuous and common to both sexes and all ages at any period. Yellow green heads and backs, and two white wing-bars are also family characteristics. The jet black throat, with the black extending down each side of the bird's white underparts, makes a splendid guide in spring when we are looking out for the singing male. But females and juveniles lack this strong color.

In autumn we get little help for identification of warblers from their voices, because at this time of year they rarely sing, and, if at all, do not give their songs in full. Next May listen for the black-throated green's very distinctive song: once heard, easily remembered. It really cannot be mistaken by anyone possessing rhythm and tune. There are five, or sometimes six notes, sung quite deliberately in a thin, high voice, mostly on a monotone, but with either the second to last, or that and the one before, lower than the rest. The voice has carrying power, too.

When seen in your orchard, the black-throated green warblers are saving your fruit trees by eating multitudes of tiny insects which might otherwise cause damage. They migrate in large flocks of warblers which have the same tastes and habits. As they fly by night, you should notice them in the early morning, flitting from tree to tree, gathering insects. One bird watcher saw a little warbler eat 40 or 50 in a minute.

These "waves" of warblers pass through, at intervals, from about the middle of August, sometimes nearly a thousand coming, and going on again, in the space of half an hour. A person needs to be alert to catch sight of them before the excitement is all over. After the middle of October it is unlikely that you will again have the chance of seeoing a black-throated green warbler before tiny leaves are sprouting on the trees.

BLUE SUN AND BLUE MOON

Fires often leave disastrous trails, but the fires in the woodlands of Alberta raised the interest of people in the entire Western World and the eastern part of Western Europe and shed their influence as far south as Gibraltar and the Straits and the northwestern coast of Africa.

Canadians lost the sight of the moon's eclipse on Monday night through haze or the effects of smoke though the pungent odor of smoke was not very noticeable. In parts of the United States the effects were eerie and more marked than they were in Canadian skies. At first the descriptions of Europeans of the blue coloring given moon and sun seemed fantastic and hardly seemed to explain the cause but scientists have reaffirmed that this was the origin of the weird blue coloring given the atmosphere in some parts of the United States and in Europe.

The behavior of the winds which carried the smoke from the smouldering forest fires in Western Canada to areas thousand of miles away seemed unusual. Here on Monday there were leaden skies but no smoke was detected at all. The continuance of the cloudy condition and the late scent of smoke confirmed the views that the smudging fires in Alberta were the source of the situation which made such a difference in the color of the sun and moon and general atmospheric conditions.

That pall of smoke travelled over two thousand miles to darken the great cities and the smaller cities and towns and countryside of the United States. It was sufficient to blanket the air as to make necessary the playing of ball games under electric lights in American cities.

How vast an area of fire was involved can be judged by the effects and the range of the movement of the smog.

An instance of a forest fire's effect in Whitewater Canyon, Southern California last July prompted the Christian Science Monitor to say such woodland fires "may come to have great significance in the history of forest protection."

There a forest fire had raged for a week despite efforts of 100 men to control it. Even with horses and helicopters the problem of getting supplies up San Gorgonio Mountain was formidable.

The Monitor explains that the California Electric Power Company had been experimenting for some time with rain making on its watershed in that region. Its pilot Robert Symonds, found two clouds at 19,000 feet which he seeded with dry ice, successfully causing a heavy rain over the canyon on San Gorgonio which drenched the fire and ended its menace.

It is pointed out by the newspaper that not always will cloud formations be found at the time and place to douse a timber-consuming blaze, but the success even in one instance holds hope for many cases in wilderness areas where fire controls hitherto has seemed more than difficult. For as far as any fire warden knows one good shower can snuff out more fire than several crews of men.

The dull sky and the colorless appearance of the sun and the invisibility of the moon seemed the most marked aspects of the unusual condition. In far parts of the world there was concern over the weird appearance of the sun and the moon. Hereabouts there was regret that the moon's eclipse had been marred to the observers' eyes.

TAXIS OF MARNE

When 79-year-old General Charles Charet died in France a few days ago, he did not rate a long story. But, it was the same General Charet who is credited with saving Paris, and perhaps saving France, in 1914, says Windsor Star.

When the Germans were storming across France in the early stages of the first war, there seemed no hope for Paris. People in the French capital believed their city doomed. They were sure the Prussian jackboots would trample over the cobbled streets.

But, General Charet rallied the taxicabs. Into them he packed as many soldiers as each cab could take. Then, the courageous drivers headed east toward the oncoming Germans. Arrived near the front, the soldiers debouched from the taxis and took their stand. They stopped the German advance. The Boche was halted and gradually pushed back.

Those taxis were famous in song and story 35 years ago. But, that all seems so long ago now.

Chemists say that sawdust will prevent soil erosion and also serves as good humus, notes the Hamilton Spectator. But you've got to saw a heap of wood to get a heap of sawdust. The wise farmers keep their best trees standing, if possible, and thus solve the problem.

It is curious to note the old sea-margins of human thought. Each subsiding century reveals some new mystery; we build where monsters used to hide themselves.—Longfellow.

We are never present with, but always beyond, ourselves. Fear, desire and hope are still pushing us toward the future.—Montaigne.

IT COULD BE WORSE

"It must be hard," I stopped to say,
"To have to work from day to day."
"It could be worse," the woman said.
"I might be out of work
instead.

"It could be worse. I might be ill
And someone else my place
would fill,
For were this task not done
by me
My children all would hungry be.

"Of course, it could be better,
too,
But this is what I have to do.
Since wishes vain won't line
the purse,
It helps to think, it could be worse."

Brave woman, toiling day by day,
You sent me braver on my way.
When I have trouble to rehearse
I'll stop to think: "It could be worse."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 30, 1930.

Shortly after midnight last night an unknown prankster opened the hydrant at John and Victoria Streets, flooding a large area of that district. Police are investigating.

This month has been a very light one in the issuance of building permits in Belleville. Only seven were issued, with a total value of $5,175.

Exports of cattle from Prince Edward County, which were very heavy during the spring and last year, have greatly decreased since the U.S. tariff was raised a short time ago, Mr. Duncan Foster, sales agent for Prince Edward County Holsteins, reports.

30 YEARS AGO

Sept. 30th., 1920.

Mr. William Leslie of this city has secured a certificate from the American School of Practipedics which shows that he has been successful in passing the course of elementary study of this branch of learning which has to do with the fitting of boots and shoes to feet out of the ordinary shape.

Under the direction of Fire Chief Brown, the Moira River in the vicinity of the Lower Bridge was flushed this morning by means of the fire hose. It had the effect of cleaning the river bottom of the accumulation of refuse which was causing annoyance.

Newspaper paragraphers are making merry over the fact that Belleville's new chief of police is named Captain Kidd. Kidding Captain Kidd at long distance is safe enough, but from all accounts it would not be too wise to kid Capt. Kidd too much at short range.

40 YEARS AGO

Sept. 30, 1910.

The Belleville Club of Chicago will hold a meeting shortly in the Great Northern Hotel in that city. The pilgrims, who journeyed to Belleville for the reunion in July last, have all returned to the Windy City and then intend telling at the meeting what the people of Belleville did for them, and what they did for the people of Belleville. One attraction will be the banner which was carried at the head of the Chicago section in the parade of Old Boys on July 25th. Mr. Henry Cullen, the standard bearer at the time, will pose with the banner and will be supported by Mr. Miles Wilkinson, Grand Marshal. The president of the club is Mr. William Robertson, and Mr. T. F. Lynch is the secretary. The committee of arrangements is composed of the following: Messrs. A. W. James, A. D. Diamond, R. T. Neilson, M. Wilkinson and M. D. Lynch.

Judge Macaulay arrived in the city last evening from Dawson City and will spend some time here with friends.

50 YEARS AGO

Sept. 30th., 1900.

The Hon. R. P. Roblin, the newly selected Premier of Manitoba, will visit friends in this district shortly.

Mr. H. W. Cronk, liveryman, of this city, has received a carriage which is much admired. It is a double-seated vehicle, built in up-to-date style. The two seats are beautifully upholstered with white whipcord which makes a handsome appearance. The lamps and trimmings are silver mounted, and the wheels are provided with pneumatic tires. It is without doubt the finest carriage in the city and the owner is naturally proud of his investment.

Mr. Ernest Lang has accepted a position in London, Ontario.

Mr. Thomas Watkin left today for Hartford, Conn.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RESPONSIBILITY

None of us amount to much until we are shouldered with responsibility. Put anyone in a responsible position and the mettle of such a one is at once tested and tried. Responsibility creates growth. Every day we read in our newspaper of men and women who have been given great positions of responsibility in our Government, because they have measured up in more humble positions.

I have among my friends many a newspaper publisher who was once a newsboy for that paper paper. Responsibility kept ripening them, so step by step they climbed and arose to the top. It always works where there are a will and a purpose.

Many a President of the United States has risen from obscurity to his high office, where, with all that tremendous responsibility he has grown and matured and become great. Lincoln, Garfield, Cleveland, as examples.

A friend of mine once told me the story of a great lawyer, who became the attorney for J. J. Hill, the railroad builder of the West. He came to America as an immigrant. His first job was shovelling snow in the streets of New York City—and he froze his feet at the job! But responsibility was given him and he steadily rose to power, with the confidence of those for whom he served.

The wise employer keeps his eye upon those who handle responsibility — testing them, and encouraging their rise by giving them more and more responsibility. Few of us know what we can do until we attempt what we think we can't do. Good advice is never to dodge responsibility. You never know where it may lead you.

I recently listened to an interesting story of a rookie baseball player. His manager took great interest in him, and put an old expert to train him. This season he has blossomed out as a genuine "star". He is but twenty-one years old—but he may figure in the coming World Series. Apparently he welcomed the responsibility and looks forward with confidence so as not to disappoint those who believed in him.

Duke Blasts 'Rubbernecks'

Glasgow, Sept. 30. (Reuters)—The 72-year-old Duke of Montrose fired a blast on rubbernecks who gawk at the King and Queen going to church Sunday morning.

The duke protested at crowds who go in buses, cars, on bicycles and foot to the village church in Crathie, Aberdeenshire, which the royal family attend while livinb in Scotland.

Writing to the Glasgow Herald the duke said the King and Queen generously go in and out among their subjects more than any other British monarchs in history. He added:

"Surely, then, they might be allowed one day in the week for private life and peace."

JOB'S BEHEMOTH

The behemoth mentioned in the book of Job is believed to be the hippopotamus.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

MELLOW IN N.B.

Folly Lake, N.B.— I seem to have been mentioning autumn in most of these recent burblings from "down east", but the season in this part of the world demands something more than a passing reference. The New Brunswick hills in autumn! Could anything be more beautiful?

We have the trailer parked now in the kind of location we dreamed about before starting out on the trip, but never quite found until now.

Folly Lake is a cold, spring-fed pond a few miles south of Moncton on the road to Halifax, our next stop. We manipulated the caravan about so that we're no more than three feet from the water's edge. So close, in fact, that a piece of bread tossed from the door brings us a visit from a swarm of small and apparently starving trout.

But what makes this location so rewarding now is the coloring of the woods that rim the lake. No man-made garden ever had such vivid or such subtle shades or wrought such a confusion of emotions in men.

Down here, where people set their shoulders and brace themselves for winter, this spectacular display of nature is a very definite intermission between the seasons. At the camp nearby, for example, the proprietor is torn between the necessity of getting in some new plumbing in his cabins before the first severe frost or accepting the invitation of the warm, bright days to go fishing. Today he has gone fishing, but with a fatalistic knowledge that he'll regret it.

We have our own share of indecision. Yesterday, under the spell of a golden sun, we decided definitely to take a side trip to Prince Edward Island instead of going right on to Halifax, where we'll be wrapping up the trip. But last night a winter's wind howled through the screen windows and convinced us that we'd better hurry on if we want to beat the snow.

About People

The season is an ideal time to look at things in retrospect and today I've been looking back on the trip that way. Gals went in to Moncton to get their hair done (we are going to have a very formal dinner party in Halifax to celebrate our arrival) and let me to contemplate the scenery and our wanderings in the last four months

The thing that's impressed me most of all about Canada, I think is the wonderful neighborliness of people. We may be divided in a lot of ways, geographically and historically, but that big hello is as hearty and sincere from coast to coast.

This is no idle comment. On a trip like this you pretty well have to invade the privacy of a lot of people who, in most cases, never heard of you and have every right to be suspicious of what you're up to. Sometimes when I approach a family cold and begin asking them questions about their personal lives, I wonder if they're going to come right out and say its' none of my business.

But in all our travels this summer we've found nothing but friendliness. Wherever we've stopped there, suddenly, are neighbors as interested in our life as we are in their's.

This began at Cultus Lake only 60 miles from home base where a Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thayer helped us solve the mysteries of the trailer. And it's been that way ever since, right up to Shediac where a grand old gent named Georges Legere took us in tow and treated us like visiting royalty.

When this tour jells into focus I think our greenest memory of Canada will be those friendly faces. And I think this is worth mentioning as something more than a personal note. It's kind of reassuring to get away from the safe and accepted orbit of your own familiar circle, out on your own as strangers, and find that people are pretty damn nice wherever you go.

Trailer Life

Well, a caravan is a very swell way to live as long as the weather allows you to use the outdoors as an extra room. On those days when it rains, even a modern outfit like this can't accommodate four people decently, or certainly not with anything resembling gracious living, and I would dread the prospect of living through a winter this way.

To us, the interesting point is that we get along better in these cramped quarters now than we did when we started out. We've found that it requires a good deal of give and take and an awful lot of organization to keep from getting in each other's hair. In a nutshell, we've had to learn to live together as a family never does in a home. There's no such thing as being alone in a trailer.

As for the mechanical troubles that marred the first half of the trip, we've worked them out and proved, I think, that anybody can have a gypsy's life and that it has its definite rewards.

But, let's face it. Even sitting here beside this gem of a lake, gazing across at the russet flame through the New Brunswick maples and feeling that extra aliveness that most of us develop in strange surroundings, the biggest discovery of all is a very old and hackneyed one:

There's just no place like home.

Mackenzie's Column:

Writer Claims 'Cursed Line' Now Broken Down

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

We have as guest columnist today one of South Korea's most distinguished citizens, Mr. Dong Sung Kim, a newspaper publisher and a member of the South Korean National Assembly. He now is at Lake Success with his country's delegation to the United Nations.

The other day I asked him to write me a column on Korean problems at this time of crisis, and the following is his response:

June 27 I joined the flood of refugees from Seoul, fleeing from my home without even a handbag. Every possession I owned was lost except the clothes on my back. My family was separated from me and I have not heard of any of them yet.

Amid all the gloom of that day, my mind was lightened by the belief that at last the cursed line of the 38th Parallel was broken down and that when the fighting ended our country would be reunified at last.

My life and my nation were saved by the prompt support sent by the United Nations under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the best friend Korea ever had. As I drifted desolately southward before the communist armies, the 143 members of the National Assembly that managed to escape and stick together met in emergency sessions in Taejon, Taegu, and Pusan, driven on by overwhelming force.

Now the United Nations is assured. But here at the United Nations, where I came with our delegation, we were surprised to hear questions and doubts expressed as to what should be done about the 38th Parallel line. We had never imagined that this question would be in doubt.

Held in 1948

Under the U.N. we held an election in South Korea May 10, 1948. We held another election under U.N. observation May 30, 1950. During all this time, our government and the U.N. commission pleaded and worked for the opportunity to hold a similar election north of the 38th Parallel. Then, June 25, that line was broken down by the communist attack. It seemed incredible to us that any friends of freedom should ever think that artificial and harmful barrier should ever again be rebuilt.

Korea has paid a terrific price for reunification and freedom. More than 60,000 of our own soldiers have been killed or wounded. About 3,000,000 of our people have been driven from their homes and now are living in great hardship, without shelter or enough food to eat. Most of our major cities and hundreds of our villages have been smashed or burned. Our industries are ruined. Our transportation and communications systems are destroyed. Surely this price we have had to pay has not been paid in vain.

The republic of Korea should be strongly and fully armed. The world has seen how our people can fight when weapons are available to us. It is our hope and expectation that we now shall have the tanks, and artillery, and naval vessels and planes with which we can equip an army to defend our own borders.

We welcome again the U.N. commission to observe elections in northern Korea when conditions suitable for an election have been restored. We shall need a U.N. security force in our country until our own army is adequately expanded, trained, and equipped to face the dangers that surround us. And when we have strong army of our own, Korean boys will die for the cause of world freedom, just as American soldiers have died on our soil to protect our liberty.

YEAR-ROUND SOMERSAULTAUQUA

Wiseacres, within and without the ranks of medicine, may call my teachings "strange notions." They may be right of course, and I crazy—if that be true I'd be the last to recognize it, wouldn't I? After all, how else explain why I rolled half a dozen somersaults on the floor first thing at least ten thousand mornings?

Asking for invitation to the Somersaultauqua, a pamphlet which tells how and why to roll 'em, available to any one who asks for it and incloses stamped self-addressed envelope, one reader protests: "That's a forbiddingly long word for somersault—makes one hesitate to ask for the pamphlet."

One, perhaps, but not the thousands of readers who have asked for it. If you were driving from Cleveland to Canandaigua or Penn Yan would you detour through Pittsburgh in order to avoid Chautauqua, N.Y.?

It takes, say, 15 seconds to roll half a dozen somersaults (my kind, not Webster's) on the floor—there's little exercise in it but, I believe, a lot of benefit to the general well being. It is good for the circulation, good for digestion, good to clear the mind when your thinking gets into a rut.

If or when you ever do decide to have a go at somersaulting I warn you that you must try it at your own peril. If you bite your tongue or knock the plaster off the ceiling of the room below, that is your funeral. All you'll get from me is a hearty haw-haw or a bawling out for being such a clumsy stiff.

Luther Burbank was a nut—I remember a news picture which showed him rolling somersaults on his lawn on the occasion of his 75th birthday anniversary. But don't let one case frighten you—I don't believe the somersaults were responsible for the naturalist's death two years later.

It is really regrettable that Webster is so durned set about defining somersault as a "leap or jump...," but that's the way it is and I suppose a lot of people will have to break their necks trying the Websterian rolls before novices will learn not to take off like that. Although Noah never turned any, in all candor I must mention that he was 85 when he turned up his toes. Infer whatever you will from that. As for myself I shall roll on. One of my most revered playmates is 91 and as sprightly as any one on the green—I wish I could say he rolls somersaults but so far as I know he doesn't. In my files, however, are numerous reports from people aged 75 or older who have experienced, as they believe, many lasting benefits.

I commend particularly to persons who have not yet advanced too far in their dying (physical degeneration) the adoption of somersaulting, Brady fashion, as a routine of daily life. And once more I caution those who are half dead already to get the hang of it by gradual approach, especially if they have been neglecting physical training through the years.

Fluorescent Lighting

Ben Told eye specialist said fluorescent lights are bad for the eyes. Personally I like to read by fluorescent light, and we were planning to have more installed. (Mrs. H. R.)

Answer—I'd prefer them to any other artificial lighting installations in home, office, plant or store. As a general rule Ben Told is as flexible as Sairey Gamp's Mrs. 'arris, and "eye specialist" may mean anything from a spectacle merchant to an eye surgeon.

Press Button Diagnosis

Is there a machine that detects disease, tells its character and location by a blood test? (M. T. C.)

Answer—No.

Cirrhosis of Liver

Is cirrhosis of the liver cancer? (F. H.)

Answer—No. It is hardening of the liver, most commonly in habitual alcoholics, but it is not rare in total abstainers.

Bow Legs

Is it possible to straighten bow legs in a woman 37 years old? (T. M. E.)

Answer—Only by operation on the bent bones.

B-Complex

Is vitamin B-complex in concentrated form (tablets, syrup, shots, capsules) more efficacious than plain wheat or wheat germ? (J. R.)

Answer—No. Only advantage of a concentrate is that a larger ration of the vitamin or vitamins is taken than one gets in a tolerable ration of plain wheat or wheat germ.

First Step in Getting Dry

I am now 13 and I have the bad habit of wetting the bed. No matter how hard I try. (J. C.)

Answer—Don't try too hard, Jack, but just keep telling yourself that it isn't going to happen tonight—and don't give up in your determination even if it takes months. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet The Bed-Wetting Habit.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Shooting of one kind and another is now either in full swing or about to begin from coast to coast of Canada. Sportsmen who use shotgun and rifle like to imagine they belong to a very ancient brotherhood. They suppose they are hunters in an old tradition.

But modern hunting is practically a sedentary occupation. It bears little relation to the rugged pursuit of game that hunting consisted of for centuries back to the earliest recorded time. In fact, modern hunting with rifle and gun is barely two centuries old.

Gunpowder was invented in 1340 A.D. By the fifteenth century guns fit to carry were used by sportsmen, but only for dispatching the game after it had been run to ground or to bay by the hounds of the hunters or by the hunters themselves on foot, as a rule. The eatable game men were after in the fifteenth century could not be hunted on horses.

It was not until the beginning of the eighteenth century that the gun was developed to the point that it could be carried as a sporting weapon in the modern sense. And then it took a century for the sport of shooting to evolve into any sort of institution. Col. Peter Howker, whose book "Instructions to Young Sportsmen" appeared in the early eighteen-hundreds, makes it clear that not long before his time the normal way of killing game birds was on the ground. "It is not half a century," he wrote, around 1825, "since anyone who shot flying was viewed with wonder."

The nineteenth century saw the real birth of the sport with the development of breech-loading guns, magazine rifles and other devices that speeded up the operation of fire-arms. They were made increasingly light and handy. And that century saw the colossal slaughter of game to the point that some species were exterminated and most others reduced to what they are today—objects of strict protective laws all over our continent.

SILVER

Anyone who has bought much silver knows that there are two important kinds of it: sterling and plated. Sterling silver is pure, solid siver — silver all the way through. Plated silver has a thin layer of silver over copper or some other metal. After hard use, sometimes the silver wears off and the copper shows through. But plated silver is cheaper to make, and so sterling silver costs more.

Human beings come in both plated and solid varieties, too. Unfortunately they are not stamped on the back, like silver, so that you can tell at a glance which is which. But it's generally not hard to tell the plated person. When the first crisis comes up, the first test of character, the first situation demanding sacrifice, the copper is apt to show through pretty quickly.

It takes longer to tell the sterling person. When you have known him well and seen him in success, failure, hope and disappointment, if the copper still doesn't show, then you can begin to be sure. Then you know that this person has sterling character.

And like silver, it costs more to be a sterling person — much more in terms of honesty, integrity, patience, and unselfishness. But in the end, there is no comparison with cheaper product.

Kingston Youth Held in States For Car Theft

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 30 — (AP) Two Ontario youths who, police said, wrecked an automobile owned by a Lockport, N.Y., man, and later escaped in another car, were held in jail here today.

Police Sgt. Elbert W. Lance identified the youths as Guy F. Simmons, 19, of North Bay and Gordon Melosh, 20, of Kingston.

Lance said both have been charged with larceny of an automobile in connection with the theft of a car owned by Wilton E. Briggs, of Williamsport.

The policeman said the two were picked up south of here Thursday in the Briggs' car after they wrecked a car, owned by Frederick N. Remick, of Lockport, N.Y.

Lance said police now are investigating a report that the Remick car also was stolen.

The policeman said the two youths left the wrecked car and obtained a ride from Briggs who was passing. They later overpowered Briggs, Lance said, tied him up and dumped him out along a country lane, taking his pocketbook and car.

Lance said Briggs managed to free himself and notified police.

The two youths were picked up near Milton, about 15 miles from here.

Lance said further charges probably will be brought against the pair after completion of an investigation.

Time Has Come For United Korea Bevin Declares

New York, Sept. 30. (AP)—Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain said that "the time has come for a united Korea."

North and South Korea should be regarded as one, and there should be no division such as that created by the 38th parallel, Bevin said as he left for home aboard the liner Queen Mary.

He had been here attending discussions of Atlantic pact members and discussions between the "Big Three", foreign ministers of Britain, the United States and France.

"I think there is no North Korea or South Korea," Bevin said. "They are Koreans and there should be no artificial perpetuation of that division."

BMB Band Notes

By TREBLE CLEF

Well, as we promised last week, here we are again with more band notes.

As we mentioned last week the bandmaster called an extra rehearsal for Sunday afternoon and believe me you can't imagine the terrific response we had from the fellows. They are determined to put on a good show on Monday night.

On Tuesday night we were back at it again, starting at 7.30. We started to work immediately on Helen Grant's xylophone numbers and now are right up to high standards. The one number, Quinte Polka, was composed expressly for her by Reg. Hinchey displays to the utmost the superb technique Helen has developed from hours of practice. For those who like music that really moves this will more than satisfy you, as there isn't a dull moment from beginning to end. For the Victor Herbert enthusiasts Helen has perfected for her encore that beautiful selection Romany Life.

Next we turned to our newest soloist in the band, Ralph Cornish who, when he plays his number on the clarinet, leaves nothing to be desired. Ralph incidently is one of the youngest members of the band. The number he has chosen entitled "Interlude," follows the modern trend and leaves one with the impression of having been listening to a dance orchestra rather than a band. This number should appeal very greatly to the younger folks in the audience.

Now for the great surprise. We have chosen for the massed band concert selection that beautiful tone poem Fillandia by Sibelius. This is without a doubt one of the most descriptive selections we could have picked. It is jam packed with dynamics which will thrill every music lover and the soft, mellow passages in their contrast to the loud, full tones send a chill down anyone's spine.

We are still working as hard as ever on our initial offering of Mannin Veen. We hope you like it as well as we do.

By the way, we haven't had any of you instrumentalists take us up on our offer to come down and join us. We really mean it fellows, come on down, we'll be more than happy to have you.

We received a letter from the 6 R. D. Air Force Band and they have asked us to join us in our festival. We appreciate the offer by these boys and are very happy to have them join us.

Well folks I guess that is all the news for now. You will hear from us again next week. Don't forget fellows, if you play an instrument we really want you to come and join. Hope to see you all Monday night and assure you that you will see and hear a real show.

So long for this week.

Treble Cleff.

Verse Pays Tribute to Valiant Birds Swept Out to Sea by Storms

By PERCY GHENT

On the fall migration of birds from Canada and the northern regions of the United States to far-distant, milder zones in Central and South America a great many species follow the ocean shore lines, east and west.

Sometimes in their thousands the birds are driven hundreds of miles out to sea by violent winds. Although they battle valiantly to reach the shores again, many die of exhaustion or starvation.

Lt.-Cmdr. Frederick B. Watt, with the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War, has written a book of verse, "We Dare to Live," in which he describes life and incidents in the service.

On one occasion a flock of storm-driven birds of the fall migration was encountered far at sea. He tells of the fight of the birds to reach shore again in a few lines of the poem ending with a tribute that stirs the heart of any bird lover:

Numbly I brought to mind a scattered host
Of little birds off Massachusetts' coast.
Caught in migration, far from any lee,
A sudden gale had swept them out to sea.
On the chill day our vessel crossed their track
We saw the long, torn convoy beating back,
Rising and falling, harried here and there
By fitful currents in the troubled air.
Yet all the drive of tiny wings
in flight
Was toward the land, too distant then for sight,
Checking with bearings man had yet to learn.
(We dipped our ensign as they crossed our stern.)

Falcon Interests Students

A perigrine falcon and his family proved very accommodating for students attending the two-week course of studies last summer at Camp Billie Bear, near Huntsville, Ont. The camp, on the fringe of Algonquin Park, is sponsored by the Federation of Ontario Naturalists.

The family was found nesting on a rocky ledge and adults and young obliged by appearing for close observation.

A slate-toned blue above, cream to white below, this handsome falcon is of the breed that made falconry the sport of princes and aristocrats in times past. It enjoys fame in our own day as the bird trained to frighten into hiding, flocks of gulls and other birds that can make the departure and landings of planes on their runways, hazardous.

A large bird with wing spread sometimes reaching to four feet, the popular name for the species in Canada and the United States is duck hawk. It has a prominent toothed bill and sharply triangular wings.

Peregrine falcons are found all across Canada, north to the Arctic islands, but are not common anywhere. In settled regions they are regarded by bird watchers as rare and exciting visitors. They nest on rocky ledges.

INDUSTRY UNDER CONTROL

Buenos Aires, Sept. 30 (AP) — The Argine Congress yesterday approved a law placing the country's cattle industry under government control. The opposition in Congress charged the measure would give the government the right to nationalize the meat-packing industry, largely operated by United States and British interests. However, there was no immediate indication the government intends to take such a step.

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP) — President Truman today starts an eight-day cruise on the Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay. It will be his first extended vacation since the outbreak of the war in Korea.

Three Gunmen Secure $1,600 In Daring Robbery

Toronto, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Three gunmen escaped with $1,600 in a daring kidnap-robbery on busy Queen Street in downtown Toronto Friday.

Seized and robbed was William Gold, 42, manager of the Barclay Hotel, who lay bound with bailing wire in a deserted west-end alley for more than an hour before he was able to free himself and report the robbery.

A suspect was picked up for questioning a few minutes later, but released.

Police said Gold was leaving the Queen and McCaul Street branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia after withdrawing the $1,600 when the three men, all well-dressed, forced him into his own car at gunpoint.

They made him drive to the alley, where he was pushed from the car and trussed. The bandits fled in Gold's car. It later was found a few blocks from the alley.

SHORTTS—GILBEY

Father Charles Baker united in marriage June Anne, eldest daughter of Mrs. Phillistina Gilbey, and Ronald Stanley Shortts, son of Mrs. Edward Shortts, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Edward Shortts.

The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of sapphire blue lace over taffeta, with matching headdress, and carrying a shower bouquet of white lilies and red roses. She was attended by her younger sister, Miss Paula Gilbey, who was lovely in pink lace over taffeta with matching bonnet, and corsage of pale blue carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Napoleon Langevin, of Tweed, uncle of the bride.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Uens, Sidney Street, the rooms being tastefully decorated with gladioli, asters, and other Autumn flowers. The bride's mother, wearing a becoming gown of navy sheer with corsage of red roses, was assisted in receiving by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a graceful gown of cinnamon crepe with corsage of Talisman roses. The delicious luncheon was prepared by the hostess, assisted by Miss Kathleen Shortts, Mrs. Ethel Latona and Mrs. Bernadette Clemens.

Frances B. Sweeny Noted Artist, Exhibits At 'The Little Gallery'

Miss Frances B. Sweeny, prominent Montreal artist and convener of the Studio Group of Women's Arts—a rather exclusive organisation of 25 artists—whose exhibit of water colors and oils is now on view at The Little Gallery, Pinnacle Street, is noted for her deep, love of nature, which she depicts with skill and tenderness.

For the past several weeks, Miss Sweeny has been travelling through Western Ontario, making pilgrimages into the country to transfer to canvas and paper the beauties of Autumn landscapes. Wherever the sumac flaunts its scarlet branches against a sea of living green, or the brown-eyed Susans stand in solitary pride, or the wine-hued Virginia creeper trails athwart the rugged, grey-green rocks, or a quaint, old home nestles beneath tinted maples, there one is apt to find a tall, grey-haired woman, like Queen-mother, Wilhelminia of The Netherlands, busy at her easle.

Miss Sweeny's water colors are delicate, lightly suggested, with but little detail, as noted in modern French paintings, yet delightfully clear, and transparently crisp. The outstanding water color on display at the Little Gallery is that of the Cobourg birthplace of the actress, Marie Dressler, which Miss Sweeny painted on request of an United States art collector; which painting, following the exhibition here, will be sent to the California Huntington Art Galleries, for permanent entry.

Her oil paintings show the same broad treatment—little detail—as her water colors, with a minimum of brush strokes to interpret the subject, yet revealing all the fresh loveliness of nature's transient moods of sunshine and shadow.

Grand Old Lady Reaches 82nd Milestone

Mrs. John Archibald, of Cannifton, who is at present at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ray Lockyer, 67 Station Street, and who celebrated her 82nd birthday yesterday, is a fitting example of the fine United Empire Loyalist stock from which she came in that, just recovering from a serious appendectomy, she is able to look forward to the future with a smiling face and undaunted courage.

She was the recipient of many lovely flowers and pretty cards from her many friends both near at home, and from those across the land, as well as a telegram of congratulation from her son, Percy, who is now in San Francisco. A lovely birthday cake with appropriate decorations, afforded her much pleasure.

Mrs. Archibald was the former Miss Victoria Alcombrack, of Huntingdon township. She has Huntingdon township. She has one sister, Miss Minnie Alcombrack, of Cannifton; two daughters, Mrs. Ray (Myrtle) Lockyer, of this city, and Mrs. Harry (Helen) Twiddy, of Cannifton; two sons, Percy Archibald, of San Francisco, and William Archibald, of Cannifton, also several grandchildren, and one great grandchild, Stephen Twiddy.

The citizens of Belleville join in wishing this grand old lady many more years of happiness, and pay silent tribute to her U.E. forebears.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

Copenhagen, Denmark.

Thursday, all day, the committees carried on with their discussions and findings, for reports must be ready to be put before the conference by Friday. Some of us had hoped we'd finish early, that we might have an hour to shop, or take a short boat ride on the canal or see something of the old and interesting public buildings and their contents.

Mrs. Houck and I were received by the Minister of Agriculture at the noon hour. He was most gracious and although he could not speak a word of English his secretary spoke it exceedingly well, so we were able through him to secure the information we needed. As you know we are two newly appointed directors to the Royal Winter Fair Board. We take our work seriously and there were one or two matters on which we wanted information on its behalf. Saturday at 11:30 we have an appointment with the Danish official, head of the Agricultural Societies in Denmark and we hope to secure further information that will be of use.

Thursday afternoon one representative from each country at the conference was invited to have tea with Queen Ingrid of Denmark. Mrs. Morton was named as our official representative and she looked lovely, indeed as she drove off with 24 others to meet the Queen. Our Canadian delegation happy to please her, and also to be sure that she looked resplendent indeed put our kroners together and bought her a beautiful mauve orchid. Dressed in black our Duchess certainly looked the part. Here is her little story on her return: They drove about 40 miles out in the country to the palace where they were received by both the King and Queen. The King took them out on the terrace and showed them the beautiful formal gardens, which Mrs. Morton said had long vistas similar to Versailles. The King then excused himself and tea was brought in with sandwiches and little cakes, not the open-faced sandwiches which we have found to be the usual Danish custom.

The Queen was exceedingly gracious, and went from one little group to another of her guests, so that all might have an opportunity for a chat. She said to Mrs. Morton "Now what would you like to talk about?"

The present King is a musician of note. He once conducted the Royal Symphony Orchestra and this recording was sold to build up the nation's fund. The Dowager Queen is a flower enthusiast and lends her patronage to the numerous flower exhibitions held in her country. One of their specialties is the carnation. It requires a long growing season and does not like excessive heat, and matures here to a splendid size.

The Dowager Queen is Alexandrine and is the patroness of the Danish House Wives, Association. Queen Ingrid and Frederick IX have three children, all girls, thus three European Royal families—Britain, Holland and Denmark—have girls in line for succession to the throne.

We went back to Christiansborg Castle in the evening to hear Dr. Margaret Hockin speak, who is dierctor of the Rural Welfare Division of F.A.O. Western Ontario members will remember how much we enjoyed her address at the London Convention last fall. Here are a few of Dr. Hockin's statements. She has just completed a tour of Western Europe, studying conditions applicable to her work. "It is presumptuous for me to lead this discussion on Rural Welfare, for the Rural Division of F.A.O. is just three years old, and your organization pioneers in this work and has years of effort behind it. In fact I am here because A.C.W.W. brought pressure to bear that a woman be appointed to this position and I stand before you as substantial evidence of your weight. F.A.O. embraces 63 countries and this is its threefold purpose; (1) To raise the level of nutrition in the countries of the world; (2) to improve the production of food, and (3) bettering living conditions of rural people.

Number 3 defines the nature and scope of our program, it is anything that effects the living in rural communities, and the $64 question is 'What does Rural Welfare Division attempt to do?' This is the criterian of our work (1) Is the problem an urgent one in many countries? (2) Is it in the capacity of the rural welfare to undertake—we have a staff of five. (3) Can the problem be tackled immediately? (4) Will it lead to early results? We need to remember that welfare is not only physical condition but also the condition of mind and soul.

Speakers from various countries spoke on the aspects of rural welfare under the following headings: Nutrition, The Netherlands; housing, Sweden; education, Switzerland; child care and training, New Zealand, and family and community health, Norway. The speakers traced the development of each field in her country and discussion and questioning from the floor followed each report.

All agreed on these essentials for rural living: (1) Adequate water supply. (2) electrical service and (3) education in promoting a standard of nutrition, health and comfort in the home.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Not all abbreviations save time. Waiters, for instance, soon learn that it takes just as long to say RB as it does to call out roast beef. SC and Swiss Cheese are two syllables each. It takes as much lung power to order OJ as it does to ask for orangeade.

But the new abbreviation 24, 5-T is an exception to this rule. It stands for trichlorophenoxy-acetic acid. This is a new plant growth regulator which, in experiments, caused lemons to grow to 2 or 3 times their normal size. 24, 5-T may be good news to lemon growers, if it proves practical, but most cooks will say, "Who needs it? Lemons are big enough now."

Sometimes a housewife needs 2 or 3 lemons in baking. But more often she requires a few drops of lemon juice to squeeze over the spinach or fish. The rest of the lemon is stored away. Big quantities of lemon juice are needed when you're making lemonade or mixing drinks. But for most cooking purposes a small or average size lemon will do the trick.

You'll need just an average size lemon to make warm lemon sauce served with an apple pudding. If the apples you buy are very hard and somewhat dry, when you cut them, you should steam the apple slices in a small saucepan with 1-2 inch of water until tender. If the apples are mealy and tender, this step is unnecessary.

Apple Pudding, Lemon Sauce

tered stale bread into 1-2 inch squares. (Bread may be staled in a slow oven 250 degrees in about 3-4 hour.)

Cut four slices of but-

Put the bread in a greased baking pan. Peel and core 2 large cooking apples. Cut the apples into slices about the same size as the bread. Steam the apple slices if necessary to soften. Add the apples to the baking pan.

Beat 2 eggs slightly. Add 1-3 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-8 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg to the eggs. Gradually add 2 cups hot milk to the eggs. Stir well to dissolve sugar.

Pour the egg-milk mixture into the baking pan. Sprinkle lightly with cinnamon. Place the pan in a larger pan containing hot water. Bake at 350 degrees until a silver knife inserted in pudding comes out clean, about 50-60 minutes.

To make lemon sauce: Mix in a saucepan 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1-3 cup sugar and 1 cup cold water. Bring to a boil, and cook 5 minutes. Remove from fire. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon butter and 1-3 cup marshmallow cut into very small pieces. Heat sauce slightly just before serving. Pour sauce over pudding in individual serving dishes.

A SHORT CIRCUIT

Ottawa, Sept. 30—(CP)— City police cars raced through Ottawa's noon hour traffic Friday in answer to a general burglar alarm from the Bank of Canada. The police squad doubled through workers hurrying from the bank for lunch and found the five-man R.C.M.P. guard standing serenely in the bank.

The alarm: a short circuit.

Twenty-Three Ladies Of Trinity W.A. Enjoy Motor Outing

Madoc—An enjoyable outing was had by the Trinity W.A. ladies when they motored out to the home of Mrs. Ford Tumelty on Tuesday evening for their regular devotional service meeting. Mrs. L. Bennett had charge of the program and took as the theme for the worship service "Importance of Little Things", emphasizing that small things become great using quotations of Scripture read by Mrs. E. Demorest, Mrs. P. Caverly and Mrs. B. Devolin which showed and told of the really wonderful things God can do with the small things demonstrating that if God is put first, and all surrendered to Him, He will multiply it a thousandfold for the blessings of others.

The president, Mrs. B. Tanner, took charge of the business part reminding the members of the bazaar to be held in November. A nominating committee of Mrs. W. Parks, Mrs. P. Holland and Mrs. Bennett were appointed to select the officers for the coming year.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. Demorest, reported that a new chesterfield suite and a new bedroom suite had been placed in the parsonage and it was decided to hold a rummage sale in October.

The 23rd Psalm was read in unison and the interpretation of this Shepherd Psalm was given by Mrs. Dover, Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Bennett, Miss Love and Miss Holmes. Mrs. B. Tanner read a story "Housewife", showing that being a good housewife is a manager of every occupation.

Mrs. J. F. Lane read a poem, "Do Somethingfor Somebody Always", impressing the fact that nothing can help so much as a kindly deed.

Mrs. Bennett conducted a contest with Miss Holmes winning the prize.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

The president extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. Tumelty for her invitation and also to those taking part. Twenty-three ladies enjoyed the pleasant outing.

New Mothers Entertained by H. & S. Assoc.

Queen Mary School was the scene of an interesting event last Thursday afternoon, when the Home and School Association entertained about 25 new mothers, at a delightful tea.

The guests were received by the president, Mrs. R. Poste, who extended a cordial welcome.

The tea table was covered by an ivory, lace cloth and centered by an attractive bouquet of pink and white asters with tall pink tapers at each end. Pouring were Mrs. C. D. Frederick and Mrs. Bateman.

Mr. Frederick and Mr. Bateman then presented the staffs of Queen Mary and Prince Charles Schools respectively. Mrs. W. Finkle was also present and explained the aims and purposes of Home and School work.

Mr. L. A. Kells, public school administrator, addressed the new mothers and welcomed them to the school.

This delightful event was convened by Mrs. B. Smith, assisted by Mrs. J. Livesey and her social committee.

Three British women doctors visiting Canada en route to the International Conference of Medical Women held this year in Philadelphia, are streng in their approval of Britain's socialized medical scheme . . . Dr. D. Lancaster of North Wales, Dr. Mary Nelson of Sheffield and Dr. Dagmar Wilson of Oxford, all speak in favor of the U.K. social health plan. Dr. Wilson points out that while the plan is not exactly pefect yet, most people are benefitting.

Dr. Barbara Meredith in Canada from Melbourne, Australia, for a brief stay, addressed a large luncheon gathering in Toronto. She said that Australia may be the next country to get socialized medicine.

A typographical error in a large Toronto daily newspaper's account of Dr. Meredith's talk caused not a few titters among readers: "'We Australians are proud that our infant morality rate is the lowest in the world,'" Dr. Meredith declared.

Canadian career girls paused at their typewriters to read that Rose Alexander, daughter of the Governor-General, is working as a stenographer in the offices of an Ottawa insurance firm . . . Evidently our young First Lady believes in getting out wrestling with the world to win independence just as all the other young women of this country want to do . . . Good for her.

Crystal decanters will develop nasty rings around their tummies if allowed to stand too long with wine, whiskey, or even water. To erase these rings, drop some eggshells smashed into small particles into the decanter. Add enough warm water to shake. Let the solution stand in the decanter for a day or two, shaking it occasionally. This treatment will polish up mose decanters reviving their original sparkle.

Typically American, was the news photo from Korea showing a tired G.I., off duty relaxing with a magazine and a cigarette. No, he was not smoking a pipe and reading a book.

Why Don't They? Why don't they make defroster pans in electric refrigerators that will hold all the water which drains off? Instead, many homemakers must keep an eye out during defrosting to make sure the pan doesn't slop over . . . And why don't they devise a better tooth powder dispenser than the flat hole in the can which gives out with enough powder to clean the jaws of a horse?

Why don't the publishers of magazines, who insist it is necessary to continue their stories on various pages throughout the book, why can't they at least break their sentences-to-be-continued at the end of a sentence? Would it matter so much if half a line of white space were wasted?

Why don't the designers and producers of clothes horses get wise to the point that many housewives have hot air furnaces and want to stand these racks over the hot air register? Instead of tiny feet on these articles, they should be equipped with large, flat feet (the clothes horses that is, not the housewives.)

And these plastic funnels for kitchen use . . . have you ever tried using one for hot syrups when preserving? Yes, they crack and melt with heat. Now we ask anybody . . . of what use is a household funnel that won't stand heat?

Carrier Boys and Girls Of Ontario Intelligencer Will Enjoy Trip to Niagara Falls

Last year a large number of the Ontario Intelligencer carrier boys and girls enjoyed an all-expense trip to Niagara Falls.

They had the time of their young lives, seeing sights they never saw before and enjoying unique experiences.

The trip and its highlights were the "talk of carrier town" for months afterwards.

In fact the carriers talked so much about the fun and good times they had, that the Ontario Intelligencer has arranged a similar all-expense excursion again this year.

The trip will be a three-day affair starting October 13 through October 15th and will include a cruise on the "Maid of the Mist"; a visit to the Scenic Tunnel under the Falls; the Burning Springs; a trip on the Spanish Aero car across the Gorge and over the Whirlpool; a visit to Brock's Monument; a trip to Niagara Falls, N.Y., and a tour of many other points of historical and general interest.

All the carrier has to do to become eligible for this wonderful experience is to obtain a few new customers who will agree to take the Ontario Intelligencer for three months.

You Can Help

All the carrier boys and girls will work hard is order to qualify themselves for this thrilling educational trip. But a little help on your part won't come amiss. In fact your carrier will deeply appreciate any assistance you can give him, so he can accompany his carrier buddies to Niagara Falls.

So if you have a family living with you, or know anyone not now taking the Ontario Intelligencer, will you tell your carrier so he may call upon them?

After all, your carrier is a human little fellow who enjoys the good things of life. He is like any other boy, full of life and an ambition to get along in this world. He is doing a fine job bringing your Ontario Intelligencer to your door every day, rain or shine. So he deserves a little extra pat on the back.

And you can do just that by helping him to qualify for this wonderful trip. We assure you, he will always be grateful to you.

Several carrier boys and girls have already become eligible for the tour, these include, Ron Galpin, Jack Kennedy, Joe Deryaw, Pat Tracey, John Ashley, John Berrigan, Alvin Munns, all of Belleville; Roly Jackson, of Springbrook, Garry Blakely, of Tweed; Lee Meehan, Marmora; Paul O'Sullivan, Bob Day, John Robitaille, Ron Maracle, Beverly Rigby, Plainfield, and Maureen Berrigan, Belleville, will also make the trip.

Young Housewife Saves Children In Ottawa Fire

Ottawa, Sept. 30 — (CP) — A young housewife Friday saved two young children from being burned to death when a two-alarm fire swept through a two-storey, four-door brick row at 848 to 854 Gladstone Ave., in Ottawa's westend district.

The blaze made 26 persons homeless and caused damage estimated at $25,000.

The fire started in a wooden shed at the rear of Mrs. Arthur Philippe's home at 848 Gladstone Ave., raced through her home and then spread quickly to the remainder of the row.

Mrs. Philippe ran to the shed when she noticed the flames and saved three-year-old Susan Gervais and her 21-month-old sister, Lise, who were playing in the shed.

Thinking someone else might be trapped upstairs in the shed, the young housewife turned to go back in but was overcome by the dense smoke and was dragged away by firemen.

Another Power Shortage Says Hydro Chairman

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 30 — (CP) — Chairman Robert H. Saunders of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission said Friday that a demand for power unforseeable even four months ago has led to another power-shortage emergency.

He told directors of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association, in annual meeting here, that even had the increased demands been anticipated, the current shortage could not have been prevented.

"This emergency has caused us to take advantage of the at-will and interruptible clauses in our contracts," he said. The cuts to some industries compared with those made during the last emergency in 1948.

Russia Called 'Power-Hungry Government Bent on Spreading Its Way by Force and Terror'

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP) — The State Department officially described Russia today as "a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror."

In a policy outline drafted at President Truman's suggestion, the department said that since 1945 the Soviet Union has annexed some 7,500,000 square miles of new territory and has taken more than 500,000,000 persons under its control.

"It is now trying to extend its empire across Asia," the department added.

These new denunciations of Russia were contained in a 100-page booklet entitled "Our Foreign Policy". In a brief forward, Truman said he suggested the work to "set down as simply and clearly as possible what we are after in our relations with other governments and their peoples."

McFarland in presenting the McFarland Co. trophy awarded the team member with the best batting average. Lt. Col. R. J. CRASHES IN FIELD

Ancaster, Sept. 30 — (CP) — A light plane crashed in a farmer's field near here Friday night after smashing through hydro-power lines and blacking out some 300 homes in the area. Its three occupants escaped injury.

Police said the craft was piloted by Robert Millson, R.C.A.F. veteran from nearby Hamilton, and passengers were believed to be two members of Canada's Special Army force.

63-MILE PIPELINE

Chatham, Sept. 30—(CP)— A 16-inch natural gas pipeline, 63 miles long, will be laid by the Union Gas Company from Windsor to its storage area in Lambton County, Thomas Weir, general manager, announced Friday.

National Labor Code is Asked

Winnipeg, Sept. 30. (CP)—A National Labor code covering all workers was demanded by the Canadian Congress of Labor at its annual convention.

The Congress said in a resolution that the present set-up of one federal code and individual laws in each province "conflicts in many ways with the rights of workers."

"Many technicalities can be and are translated in favor of unscrupulous employers," it added.

The present federal law covers a number of interprovincial industries such as railways, communications and shipping. The C.C.L. has been pressing for some years to have its radius widened, particularly to cover industries of the type of steel and meat-packing which have branches in more than one province.

Three Plants Of Ford Motor Company Closed

Windsor, Sept. 30 (CP)—Three main plants of the Ford Motor Company of Canada closed Friday as employee demonstrations spread.

Some 6,000 workers were involved in the shutdown of a fabricating plant, the main assembly line plant and the foundry. It was expected all plants would resume operations with a later shift today.

A company spokesman stated that the assembly plant, where today's work stoppage began, was closed by the superintendent "when it was apparent the men were not returning to work after the 10 a.m. rest period."

The work stoppage, which apparently took the form of a brief demonstration, with workmen walking through the plant, was the second in two days. A similar brief work stoppage occurred yesterday, the union said.

The union is negotiating with the company for a supplementary wage increase to offset rising living costs.

way the company forstrikeclos-England, local 200 president, "The men are fed up with the said. "They took things into their own hands."

He said the work stoppage had not been authorized by union officials.

Wheat Harvest 123 Million Bus. More Than in '49

The fall harvest is generally as good as last year's but Canadian shoppers are finding food bills considerably higher.

Western grain farmers, expecting one of the biggest wheat crops in history, got a bitter disappointment when frost, snow, wind and rain cut down their yield. But even at that, the crop was estimated by the Bureau of Statistics at 490,000,000 bushels—123,000,000 more than last year's.

A Canadian Press survey shows all common foods in good supply—with no particular surplus. Besides wheat, a few other crops were hard hit by the weather. There is some incidence of potato blight in scattered sections of Ontario. Prince Edward Island's potato crop is expected to be about 30 per cent below last year's all-time high of 9,000,000 bushels.

Floods and Produce

Manitoba floods hit some types of produce, reducing the yield of vegetables such as corn and spinach. Ontario's crop of tomatoes for processing is less than last year's. In British Columbia's Okanagan Valley the apple crop is estimated at 7,500,000 boxes, about 400,000 less than last year.

Ontario's fall harvest is generally bigger than last year's despite wet weather. Harvests of feed grain, with the exception of corn, are greater, indicating that milk production and quality beef and pork should equal if not surpass those of last year. With the exception of tomatoes for processing, the vegetable crop is increased and quality is normal. The fruit crop is reduced about 20 to 30 per cent but quality—particularly of apples—is excellent.

Quebec's grain and cereal crops are to be outstanding. Meat production is high and summer apples abundant.

Prince Edward Island reports one of the best grain harvests in its history. New Brunswick potato and other root crops are good. Value of Nova Scotia's crops is estimated at $22,000,000, about the same as last year.

Prices Higher

Although there is lots of food around, prices to the consumer are in many cases higher than last year. Meat seems to have taken the biggest jump with the increase ranging from about 20 per cent in Nova Scotia to 25 per cent in Ontario. Grocery prices in Ontario increased about four per cent during the year but produce prices dropped an estimated 10 per cent. One Toronto merchandising expert estimated the average food bill was up six to eight per cent.

Members of the St. John's Parish at Prescott, last week paid tribute to Rev. J. B. Creeggan and family, prior to their departure for this city, where Mr. Creeggan has been named as rector at Christ Church. Mr. Creeggan is successor to Rev. J. Grant Sparling as rector in Belleville.

Parishioners of St. John's Parish in Prescott presented Mr. Creeggan with a substantial purse of money and to Mrs. Creeggan, a lovely silver tray. The Parish of Crystal Rock, where Mr. Creeggan filled in during the absence of their minister, also presented him with a purse.

The Woman's Guild also honored Mrs. Creeggan, who had acted as their president. Mrs. Creeggan was presented with an umbrella.

The A.Y.P.A. presented Burnett Creeggan, son of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Creeggan with a fountain pen, while a number of teen-age friends presented Miss Mary Isobel Creeggan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Creeggan, with a gold locket.

RCAF Central Air Command Band Will Play in Belleville At Second Band Festival

The stage is all set, everything is prepared for the colorful second annual band festival to be staged in the Belleville Memorial Arena come Monday evening, Oct. 2nd.

What is rated as one of the finest military bands in Canada, the outstanding RCAF Central Air Command Band from Ottawa, as well as top ranking local and district band organizations will be featured to give the finest program of band music ever to be heard in Belleville.

The colorful Central Air Command Band will come to Belleville for the band festival by the kind permission of the Chief of Staff for the RCAF at Ottawa. Bandealder is Flight Lieut, Edward Kirkwood.

Triumphal Trumpets

This well known Air Force Band will bring to Belleville with them their famous Triumphal Trumpets, which will be the second time they will have been heard in Canada. The first and only other occasion on which they were heard in this country was at the presentation of the colors to the RCAF at Ottawa. The Triumphal Trumpets will be used in several numbers by the RCAF band during the festival program.

Belleville and district band music lovers are assured that the spectacle of the famous long stemmed Triumphal Trumpets being played by the trumpeters is well worth the price of admission alone.

Band of Noted Musicians

Formed during the war years, the Ceneral Air Command Band has among its members the finest musicians of the RCAF. From all across Canada men in the Air Force with musical background and proficiency are called to Ottawa as members of this outstanding band. Other RCAF band organizations act as a feeder to the number one band.

It is for this reason that the Air Force band is rated among the best in Canada, and also for this reason that local music lovers cannot afford to miss Monday night's second annual band festival.

The Argyle Pipe Band, another musical organization well known to Belleville and district residents, will take part in the band festival program. This band under their band leader John Browning, never refuses to offer their services at any worthy function or parade and were among the first to volunteer to take part in the festival program.

Municipal Band and Soloists

But Belleville's own Municipal Band is not to be forgotten. Belleville's own band, under Bandmaster Ted. Robbins, will be heard during the program and is the home band which is sponsoring the program.

As one of their numbers the Belleville Band will play "Mannin Dien" (Hyden-Wood), the test piece for Class "A" bands in competition at the Canadian National Exhibition.

As well as being heard as a unit the Belleville organization will offer two of its talented soloists in individual numbers. Miss Helen Grant, well known as a xylophone player and daughter of band member Bill Grant, will play "Quinte Polka" by Reg Hinchey. Also Ralph Cornish, one of the junior members of the band and talented clarinette player will play "Interlude" by (Morriss).

AT THE BELLE — Blending romance, courage and adventure, RKO Radio's remarkable Technicolor Alpine romance, "The White Tower," stars Glenn Ford, the lovely Valli and Claude Rains, starting today at the Belle Theatre.

MacARTHUR MAKES FORMAL RETURN OF SEOUL TO SOUTH KOREANS

In a moving ceremony, Gen. Douglas MacArthur turned Seoul back to the government of Synghman Rhee only a few hours after sniper fire stopped as U.N. troops cleared the city. Rhee, shown right with Gen. MacArthur, thanked the United Nations for the rescue of South Korea and called upon communists to surrender. — Central Press Canadian.

Historic Conclave of Labor Congress Sets New Milestones In Canada's Union History

Winnipeg, Sept. 30 —(CP) — Delegates to the Canadian Congress of Labor convention have concluded an historic conclave that set new milestones in Canada's union history.

Major moves of the five-day assembly of spokesmen for 360,000 workers were blows at communism in Canadian labor and a step in the direction of integration of all Canadian labor in a single body.

By the time it closed deliberations last evening, the Congress had delivered some of the most smashing wallops ever aimed at Canadian communism and appeared set to clean the remaining red remnants from its ranks.

First it expelled the strong red-dominated United Electrical Workers' Union, and then it gave its executive council power to boot out any union considered under communist influence. That could mean the end, during the next year, for three more bodies with some 10,000 members in the Congress.

Aim at One Body

In aiming at unification of labor, the Congress issued an invitation to other central labor bodies to form immediately a joint national council to deal with matters of common concern.

Congress officers express the hope that this is the first step towards an eventual integration that might bring the Canadian labor movement into a single body of more than 1,000,000 members.

The 700 delegates at yesterday's closing session devoted themselves largely to the passage of resolutions calling for improved conditions for Canadian workers.

However, the convention administered a parting kick to its left-wing minority. The left-wingers took a shot at most of the Congress' elective officers, but failed by a wide margin in every case.

Leftist Badly Defeated

Robert Haddow of Montreal, top remining leftist in the Congress, tried for the C.C.L. presidency but failed by a vote of 488 to 72 against veteran President A. R. Mosher, who founded the Congress in 1940. He now goes in for his 11th term.

Haddow is Canadian chief of the 5,000-member International Union of Fur and Leather Workers, biggest communist line group left in the Congress and likely to get the ax under the new expulsion powers of the executive.

In other directions, the Congress yesterday called for a National labor code that would cover all workers, increased old age pensions and higher income tax exemptions.

It asked for pensions of $60 a month starting at 65 years without a means test. The present basic pension now is $40, payable at 70 to those who show need.

Income tax exemptions sought were $1,500 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons, along with $500 for each dependent child. The C.C.L. also demanded that unions dues be exempted, along with workers' costs for transportation to and from their jobs.

MOTION DENIED

Toronto, Sept. 30—(CP)— Mr. Justice W. F. Spence, denying a defence motion to have a $61,369 damage suit heard before an Ontario Supreme Court judge without a jury, said Friday "judges have more faith in the workings of a jury after they become judges than they had as barristers."

The Ford Motor Company of Canada and Donald Garfield Emerson, secretary to Health Minister Martin, are being sued by Joseph Kulchenski. He asks $11,369 for medical expenses and $50,000 general damages as the result of an accident at Windsor in April, 1949. A car driven by Emerson and owned by the Ford Company collided with a car in which Kulchenski was a passenger.

School Proposed By President Of University

London, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP) — Establishment of a school of journalism from the present Department of Journalism at the University of Western Ontario was proposed Friday by Dr. G. E. Hall, University president, at a gathering of Ontario newspaper editors and publishers.

The occasion was a formal inspection of the new quarters of the department in Thames Hall attended by newspapermen, faculty members, and students of journalism.

"Has the time come when we must think of the department as a separate entity and formation of a school of journalism?" Dr. Hall asked. "I think the time is just about right for us to think about this problem. At the same time I think we should consider establishment of an advisory academic committee.

"If you, of the newspaper profession, feel there is some justification for it then the university can give it some consideration during the next year," Dr. Hall said.

Speaking for the Daily Newspapers F. I. Ker, publisher of the Hamilton Spectator, urged inspection in mechanical side of newspaper production in addition to the editorial and business sides.

Dr. Hugh Templin, famed editor of the Fergus News-Record speaking for the weekly newspapers, said some consideration should be given to preparing newsmen for weeklies.

MacArther Will Call on N. Korean Govt. to Resign

Tokyo, Sept. 30 — (AP) — Authoritative sources said today Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a broadcast statement tomorrow will call upon the North Korean government to surrender.

The broadcasts, in the Korean language, will be made in the general's name.

They are scheduled to begin at noon and are to be repeated regularly.

The sources did not reveal the terms which MacArthur would offer.

Presumably they will be strong and broadcasts may call for unconditional surrender.

Employees Walk Off Their Jobs In Ford Plant

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 30 (CP)— Assembly-line employees of Ford Motor Company of Canada walked off their jobs Friday evening to close down the big assembly plant for the second time in the day.

A company spokesman said the late shift in the assembly plant "just didn't go back to their work" after the rest period about 6.30 p.m.

Their action was apparently taken in support of present wage-increase demands being made by the 11,000-member Ford Local 200 of the C.I.O. United Automobile Workers Union.

Some late shift workers in the Ford machine shop also halted work after the rest period.

Both the machine shop and assembly plants were forced to close earlier in the day when men on the day shift staged demonstrations during the walkout this evening.

The next regular shift on the assembly line starts Sunday night.

S. KOREAN TROOPS

In the capital building Friday, MacArthur officially turned over Seoul's civil control to President Rhee. Before he arrived for the ceremony, security guards discovered a dynamite cache capable of blowing up the whole front of the battle-scarred building.

After MacArthur departed, fires broke out in the building. They did not burn out until this morning. Korean officials believe arsonists set the fires.

Troops of the Southern Korean 3rd division reached the 38th parallel town of Ingo on the east coast Friday night. An army spokesman said the division would remain at the border at least until three other divisions were on the line. It was emphasized that the halt was a military and not a political decision.

He said an order from the South Korean chief of staff would send the troops into North Korea. The spokesman was unable to say whether the chief of staff would await such an order from the United Nations command or from the South Korean government.

MacArthur has given no public expression what he intends to do about crossing the 38th parallel.

It was strictly mop-up in South Korea, where 150,000 Korean reds were on the offensive the first week of September. The U.S. Eighth Army didn't even issue a communique today.

dition of responsibility to the youngsters it serves — publish such a story?

Says Miss Eleanor M. Johnson, managing editor of elementary school publications:

"The staff is convinced that flying saucers most certainly are among United States experimental aircraft. Our correspondent had one idea in mind, and that thought was to calm any hysterical fears some children might have built up from hearing too much talk about mysterious flying objects from other planets or deadly flying weapons of our enemies."

Here are some other things "Trott's" article told the fifth-grades about flying sauces:

"Flying saucers are made in several sizes. The smallest ones are six inches thick. The big ones are about as far across as the wildth of four or five city lots. . . . They leave no trail of light or smoke. They make no sound. They are harmless.

"These strange flying things are made of material which dissolves after being in the air for a while. For this reason, the saucers disappear soon after they hit the ground. You probably will never find one. But if you do, you will find these words on it in black letters:

"Military secret of the United States of America Air Force. Anyone damaging or revealing description or whereabouts of this missile is subject to prosecution by the United States government."

Miss Johnson says her staff's belief in flying saucers is based, in part, on a number of "similar reports on the so-called saucers printed in various periodicals over the last six months."

James Craig, Paul Kelly, Jean Hagen and Paul Harvey are also featured in the new offering, showing at the Capitol Theatre Monday for its first showing. On the same program "Girls' School," starring Joyce Reynolds.

New York Yankees Capture American League Pennant, Dodgers, Phils Still Battling

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Yankees are "in" and the Brooklyn Dodgers are trying desperately to make it a greater New York world series.

Casey Stengel's Yankees are celebrating the winning of their 17th American League pennant today while the Dodgers close in fast on the jittery Philadelphia Phillies, National League leaders.

The Yanks, who were idle, backed into their second straight championship as the Cleveland Indians trounced Detroit 12-2 yesterday to eliminate the runner-up Tigers. But the dauntless Dodgers are the talk of the baseball world.

Faced with sudden death, the Brooks came from behind in both ends of a doubleheader and beat Boston Braves 7-5 and 7-6 to prolong their pennant chances.

A loss in either game and that old familiar cry, "wait until next year," would have resounded throughout Flatbush. But instead, the faithful are shouting the praises of a team that refused to quit.

The Dodgers now meet the Phils who have lost seven of their last nine games, in a two-game series that opens at Ebbets Field today. The Brooks trail the whiz kids by two games and must sweep the series to stay "alive." If the Brooks lose either today or Sunday the Phils will win their first pennant since 1915.

Best of Three

Should the Dodgers take both games from the Phils, they will wind up the regular season Sunday in a tie. In that event, a best of three playoff series will be staged to decide the Yanks' world series foe.

League President Ford Frick said last night that no playoff announcement regarding sites and dates will be made until after today's game, and then only if Brooklyn wins.

Dodger Manager Burt Shotton has selected Erv Palica (12-8) to go after the Phils today. Eddie Sawyer of the leaders will not decide until shortly before game time. It will either be Bob Miller (11-5), Bubba Church (8-6), or Russ Meyer (9-11), with Miller looming as the best bet. In Sunday's finale, Don Newcombe will pitch for Brooklyn and Robin Roberts for Philadelphia.

Pulled Each One Out

Palica is 2-2 against the Phils this year and both of his triumphs were shutouts. The Dodgers have taken five out of the last six games they played with Philadelphia. Church is 0-1, Miller 1-0 and Meyer 3-3 against Brooklyn.

The Dodgers appeared on the way to oblivion in both games yesterday, but pulled each one out with late-inning rallies.

In the opener, Max Surkont had the Dodgers beaten 5-2 going into the eighth when his infield collapsed and permitted Brooklyn to score five unearned runs and win the game. An error by Torgeson with two out and the bases loaded opened the floodgates.

The Dodgers also spotted the Braves an early lead in the finale and entered the sixth inning trailing 6-3. But they climbed on Vern Bickford, who failed for the sixth time to win his 20th game, for three runs and tied the score.

Jackie Robinson led off the seventh with his 14th home run to knock out Bickford and win the game.

St. Louis Cardinals downed Chicago Cubs 5-1 in a night game. The other National League clubs were idle. Al Brazle, who took over from Cloyd Boyer in the first inning after Boyer complained of a sore elbow, granted only four hits the rest of the way to win his 11th game.

Lemon Beat Tigers

Bob Lemon snuffed the life out of the Tigers. The big righthander stopped Detroit on six hits to post his 23rd victory, top output in the major leagues.

Ted Gray opened for Detroit and was pounded out in the fifth when the Indians scored three runs to take a 5-1 lead. The Indians added two more in the sixth on homers by Jim Hegan and Dale Mitchell and finished up with four in the eighth and one in the ninth.

The Yanks spent an off day in Boston listening to the Indian-Tiger clash. When the game was over, the Bombers tossed Stengel up in the air in a joyous celebration. The New Yorkers close out the season against the Red Sox with single games today and Sunday.

In the only other game, the Red Sox survived a four-homer blast to edge Washington Senators 7-6. Walt Dropo tripled home Vern Stephens in the ninth with the winning run.

Tennis Talk

Gossip From The Courts of The District

BY "DIG"

Last Saturday afternoon, by taking four events, Quinte Two became first, winners of the Corby Trophy. They had previously taken four points to Trenton's one in the final round in the three games points to count series. Thus on Saturday they made their bag a total of eight and if Trenton managed to win all the next five games they could only accumulate seven points in all. Congratulations to the winners.

This Corby Cup Series has certainly produced some very interesting tennis, and has proved the point that the standard of tennis is on the upgrade in this district. All teams in the league were very evenly matched this year and both the league trophy and the Corby knockout trophy could have easily been won by any of the contesting teams. No team had a walkover in any match played this season which certainly increases the interest for everyone concerned.

Last Sunday afternoon the intermediates of Quinte and Point Anne braved the elements and enjoyed a fine afternoon of competitive tennis. This was no league game and nothing was at stake, the kids were just out for an afternoon's enjoyment. Quinte ended up the winners by twelve events to nine, but the score was very close right up to the last ball going over the net. These youngsters are certainly coming along very nicely and with another season or two of practice will certainly do any senior league team credit.

Next Friday will be the grand finale to the season as far as the league is concerned when the Bay of Quinte Tennis League run their annual end of season dance. The two trophies will be presented to the winning teams at this function, and everyone is assured of a good evening's fun.

Weather permitting, a men's doubles tournament will be run at Point Anne under the auspices of the league on 8th Oct., to be followed by a mixed doubles tournament at the same courts on 15th Oct. These events are being run to try and hold the interest a little longer.

Fall Bass Fishing Can Be Good

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Auther and Creater of Solunar Tables)

In the fall of the year the thoughts of most sportsmen turn toward dogs and guns and the upland covers — away from fishing.

This, I suppose, is as it should be. The shooting season is all too short and fall days are golden, not to be wasted. Yet it will pay you to break out the fishing tackle for a few of those days and re-visit your summertime bass fishing spots.

All fish, as you know, are affected by temperatures. The hot summer sun sets up temperature layers in our bass waters and these often are a deterrent to good fishing.

With the arrival of the cool nights of fall, however, temperature extremes no longer exist and the fish can move about more freely. Bass, both largemouth and smallmouth, prefer temperatures in the high sixties and these are more readily available with the advent of fall weather.

Head for Shores

Less extreme temperatures, which is another way of saying "lower and more uniform temperatures," permit the bass to cruise the shore lines and shallows in greater comfort. Thus, as soon as surface temperatures are lowered the shore-line fishing improves.

This being the case, the top-water enthusiast can have excellent sport in the fall of the year. Either with casting rod or fly rod and bass bug he can find good fishing during the crisp fall days.

As the weather grows colder, the fish seem to sense the coming of winter and they feed quite actively, probably because Mother Nature tells them that they will need excess fat as fuel to carry them through the winter months.

Toward the end of the bass season in most states a curious but interesting phenomenon takes place. Gradually, as the days pass, you will note that you catch fewer small bass.

This slows down the fishing somewhat, but the fact that you do hook a goodly number of grown-up old tackle-busters compensates for the shrinkage in number.

You will note, also, that the pace of your fishing slows down. A lure that is played slowly and erratically will be taken more readily than one which moves rapidly. The rise to a top-water lure is a slow, methodical roll instead of the energetic strike of mid-summer.

No Universal Hibernation

The diminution of small bass in the late fall catch has led to much conjecture of late concerning the winter habits of black bass, both largemouth and smallmouth. Time was when the theory that all bass go into hibernation was generally accepted. The ichthyologists told us that 55 degrees was the water temperature that induced universal hibernation.

Today that theory has been rather generally exploded. Too many bass are being caught nowadays during the winter months to allow the acceptance of the theory of universal hibernation.

Ice fishermen report catching bass throughout the winter months, showing that at least some bass are active and feeding despite the low water temperatures.

In the inquiries I have made I can find little evidence of any small bass being caught during the winter months. As a matter of fact I know of only one small bass — a fish of perhaps three-quarters of a pound — which was so taken.

This one was caught through the ice last January in the headwaters of the Delaware River in New York State. All the other reports tell of taking only adult fish.

The probabilities are that some of the better-insulated biologists will undertake a serious study of the winter habits of bass in order to clear up this matter of hibernation which now seems to be surrounded by a great deal of conjecture.

Returning to fall fishing for a moment, don't forget that your Solunar Tables are a handy aid then as at other times.

Best on Sunny Days

In reduced water temperatures, bass become increasingly lethargic. Thus, they are active mainly during the natural feeding periods. It is a good idea to plan your fall fishing trips so that you can take advantage of major Solunar Periods during the warmer, sunnier hours of the day.

At these times your top-water lures are quite effective along the shore lines, among the shallows and over the shallower bars and reefs.

So, as I say, plan your fall fishing trips with the aid of the Solunar Tables. Then, as is true during the other months of the year, it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Philly Pitcher Becomes Annoyed At Photographer

(By The Canadian Press)

An incident in Flatbush Friday gave some indication of how touchy a baseball player can get while waiting nervously to see if his team is going to play in the World Series.

Russ Meyer of Philadelphia Phillies took a couple of punches at a photographer while the Brooklyn Dodgers were rallying for five runs to defeat Boston in the first game of a doubleheader in which they kept their National League hopes alive.

The Philly pitcher, who was watching the game with a number of teammates from a box near the Boston dugout, became annoyed when Bert Brandt of Acme insisted upon snapping him during the Dodgers' big eighth inning rally.

He and the other Phillies, it seems, were displaying considerable emotion as a Boston victory would have assured them the pennant.

Meyer warned the photographer to desist. When another bulb went of he leaped up and got in two blows before a spectator pulled him off.

Doug Grimston, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in New Westminster Friday he had suspended indefinitely Guyle Fielder of Lethbrdige, Alta., voted most valuable player in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League last season.

Grimston said Fielder, 19, has been suspended from organized hockey for failing to sign a professional contract with Milwaukee of the United States Hockey League.

Fielder signed a "C" contract with Chicago Black Hawks, owners of the Milwaukee club, when he turned 18. This means he gets $100 and must report to that club when called.

He would get $1,000 to sign a pro contract and another $3,500 for his first season with Milwaukee, Grimston said.

Grimston quoted Fielder as saying he thought he had signed to play with Chicago.

James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, and Jack Solomons, London promoter conferred Friday on the possibility of arranging an Ezzard Charles-Lee Savold heavyweight title boxing bout in London next summer.

No decision was reached. Charles is recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world champion while Savold holds the British version.

Art Houtteman, Detroit Tiger pitcher, was sued for $105,000 Friday by a truck driver who had a collision with the baseball player's car in 1949.

Avril B. Muse alleged in his circuit court suit at Bartow, Fla., that he was injured so seriously he cannot drive a truck any more. He contended the accident was Houtteman's fault.

Houtteman himself was hurt badly in the accident, which occurred in Lakeland, Fla., during the 1949 spring training season. He was in hospital for several weeks but made a complete recovery.

Houtteman and a passenger in his car, Arthur J. Falls, have suits pending for $100,000 each against the Pasco Packing Co., whose truck Muse was driving.

Watson-Geohagen Duo Hands Atkins-Henning Fancy Defeat

Some sort of justice triumphed over some sort of wrestling something or other last night in Memorial Arena.

In any event Whipper Billy Watson and his handsome counterpart Timothy Geohagen went home chuckling up their sleeves after beating the bejabors out of Ferocious Fred Atkins and Leering Lee Henning.

And they did a right good job of it despite the fact they lost the nod in second fall.

Referee Bunny Dunlop fell a victim at times to the wiles of the cunning pair Atkins and Henning, but overall he did a better job than did one Maxwell last week.

They Loved It

In fact, the near! 1,800 fans gloried in the smashing efforts put forth by the vengeful duo of Watson and Geohagen who gave the villainous pair the licking of their lives over the three falls.

Watson especially staged a dessert for Atkins for he defeated the toughie from Australia in Toronto the night before.

At one time, while the faithful screamed, "Whip" was the lone master of the situation. He smashed Atkins out of the ring, threw husky fists—pardon elbows at the Leer and just for fun flung a grandmother's kiss on the jaw of one Dunlop. The Whip strode around the ring daring the startled Henning and Atkins to come back for more with no takers. Referee Dunlop threatened the Whip with a cut-off of his chocolate bars but the East Yorker merely grinned touched the hand of waiting Timothy, murmured "Sic 'Em" and let the handsome bulldog take over.

Which he did. He survived the brutal smashing attacks of Atkins who cunningly pushed him toward the waiting Henning and the Leer promptly let go with fistic smashes at the face of the armed Irisher.

At one time things got out of hand, and the four gladiators piled into the ring in a flurry of fist, torsos and legs. Slowly the Whip emerged from the scramble followed by his Irish partner. The infuriated Atkins groaned, smashed at, twisted the leg of what he thought was the enemy while the grinning Whip and Timothy stood by and watched Ferocious Freddie deliver stiff punishment to his partner in wrestling crime, Henning. The crowd howled its approval.

The "beast" department of this beauty and beast embroglio used every trick in their respective bags but the Watson-Geohagen duo remembering the decision of a week ago when they had to battle three men were taking no chances. They literally beat the hell out of the opposition, in fact so much that Atkins after Referee Dunlop had awarded the third fall and match to Watson and Geohagen turned his wrath on his partner Henning and staged a private feud while the crowd howled its approval.

Atkins smashed Henning to the floor several times, while the grinning Watson and Geohagen slowly made their way to the dressing room. Henning, a really nice guy if you meet him on the street, fought back and the battle was an anti-climax to the main attraction.

Gary Schreider Stars for St. Mikes In Football Game

Toronto, Sept. 30 (CP) — St. Michael's College rallied for two majors in the last half for a 13-6 triumph over St. Jerome's College of Kitchener in an Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference senior "A" football game here on Friday night.

Gary Schreider, powerfully-built halfback, sparked the victors with some brilliant running, and scored their second major in the third quarter on an offtackle play. He converted the first touch by Leo McGuigan.

Mike Roga, St. Jerome quarterback, raced around end for a major early in the second quarter, and H. Zister booted the convert. The visitors held grimly to their lead until St. Mike's finally scored a point on Ron Hummel's kick.

St. Mike's made 12 first downs, 10 in the last half while St. Jerome's made four first downs, all before half time.

St. Mike's "B" team crushed St. Peter's College of Peterborough 22-0 in the first game of the doubleheader. The lighter St. Peter's team was outplayed all along the wingline and the backfielders couldn't get going.

A Weekly Peek At The Soccer Picture

BY ELDEE

For the second season in succession Tony Machola's boys from Batawa have captured the handsome Kent Shoe Trophy emblamatic of supremacy in the Bay of Quinte Soccer League competition. It was a close race between the Flyers at the Shoetowners but by taking two points off the Airmen a week ago last Wednesday the Batawa boys virtually clinched the deal.

In the Eastern Ontario Football League Kingston United made certain of the championship for the first season of existence of that loop when they walloped Peterborough United Electrical Workers by five goals to two at Peterborough last Saturday afternoon. The Peterborough squad were the only team who had a mathematical chance of finishing ahead of the United prior to the game last Saturday. There is no doubt but that the red shirts are the outstanding team in the district and they have not yet lost a point in the league.

The Bay of Quinte Football Association second annual banquet and dance will be held on Friday 27th October. This will be held in the new Queensway Hotel ballroom and banquet hall, and promised to be a really grand do. Tickets are now on sale from team secretaries and from the league executive priced moderately at $2.00 each. Of course the function to all members and supporters both male and female. Unlike last year when only a banquet was held and the affair wound up early in the evening this year the banquet starts at 7.30 p.m. but no time has been set for when the dance will terminate. Probably it will when all the cash customers feel tired.

This afternoon Kingston United travel to Camp Borden to take on the local Army team in the first leg of the final of the Ontario Intermediate Championships. The second match will take place next Saturday at the Kingston club's ground at the Aluminum Company of Canada grounds. Kingston are very strongly fancied to take this trophy this year and last yeas it will be remembered they went right through to the final and got nipped by Toronto Riverdale Imperials. In the semi-finals this year Kingston defeated Peterborough U.E.W. whilst Camp Borden put out the Trenton Flyers.

Ottawa Riders Minus Three Top Linemen by Injury

(By The Canadian Press)

In fiction, and occasionally in fact, football teams have stepped on the field with a gleam in their eyes, determined to "win this one for Joe."

It's a catchy slogan for a team with an injured star on the sidelines, but Ottawa Rough Riders will find it a real mouthful this week when they try to win it for Benny, John and Gerry.

All top linemen, Benny Steck, John Wagoner, and Jerry Lefebvre leave a big gap in Ottawa's front wall as their teammates line up today against the power-packed Toronto Argonauts, leaders of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union. But even with their opponents at full strength, Ottawa's prospects could be worse.

Without those three, and with capable Eddie Michaels banished for fighting, the Riders outgained Argos from the line of scrimmage in the second half last Saturday as they lost 36-15. Speedy Pete Karpuk will be added to their backfield this week.

Two points ahead of the third-place Riders and the same distance behind Toronto, Hamilton Tiger-Cats travel to Montreal Sunday for a return engagement with Montreal Alouettes. The tallenders gave them a scare in losing 18-12 last week.

Missing List

Montreal has a big missing list in the backfield, with Pete Thodos, Bob Cunningham and Jack Harper out of action. But Hamilton's ace passer, Stan Heath, has a sore hand which may cripple the visitors' aerial attack.

With the same line-up, but with a new coach, Windsor's winless Rockets travel to Toronto Sunday in an effort to avenge the 19-0 lacing Toronto Balmy Beach handed them last week.

Backfielder Jim Caine has replaced veteran Art Massucci as the Rockets' pilot, but Caine's chances of victory over the Argonaut farmhands in the Ontario Rugby Football Union are slim.

In the Western Canada Union, the first-place Edmonton Eskimos face a big test against Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the only club with an edge over them on the season's play.

The two clubs clash at Edmonton tonight, with the Esks protecting a two-point lead. The last place Calgary Stampeders entertain Saskatchewan Rough Riders in a game they have to win to keep their faint playoff chances alive.

Monday night the Alberta clubs will switch opponents as the Riders move north to Edmonton and the Bombers take over at Calgary.

Barrie Flyers Win Exhibition From Waterloo

Barrie, Sept. 30 (CP)—Barrie Flyers defeated Waterloo Hurricanes 11-2 here Friday night in a rough, hard-checking junior "A" exhibition hockey game.

In the first game of the season for either club, Waterloo proved no match for the fast-stepping and more-experienced Flyers. Barrie held a 5-1 lead at the end of the first period, extended it to 8-2 in the second and wound it up with three unanswered tallies in the final period. Chuck Wood and Real Cheyrefils were the only members of the Flyers to get more than one goal—picking up two each.

Don Savage and Chuck MacDonald scored for the losers.

Twenty-five penalties were handed out during the hard-hitting tussle, three going to defenceman Godfrey of Waterloo and four to Stanutz of Barrie. Paul Emms and Savage were banished with misconduct penalties in the third.

Ninth-Inning Rally Brings Victory to Howe & Hagerman

Howe and Hagerman staged a dramtic finale and scored two runs in the top of the ninth inning to defeat Point Anne 5-4. This evened the best-of-five series with each team having won two games. The deciding game of the series to determine the 'A' section champions will be played at the Fair Grounds tonight.

The green clad Plumbers took a one run lead in the top of the first inning as Amo beat out a bunt and after Rollins struck out, Spafford smashed a double which sent Amo to third. Amo eventually scored as Mallory grounded to first.

Point Anne tied it up in the last of the second when Finlan singled to left, was sacrificed to second by Baldwin and was plated on a single by Jim Hunter. In the last of the fifth, Logue of Point Anne, first sacker, led off with a base hit to centre field. After Brant fanned, Sword doubled Logue to third. Jack Hunter then singled Logue home with a line drive to left. Then with runners on first and third, Harry Wardhaugh muffed a fly ball hit by Horwood and two more runs scored.

Score Two in Sixth

A double by Mallory, a dropped fly by Jack Hunter and a wild pitch gave Howe and Hagerman two runs in the sixth. With one out, Wardhaugh singled and this caused the Ox Point management to make a change. Pat Maracle was rushed to the mound and he proceeded to strike out the next two men. Maracle continued his great relief performance in the seventh as he struck out the side. In the eighth he fanned two of the three men that faced him.

Then came the ninth. Maracle fanned John Bawdin who was a pinch hitter for Bob Hunter and looked well on his way to gain the victory. But Maracle seemed to lose his stuff. Amo then walked, Rollins beat out a bunt and Bill Spafford lashed out his third hit of the evening to load the bases. Mallory then hit a high foul which Logue caught after a good run. Amo scored from third after the catch and when Logue was a little slow in throwing to the plate. Rollins scampered on in from second to give the Plumbers a 5-4 lead.

Al Adams went the route for H and effectively scattered ten bingles to claim the win. Adams struck out four and walked only one.

Big Jim Hunter started for Point Anne. H and H obtained six hits from Hunter while be was on the mound. Hunter fanned six. Pat Maracle relieved Hunter in the sixth and was charged with the defeat. Maracle fanned eight, walked two and gave up four hits in pitching the last three and two thirds innings.

Bill Spafford led all hitters with two doubles and a single in five tries. Amo hit safely twice for Howe and Hagerman while Rollins, Mallory, D. Adams, A. Adams got one hit each.

Logue and Sword hit a pair of bingles for the Point. Others to hit safely were Jack Hunter, Horwood, Finlan, Jim Hunter and Murney Green.

Batemans Rout Jewellers 20-10 In 'B' Finals

In a "B" section final playoff game at the Fair Grounds last night, Bateman Motors routed Avon Jewellers 20-10 to lead the best-of-five final series 2 to 0.

Avon at one point held a 5-1 lead but their hurling was insufficient to hold off the powerful Bateman sluggers.

Wright pitched the whole game for the winners and gave up 15 hits. "Yank" McBride and Archie Bellis divided the Avon pitching chore and they gave up 15 hits between them. Avon made six errors while Bateman's miscued five times. So far in the series, Avon have proved themselves no match for the powerful Bateman crew who will be out to finish the Jewellers tonight at 6.30 at the Fair Grounds.

Thompson, the lead-off hitter for Bateman Motors hit two doubles and three singles in five trips to lead the sluggers to victory. Bone hit a homer, a double and a single while Callahan hit a double and a triple and Wright hit a single and a triple. Semark, the Bateman third baseman, hit a homer.

For Avon Cowan claimed three hits while W. McTaggart, Reid, McBride and Miller each hit safely twice.

Babe Ruth hit his 60th homer of the season at New York 23 years ago, to establish a new major-league record. From 1914 until his retirement in 1935, the bambino hit 714 round-trippers. His death Aug. 16, 1948, represented the end of an era to many baseball fans.

Cullop Has Chance For New Record In Coming Series

Baltimore, Sept. 30 (AP) — Nick Cullop, 49-year-old pilot of Baltimore Orioles, is primed to become the first manager of three different Little World Series champions.

The 235-pound, red-faced manager can do it at the expense of Columbus, has present home town and one of his former champion teams.

Baltimore and Columbus start their best-of-seven series tonight. They'll play two more here Sunday and Monday and go to Columbus for whatever necessary games remain.

Each team finished third during the regular season in their respective leagues, Baltimore in the International and Columbus in the American Association. They went on to win two playoff rounds.

It's Cullop's first year at Baltimore, which finished seventh last season. He came here from Milwaukee, a team he had piloted to the Little World Series championship in 1947. He brought Columbus the championship four years previously.

Cullop's rival on the Columbus bench is manager Rollie Hemsley. The two managers are former major-league players.

The series shaped up as Baltimore hitting power versus Columbus tight pitching and defence.

The Red Birds from Ohio allowed only 634 runs this year, the least in the American Association. Their mound ace is Kurt Krieger who fashioned a 17-6 record.

Long-ball hitting, home runs in the clutches and "big" innings have featured the Orioles' playoff triumphs.

Puck Patter

(By The Canadian Press)

Warning note to National Hockey League goalies in Detroit, Montreal, Toronto, New York and Boston: Chicago Black Hawks are showing more offensive power than during the 1949-50 season.

That's the consensus of observers who've been watching coach Ebbie Goodfellow put his charges through their paces in daily workouts and exhibition games at their North Bay, Ont., training camp.

Thus far the Hawks have won three straight exhibition tussles by lopsided scores of 5-1, 9-4, 8-3 against their farm clubs— St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League and Milwaukee Seagulls, a new entry in the United States Hockey League.

North Bay railbirds say the Hawks are showing more power than they showed in two previous training seasons there. That ought to spell poison to NHL goalies who won't need to be reminded of the scoring wallop displayed by the Windy City crew last season. Defensively, however they lacked strength.

Even Goodfellow, former Detroit Red Wings star, is showing signs of being satisfied with his boys, although injuries have started to plague the club. Among the ailing are Al Dewsbury, goalie Harry Lumley, Doug Bentley and Billy Mosienko. Lumley has the sniffles, Dewsbury sore underpinnings, and Bentley and Mosienko groin injuries.

New York Rangers will break training camp at Lake Placid, N.Y., Monday night for a series of exhibition games in Quebec before their opening National Hockey League game in Detroit Oct. 11.

The Rangers announced today that 22 players will go along on the Quebec tour, and the final slashing of the roster to 18 men will be made after the exhibition series.

Meanwhile manager Frank Boucher announced the addition of a fifth amateur club to the Rangers farm system. The new club is the South Porcupine, Ont. pee-wees. Other Ranger sponsored junior teams are located at Guelph, Ont., Lethbridge, Alta., Prince Albert, Sask., and Quebec City.

'Twas only an exhibition — a family affair at that— but you would have thought Toronto Maple Leafs were playing for the Stanley Cup when they clashed with their Pittsburgh farmhands in Niagara Falls., Ont., last night.

The Leafs came from behind for a 4-2 victory in a game which featured a slugging bee between Gus Mortson of Toronto and Tim Horton of the American Hockey league club. Mortson also attacked referee Hugh McLean and got a game misconduct penalty.

Montreal Canadiens have been having a hard time trying to get the signature of Jean Beliveau, sensational junior from Quebec City, on a contract.

Frank Selke, Canadiens general manager, said yesterday that Beliveau turned down "the finest contract ever offered a first-year man." Terms were not disclosed. Seems Beliveau's father and Frank Byrne, owner of Quebec Citadels, have an agreement whereby Jean plays for no one but Byrne as long as he is eligible to play junior.

The Canadiens have exhibition games lined up this weekend against Buffalo Bisons in Montreal, and Chicoutimi Saguenays of the Quebec Senior Hockey League at Chicoutimi Sunday.

South was in a contract of two spades. This should be down one with the loss of three diamonds, two clubs, and a trump. But the east and west pair were able to throw south for a loss of two tricks.

West led the diamond king and got a comeon from east. Ace and queen of diamonds got two more tricks. East returned a club that west won with the queen when south played the ten for a finesse.

West then cashed his club ace and could lead back his third club. South would win this and sluff a dummy heart. Seemingly, no harm would come to the defenders from such a return.

Instead of his third club, however, west had a better idea. He led his 13er diamond. Ordinarily this is a palooka play that gives declarer a sluff and a ruff. Not here was it so.

When an expert does this it requests partner for a knockout. That is, partner is asked to ruff with his highest trump to force out the highest possible trump held by the declarer.

So, when dummy ruffed with the trey, east did not overruff with the six. He deliberately sacrificed his trump king on the altar of partnership co-operation. To win, south had to use up his ace.

Take a look at the west trumps and see how good they now look. West was now able to get two trump tricks with jack and nine. His spade tenace is over the south remaining queen and ten.

Thus did east and west get three diamonds, two clubs, and two trumps; down two for declarer instead of only down one. Learn to use the knockout. It is a haymaker.

SUITS GOING UP

Toronto, Sept. 30 (CP) — The National Council of Clothing Manufacturers of Canada said Friday the price of men's suits soon will be increased from $5 to $10 each.

In a letter to 6,250 retailers, the council says this boost is for the cost of material only and does not include rises which may result from higher costs of labor, linings and trimmings.

"Raw wool prices are now at an historic peak," the letter says, "due largely to world shortages and world demand in which Canada is an insignificant factor."

CLAIMS 120 YEARS OF AGE

Paris, Sept. 30 (Reuters) — Bereska Mokta, an Algerian who claims to be 120 years old, was granted an old-age pension yesterday. Moktar says he joined the French army in 1848, fought in the Crimean war, defended Paris against the Prussians in 1871, took part in the Malagasy campaign and retired at the beginning of the century. Maktar is blind and nearly deaf, but full of old soldier's tales.

CHURCH HEADS LIST

Vatican City, Sept. 30 (AP) — Osservatore Romano said yesterday the Roman Catholic Church in the Ukraine "heads the list of those being persecuted." The Vatican newspaper said that since the Ukraine came under communist domination, seven bishops have bene sentenced to forced labor in Siberia, three have died or been assassinated, almost 5,000 priests have been liquidated, all Roman Catholic schools, press and organizations suppressed and all religious institutions closed.

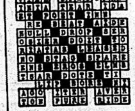
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

After supper I said to pop, Hay pop, let me know when you're through with the paper, because I haven't looked at the comics yet. But there's no hurry, I said.

I assure you there wont be any hurry on my part, pop said. But just the same, you better go ahead and bizzy yourself with something elts awhile. I'd just as soon not have to reed my ppaer feeling like a man in a resterant with a hungry customer waiting for his table, he said, and I said, Okay, pop, will it be all rite if I go up in my room and practice with my dart game while I'm waiting?

It will be ideal, pop said, and I said, But jimminies, pop, you're libel to keep remembering and expecting me every minute, so you'll have me on your conscience just a same. The comics are on the back of the sports page, and that's just what you're reeding, so if you hold the paper up I'll sit on the floor underneeth it, and we'll both be sattisfied, I said.

I doubt that part of it, pop said. But all rite for Peet sake, I'll try it, he said.

And he held the paper out straight with both hands and I got underneeth and started to look at the comics and after a while pop said, Are you neerly through down there?

No sir, not half, I said, and after a while I said, Gosh, pop, you're wriggeling the whole paper.

I'm glad to hear it, pop said. I thawt both my rists were parrilized and I'm relieved to know they're capable of action. Have you finished the comics? he said, and I said, No sir, I'm only up to Molly Mibbles.

Which I did.

PICKED WRONG MAN

Toronto, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Crime doesn't pay — especially when it's a policeman's pocket you're picking. Fred Osborne was sentenced to 12 months when he pleaded guilty Wednesday to attempted theft. Police said Osborne noticed a man—apparently sick—on a downtown street and attempted to pick his pocket. The "sick" man then introduced himself as one of Toronto's Finest — and a sergeant at that.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

They had reached the east end of the Causeway. Fifth Street was bare of traffic at this early hour before dawn, and Shayne sped on toward the ocean.

"All this Rajah stuff and the dope from Randoph is strictly under the hat," he warned the reporter. "I'm playing it right down the line with you, as I always have."

"Yeh, just as you always have" said Rourke suspiciously. "What are you holding out this time?"

"Not a thing, Tim." He swung left on Collins Avenue and sped northward past Lummus Park.

"Those boys who gave you the brass knucks. . .the ones called Blackie and the Kid. Didn't you say Blackie was heavy-set and had a mustache? What kind of suit and hat did you say he was wearing?"

"I don't think I said," Shayne voice was deceptively mild.

"Maybe not. You seemed pretty sure they were in on the robbery."

"Did I?"

"This Blackie now. If he changed his mind and came around to apologize for slugging you. . ." Rourke left the sentence dangling.

Shayne said "it seems practically certain that Mr. X was on the inside of the robbery, if that is what you're trying to say. Here we are." He slowed as they approached the Sunlux Hotel, pulled off the pavement and parked beside a police car at the south end of the building.

There were several police cars parked on both sides of the street and all the floodlights were on at the ocean side, brightly illuminating the bathing beach and pier.

A policeman guarded the street end of the concrete walk leading back, but he stepped aside to let them pass when he recognized the detective and reporter.

A group of men were gathered on the beach where the wooden pier jutted out into the water. They didn't see Painter at once. Shayne accosted a homicide man who stood back on the fringe of the group. "What's going on, Dirk?"

"It's a dame named Mrs. Mark Dustin. She's been missing since . . ."

"I know about that. Who found her body?"

"Petrillo and Johnny Miles. They were stationed here and just wandering around when suddenly they saw a foot sticking out from under the end of the pier. A dozen guys'd been all, over every inch of it before and didn't see anything."

"What's the story?" Rourke had a wad of copy paper out and was making notes.

"She's dead. Busted on the back of the head, left side, with a baseball bat or bottle. Doc figures between twelve and twelve-thirty. Some fancy medical stuff gives him the idea she fell on the dry beach at the edge of the water and lay there ten or fifteen minutes before the tide came in and floated her down under the end of the pier where she lodged. That's why nobody saw her at first."

The group of detectives and policemen at the foot of the pier parted to let twp ambulance attendants pass through bearing a stretcher with a sheet-covered body on it, Peter Painter followed the corpse, but stopped when he saw Shayne and Rourke.

"How do you explain this," he asked Shayne aggressively.

"How about a statement from you?" Rourke asked eagerly.

"You can say I'm not at all satisfied with Shayne's absurd story of somebody impersonating him over the telephone in his apartment and luring Mrs. Dustin down here to her death. I suspect him of prior knowledge of the murder and of giving out that yarn as a smoke-screen to cover himself when her body was discovered."

"In other words," said Shayne, "you're publicly accusing me of murder as well a stealing the bracelet."

"I'm accusing you of nothing—yet snapped the detective chief. "But I'm also not swallowing your hogwash." He turned and strutted through the sand toward the concrete walk.

A faint glow of dawn lighted the eastern horizon above the gray ocean. Rourke asked as they followed Painter toward the hotel, "want to come up with me and have a talk with Dustin?"

"Do your own ghouling," said Shayne. "I've heard everything he has to say. I'll be pushing along."

Rourke gave him a quick, suspicious glance and asked "where to? If you've got some other angles. . .?"

"Sleep appeals to me right now," he said casually. "There'll be plenty to keep us busy tomorrow morning."

"You're nuts. It's tomorrow already." Suspicion edged his voice "Don't run out on me Mike. I've got a feeling things are going to break fast."

"Go on and intrude on Mark Dustin's private grief," Shayne told him good-naturedly. "There is nothing much we can do until we get answers to those telegrams."

Shayne went on to his car and drove northward. He took it slow making very certain that Painter had not put a tail on him, turning off Collins after a flew blocks and winding around the palm-lined streets until he reached Sunset Drive. There was enough daylight now for him to see the house numbers and he loitered along until he found the address the telephone operator had given him in Ben Corey's office.

He drove past the house on the silent deserted street, turned the corner and parked half-way down the block, got out and walked back. There was no sign of life in any of the dwellings on either side of the street, and the only sound to break the silence of dawn was a milk truck coming down the street stopping in front of most of the houses while the driver hurried up the walk to deposit his full bottles on front porches and pick up the empties.

Shayne stopped in the deep shadows on the sidewalk opposite the big house he sought. He lit a cigarette and watched the driver stop across the street, get wire basket containing half a dozen quart bottles.

Moving out of the shadows, he crossed the street to intercept the white-coated deliveryman as he returned to the truck. His sudden and unexpected appearance startled the driver.

"What you wanta scare a guy like that for?" he demanded truculently. "If this is a stick up. . ."

"It's police business," Shayne told him. "I'm interested in the house you just delivered to."

"Police business? You don't look like no cop to me? You tight?"

Shayne took a badge from his pocket and showed it to him. "Who lives there?"

"This house right here?" The driver scratched his head. "Bankhead. Feller by the name of Bankhead. That's it. J. Donald Bankhead. I been deliverin' here most a year now. What's wrong-What you want. . ."

"Know anything about Bankhead?" Shayne interrupted. "What's his business? How big a family?"

"Tell you the truth, I dunno much. You know how it is. These days a guy hardly get to know even his steady customers. I collect once a week. Good pay There's a housekeeper pays off. I dunno 'bout any family. Six quarts a day regular an' cream twict a week. Look. . I got to cover my route and if I don't get goin' there'll be complaints."

Shayne said "go ahead. And keep your mouth buttoned up. This is a Secret Service investigation."

"Secret Service? Is he one of them communist spies or somethin'?"

"Something like that." Shayne stepped back and waited until the milk truck had made one more stop, then turned the corner. When it was out of sight, he strolled forward and followed a wide gravel drive leading into a double garage about thirty feet to the right and at the rear of the house.

Rays from the rising sun flooded the eastern horizon now, coloring the hibiscus hedge on either side of the driveway and clearly outlining the garage as Shayne approached. It had a high sloping roof, and windows on the second floor level indicated that it had been built with servants' quarters above.

The double doors of the garage were padlocked. Shayne studied the locks in the reddening light of dawn, got out his keyring and went to work on the simplest lock. It opened after a few trials, and he slid the door back enough to squeeze through. The door creaked on the metal runway, and he stepped inside the dark interior, stood there without moving for a full three minutes and listened intently.

When he heard no sound, he turned to the two cars inside the garage. On the right was a shiny Cadillac coupe. The other car was a black limousine. He struck a match to look at the licence plate on the limousine, and wasn't surprised to see a different set of numbers than those he had memorized in Mickey's garage. They would have been fools not to take the precaution of using stolen licence plates for the job they had done the previous evening. He bent over and examined the bolts and nuts holding the plate. They were clean and not rusted, though the metal bar to which they were attached was streaked with mud.

He struck another match to examine the right front fender. It showed no sign of damage. The workmen in Mickey's garage knew their business.

He dropped the match on the concrete floor and stepped on it. Overhead lights flared and an unpleasantly familiar voice said, "looking for more trouble, Shamus?"

Blackie was standing in the open portion of the doorway. He was bareheaded and his dark hair was touseled as though he had just awakened. He wore a sleeveless polo shirt, white trousers and canvas sneakers. His bare arms were furred with thick black hair. He held a .45 calibre revolver in his right hand and it was pointed at the exact centre of Shayne's belly.

Shayne said "I didn't mean to wake you up." He stood very still beside the right front fender of the limousine.
